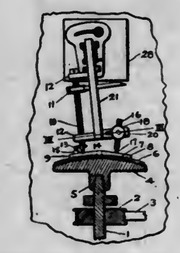
1,459,567. FISHING REEL. ARCH E. AVERY, Michigantown, Ind. Filed Sept. 21, 1921. Serial No. 502,173. 2 Claims. (Cl. 242—845.)

2. The combination with a fishing reel having a hub, of a pivotally mounted lever formed at its opposite extremities with yokes of which one straddles the hub and the other constitutes a thumb seat, and a friction member engaging the arm to prevent too free movement of the latter.



1,459,568. HAMMER ADJUSTMENT. JOSEPH KLEIS BLUM, Greenburgh, N. Y., assignor to K-B Pulveriser Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 29, 1921. Serial No. 496,778. 9 Claims. (Cl. 83—11.)

1. A hammer assembly for disintegrating rotors including a shaft, a plate on said shaft, a journal pin adjustably mounted in said plate and provided at one side with an integral bearing stud projecting therefrom, a hammer mounted on said stud, and locking means for holding said journal pin set in its adjusted positions.

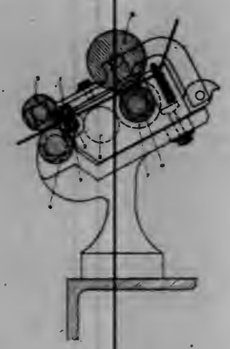
1,459,569. GRINDING MACHINE. LUCIAN W. BUGBEE, Indianapolis, Ind., assignor to American Optical Company, Southbridge, Mass., a Voluntary Association of Massachusetts. Filed Nov. 5, 1919. Serial No. 335,868. 5 Claims. (Cl. 51—131.)

2. A device of the character described, including a pair of disks having interfitting polishing surfaces, cone points engaging said disks to retain them in interfitting engagement but permit of relative movement thereof, and means for positvely rotating one of the disks.

1,459,570. FORGEABLE STEEL AS AN ARTCLE OF MANUFACTURE. LINUS PORTER BURROWS, Erie, Pa.; Lonah B. Archer executrix of said L. P. Burrows, deceased. Continuation of application Serial No. 44,310, filed Aug. 7, 1915. This application filed July 3, 1920. Serial No. 393,968. 2 Claims. (Cl. 75—45.)

1. As a new article of manufacture a forging steel capable after being heated to 2200° F., and water tempered, of being used as a cutting tool and without further treatment of being forged, prepared by adding a purplish powder produced from nickel ore to a charge of metal scrap.

1,459,571. HARROW. CHARLES W. CARPER, Amma, W. Va. Filed Sept. 6, 1921. Serial No. 498,642. 2 Claims. (Cl. 55—11.)



1. An agricultural implement for breaking grass-grown land having a harrow element, a rake element following the harrow element, and a spurred drum disposed between the harrow element and the rake element, the rake element consisting of a rocker having its extremities reduced to provide journals and mounted in bearings on the implement frame, and rake teeth secured to the rocker and provided with spring coils adjacent the rocker, the rocker being provided with means for imparting angular movement to it to elevate and lower the teeth.

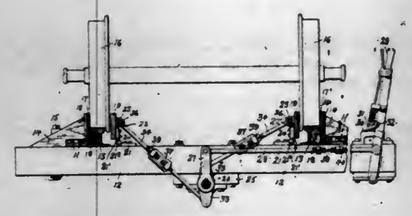
1,459,572. ARRANGEMENT FOR DRAWING FRAMES IN SPINNING MACHINES. FRANCESCO CESONI and ARTURO LIBUSSI, Vigevano, Italy. Filed July 9, 1920. Serial No. 395,064. 1 Claim. (Cl. 19—130.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

A drawing frame for spinning machines, comprising a first pair of rollers for feeding the fibres, a second pair of rollers for guiding the fibres, a third pair of rollers for drawing the fibres; the second pair of rollers being intermediate the first and third pair of rollers, the diameters of the second pair of rollers in respect to the diameters of the third pair being so related that the second pair of rollers may be brought closely to the third pair of rollers and within the gap thereof, and the distance between the pressure lines of the second and third pairs of rollers is less than the normal fibre lengths of the material to be treated, and the weight of the upper roller of the second pair of rollers is such as not to hold the fibres but to permit a slippage of the fibres therethrough without tearing the same, whereby a greater drawing is obtained than heretofore possible in the standard drawing frame.



1,459,573. MANUALLY-PROPELLED WAGON. ARTHUR CLEVELAND, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 29, 1922. Serial No. 571,677. 1 Claim. (Cl. 208—36.)

The combination with a wagon comprising a body, wheels supporting said body, one of said wheels being rotatably mounted on an axle, a ratchet wheel carried by said rotatable wheel, a sprocket rotatably mounted on the axle, ratchet dog connections between the sprocket and the ratchet wheel, an operating lever pivoted to the body in the same plane as the sprocket, a segmentally shaped grooved guide member carried by the operating lever, a sprocket chain extending over the sprocket, cables connected to the ends of the sprocket chain, said cables being secured to the operating lever adjacent the ends of the grooved member carried thereby, said cables being in the same plane as the groove of the segmentally shaped member.

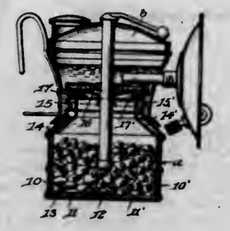
1,459,574. BRAKE DEVICE. HARRY A. COVER and ALBERT MCKINNEY, Mount Vernon, Ill. Filed Oct. 5, 1920. Serial No. 414,944. 1 Claim. (Cl. 188—62.)

An apparatus of the class described comprising stationary bearing members attached to the ties adjacent to the track rails externally thereof, a wear member carried by said stationary bearing member and adapted to receive the lateral thrust of the car wheels, a filler member between the wear member and the outer face of the rail and adapted to receive the outward thrust imparted to the rail, movable bearing members adjacent the track rails internally thereof, means for movably coupling said movable bearing members to the ties, and means for forcibly adjusting said movable bearing members toward the stationary bearing members to engage the wheels of cars passing over the track rails and force them toward the stationary members and toward the rails.



1,549,575. COMPRESSED AIR-ENGINE CONTROL DEVICE. MIKE DAJKA, Torrington, Conn. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 555,161. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—58.)

6. In an engine, a drive shaft, a cup-like fly-wheel thereon, an internal gear in said fly-wheel, a pair of idler gears of relatively differing diameters engaged with said internal gear, a driven shaft alined with said drive shaft, and a pair of gears of different sizes on said driven shaft adapted to selectively engage said idler gears, said driven gears being fixed to said driven shaft, and means for shifting said driven shaft axially to engage the gears thereon individually with the said idler gears, and clutch elements formed on said drive and driven shafts, for the purpose specified.

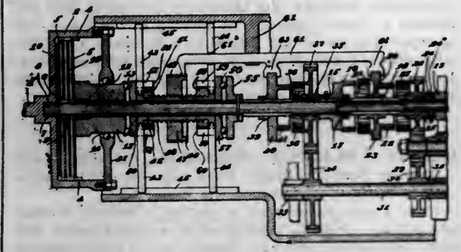
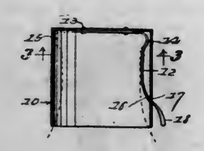
1,459,576. ATTACHMENT FOR MINERS' LAMPS. GOICHI DATE, Sublet, Wyo. Filed May 31, 1922. Serial No. 564,782. 4 Claims. (Cl. 48—57.)

1. A scraper device for the carbide chamber of acetylene gas generators comprising a frame formed of a pair of oppositely disposed sections, each including a horizontal and a vertical leg, said vertical legs conforming to the shape of the carbide chamber and said horizontal legs arranged in superposed relation and detachably connected together, and a handle element in the form of a bail pivotally connected to the upper ends of said vertical legs.



1,459,577. SOUND BOX. ALFRED A. DENNIS, Grand Rapids, Mich. Filed Mar. 20, 1922. Serial No. 545,304. 6 Claims. (Cl. 274—27.)

1. A sound box for phonographs, including the usual body, diaphragm mounted thereon and stylus connected to the center of the diaphragm, of a spring bar located under the diaphragm and across the center thereof, said bar being supported at both ends, and means for bringing the bar at its central portion into contact engagement with the diaphragm at the point of connection of the stylus thereto.



1,459,578. POWER-TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. ALBERT A. DENSMORE, Boston, Mass. Filed June 27, 1921. Serial No. 480,557. 18 Claims. (Cl. 74—59.)

1. A power transmission device having a movable clutch element, and means for moving said element, said means comprising a non-rotatable, screw-threaded member, and a nut for engaging said member, the parts being so constructed and arranged that upon rotation of the nut in one direction it moves bodily along said member whereby to move said clutch element, and upon rotation in the opposite direction moves said member bodily whereby to move said clutch element.

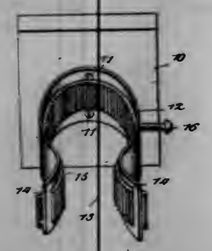
1,459,579. MILK-BOTTLE CLOSURE. ELMER DINGMAN, Michigan City, Ind. Filed Mar. 8, 1921. Serial No. 450,572. 1 Claim. (Cl. 215—38.)

A central closure for milk bottles and the like consisting of a cap for receiving and housing the neck portion of the bottle, and an interior yielding tongue for engaging the lip or bead of the bottle, said retainer consisting of a flat strip of spring material having a portion secured to the inner face of the top of the cap, an offset portion embracing the rim or bead of the bottle mouth, a lower deflected portion for initially engaging the bottle mouth to impart lateral movement to the retainer, that portion of the retainer between the deflected portion and the offset portion lying against the neck of the bottle, and a terminal finger hold protruding through the opening in the side of the cap and adapted for imparting lateral movement to the retainer to permit removal of the cap.

1,459,580. SHARPENING MACHINE FOR SHEARS. OSCAR F. DOWNEY and CYRIL L. BENSON, Chestnut, Ill. Filed Sept. 14, 1922. Serial No. 588,155. 2 Claims. (Cl. 51—69.)



1. The combination with a shear sharpening machine comprising a base, a stone carrying frame disposed above said base, a shear clamp carried by the base and disposed beneath the frame, said frame being provided with a guide rod, of means for universally supporting said guide rod as the frame is reciprocated, said means comprising a vertically disposed sleeve carried by the base, a rotatable vertically disposed shaft in said sleeve and provided with a plurality of horizontally disposed annular channels, a spring arm carried by the base, a transversely disposed arm carried by the spring arm and adapted to extend through an opening in the sleeve and be received in one of the channels of the shaft, a horizontally disposed and pivoted bearing block carried by the upper end of the shaft and in a bearing of which the guide rod is slidably mounted.

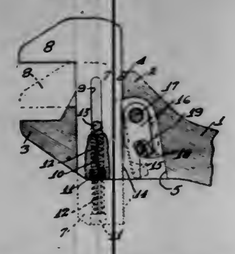
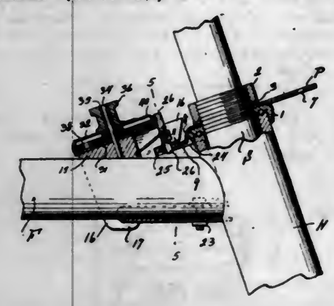
1,459,581. FLEXIBLE VARNISH. CHARLES DEAN DRAPER, Portland, Oreg. Filed Sept. 12, 1921. Serial No. 500,207. 4 Claims. (Cl. 134—26.)



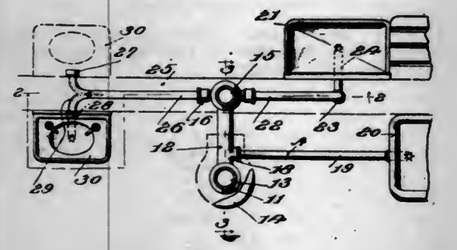
3. As a new composition of matter, a flexible varnish-like surface dressing consisting of a water proof varnish composition and raw linseed oil in approximately equal proportions.

1,459,582. BRUSH AND MOP HOLDER. ADELARD JOSEPH DUBEE, Glens Falls, N. Y. Filed June 4, 1921. Serial No. 474,876. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—257.)



1. As an article of manufacture, a brush and broom holder comprising a metal sheath having a curved broom-handle-receiving portion and a constricted neck portion, a flexible lining strip lying interiorly of said sheath member and secured thereto near the constricted portion of said sheath member, and means for co-operation with said sheath member for adjusting said lining strip to accommodate various sizes of handles.

1,459,583. ADJUSTABLE WRENCH. OTTO E. EDSTROM, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 27, 1921. Serial No. 464,863. 4 Claims. (Cl. 81—138.)

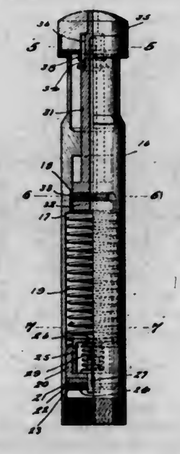


1. A wrench comprising a handle, a slotted head integrally formed thereon, a jaw integrally formed thereon, a spring controlled movable jaw, a shank integral therewith and slidably engaged in said head, a rack formed on said shank, a toothed member adjustably mounted in said head, an eccentric in said head engaged by said member, and means for rotating said eccentric to cause the same to move said toothed member into locking engagement with said rack to hold the movable jaw locked in a predetermined position.

1,459,584. LOCK MECHANISM. OTTO J. ERICSSON, Warren, Pa. Filed Mar. 11, 1922. Serial No. 542,965. 9 Claims. (Cl. 70—90.)

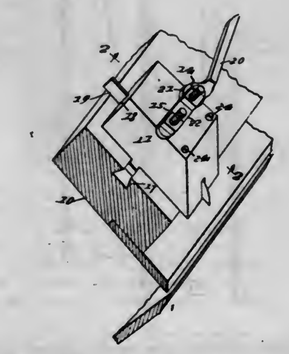
1. The combination with a frame of a bicycle and an associated steering fork, an arm operatively connected with the steering fork and extending laterally therefrom, said arm having a recess and an entrance slot in communication with said recess, a movable bolt, means for mounting said bolt upon the frame, said bolt being positioned to pass through the entrance slot into the recess upon turning movement of the fork in one direction, and means operated by the movement of the bolt during its entrance within the recess to hold the bolt against movement.

1,459,585. PLUMBING SYSTEM. JOSEPH A. FELTON, Atlanta, Ga. Filed June 6, 1922. Serial No. 566,220. 1 Claim. (Cl. 4—21.)



A plumbing system comprising in combination, a waste pipe, a Y having a vertical branch in alignment with said waste pipe and a branch at an angle thereto, a vent pipe communicating with the said angular branch and extending with its axis parallel with said waste pipe, a closet connection connected to the vertical branch of said Y in alignment with said waste pipe, a bell on said angular branch, a waste connection with said bell for a bath tub, a pair of bells carried by said vent pipe, a pipe connected to one of said bells having oppositely directed branches for connection of fixtures on opposite sides of a wall, a pipe connected to a second of said bells having an integral downwardly directed elbow at its end for connection of a fixture trap whereby the greatest volume of waste delivered to said waste pipe will be delivered substantially in alignment therewith.

1,459,586. SIGNAL. CHARLES LEO FITZ, Fond du Lac, Wis. Filed Jan. 20, 1923. Serial No. 613,980 2 Claims. (Cl. 116—34.)



2. A tire signal comprising a body member adapted to receive the valve stem casing of a tire, a spring pressed plunger of hollow formation arranged within the body member and contacting the adjacent end of said casing, a tubular member mounted for sliding movement within the plunger and designed to engage the adjacent end of the valve, yieldable means arranged within the plunger and operating to move the tubular member in a direction to open the valve, when the air in the tire reaches a predetermined low pressure, said tubular member having longitudinal grooves to permit the air from the tire to enter the body member subsequent to the opening of the valve, an audible signal operating in the body member and including a hollow body portion having openings adjacent the upper end thereof, said member defining a whistle, operable by the passage of air therethrough, a cap carried by the signal member and normally closing the upper end of the body, and said signal being elevated by the pressure of air against the same to operate the cap from the body portion for the purpose specified.

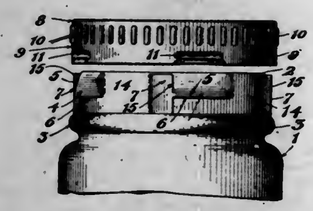
1,459,587. VENEER-CUTTING-MACHINE SPUR BIT AND BLOCK. ROBERT H. FOARD, Cleveland, N. C. Filed July 31, 1922. Serial No. 578,696. 2 Claims. (Cl. 144—212.)



1. In a veneer cutting machine, a bed plate having a slot, bolts having heads slidable in the slot, a block on the bed plate through which the bolts extend and beyond which they project, a plate having apertures to receive the bolts, members for limiting the movement of the plate with relation to the face of the block, a cam operative in conjunction with either bolt and rotatably mounted thereon between the said plate and the said block, and a knife held between the block and bed plate by the action of the said block and its clamping means.

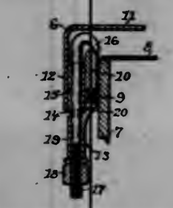
1,459,588. CLOSURE FOR RECEPTACLES. EDMUND HOFFMAN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Mar. 13, 1920, Serial No. 365,456. Renewed May 9, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 220—60.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a receptacle having a plurality of spaced-apart lugs on its outer face and adjacent its upper end, a closure cap having a continuous flange of a diameter adapting it to be spaced away from the sides of the receptacle, and having a plurality of spaced-apart inwardly projecting lugs formed by forcing inwardly portions of the flange, and a sealing gasket spaced between the upper end of the container and the cap, the lugs on the cap being so arranged with respect to the lugs on the container whereby the lugs on the cap may be caused to ride over the lugs on the container and engage beneath the same and the gasket compressed, by direct downward pressure and the cap may be removed from the container by rotary movement.

1,459,589. CLOSURE FOR RECEPTACLES. EDMUND HOFFMAN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 1, 1922. Serial No. 565,193. 8 Claims. (Cl. 215—44.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a receptacle having a plurality of spaced-apart lugs on its outer face and adjacent its upper end, a closure cap having a continuous flange and a plurality of inwardly projecting lugs on said flange adapted to be forced over the lugs on the container by direct downward pressure and engage beneath the lower ends of said lugs and a plurality of lugs on said container at right angles to the first mentioned lugs thereon.

1,459,590. STOCKING. ANTHONY JUNKER, Gloversville, N. Y. Filed Aug. 1, 1921. Serial No. 488,816. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—23.)



As a new article of manufacture a stocking formed from an upper and a lower section, said upper section comprising an elongated web having its upper portion rectangular and the side edges of its lower portion inwardly curved and merging into a curved extension, and said lower section formed from a web including a pair of oppositely disposed tapered portions of unequal length, one having inwardly extending inclined side edges and the other inwardly extending curved side edges terminating in a rearwardly foldable extension, said upper section having a part of its side edges seamed together and the remaining part of its side edges seamed to the edges of said lower section, said lower section seamed at opposite sides between the tapered portions thereof to form the heel and further seamed lengthwise of that tapered portion of smaller length to shape the stocking above the heel, the extension of the upper section inclosing the extension of the lower section.

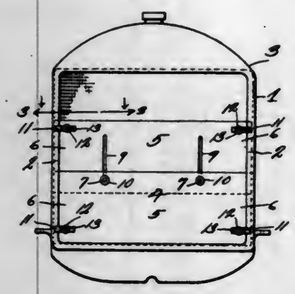
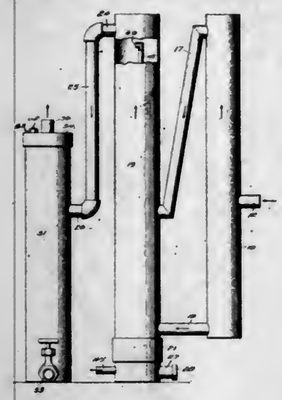
1,459,591. ARMREST FOR BANJOS. CLINTON SHIRLY KING, Edgewood, R. I. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,985. 2 Claims. (Cl. 84—328.)



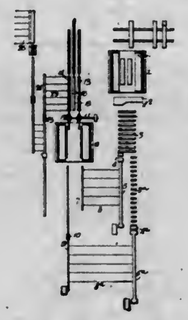
1. An arm rest for banjos consisting of a flat curved edge plate adapted to extend over the head of a banjo and having a curved lip, fastening members on the curved lip, said fastening members having means for detachably securing the arm rest to the head ring and hoop of a banjo, for the purpose as described.

1,459,592. DIE-FORGING HAMMER. JOHN LATTA and JAMES DOUGLAS LATTA, Ayr, Scotland. Filed Sept. 1, 1921. Serial No. 497,565. 5 Claims. (Cl. 78—18.)



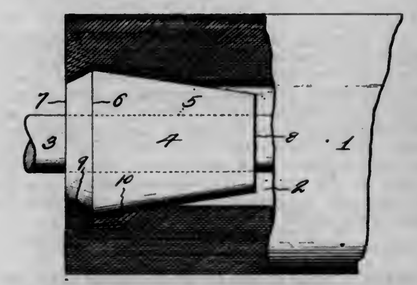
1. In a machine for automatically producing forgings and the like from bar or other stock, and having a pair of fluid pressure operated oppositely moving interconnected die heads in combination, means for delivering the stock between the die heads for guiding thereto and therefrom, for seizing, drawing it forward beyond the die heads, and for there separating the forging from the stock and delivering it, valve gear for the fluid pressure operation of the die heads and means for controlling that valve gear in the manner and for the purposes set forth.

1,459,593. RADIATOR COVER. ERICK DAVID LINDE, Burdick, Kans. Filed May 10, 1922. Serial No. 559,913. 1 Claim. (Cl. 257—132.)



The combination with an automobile radiator comprising a casing and oppositely disposed flanges carried by said casing, of a radiator shield, said radiator shield comprising adjustably connected plates formed from flexible material whereby they may be flexed, the ends of said plates being disposed beneath the oppositely disposed flanges and clamping fingers carried by the plates and engaging the outer side of the flanges and forming means whereby the shield may be rigidly held in various vertical positions.

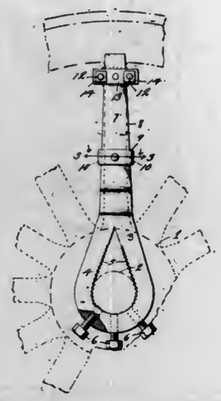
1,459,594. SEPARATOR. EMMETT D. MCWHORTER and AUGUSTUS A. BENNETT, Coffeyville, Kans. Filed Feb. 19, 1923. Serial No. 620,007. 7 Claims. (Cl. 183—34.)



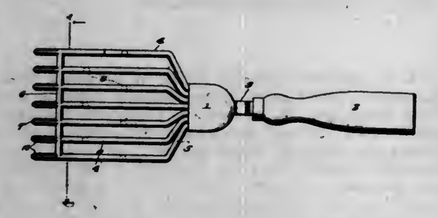
1. A separator comprising an intake element providing a separating chamber and formed with an inlet, a combined separating and water discharging device providing a separate chamber and including a float operated normally closed water discharge valve mechanism, a controlling element providing a separating chamber and including a float operated normally opened shut-off valve mechanism, means for conducting water from said intake element to the lower portion of said device, means for conducting the body to be separated from said intake element to said device, and means for conducting the body to be separated from said device to said controlling element.

1,459,595. APPARATUS FOR MAKING LAPWELDED TUBES. JAMES H. MATHESON, Reading, Pa. Filed July 14, 1921. Serial No. 484,716. 5 Claims. (Cl. 78—83.)

5. The combination in apparatus for making lap welded tubes, of a heating furnace; welding rolls at one end of the furnace; two troughs at the opposite end of the furnace arranged side by side, one trough being of a greater length than the other; a roller table having an extension; two bending dies, one die being at the end of the roller table and the other at the end of the extension; and two sets of ways over which the bent skelp is transferred to the trough at the rear of the furnace.



1,459,596. PAPER-ROLL PLUG. EDWARD H. MAYO, Moss Point, Miss. Filed Apr. 15, 1922. Serial No. 552,891. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—59.)



The combination with a paper roll having a cylindrical chamber therein, of a plug adapted to be driven in one end of said chamber, said plug being provided with an annular ridge adjacent its outer end of greater diameter than the chamber, said plug tapering from the ridge towards its ends, said ridge being formed by the tapering of the plug towards its ends.

1,459,597. HUB AND WHEEL HOLDING DEVICE. EDWARD P. MILLER, Atwater, Minn. Filed May 10, 1922. Serial No. 559,778. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—111.)

The combination with a broken hub, said hub being driven by a driven axle, a wheel, of means whereby said wheel will be caused to rotate with the broken hub, said means comprising a radially extending hub holding device detachably connected to the hub, said hub holding device comprising a head having a hub receiving opening therein, a spoke engaging arm carried by the head, the inner end of the hub receiving opening being arcuate shaped, the side walls of the hub receiving opening converging outwardly towards the arm and merging together adjacent the arm, teeth carried by the converging side walls of the hub receiving opening and radially disposed hub engaging screws extending through the arcuate end of the head and adapted to engage the hub and force the same into engagement with the teeth.

1,459,598. STEM STRIPPER. FUSAKICHI MINAMI, San Francisco, Calif. Filed May 10, 1921. Serial No. 468,332. 6 Claims. (Cl. 47—37.)

1. A tool for the purpose set forth comprising a handle element, a plurality of parallel tines connected at their inner ends with said element and provided at their forward termini with laterally extending prongs formed with lengthwise cutting edges, said tines further provided intermediate their ends with laterally extending prongs having lengthwise cutting edges and arranged in parallelism with respect to said first mentioned prongs.

1,459,599. FRUIT-PICKER'S BAG. WILLIAM T. MINOR, Ashland, Oreg. Filed June 5, 1922. Serial No. 565,876. 1 Claim. (Cl. 150—2.)

The combination with the upper end of a fruit picker's sack, said sack having an open bottom closed by draw strings adapted to be tightened and hooked over hooks adjacent the upper end of the sack, a frame carried by the upper end of said sack, said frame being formed from wire and elongated, the inner side of said frame being bent to form upwardly extending hook receiving loops, U-shaped hooks adjacent the ends of the frame, said hooks having their arms extending downwardly and upwardly and having eye connections with the ends of the frame and U-shaped brace members extending inwardly from one of the upwardly extending arms of the hooks and having eye connections with the inner side of the frame.

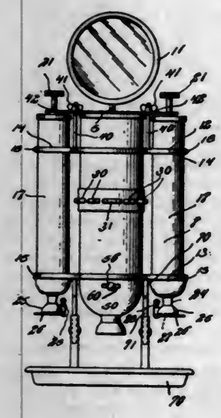
1,459,600. PROJECTILE. RICHARD T. NEWTON, New York, N. Y., assignor to Arms Products Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 4, 1918. Serial No. 256,802. 11 Claims. (Cl. 102—39.)



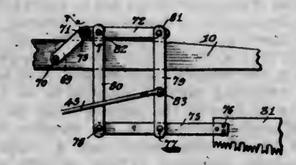
11. An explosive projectile having at its nose a firing mechanism, fall-off guard means normally engaging said firing mechanism to prevent its premature operation, means carried by said guard means for normally maintaining the latter in guard position, but adapted for automatic removal upon the insertion of the projectile into the bore of the gun from which it is fired, vanes projecting from the opposite end of the projectile, and a propelling charge adapted to be arranged within the vane area.

1,459,601. HORSE PROTECTOR. ELMER M. ORSTAD, Park River, N. Dak. Filed Apr. 14, 1922. Serial No. 552,737. 1 Claim. (Cl. 54—30.)

A protector of the character described comprising a frame including spaced side members connected at one end by a substantially semi-circular downwardly extending cross member and connected at their outer ends by a substantially semi-circular upwardly extending cross member, a screen including a partially spherical portion secured to said last named cross member for encircling the nose and mouth of a horse, said screen further including a trough like portion formed as a continuation of one side of the partially spherical portion and secured to the side members and first named cross member of the frame, and attaching rings located at the junctures of the side members with both of said cross members and adapted for connection with the bridle.

1,459,602. TOILET KIT. MARIUS ALBERT PETERSON, Marcus Hook, Pa. Filed Oct. 3, 1921. Serial No. 505,134. 1 Claim. (Cl. 248—20.)

In a toilet kit, the combination of an appropriately supported cylinder open at its upper end, bands carried by said cylinder and having side loops or eyes, supplemental cylinders removably arranged in said loops or eyes, screws carried in and extending above said supplemental cylinders and provided at their upper ends with heads, threaded rods extending upwardly from the upper band and equipped with nuts, and a plate detachably secured by the nuts in the rods and resting over the cylinders and notched to receive the screws, substantially as and for the purpose set forth.



1,459,603. CINEMATOGRAPHIC AND THE LIKE PROJECTION SCREEN. CLAUDE ANTOINE PROTON and JOANNY GABRIEL BRUTÈRE, Lyon, France. Filed Dec. 17, 1921. Serial No. 523,228. 5 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

1. A method of manufacturing a cinematographic or the like projection screen consisting in weaving a fabric of mixed textile and metallic threads and then rolling the woven fabric to crush the metallic threads.

1,459,604. RECIPROCATING SAW. ISAAC H. SANDAGE, Sandpoint, Idaho. Filed Feb. 27, 1922. Serial No. 539,662. 1 Claim. (Cl. 143—64.)

In an apparatus of the class described, a supporting beam, a link pivoted at one end to said beam, an arm pivoted at one end to said link for swinging the same, means for adjustably locking the link to the arm, coacting radius bars swinging at one end from said beam in spaced relation, another bar pivotally coupled to the free ends of said radius bars and adapted to be coupled to a saw, and means attached to the other end of said link and to said radius bars for swinging the same, whereby the saw may be actuated at varying heights.

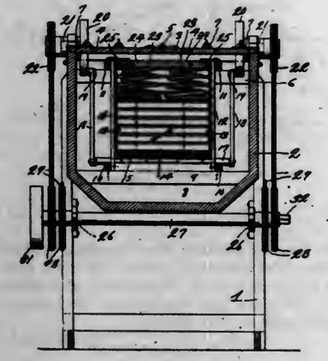
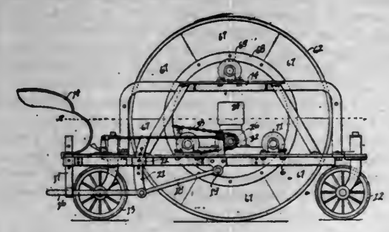
1,459,605. PHONOGRAPH REPRODUCER. ARTHUR W. SCHREINER, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Mar. 2, 1921, Serial No. 449,256. Renewed May 17, 1923. 2 Claims. (Cl. 274—35.)



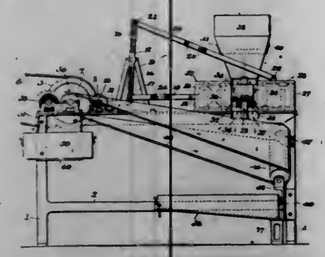
1. In a phonograph reproducer, a mechanically actuated diaphragm, a conducting tube disposed on one side of and housing that side of the said diaphragm, a supplementary conducting tube positioned opposite the said diaphragm, a perforated plate in the end of the said tube and a valving diaphragm free to move away from the said plate responsive to the outward movements of the principal diaphragm, substantially as described.

1,459,606. GREASE DISPENSER. WILLIAM FREDRICK STOHLMAN, Long Beach, Calif. Filed Jan. 31, 1922. Serial No. 532,986. 2 Claims. (Cl. 221—102.)



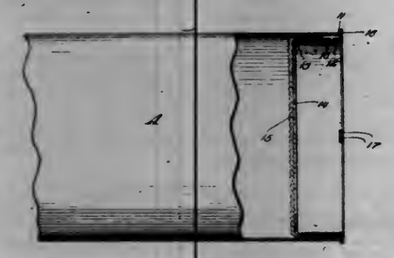
1. A dispensing device comprising a cylinder, a piston slidably mounted in said cylinder, said cylinder being mounted on a plug valve, a valve casing carried by said valve, an intake pipe connected to the valve casing and in communication with one end of the cylinder through a port extending through the valve, a discharge pipe carried by the casing and in communication with the other end of the cylinder through a port carried by the valve, and means whereby the positions of the ports in the valve may be reversed for intermittently causing intaking and discharging operations of the piston in the casing.

1,459,607. WASHING MACHINE. MARTIN WAGNER, Argusville, N. Dak. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,476. 2 Claims. (Cl. 68—37.)



1. A washing machine comprising a main receptacle and an auxiliary receptacle for the reception of articles to be washed, said auxiliary receptacle being formed from a plurality of members, said plurality of members being connected together by pliable members, means for intermittently collapsing and extending said collapsible receptacle, a removable cover carried by the auxiliary receptacle and spiral springs carried by said auxiliary receptacle cover and extending down into the upper end of the auxiliary receptacle.

1,459,608. FARM TRACTOR. JULIUS L. ALLEN, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Feb. 15, 1922. Serial No. 536,712. 1 Claim. (Cl. 180—10.)

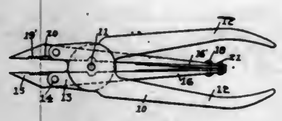


In a tractor, the combination of a frame, driving wheels mounted within said frame, the combined width of said wheels being substantially that of said frame, a sliding joint between said wheels, an auxiliary frame mounted within said wheels, flanges formed on the outer edges of said wheels, rollers adapted to contact said flanges and to support said frames thereon, power means mounted on said auxiliary frame, racks formed on the interior of said driving wheels, gears mounted on said auxiliary frame and meshing with said racks, means for transmitting power from said power means to said gears, and means for preventing foreign substances from dropping from the upper half of said wheels to the power means and gears contained within said wheels.

1,459,609. NUT CRACKER, SHELLER, AND SEPARATOR. JOHN H. AUSTIN, Albuquerque, N. Mex. Filed May 2, 1922. Serial No. 557,833. 8 Claims. (Cl. 146—3.)

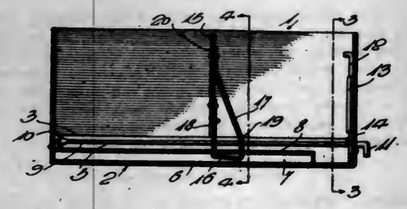
1. A nut shelling machine comprising an inclined fixed jaw, movable jaws similarly inclined on each side thereof, means for reciprocating the movable jaws toward and away from the fixed jaw, and means for intermittently feeding nuts between the jaws.

1,459,610. DUST COLLECTOR. JOHN W. BOSSHART and ELMER W. MACKISON, Louisville, Ky. Filed Oct. 24, 1921. Serial No. 509,911. 1 Claim. (Cl. 183—69.)



In combination with the hot air conducting pipe of a furnace, a dust removing device comprising an outer ring member formed at one edge with an outwardly extending flange engageable against the outer edge of the pipe, an inner ring member formed at one edge with an outwardly extending flange engaging said first named flange and having its other edge formed with an internally extending flange, a sheet of wire gauze soldered to said internally extending flange, a sheet of fabric stretched over said wire gauze and clamped between said ring members, and a pair of brace rods arranged in intersecting relation and having their ends secured to the outwardly flanged edge of the inner ring member.

1,459,611. COMBINED SHADE ROLLER AND CURTAIN-POLE FIXTURE. JOHN C. BOYDEN, Elmwood Place, Ohio. Filed June 3, 1922. Serial No. 565,520. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—23.)

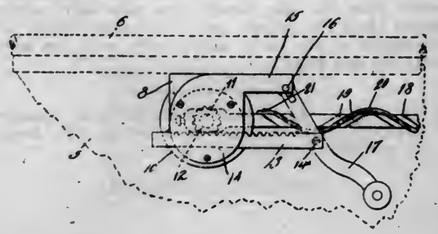


A window shade and curtain fixture comprising complemental members having their respective inner ends oppositely screw threaded, coupling elements having screw threads to receive the threaded ends of the members and to adjustably connect the same, the outer ends of said members being internally screw threaded, a curtain pole bracket for each of said members, each of said brackets having a countersunk portion to receive the ends of its respective member, a headed screw passing through each of the brackets and engaging the internal threads at the end portions of the respective members and securing the brackets to the members, said brackets each having a downwardly extending portion adapted to be clamped against the outer edge of the window frame on the rotating of the coupling element in one direction to draw the members toward each other, and a shade roller bracket adjustably connected to each of said members adjacent the point of connection of the curtain bracket.

1,459,612. PLIERS. RAY BUKER, Castle Rock, Wash. Filed Apr. 14, 1922. Serial No. 552,668. 2 Claims. (Cl. 294—36.)

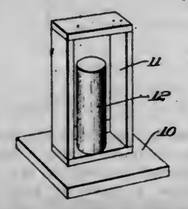
1. A pair of pliers embodying pivotally connected members including handles, jaws pivotally connected to each of said members and means extending rearwardly from the jaws between the handles for yieldingly holding the latter in open position.

1,459,613. FILE HOLDER. MILTON L. CARRIER, Centralia, Wash. Filed Mar. 2, 1922. Serial No. 540,460. 4 Claims. (Cl. 129—16.)



2. In a holder for cards, files and the like, a bottom composed of duplicate sections having their adjacent portions bent to form a channel and their meeting edges bent to provide a track disposed at the center of the channel.

3. In a file holder, a mounting member for the follower formed from a metal bar bent into substantial U-shape to provide spaced upstanding arms of varying lengths, the long arm being directed townrd the short arm and having its free end bent laterally and disposed in a plane with the outer face of the short arm, the follower plate being designed to rest against said outer face and the laterally bent end of said long arm.



1,459,614. WINDSHIELD CLEANER. LOUIS COHEN, Johnstown, N. Y. Filed Sept. 24, 1921. Serial No. 502,942. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—255.)

A windshield wiper including a gear casing a cover on the gear casing and having an integral laterally extending arm, a hollow exteriorly threaded extension integral with the gear casing and forming a bearing for a shaft, said hollow extension adapted to extend through an opening in a wind shield, a shaft extending through the hollow extension and carrying a pinion on one end thereof, a wiping arm secured to the opposite end of the shaft, a rack bar slidably supported within the gear casing and adapted to move laterally thereof, said rack bar being in mesh with the pinion, an operating arm having one end thereof pivotally and slidably connected to the arm formed integral with the cover, said arm having pivotal connection with the rack bar, and a wiping element supported by the wiping arm.

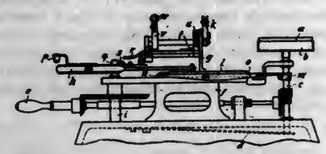
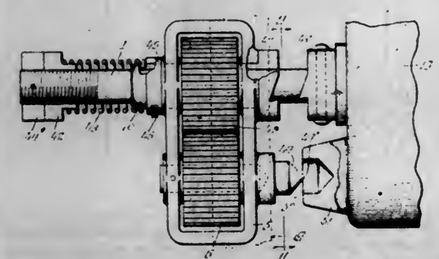
1,459,615. GAME. WALTER FREDRICK COOK, Fort Atkinson, Wis. Filed Oct. 28, 1921. Serial No. 511,084. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—59.)



1. A game apparatus of the character described comprising a supporting base, a substantially inverted U-shaped frame secured upon said base, and an inner substantially inverted U-shaped frame located inwardly of said first named frame in spaced relation to the sides and top thereof, said inner frame being adapted to receive throw rings, both of said frame members being formed of wire and having attaching portions engaging the base, and securing members passing into the base for holding said attaching portions, both of said frame members being formed integrally from a single length of wire bent and rebent upon itself to define the frames.

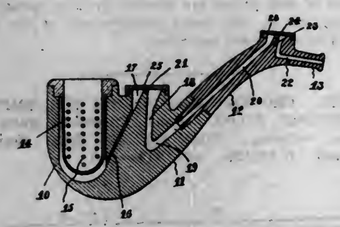
1,459,616. TREATMENT OF FIBROUS CELLULOSE FOR THE PRODUCTION OF HYDRATED DERIVATIVES. CHARLES F. CROSS and EDWARD J. BEVAN, London, England, Eliza Mary Blake, executrix of said Edward J. Bevan, deceased, assignors to I. P. M. Syndicate Limited, Westminster, London, England, a British Corporation. Filed Apr. 26, 1919. Serial No. 292,043. 5 Claims. (Cl. 262—10.)



4. A process of treating fibrous cellulose which consists in subjecting the cellulose to the action of alkaline solution of strength between 6 and 11 per cent (NaOH) and then to the action of carbon bisulphide at the ordinary temperature, and finally washing the product with a strong solution of a neutral alkali salt.

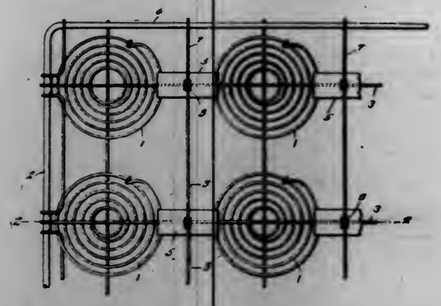
1,459,617. APPARATUS FOR SHARPENING RAZORS. BERNARDUS PETRUS JACOBUS DE JONGH, Breda, Netherlands. Filed Nov. 17, 1921. Serial No. 515,840. 3 Claims. (Cl. 51—122.)

1. In an apparatus for sharpening razors, in combination, a horizontally rotatable grinding-stone, a reversible and reciprocating holder for the razor to be sharpened, means to lower said grinding-stone during the reversion of said holder, and adjustable means to limit the reversing movement of said holder, substantially as and for the purpose set forth.



1,459,618. ENGINE STARTER. EDWARD I. DEUTSCH, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Sept. 25, 1920. Serial No. 412,730. 23 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

1. An engine starter having in combination a rotatable feed screw shaft, a pinion to be moved thereby into engagement with a part of the engine to be started, a travelling nut on the feed screw shaft yieldably connected to the pinion, a clutch member fixed to the shaft, and a second clutch member connected to the pinion and engageable with the first clutch member when the pinion meshes with the engine part to establish a driving connection between the shaft and engine part from which the screw of the shaft, the nut and the yieldable connection are excluded.



1,459,619. PIPE. JACOB E. DODD, Orange, Tex. Filed June 18, 1921. Serial No. 478,650. 1 Claim. (Cl. 131—12.)

A smoker's pipe comprising a bowl, a stem, and a mouth piece arranged at an angle with respect to the stem and bowl, and said stem and mouth piece being provided with a zig-zag smoke passage beginning at the bowl inclined upwardly therefrom and opening into a pocket, a removable cap secured to said stem and adapted to overlie the pocket, thence the passage extends downwardly but communicates at its upper portion with the pocket through the medium of a cutaway portion which is also covered by the cap, said passage from its downward course is again inclined upwardly to a greater distance than its first inclination and communicates with the mouth piece through the medium of a second cutaway portion and is thence slightly inclined toward the greater inclination and downwardly directed a shorter distance than the first downward course and ending in a near horiontal course to the end of the mouth piece, a second cap being adapted to cover the last mentioned cutaway portion.

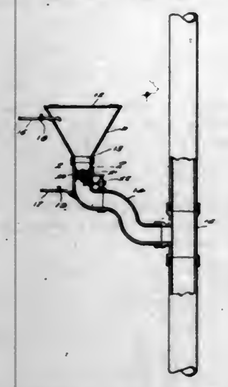
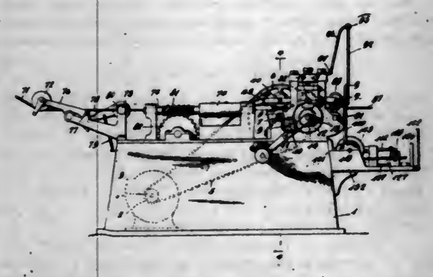
1,459,620. BEDSPRING. JOHN A. DORN, Mobile, Ala. Filed June 15, 1921. Serial No. 477,734. 1 Claim. (Cl. 5—267.)

In a bed bottom construction, the combination with upstanding coiled springs, a frame, wires secured to opposite bars of the frame and passed midway between sets of springs and having pendent loops in line with the centers of opposite springs, and plates extending at right angles to said wires and arranged under the same and having central openings receiving said pendent loops and also having end portions hooked over the adjacent portions of the upper convolutions of opposite springs and central openings in said end portions; of wires straight throughout their lengths, extending at right angles to the first-named wires and between other bars of the frame and also extending diametrically under the upper convolutions of springs in line with each other and through the pendent loops of the first-named wires and also through the openings in the end portions of alined plates, whereby without deflection of the second-named wires the first-named wires and the plates are connected together by the second-named wires and are connected to said second-named wires and the end portions of said plates are secured by said second-named wires to and on the upper convolutions of the springs engaged by said plate portions.



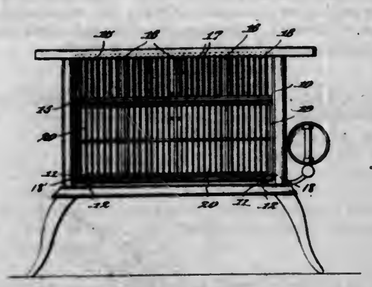
1,459,621. PROCESS AND DEVICE FOR EMPTYING BEETROOT SILOS. KARL FÖLSCHE, Halle-on-the-Saale, Germany. Filed Aug. 15, 1921. Serial No. 492,455. 6 Claims. (Cl. 214—17.)

1. The method of discharging beet-root silos having a plurality of water-supply stations and a discharge flume, which comprises discharging the roots into the flume at one end of the silo by a water jet from a nozzle attached to one of said supplies within the effective range of said jet and then transferring said nozzle to an adjacent station of the silo for continuing the discharge of the roots into the flume.



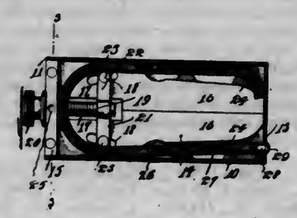
2. The combination with a beet-root silo and a flume for receiving the beets from the silo; of a conduit for water along the silo, valved leads from said conduit spaced along the conduit, and a detachable nozzle for attachment to any one of said leads to wash the beet-roots into said flume.

1,459,622. SANITARY GARBAGE CAN. ORESTE GALLUCCI, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Dec. 12, 1921. Serial No. 521,886. 1 Claim. (Cl. 193—11.)



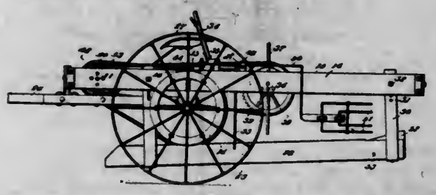
A garbage receptacle comprising the combination with a waste pipe, of a receptacle having a constricted lower portion, a pipe member connecting said lower portion with said waste pipe, a cover for said receptacle and water inlet pipes leading respectively into the receptacle and into said constricted lower portions thereof and provided with cut-off cocks, a fan casing located within said constricted lower portion, and a suction power driven fan located within said casing.

1,459,623. MACHINE FOR MAKING BALE TIES. ALEC J. GERRARD and PARVIN WRIGHT, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 14, 1922. Serial No. 568,306. 21 Claims. (Cl. 140—73.)



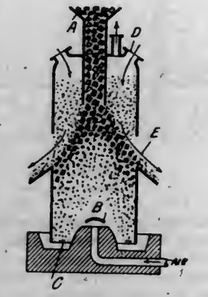
1. In a machine for forming loop ended bale ties the combination of a wire straightening means; a wire feeding means for forcibly drawing the wire through said straightening means; means to cut the wire after a predetermined length has been drawn by said feeding means; means to move the cut wire from said cutting means; means comprising a depending swinging member to forcibly move the cut wire end in position to be bent into a loop; means for looping over the bight of said cut end alongside of a bight of the main body portion of the wire; and means to rotate the looped wire end to twist said bights together, substantially as described.

1,459,624. GUARD FOR OIL RANGES. RUDOLPH PETER GREENBURG and ANDREW GREENBURG, Glastonbury, Conn. Filed Sept. 24, 1921. Serial No. 503,052. 3 Claims. (Cl. 126—202.)



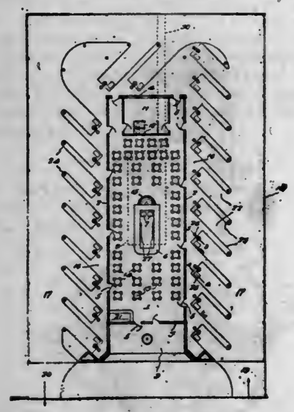
1. A guard for oil ranges comprising a frame, means for frictionally securing said frame in position on an oil range, a baffle member carried on said frame at the top thereof for preventing escape of heat from the burners through said frame, a door swingingly mounted in the lower portion of said frame, means for holding said door in closed position, and a plurality of rods mounted in said frame adjacent said member and above said door, and insulating means on said guard rails.

1,459,625. PIPE-CLEANING DEVICE. ARTHUR P. GULLIVER, Brockton, Mass. Filed June 17, 1922. Serial No. 569,003. 3 Claims. (Cl. 131—12.)



2. In combination with a casing, a member for insertion therein and comprising a plate, a plurality of cutting members on the plate and having their inner ends in pivotal engagement therewith and means movably supported on the plate and having connection with the cutting members for relatively moving the free ends thereof, said members being adapted to normally lie within the said casing with the plate adapted to constitute a cover for the casing.

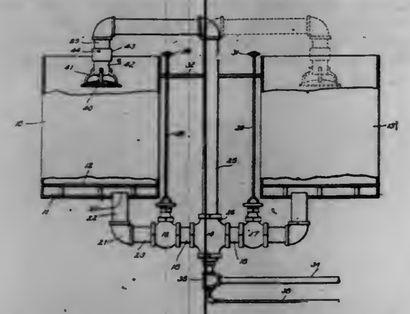
1,459,626. BOLL-WEEVIL EXTERMINATOR. JAMES A. HARDEN, Ada, Okla. Filed Oct. 16, 1922. Serial No. 594,907. 2 Claims. (Cl. 43—143.)



2. A machine of the character described comprising a supporting frame, an axle carried thereby, ground engaging wheels on said axle, gears on said wheels, adjustable and movable pans suspended below the frame, paddle mechanism carried by the frame and driven by one wheel, supporting brackets projecting from the sides of the frame, pinions carried by cranks journaled in said brackets and meshing with said gears, other brackets carried by the frame, and arms pivotally and slidably mounted upon said last named brackets with their forward ends connected with said cranks and with their rear ends carrying beaters designed to brush against a row of plants straddled by the machine.

1,459,627. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR PERFORMING THERMIC PROCESSES OF ANY KIND. ALBERT HIORTH, Asker, near Christiania, Norway. Filed Oct. 8, 1920. Serial No. 415,649. 5 Claims. (Cl. 222—5.)

5. In a shaft furnace of the producer type, an internal, substantially central, fuel chamber, a substantially concentric external chamber for the material to be heated, said chambers merging at a lower level to cause concentric contacting material supporting columns, means to separately charge said chambers, means to permit the discharge of the outer column of material at a level above the zone of highest temperature, and means to permit the discharge of the central column as ash at a point below the zone of highest temperature.



1,459,628. REFRESHMENT BOOTH FOR MOTORISTS. JOHN K. HOCKADAY, Birmingham, Ala., assignor of one-half to Robert A. Emond, Birmingham, Ala. Filed July 22, 1921. Serial No. 486,758. 1 Claim. (Cl. 20—1.)

A refreshment booth for motorists comprising a platform having edge stalls for automobiles, annunciators located at a service point on the platform, and circuit closers one in the floor of each stall and electrically connected with a source of electric energy and with one annunciator, said circuit closer being positioned to be operated by a wheel of the automobile entering the respective stall to indicate the arrival of said automobile in the particular stall.

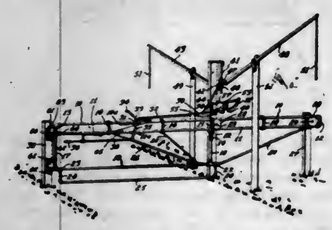
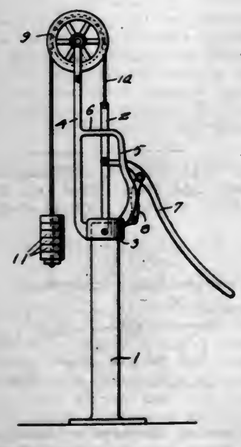
1,459,629. HEATING APPARATUS FOR LEACHES. WILLIAM HENRY JOHNS, Kingsport, Tenn. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,000. 3 Claims. (Cl. 167—4.)

1. In a device of the class described, a leach tub, having an outlet opening in the bottom thereof, a second tub having a similar opening in the bottom, means connecting the outlet openings and including a plurality of valves and their casings, a casing between the valve casings and connected therewith, a liquor outlet pipe leading from the upper portion of the casing and located between the valve casings, a steam intake pipe entering the bottom of the casing so located and discharging into the outlet pipe leading from that casing, at a point below the bottoms of the tubs, and an air intake pipe within the steam pipe and discharging at a point slightly above the discharge point of the steam.



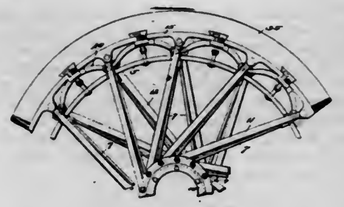
3. A distributing device for leaching apparatus, comprising a sleeve to be connected with a pipe, a tubular element connected with the sleeve, brackets extending radially from the tubular element, and a perforated plate, convex on one side, the brackets being secured to the plate near its edges and on the convex side thereof.

1,459,630. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. ETTORE LANZEROTTI-SPINA, Bayswater, London, England. Filed July 29, 1919. Serial No. 314,106. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)



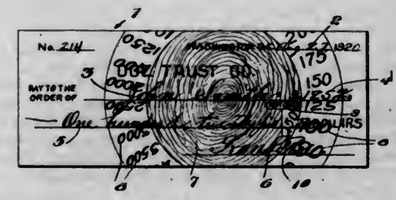
1. In an internal combustion engine the combination with the piston-swept cylinder of a substantially hemispherical head, a plurality of inlet valves and a plurality of outlet valves evenly spaced in said head with their stems substantially radial, a cam shaft, and operating mechanism connecting said valve stems with said cam shaft, said mechanism including a member for each valve moving in a plane containing the valve stem, and a second member operating the first and itself moving in a plane at right angles to the cam shaft.

1,459,631. GATE AND OPERATING MECHANISM THEREFOR. JOHN LIND, Clearwater, Idaho. Filed Dec. 12, 1921. Serial No. 521,706. 1 Claim. (Cl. 39—73.)



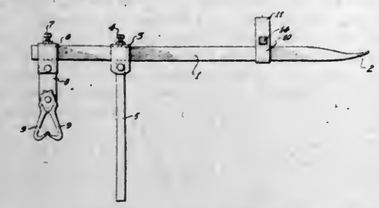
A gate structure comprising a post located at one side of a gate opening, a pair of posts located in alignment with said first named post and at the other side of the gate opening, guide rollers carried by said second named posts, a gate formed at its upper portion with upper and lower track members engaging said rollers, said track members being formed intermediate their ends with spaced parallel downwardly curved portions providing a dip facilitating completion of the movement of the gate from one position to another when the opening or closing movement has been started, and means for moving said gate longitudinally, said operating means comprising levers pivoted at opposite sides of the gate and provided with handles, and link and lever mechanism connected with said levers and with the gate.

1,459,632. OPERATING ATTACHMENT FOR LIFT PUMPS. GEORGE MALLAN, Troy, Mo. Filed May 23, 1921. Serial No. 471,671. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—206.)



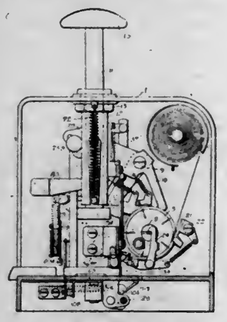
In a lift pump operating attachment, a cap applicable to the upper end of a pump barrel, a standard at one side of the pump integral with and rising vertically from said cap, a brace integral with said cap comprising an upstanding portion and a substantially horizontal portion having the first mentioned portion extending from the cap opposite to the standard and having the second mentioned portion leading to the standard, said cap and horizontal portion of the brace having registering openings adapted for passage of the pump rod therethrough, said standard extending a distance above said substantially horizontal portion, a pulley on said standard above said substantially horizontal portion having its periphery substantially intersected by a line passing through said openings, a flexible connection adapted to extend from the pump rod and over said pulley, operating means independently of said standard and brace disposed at one side of said brace and connected to the cap and adapted to be connected to said rod, and said flexible connection being free at one end and having counterbalancing weight means applied thereto, and the structure thus forming a unitary attachment.

1,459,633. CUSHION WHEEL. SEBASTIAN T. MECHLER, San Antonio, Tex., assignor, by mesne assignments, of one-half to Julius F. Mechler, San Antonio, Tex. Filed Sept. 28, 1922. Serial No. 591,134. 4 Claims. (Cl. 152—29.)



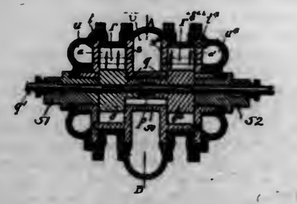
1. The combination with a wheel having a felly, a hub and spokes between the latter and the felly, of rotatable devices on opposite ends of the hub, a tire rim surrounding the wheel felly and spaced from the latter and having a solid tire tread member thereon, the tire rim being composed of a number of independently movable sections, springs interposed between the independently movable sections and the wheel felly, and equalizing levers connected to each rim section and to the rotatable devices on the hub.

1,459,634. MEANS FOR PROTECTING NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS. ARTHUR E. MILLER, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Sept. 17, 1921. Serial No. 501,226. 3 Claims. (Cl. 283—9.)



1. A negotiable instrument having an enlarged arbitrary design impressed upon its surface, and a series of numerals surrounding and associated with said design, said design and associated numerals being of greater diameter than the width of the check and so disposed that they cover at least a portion of the name of the drawee, the amount in words, the amount in figures, and the signature of the drawer of the check.

1,459,635. VALVE LIFTER. EDGAR J. MILLER, St. Joseph, Mo. Filed May 6, 1921. Serial No. 467,256. 1 Claim. (Cl. 29—86.3.)



A valve lifter of the character described comprising a bar, a sleeve adjustably secured around the bar, a post pivotally connected to said sleeve to permit the rocking of the bar, a second sleeve adjustably secured around the post in advance of the first mentioned sleeve, a bracket pivotally secured to the last mentioned sleeve, and a pair of hook members carried by the bracket and being operatively associated with each other as and for the purpose specified.

1,459,636. STAMP-AFFIXING DEVICE. NICHOLAS MILLER, Hartford, Conn. Filed Sept. 23, 1918. Serial No. 255,284. 52 Claims. (Cl. 216—27.)

1. In a stamp affixing apparatus, in combination with stamp affixing means an elongated member, provided with a narrow compartment and adapted to receive moistening liquid from a reservoir; a plurality of apertures connecting an outside surface of said member with said compartment, means for holding the stamps away from said surface and provision for automatically bringing the adhesive side of the stamps in contact with said surface, when the apparatus is operated.

1,459,637. ROTARY MACHINE. MAURICE JULES POYET, Paris, France. Filed Feb. 2, 1921. Serial No. 441,863. 5 Claims. (Cl. 103—130.)

1. A rotary and reversible machine adapted for use as a pump, compressor or motor, comprising in combination, two cylinders, two cylindrical piston bodies each carrying a piston-paddle or vane and centrally arranged in a respective cylinder, two slotted rings arranged eccentrically in the said cylinders with one point on the exterior of each ring tangential to the interior circumference of the respective cylinder and a diametrically opposite point on the exterior of each ring tangential to the said central piston body, two discs arranged at the extremities of each of said slotted rings, crescent shaped ports formed in the said discs, the ports in the outer discs being disposed inversely in relation to the ports in the inner discs, a channel between the two cylinders, a circular channel at the exterior face of each of the cylinders and a central shaft upon which said piston bodies are fixedly mounted

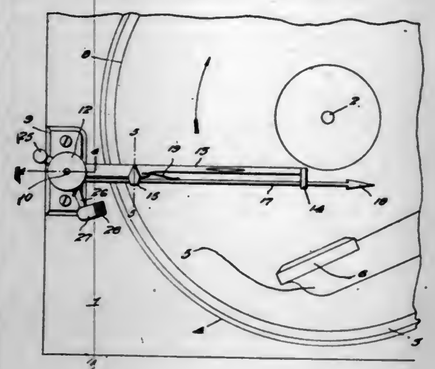
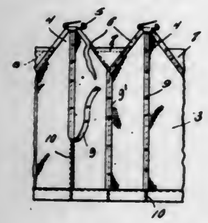
1,459,638. ICE-CREAM SCOOP. MICHAEL P. RODOPULOS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 13, 1922. Serial No. 543,308. 4 Claims. (Cl. 107—48.)



1. In an ice cream scoop or dipper, a scoop body, a handle attached thereto, a flexible cutter extending transversely of the body and movable longitudinally of the body, a lever carried by said handle, a pair of rods pivotally connected to said lever, and connected to said cutter for moving the cutter longitudinally of the body upon pivotal movement of the lever.

1,459,639. FRONT DRIVE. JOHN O. SCHWARTZ, Hope, Ind. Filed July 15, 1922. Serial No. 575,132. 1 Claim. (Cl. 180—49.)



In a motor operated vehicle, a main frame, an auxiliary frame supported by the main frame for pivotal movement, a front axle, vehicle springs interposed between the auxiliary frame and said front axle, said auxiliary frame including a transverse member, a steering post, a connection between the steering post and the auxiliary frame, whereby the latter is moved to guide the vehicle, yieldable elements having adjacent ends secured to the transverse member of the auxiliary frame and their other ends secured to the main frame of the vehicle, said members being used to take up lost motion of the steering post, pulleys supported by the transverse member of the auxiliary frame and over which said yieldable elements are trained, a differential associated with the front axle, a transmission mechanism, a drive shaft connecting the said mechanism with the differential, and universal joints included in said connection.

1,459,640. STOP FOR TALKING MACHINES. ANTON SUBIC, Big Piney, Wyo. Filed June 18, 1920, Serial No. 389,919. Renewed Feb. 13, 1923. 3 Claims. (Cl. 192—122.)

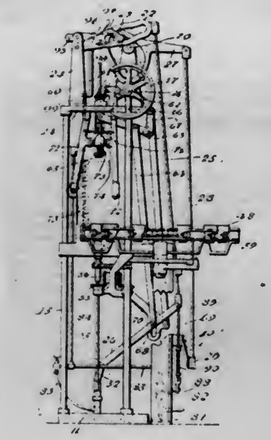
1,459,641. TROUSERS PROTECTOR. PETER TOPFNER, Detroit, Mich. Filed Nov. 9, 1920. Serial No. 422,874. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—135.)

A protector of the character described comprising a body portion formed from sections of water proof material secured together and shaped to conform to the leg portion of a pair of trousers, an inverted V-shaped extension formed on dismetrically opposite sides of the body portion at the upper end therof and joining each other at the respective ends of their bases, safety pins carried by the apex of each of the inverted V-shaped extensions and being adapted to be secured to the coat of a wearer, V-shaped pieces securing the adjacent ends of the inverted V-shaped extensions, reinforcing means carried by the upper edges of the protector and strips covering the meeting edges of the sections.



1,459,642. LIQUID DROPPER. JOHN TURNER, Jr., Rexfield, Iowa, assignor of one-half to Walter Whittle, Rexfield, Iowa. Filed July 24, 1922. Serial No. 577,089. 4 Claims. (Cl. 215—58.)

1. A liquid dropper comprising a casing forming a chamber and an outlet in communication with the chamber, a neck projecting laterally from the casing forming an inlet in communication with the chamber, a tube a continuation of the neck and in alignment with the inlet, a stopper fitted on said tube, a valve for the outlet, a cap screw threaded into the casing and having a connection with the valve, said cap having a vent uncovered in the adjustment of the cap.

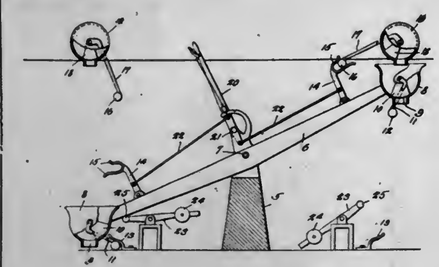
1,459,643. BOTTLE SCRUBBING AND WASHING MACHINE. CHARLES BRIGHT VAN HORN, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 24, 1919. Serial No. 306,312. 12 Claims. (Cl. 15—60.)

6. In a bottle scrubber for automatically scrubbing bottles of the same or different sizes, the combination with holding and scrubbing device for the bottles, a lever and means directly operated thereby for automatically adjusting the holding and scrubbing devices as to the diameter and height of the bottles to insure the effective operation of the devices upon the bottles.



1,459,644. APPARATUS FOR MEASURING PRODUCTS OF TWO VARIABLE QUANTITIES. GEORGE WILLIAM WATSON, London, England. Filed Feb. 1, 1922. Serial No. 533,484. 7 Claims. (Cl. 234—17.)

1. A device for integrating one magnitude (such as the measure of a force) with respect to another magnitude (such as the traverse of the point of application of the force), comprising a member mounted to move proportionately to changes in each of said magnitudes, a pump driven by one of said members and provided with means responsive to the movements of the other member to vary the output of said pump, and means for measuring said output.

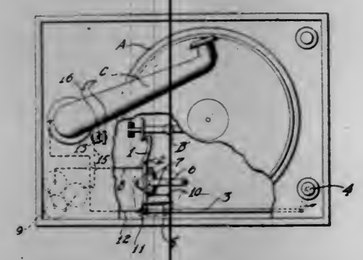
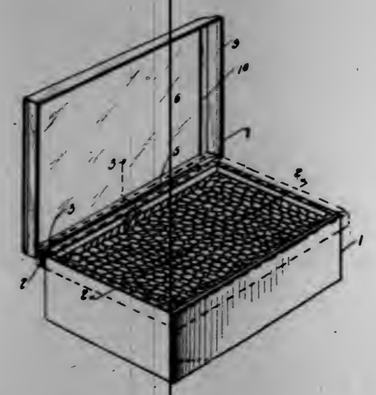
1,459,645. WALKING-BEAM SYSTEM FOR PUMPING WATER. JOHN A. WILSON, Beaumont, Tex. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,795. 1 Claim. (Cl. 253—19.)



In a device of the character described, an arm pivotally supported intermediate its ends, buckets supported at the ends of the arm, valve members operating in the buckets, means for controlling the movements of the valve members to cause them to automatically discharge the contents of the buckets, pipes disposed above the buckets and having discharge openings arranged to discharge fluid into the buckets, valve members for controlling the passage of fluid through the pipes, weight controlled arms for normally holding the valves in their closed positions, pivoted controlling arms supported on the first mentioned arm, and adapted to contact with the weight controlled arms to move the valve members controlling the passage of fluid through the pipes, and means for adjusting the last mentioned arms to cause the operation of the valves in the pipes, at predetermined intervals.

1,459,646. STOP FOR TALKING MACHINES. JOHN CLIFTON WOOD, Quay, N. Mex. Filed July 11, 1921. Serial No. 483,942. 1 Claim. (Cl. 192—123.)



An automobile stop for talking machines, comprising a pivoted braking lever having engagement with the governor of the machine, a spring engaging the lever and normally tending to thrust the latter into braking position, a spring latch disposed in the plane of the lever with one end supporting the latter against the thrust of the spring, an electro-magnetic device for flexing the spring latch whereby the end thereof is disengaged from the lever to release the same, said lever when in braking position serving to prevent return of the latch member to lever-restraining position, means for causing operation of said electro magnetic device at a predetermined position of the tone arm of the machine, means associated with said lever for effecting release of the spring latch, and means for moving the lever clear of the latch member to enable the latter to return to lever restraining position upon the resetting of the parts.

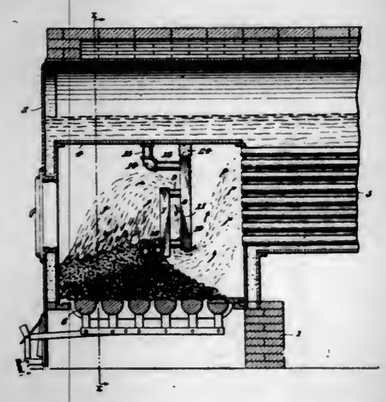
1,459,647. DISPLAY COVER. WALTER S. WOOD, Charleston, W. Va. Filed Sept. 14, 1922. Serial No. 588,248. 3 Claims. (Cl. 217—54.)

1. A display cover comprising a spring clasp, a hinge member consisting of a folded sheet metal strip having one of the folds attached to an element of the spring catch, and a cover hingedly connected to the other fold of the hinge member.



1,459,648. STEAM BOILER. JOHN S. ANDREWS, Gary, Ind. Filed Feb. 12, 1917, Serial No. 147,988. Renewed Nov. 17, 1922. 14 Claims. (Cl. 122—61.)

3. A furnace structure having a boiler, fire box, and ash pit, a depending baffle wall structure dividing the fire-box into a front firing chamber and a rear combustion chamber and extending downwardly to the normal top level of the fuel, a grate underneath the fire box, said baffle wall including a hollow rear member extended to the top of and across the fire box, a hollow front member spaced from the rear member and from the top of the fire box to form a down flue therebetween, tubular connections providing direct fluid connection between the interior of said front and rear members, and means providing a fluid connection between one of said members and the interior of the boiler.

1,459,649. COMBUSTION APPARATUS. JOHN S. ANDREWS, Gary, Ind. Filed July 1, 1918, Serial No. 242,758. Renewed Nov. 17, 1922. 8 Claims. (Cl. 122—61.)

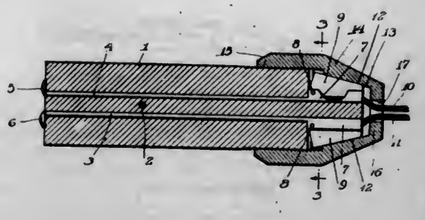
1,459,650. HAND BRAKE FOR RAILWAY CARS. RICHARD WEBB BURNETT, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 21, 1919. Serial No. 312,173. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—110.)



1. In a hand brake for railway cars, the combination with the brake rigging proper; of a bracket adapted to be secured to a portion of the car; a rack slidably mounted on said bracket, said rack being operatively connected with said brake rigging proper, said rack having teeth extending at an angle to the line of movement of the rack; an eccentrically mounted gear cooperating with said rack; and manually operable means for effecting rotation of said gear, including a shaft extending parallel to said line of movement.

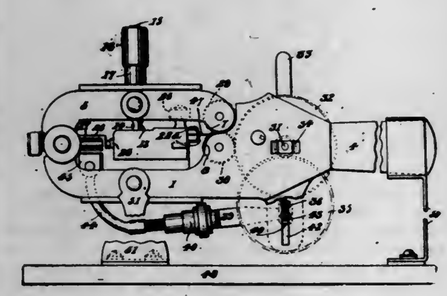
1,459,651. HEADLIGHT PLUG. OSCAR LEMONT CARR, Baton Rouge, La. Filed Oct. 24, 1921. Serial No. 510,032. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—361.)

A plug of the character described comprising an insulated body having contact bars therein with terminal contacts thereon, said bars further being provided with clips at their inner ends opening in opposite directions, wedge blocks pivoted in the clips and having their outer faces beveled, and a ferrule having threaded engagement with the plug and provided with an inner frusto-conical wall moving in engagement with the beveled edges of the blocks, substantially as described.



1,459,652. SHOCK-ABSORBING FENDER. WILLIAM G. COX, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Mar. 5, 1923. Serial No. 622,757. 10 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. A shock-absorbing fender for a motor vehicle, comprising a plurality of parallel impact bars, spaced yokes having forwardly-projected extremities extending horizontally in engagement with the said bars, and means connecting the opposite extremities of each yoke to both said bars.

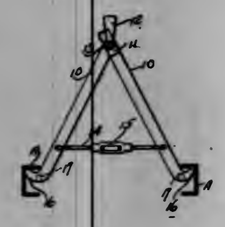
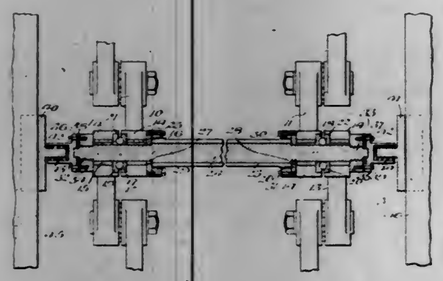
1,459,653. RAZOR-BLADE-SHARPENING MACHINE. TONY CZELUSNIAK and LEO CHODUBSKI, Oswego, N. Y. Filed Sept. 22, 1921. Serial No. 502,486. 6 Claims. (Cl. 51—84.)

1. A razor sharpening device of the class described including a frame formed of separable sections, a sharpening roller carried by each section, a blade support reciprocably mounted between the sections, means for adjustably holding the separable sections in closed position, said means including a tensioned ratchet rod carried by one section and a keeper carried by the other section to be engaged by the ratchet rod.



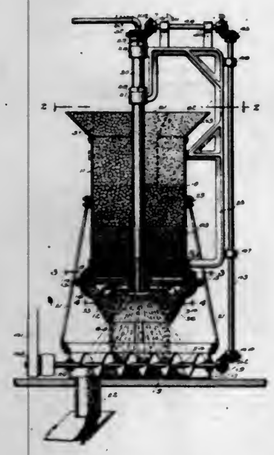
1,459,654. ANGLE COCK. EDWARD P. CLAUSS, Lyons, N. Y. Filed May 7, 1921. Serial No. 467,533. 9 Claims. (Cl. 303—36.)

1. In an air brake system for railway cars an angle cock, a lock for locking the same open, pneumatic means for unlocking said lock and a manually actuated member for causing said pneumatic means to function.



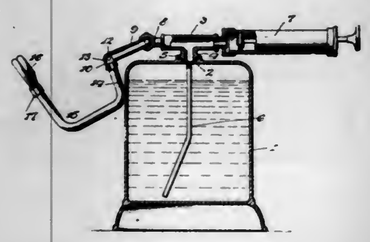
9. In an air brake system for cars, an angle cock, means for locking the angle cock closed, said means including a movable locking member, pneumatic means for shifting said movable locking member to an unlocked position, said pneumatic means being connected with the brake cylinder of said car and manually controlled mechanism controlling the passage of air from said brake cylinder, said mechanism comprising a tubular member connected at one end with the pneumatic actuating means, a piston in the tubular member normally closing said tubular member, a spring acting as a piston for normally holding the same in a given position and a manually actuated lever for holding said piston in a given position whereby air cannot enter the pneumatically actuated means, said lever being movable manually to the position out of the way of said piston whereby the air from said brake cylinder will move the piston against the action of said spring and will then pass to said pneumatically actuated means for actuating the same.

1,459,655. LIFTING DEVICE. FRED G. CLINE, Neosho, Mo. Filed Dec. 21, 1921. Serial No. 523,954. 1 Claim. (Cl. 294—82.)



A lifting device of the class described including a pair of elements pivotally connected at their upper ends, and means intermediate its ends to spread the lower ends of said elements, said elements having at the lower terminals hooks at the outer sides in the planes of said members and also having lateral hooks at a side of the members.

1,459,656. LAZY TONGS. JOSEPH G. CORNELL, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 28, 1922. Serial No. 571,402. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—5.)

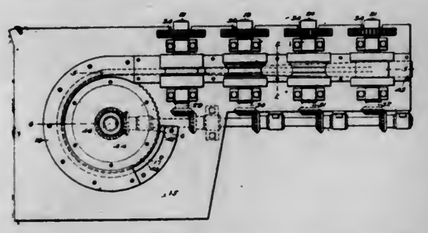


1. In a lazy tongs system, two sets of bars, one pair of each set being pivoted at their centers to a common shaft, bearings interposed between the bars of the different sets, and means mounted on the shaft for forcing the bars toward one another to compensate for wear.

1,459,657. MIXER. THOMAS G. DEMPSEY, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 7, 1922. Serial No. 580,199. 5 Claims. (Cl. 83—73.)

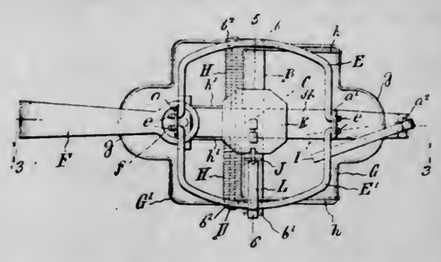
1. A concrete mixer, comprising a casing, means for feeding the solid ingredients into the casing in the desired proportions, a hollow vertical shaft depending into the container, a mixing wheel fixed to the lower end of the vertical shaft for giving the ingredients a helical movement to mix them, adjustable means mounted on the mixing wheel to prevent the ingredients clogging the casing, and means for supplying to the ingredients after they have been mixed, a spray of water.

1,459,658. TORCH. CLARENCE C. C. EGGERS, Hooper, Nebr. Filed Jan. 21, 1922. Serial No. 530,867. 4 Claims. (Cl. 158—32.)



4. A torch comprising a tank, a coupling detachably fitted to the top of the tank, a burner tube having a member swiveled to one side of said coupling, a valve mounted in said member, the burner tube having a U-shaped portion normally depending from said valve, a burner coil forming the outer terminal of said U-shaped portion, and an air pump disposed above the tank and carried by said coupling at that side of the same opposite the burner tube.

1,459,659. ELECTROLYTE FOR STORAGE BATTERIES. HOWARD ELLIS, PEARLY S. HART, and WILLIAM G. NUNNELLY, New Florence, Mo. Filed Nov. 28, 1922. Serial No. 603,855. 1 Claim. (Cl. 204—29.)

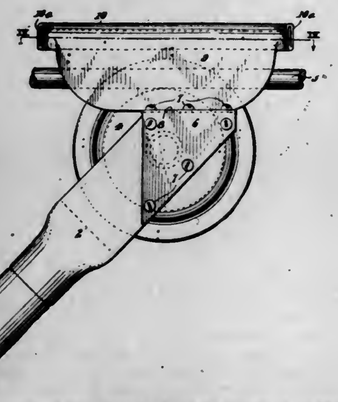


An electrolyte bath for storage batteries composed substantially of 33⅓% of electrolyte and 66⅔% of oil.

1,459,660. MACHINE FOR MAKING RETAINING RINGS FOR RECEPTACLE CLOSURES. ABRAM VAN AKEN FELTEN, Danbury, Conn., assignor to The New England Metal Barrel Corporation, Danbury, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Mar. 9, 1922. Serial No. 542,501. 11 Claims. (Cl. 153—8.)

1. In a machine for making retaining rings for receptacle closures, means for bending a strip of material to form a web portion and angularly disposed flanges, and means for further bending said strip to form a ring with the web portion of the strip disposed in a plane transecting the axis of said ring.

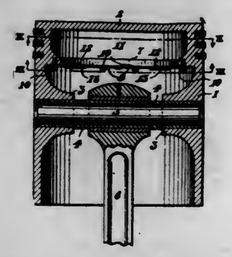
1,459,661. ANIMAL TRAP. JOSEPH D. GRAVOLET and ADAM ANSARDI, Phoenix, La. Filed Oct. 7, 1922. Serial No. 592,995. 2 Claims. (Cl. 43—88.)



2. An animal trap comprising a main frame, a pair of gripping jaws pivoted thereto, a U spring normally swinging said jaws to the gripping position, a pair of body jaws pivoted on said frame transversely to said gripping jaws, said body jaws being each provided with D-shaped looped central portions, one of said body jaws being shorter than the other and being loosely pivoted on said frame and having its looped portion projecting between the members of said U spring, and the other body jaw being arranged to swing over said gripping jaws when said gripping jaws are in the sprung position, but to be held down by said gripping jaws when the trap is set, coil springs for swinging said last mentioned body jaw to the sprung position, a latch for holding said gripping jaws in the open or set position, and a pivoted platform adapted to be tilted by the animal for releasing said latch and said gripping jaws, and thereby releasing the last mentioned body jaw.

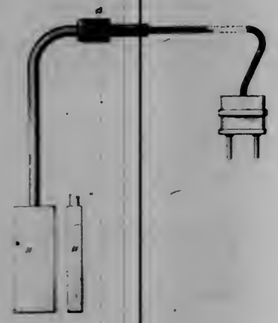
1,459,662. LUBRICATING SYSTEM. CHARLES W. MANZEL, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to The Bassick Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 18, 1920. Serial No. 404,300. 17 Claims. (Cl. 184—105.)

14. The combination with a bearing nipple of a pump for supplying lubricant under pressure thereto, said pump having a barrel provided with a rigid discharge conduit, means connected with the free end of said discharge conduit for loosely receiving said bearing nipple and making a sealed joint therewith when manual pressure is exerted on said pump toward said bearing nipple from any one of a plurality of different directions, and means actuated by such pressure for exerting pressure on the lubricant.



1,459,663. TROLLEY-WHEEL GUARD. JOHN TRUNKO, Arden, W. Va. Filed Mar. 12, 1923. Serial No. 624,411. 2 Claims. (Cl. 191—73.)

1. In a trolley wheel guard, a pole having a trolley wheel journaled in the head thereof, a guard plate secured to each side of the trolley pole head and overlying the end bearing for the trolley wheel, upwardly directed resilient arms carried by the guard plate, the upper ends of the resilient plates being rolled upon themselves to provide wheel guards adapted for resilient engagement upwardly of the trolley wheel.



1,459,664. PISTON FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. JOSEPH WOLK, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,765. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. In a piston of the type described embodying a side skirt and an upper head, an inwardly directed annular flange carried by the inner face of the side skirt, a shield secured to said flange forming an air space between said flange and piston head, said shield being formed of semi-circular sections removably secured to said flange with the adjacent edges thereof overlapping.

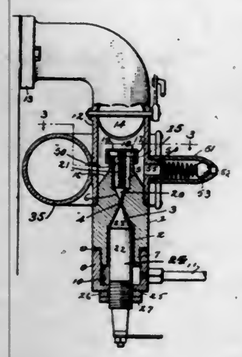
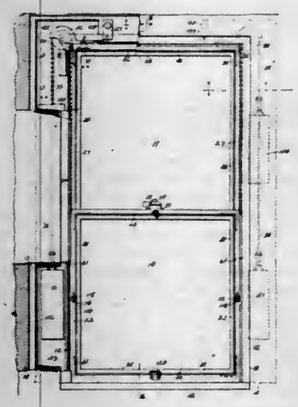
1,459,665. ELECTRIC IMMERSION LIQUID HEATER. SIEGFRIED ABEL, Berlin, Germany. Filed Jan. 21, 1922. Serial No. 530,908. 1 Claim. (Cl. 219—41.)



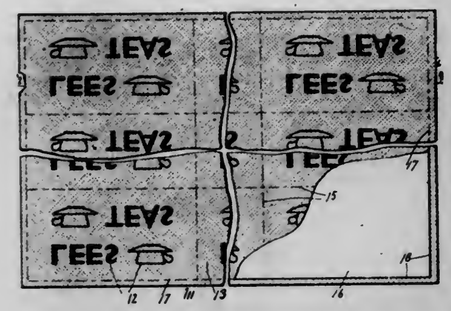
An immersion heater for electrically heating liquids and intended to be used on supply circuits of approximately 110 and 220 volts comprising insulating support, a heating resistance mounted on said insulating support and dimensioned for a voltage of approximately 150 volts, large masses of metal in the close proximity of the said heating resistance which metal is a good conductor of heat, means capable of electrically insulating the said large masses of metal from the heating resistance and of allowing the transfer of heat from the heating resistance to the said large masses of metal, and a casing the interior surface of which is in contact with the said masses of metal in order to receive the heat therefrom and transfer it to the liquid to be heated.

1,459,666. PRESSURE-CONTROLLING DEVICE. VICTOR LESLIE ADAMS, Waco, Tex. Filed June 7, 1922. Serial No. 566,674. 6 Claims. (Cl. 62—115.)



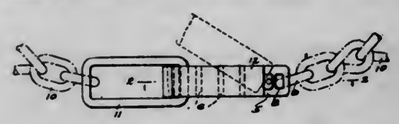
1. In a pressure controlling device of the class described, an outer casing open at both ends, a nozzled plug for each end, the inner ends of said nozzle plugs overlapping each other and forming a chamber, and a gage connected to said chamber.

1,459,667. VAPORIZER. VIRGIL C. ANDERSON, Seattle, Wash., assignor to Federal Generator Association, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 19, 1922, Serial No. 562,184. Renewed May 11, 1923. 10 Claims. (Cl. 48—103.)



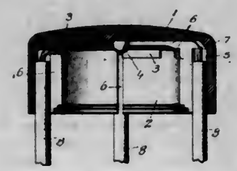
6. A vaporizer for internal combustion engines, comprising a body formed with a fuel channel, a heated element definining with the body a restricted fuel space leading to the channel, said heated element being operative to regulate the flow of fuel from said restricted fuel space to the channel, and normally closed means adapted to open under engine suction to control the flow from said channel.

1,459,668. WINDOW. SIDNEY U. BARR, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 3, 1920. Serial No. 386,309. 10 Claims. (Cl. 189—76.)



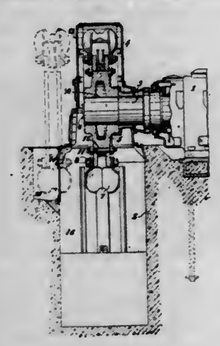
1. In a window, a window frame and a lower sash, the window frame having a sill provided with a raised member, the said frame having stop beads and parting strips forming guideways for the sash to slide in, the said stop beads being provided with inclines, the said sash having stiles and a bottom rail of inverted channel shape adapted to straddle the said raised member, the stiles being adapted to engage the said inclines to press the bottom rail into engagement with the raised member and to press the stiles against the parting strips to form a tight joint between the said contacting parts.

1,459,669. PRINTING PLATE AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. FREDERICK H. BEROLD, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Nov. 19, 1919. Serial No. 339,040. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—395.)



1. A thin flexible sheet printing plate for relief printing having on its printing face a plurality of duplications of the same subject-matter portions for simultaneous printing a plurality of the same article, and distancing portions of the character described to distance the inking rollers and paper from the bottoms of the spaces between said duplications of subject-matter portions, said distancing portions extending continuously between said duplications of said subject-matter portions for continuously supporting the inking rollers and the sheets of paper being printed between said subject-matter portions.

1,459,670. ADJUSTABLE CHAIN HOOK. OSCAR EDWARD BROWN, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Aug. 29, 1922. Serial No. 585,107. 5 Claims. (Cl. 24—241.)

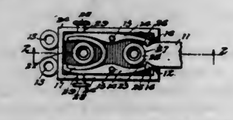


1. In an adjustable chain hook, in combination, a pair of co-acting relatively movable members constituting respectively the hook paper and a closure therefor, and spring-latch means for such members including a recess in one of the members, a projection on the other member receivable in the recess, a spring on such recessed member, and a detent carried by the spring for automatically engaging the projection when positioned in the recess thereupon positively to lock the projection against leaving the recess until the spring is thereafter manually re adjusted.

1,459,671. DISTRIBUTOR CAP OR THE LIKE. WILLIAM S. HARLEY, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Harley-Davidson Motor Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Apr. 25, 1919. Serial No. 292,731. 8 Claims. (Cl. 200—19.)

1. A distributor cap or the like comprising an imperforate inverted cup shaped member having a socket formed integrally therewith extending upwardly from the base thereof, and an insulated conductor positioned within said socket.

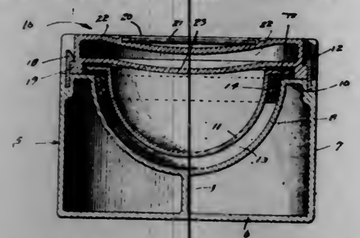
1,459,672. RUNNER CONSTRUCTION FOR PELTON WHEELS. ELY C. HUTCHINSON, Oakland, Calif., assignor to Pelton Water Wheel Co., San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 553,525. 6 Claims. (Cl. 253—136.)



1. A water wheel comprising a two part structure consisting of a center for securing to a shaft, and a bucket carrying ring removably mounted on the periphery thereof, means for detachably securing the parts together, and a plurality of buckets carried by the ring, said ring mounting the buckets adapted for removal with the buckets as a unit from the center.

1,459,673. CLASP. LOUIS JABNER, Jersey City, N. J. Filed Sept. 26, 1922. Serial No. 590,669. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—230.)

1. A clasp comprising a casing having an opening in one end, a substantially U-shaped spring mounted in the closed end of the casing and having its arms extending towards the open end, a pair of fingers pivotally mounted in the casing having their opposite innermost ends disposed within the arms of the spring, a member having a head adapted to be engaged by the innermost ends of the fingers to lock the clasp upon insertion of the head therebetween, and means extending through the opposite walls of the casing bearing on the outermost ends of the fingers for coupling the clasp.



1,459,674. CLASP. LOUIS JABNER, Jersey City, N. J. Filed Sept. 26, 1922. Serial No. 590,670. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—230.)

1. A clasp of the character described comprising a casing having an opening in one end, a pair of levers pivotally mounted therein having complementary clamping jaws at one extremity adjacent the opening in the end of the casing, means normally urging said jaws together, a coupling member adapted to be engaged by the jaws upon insertion in the open end of the casing, and a member fixed in the casing between the levers and forming an abutment point for the coupling member and jaws, at which point said jaws and coupling member will interchange to lock the clasp.

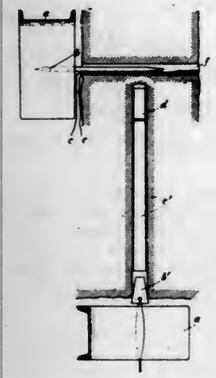
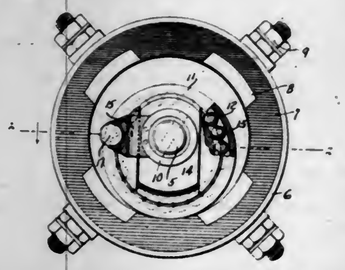
1,459,675. HOT-SLAG RECEPTACLE. EDWARD E. JAMES, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Nov. 7, 1921. Serial No. 513,491. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—9.)



A receptacle of the class described comprising a hollow body, a false bottom in said body comprising a basin shaped closure for the top of the bottom, a basin shaped slag container adapted to be supported above said false bottom with a vacuum space therebetween, a cap for closing the top of the receptacle and having a vacuum space adapted to overlie the top of the slag container when the cap is in place on the receptacle, said cap having notches at spaced intervals in its periphery and rabbeted ledges in the inside of said notches, and catches carried adjacent the edge of the body in the top thereof adapted to engage said rabbeted ledges for holding the cap in place, the top surface of said cap being countersunk and a handle in said countersunk for carrying the receptacle, the handle adapted to lie within the countersunk below the surface of the cap when not in use.

1,459,676. GRINDING OR SHARPENING DEVICE FOR RAZOR BLADES. FRIEDRICH KIERSTEN, Celle in Hanover, Germany. Filed Aug. 11, 1920. Serial No. 402,931. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—41.)

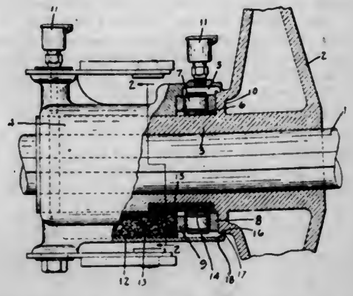


A razor blade sharpener, comprising a frame, a shaft in the frame, a gear on the shaft, a pair of hollow shafts mounted for axial movement in the frame, pinions on the hollow shafts meshing with said gear for rotating hollow shafts, means for turning said first shaft in opposite directions, said first shaft having a threaded portion, a sleeve mounted on the threaded portion and having arms engaging said hollow shafts, said sleeve being adapted to be reciprocated axially upon the turning of the first shaft in opposite directions to shift the hollow shafts during rotation, grinding rollers carried by the hollow shafts, and a blade holder, arranged between said rollers, substantially as described.

1,459,677. METHOD OF AND MEANS FOR EXTINGUISHING OR SMOTHERING EXPLOSIONS IN MINES. HERMANN KRUSKOPF, Dortmund, Germany. Filed Dec. 15, 1920. Serial No. 431,056. 5 Claims. (Cl. 102—5.)

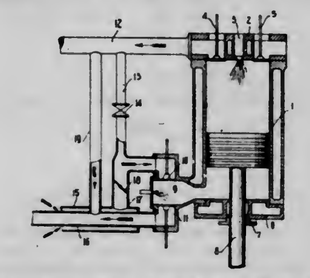
1. An improved method of avoiding explosions in mines by firing shots in layers of coals, which consists in introducing natural quartz-dust into suitable easily destroyable tubes, inserting said tubes into the blast-holes and securing other containers filled with dust centrally in front of said blast-holes, substantially as set forth.

1,459,678. TIMER. ELMER J. LEE, Bangor, Pa. Filed Jan. 24, 1922. Serial No. 531,415. 4 Claims. (Cl. 200—26.)



2. A timer including a ring, a contact member encircling said ring, antifriction means interposed between said ring and member, a collar carrying said ring, a plate carried by said collar and extending outwardly therefrom, a sleeve carried by the outer end of said plate, and a spring pressed pin mounted within said sleeve, said pin bearing against said contact member.

1,459,679. OILING DEVICE. DARCY E. LEWELLEN, Columbus, Ind., assignor to Lewellen Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed July 14, 1921. Serial No. 484,602. 7 Claims. (Cl. 64—24.)



2. The combination with a combined radial and thrust bearing, having a reservoir therein, of a fibrous material in said reservoir for dispensing the lubricant onto the bearing parts at a uniform flow, and means for collecting and returning the lubricant to said reservoir, and causing the same to circulate through the fibrous material.

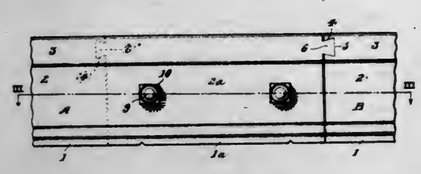
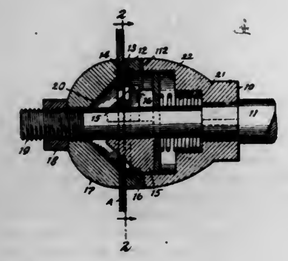
1,459,680. DOUBLE-ACTING INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. GERARD JOHAN LUOT, Amsterdam, Netherlands. Filed Dec. 3, 1921. Serial No. 520,061. 9 Claims. (Cl. 123—61.)



1. In a double-acting internal combustion piston engine the cylinder side opposite the crank having a higher ration of compression than the crank side of the cylinder.

1,459,681. OIL INDICATOR AND PUMP PRIMER. GEORGE FREDERICK MADDEN, Roosevelt, Utah. Filed Nov. 30, 1921. Serial No. 519,022. 5 Claims. (Cl. 103—202.)



1. A primer for pumps of the class described, including an indicator reservoir adapted to be connected with a pump to receive oil therefrom, and a plunger in said reservoir optionally movable to return oil from the reservoir to the pump for priming.

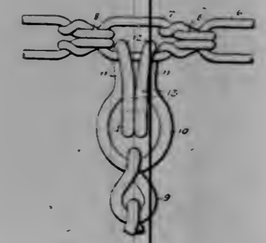
1,459,682. RAIL JOINT. SAM MORYLIN, Bolivar, Pa. Filed Dec. 19, 1922. Serial No. 607,787. 2 Claims. (Cl. 238—237.)

1. In a device of the character described, a base portion, a head portion, a web portion connecting said base and head, the said base, web, and head portions being cut away on a central vertical plane, the said head portion having a transversely extending dove-tail-shaped recess formed at the inner end of the cutaway portion and a transversely extending dove-tail-shaped lug formed at the outer end of the cutaway portion.

1,459,683. CENTERING AND CLAMPING MEANS FOR SAWS AND OTHER ARTICLES. GEORGE L. NORRIS, Wilmington, Del. Filed Sept. 14, 1922. Serial No. 588,225. 2 Claims. (Cl. 143—155.)

1. An assemblage of the class described including a chamber ring presenting an annular shoulder disposed toward the head and spaced webs extending toward the center of the ring, a plurality of tapered bush members within said head and guided between said web members and said ring, said members being tapered to center a saw wheel, and provided with members projecting therefrom at the periphery adapted to be accommodated in the chamber of the ring, a collar fitted on the arbor coaxial with the head, said collar and said ring adapted to clamp a saw or wheel therebetween, and means on the arbor engaging said collar adapted to cause a clamping axis thereon.

1,459,684. FACING FOR CEMENT WALLS. FRED A. NORTHWALL, Portland, Oreg. Filed May 26, 1922. Serial No. 563,759. 1 Claim. (Cl. 72—21.)



A facing element of the character described, comprising a plate-like formation having offsets in its faces along each end thereof and each side thereof, the offsets upon one side and upon one end occurring upon opposite faces with respect to the offsets upon the other side and other end respectively, and one face having its offset occurring along its upper longitudinal edge extended inwardly intermediate the ends thereof and the walls forming the termination of the offset comprising two divergent end walls and an intermediate or connecting wall, and each of said walls sloping inwardly for the purpose described.

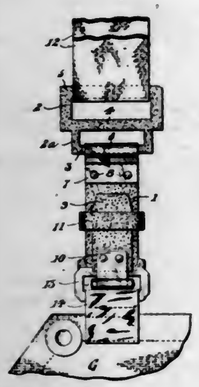
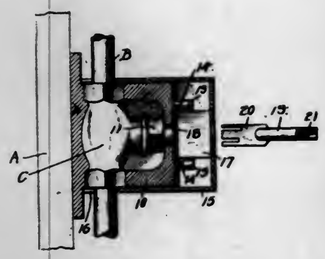
1,459,685. ANTISKID DEVICE. CHARLES FREDRICH AGUSTUS NUEBLING, Hewlett, N. Y. Filed Feb. 17, 1923. Serial No. 619,684. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—237.)



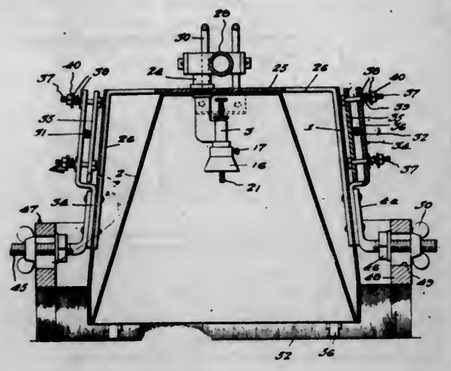
A hook member for joining an end link of one of the cross chains of an anti-skid device to a link of one of the side chains thereof, said member being formed with a single length of material bent to provide a bight for receiving a link of one of said chains, the extremities of said material being curved and a portion thereof between the curved extremities and said bight being bent over upon said bight to form a second bight for receiving a link of the other chain, said curved extremities being adapted to limit the movement of the last named link toward the closed end of the first named bight.

1,459,686. AUTOMATIC LOCK COCK. JOHN T. O'GORMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed June 24, 1922. Serial No. 570,681. 2 Claims. (Cl. 251—165.)



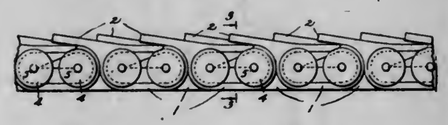
1. The combination with a valve or cock having a casing, a plug and a handle for moving the plug to an open or closed position, of a flange secured to the casing having diametrically opposite apertures, an arm extending from said plug beneath said handle, and a bolt slidingly mounted in said arm, said bolt having a head for preventing the bolt from leaving the arm in one direction, said arm being positioned sufficiently near said handle to cause the head of said bolt to strike the handle when moved in the opposite direction a predetermined distance, said bolt being adapted to ride on said flange when the valve is open or partially open and to automatically drop into either of said apertures when the valve is moved to a closed position.

1,459,687. BUCKLE. JOSEPH PACH, Stone, Ky. Filed Nov. 23, 1922. Serial No. 602,841. 5 Claims. (Cl. 24—201.)



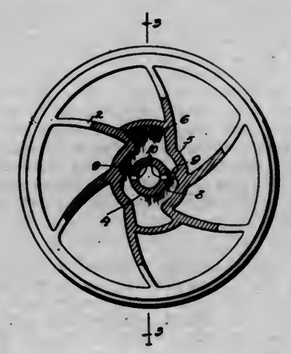
1. In a buckle of the type described, wherein the same is constructed of relatively heavy leather, a main body portion substantially rectangular in plan view, a retaining clasp hingedly connected to one end of the body portion, and a suspender strap attaching loop hingedly connected to the other end of the body portion.

1,459,688. LOCK FOR AUTOMOBILE GAS LINES. DANIEL M. PARKINSON, Springfield, Ohio. Filed June 17, 1922. Serial No. 568,052. 6 Claims. (Cl. 70—123.)



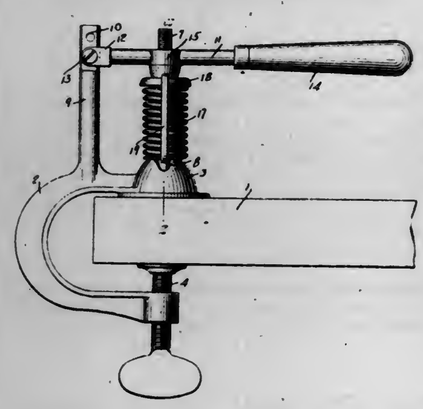
1. The combination with the gas line of an automobile of a valve interposed in said gas line, a casing fitted around the valve casing to enclose the same except for a socket for the insertion of a key to engage the valve stem, a second casing adapted to fit over and enclose said first casing outside said socket, a lock enclosed in said second casing adapted to engage with keepers or locking pins carried by said first casing and a key for operating the lock and the valve stem, substantially as set forth.

1,459,689. SPRAYING MACHINE. JOHN PASCHALL, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 14, 1921. Serial No. 477,529. 12 Claims. (Cl. 91—25.)



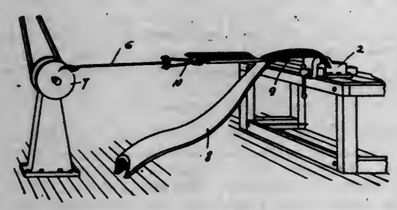
7. In a spraying machine, a body, a guard therein, a spraying nozzle carried by said guard, brackets carried by the body, and material spreading brushes adjustably carried by said brackets.

1,459,690. BELTING. GEORGE E. PERRY, Lincoln, Me. Filed May 20, 1922. Serial No. 562,365. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—64.)



1. A link for belting formed of flexible material, each link having spaced openings and provided with a slit connecting the openings and with another slit leading from one of the openings around said openings and extending out through one edge of the link.

1,459,691. CAR WHEEL. WALTER R. PLITT and WILLIAM A. LLOYD, Meyersdale, Pa. Filed May 27, 1921. Serial No. 472,966. 1 Claim. (Cl. 64—26.)



A car wheel consisting of a hub, spokes and a rim forming integral parts; radial projecting front and rear flanges on said hub, cylindrical walls extending between said flanges and connecting some of the spokes forming a cylindrical chamber around said hub, other short cylindrical walls connecting the remaining spokes and extending from the rear flanges, and offset flanges between said first cylindrical walls and said short walls forming pockets communicating with said cylindrical chamber, narrow apertures with wide mouths being provided through the hub extending the entire length of said chamber, and splash ridges of semicircular cross sections across said cylindrical chamber opposite said apertures, and of the same length as the latter, whereby the lubricant contained in said chamber will be forced through said apertures by said ridges during the rotation of the wheel.

1,459,692. SPRING COMPRESSOR. CHARLES A. PRESCOTT, Providence, R. I. Filed Oct. 18, 1921. Serial No. 508,581. 4 Claims. (Cl. 29—86.3.)

3. In a spring compressor, a frame adapted to be attached to a support, a compressor base integral with the frame, a lever pivoted on the frame, a compressor head carried by the lever, a centering device interposed between the base and head, said centering device comprising a post rising from the base and extending through the head, and said base having a groove therein to permit the insertion of one end of a key under a spring in the compressor.

1,459,693. METHOD OF SPLITTING CORD TIRES. WILLIAM MARCHANT RAND, IRVIN C. BROOK, and FREDERICK CAMERON BUTLER, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. Filed June 28, 1922. Serial No. 571,515. 2 Claims. (Cl. 154—2.)

1. A method of splitting cord tires without damaging the lower cords which consists in removing the metal rings from the beads while leaving intact the connection of the ends of the lower cords and the selvage with which the said ends are bound, cutting the casing transversely to transform it into one length, and then pulling apart the upper layer of cords from the lower layer, the end of the lower layer being rigidly secured during the pulling operation.

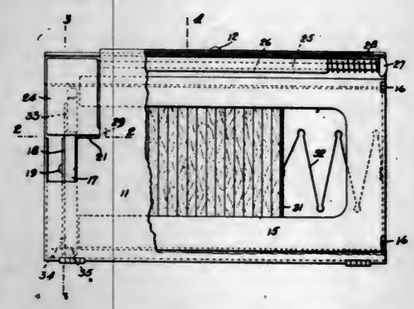
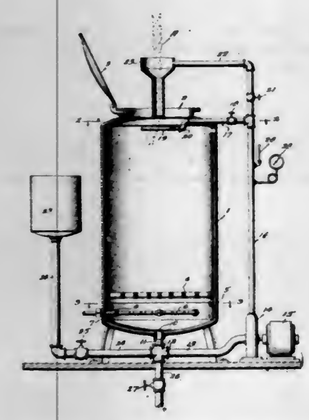
1,459,694. BOBBIN HOLDER. WILHELM REINERS, Munich-Gladbach, Germany. Filed Sept. 2, 1921. Serial No. 498,179. 1 Claim. (Cl. 242—130.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

A bobbin holder for warping creels comprising a sleeve, a flange formed on one end of said sleeve, the other end of said sleeve being threaded, a thumb nut engaging said threads, a plurality of cross-wound bobbins with cross wound cheeses arranged on said sleeve, said bobbins being retained on said sleeve between said flange and nut whereby said sleeve and bobbins may be placed loosely on a warping creel spindle.



1,459,695. MOUNTING FOR STYLUS LEVERS. GEORGE W. SLIGHT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 15, 1922. Serial No. 575,242. 4 Claims. (Cl. 274—35.)

1. A device of the character described, comprising a sound box casing, bearings formed in the casing, one of the bearings being in the form of a groove, a stylus arm provided with a trunnion, said trunnion being pivotally mounted in the bearings formed in the casing, and a spring carried by the casing and engaging the trunnion to move the trunnion along the groove to compensate for wear.



1,459,696. MATCH CASE. SIDNEY SPRAGUE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor of one-fourth to Benjamin Futterman, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 28, 1921. Serial No. 525,292. 5 Claims. (Cl. 206—34.)

1. A match case comprising an open ended supply chamber adapted to receive a plurality of matches, a match receiving member pivoted adjacent said open end, means for retaining said receiving member in a position to receive the matches from the open end of said supply chamber, means for advancing the supply toward said open end and forcing the outermost match into said receiving member, and means for releasing said retaining member to deliver the match to the user.

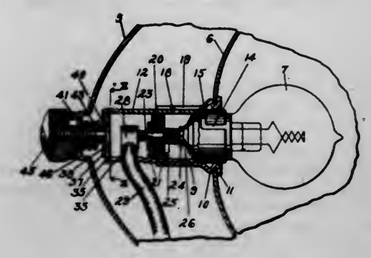
1,459,697. BLEACHING APPARATUS. CHARLES TAYLOR, Paterson, N. J. Filed Oct. 31, 1922. Serial No. 598,140. 1 Claim. (Cl. 8—18.)

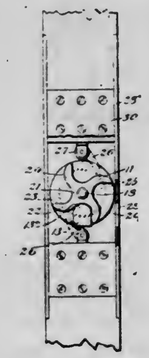
In an apparatus of the character described, a kier having an inlet opening, a hopper arranged above said opening, a pipe extending downwardly from said hopper and terminating within said inlet opening to feed the material to be bleached to said kier, a grate in said kier to support the cloth, said grate being arranged adjacent the bottom, a valved outlet pipe arranged in the bottom of said kier, a pipe connecting said outlet pipe to said hopper, a pump arranged in said connecting pipe, a valved branch pipe extending from said connecting pipe, and a perforated rose arranged on the end of said branch pipe and in alinement with said hopper and said first mentioned pipe.



1,459,698. DEPOLARIZER. BORIS H. TEITELBAUM, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Harry M. Koretsky, Brooklyn, N. Y. Original application filed Dec. 3, 1919, Serial No. 342,242. Divided and this application filed Dec. 22, 1920. Serial No. 432,602. 2 Claims. (Cl. 204—38.)

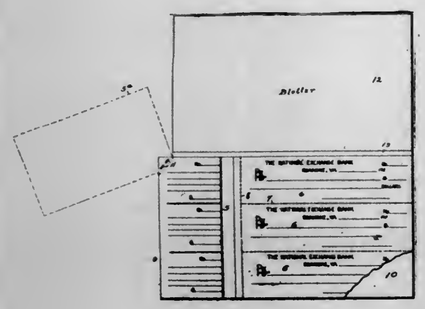
2. A step in the process for making a depolarising mixture for a dry battery, which consists in mixing granular graphite with manganese dioxide composed of grains of such size as to pass through a sieve having 40 meshes to the linear inch, but to be retained on a sieve having 50 meshes to the linear inch, and subjecting the mixture of manganese dioxide and graphite to a current of hot air at a temperature of from 80 to 100 degrees C.

1,459,699. PRODUCTION OF ALCOHOL. JOSEPH VAN RUYMBEKE, Marseille, France. Filed Aug. 15, 1921. Serial No. 492,466. 6 Claims. (Cl. 195—15.)



6. The process of producing alcohol of strength 98 to 99 per cent by bringing alcohol vapours into contact with glycerine in a rectifying column, the said glycerine acting as a dehydrating agent.

1,459,700. FOCUSING-LAMP SOCKET. FRED H. WETZEL, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to Willys Corporation, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 27, 1920. Serial No. 406,430. 1 Claim. (Cl. 240—44.)



In a lamp having a casing and a reflector therein, a sleeve secured to said reflector, a tubular member slidable in said sleeve, said parts having co-operating elements to prevent relative rotation, a plate at the end of said tubular member, lugs in said member engaging the outer face of said plate, a bolt rigidly secured to said plate, a spring between said casing and said plate and a nut on the outer side of said casing threaded on said bolt.

1,459,701. DOOR LATCH. OSCAR DELLMONT WILLIS, Huntington, W. Va. Filed May 17, 1922. Serial No. 561,672. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—340.)

1. The combination with a swinging closure and a retractable latch bolt which is normally projected therefrom, of means on the closure support disposed in the path of movement of the latch bolt for permitting of the free movement of the closure to closed position while the latch bolt is in normally projected position and operating to positively lock the closure against opening without retraction of the latch bolt, said means consisting of a rotary keeper having radial blades disposed in the path of movement of the projected latch bolt, and means for limiting the keeper to rotation in one direction.

1,459,702. CHECK BOOK AND THE LIKE. CHARLES MILTON COTT, Roanoke, Va. Filed Apr. 7, 1921. Serial No. 459,216. 1 Claim. (Cl. 283—63.)

A check book comprising a plurality of leaves divided by weakened lines into stub portions and detachable check portions, means for fastening the stub portions together at a corner only of said stub portions to permt of the used stub portions being folded back to give access to the unused stub portions and a combined cover and blotter of a length to cover the exposed portions of the unused stubs and checks but lying inwardly of the used stubs when the latter are thrown bask.

1,459,703. RECOVERY OF AMMONIA FROM GASES CONTAINING THE SAME. HERMANN WIEDERHOLD and CARL EHRENBERG, Furstenwalde-on-the-Oder, Germany, assignors to Industrial Research Limited, London, England, a British Company. Filed Mar. 5, 1923. Serial No. 623,011. 2 Claims. (Cl. 23—21.)

1. A process for the treatment of ammoniacal gases for the purpose described, which consists in bringing the gas in contact with crude carbonaceous material containing the organic acidic bodies, recovering the ammonia absorbed by the crude carbonnceous material by treating the latter with an ammonia liberating alkali, thereafter further treating the carbonaceous material with a mineral acid in slight excess to liberate the organic acids combined with the alkali, and reutilizing the latter for the treatment of further ammonia containing gases.

1,459,704. GAS VENT FOR CONTAINERS. GEORGE W. BENNETT, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Aug. 2, 1922. Serial No. 579,219. 3 Claims. (Cl. 215—56.)

1. In a device of the class described, a container, a stopper therefor, a tubular element extending through the stopper, a receptacle for containing liquid, the tube extending into said receptacle to a point below the liquid level therein, and said tube being deflected to form receptacle retaining means.

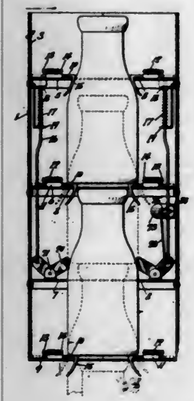
1,459,705. APPLIANCE FOR TEACHING OR PRACTICING THE GAME OF GOLF. CHARLES ASHTON HENRY BULLOCK, London, England, assignor of one-third to Edward J. Waring, Plainfield, N. J., and one-third to Wilbert Edward Stratton, London, England. Filed Jan. 6, 1922. Serial No. 527,325. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)

1. A device of the class described, comprising a support adapted to be attached to the head of the player, a rod attached at one end to said support, a flexible string attached to the outer end of said rod, and a relatively light ball suspended by and attached to said string.



1,459,706. CORRUGATED DISPLAY RACK. GEORGE C. MACDONALD, Elmhurst, N. Y., assignor to Loose Wiles Biscuit Company, Long Island City, N. Y. a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 25, 1922. Serial No. 546,721. 5 Claims. (Cl. 206—44.)

1. In combination with a carton or other receptacle for packaging and displaying articles, a corrugated member 4 adapted to be placed in the carton or receptacle and to rest upon the bottom thereof, said member having a series of aligned openings 6, and a longitudinally folded rib 10 frictionally held within said openings thereby to maintain constant the angle between corrugations of said member.

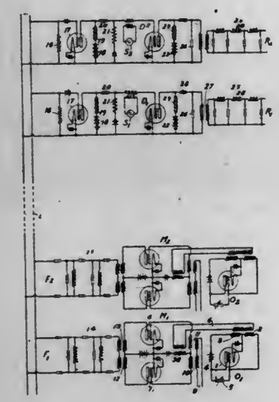
1,459,707. BOTTLE HOLDER. CHARLES F. SHOENFELT, Vandalia, GEORGE H. COOK, Dayton, and FREDERICK H. COOK, Tippecanoe, Ohio; said George H. Cook assignor to said Shoenfelt. Filed July 5, 1921. Serial No. 482,410. 19 Claims. (Cl. 232—41.)

1. A bottle holder through which the bottles are movable axially in a vertical direction, locking means for preventing the removal of a bottle therefrom and means to release said bottle by the insertion of a second bottle.



1,459,708. SCREW DRIVER. TIMOTHY B. POWERS, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 9, 1922. Serial No. 580,776. 7 Claims. (Cl. 145—71.)

1. A screw driver comprising the handle, a shank, a collar on the shank adjacent the handle, a lever arm formed of a strip having at one end portion an aperture, the lever being bent to one side at the apertured end, said apertured end portion being arranged to surround the shank adjacent the collar to permit the lever when brought to extend upwardly in proximity to the handle to turn freely around the handle, said apertured portion also permitting the lever to be swung outwardly to extend transverse to the handle by the apertured portion moving across the shank, which apertured lever portion and the adjacent portion of the device are provided with cooperating means that engage at said transverse position of the lever.

1,459,709. MULTIPLEX SIGNALING. BURTON W. KENDALL, New York, N. Y., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 13, 1916. Serial No. 125,349. 45 Claims. (Cl. 179—15.)

1. The method of multiplex signaling, which consists in modulating each of a plurality of different frequency carrier oscillations in accordance with a signal, eliminating the unmodulated components, transmitting pure modulated waves to distant receiving circuits, and selecting said signals at the proper receiving circuits by restoring in each circuit an unmodulated component similar to that suppressed at the corresponding sending circuit.

ADVERSE DECISIONS IN INTERFERENCE.

In interferences involving the indicated claims of the following patents final decisions have been rendered that the respective patentees were not the first inventors with respect to the claims listed:

Pat. 1,155,478, T. M. Freeble, Safety apparatus for railway trains, claim 8.

Pat. 1,309,492, A. H. Swett, Package fastener, claims 1, 2, and 3.

Pat. 1,381,700, R. N. Bressler, Inflating valve, claims 5 and 6.

Interference Notice.

U. S. Patent Office, Washington, June 15, 1923.

Adolf Bromberg, his assigns or legal representatives, take notice:

An interference having been declared by this Office between the application for patent filed by Adolf Bromberg, 167 Wooster Street, New York, N. Y., and an application for patent filed by Elmer S. Rutter, 510 Palisade Avenue, Weehawken Heights, N. J., and a notice of such declaration sent to said Bromberg at the said address having been returned by the post office undeliverable, notice is hereby given that unless said Bromberg, his assigns or legal representatives, shall enter an appearance therein within thirty days from the first publication of this order the interference will be proceeded with as in case of default.

This notice will be published in the Official Gazette for three consecutive weeks.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

Notice of Cancellation.

U. S. Patent Office, Washington, June 8, 1923.

Reed, Walsh & Lange, its assigns or legal representatives, take notice:

A cancellation proceeding having been instituted by this Office upon the application of Duffy-Mott Company, Inc., of No. 502 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York, N. Y., to effect the cancellation of trade-mark registration No. 28,448, registered June 23, 1896, to Reed, Walsh & Lange, of Nos. 65 and 67 South Water Street, Chicago, Ill., and the notice of such proceeding sent by registered mail to said Reed, Walsh & Lange at the said address having been returned by the post office undeliverable, notice is hereby given that unless said Reed, Walsh & Lange, its assigns or legal representatives, shall enter an appearance therein within thirty days from the first publication of this order the cancellation will be proceeded with as in case of default.

This notice will be published in the Official Gazette for three consecutive weeks.

WM. A. KINNAN,
Acting Commissioner.

Access to Pending Applications.

No person except the applicant, the assignee whose assignment is of record, or the attorney of record will be permitted to have access to the file of any application, except as provided for under the interference rules, unless written authority from the applicant, assignee, or attorney, identifying the application to be inspected, is filed in the case to become a part of the record thereof, or upon the written order of the Commissioner, which will also become a part of the record of the case.

Amendments to Amendments.

Rule 74. When an amendatory clause is amended, it must be wholly rewritten, so that no interlineation or erasure shall appear in the clause, as finally amended, when the application is passed to issue. If the number or nature of the amendment shall render it otherwise difficult to consider the case or to arrange the papers for printing or copying, the Examiner or Commissioner may require the entire specification to be rewritten.

DECISIONS IN PATENT AND TRADE-MARK CASES.

Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

E-Z WAIST COMPANY v. RELIANCE MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

No. 1,534. Decided February 5, 1923.

1. TRADE-MARKS—"E-Z", "E-Z-ON"—SAME DESCRIPTIVE PROPERTIES.

The manufacture of work shirts would come within the natural development of the opposer's business as a manufacturer of children's waists, union suits, sleeping garments, etc. The goods belong to the same class and possess the same descriptive properties.

2. SAME—SAME—RIGHTS OF OWNERS.

The owner of a trade-mark will not be hampered or embarrassed in the legitimate extension of his business by the registration of the mark to another.

3. SAME—SAME—SAME DESCRIPTIVE PROPERTIES.

It is not enough in all cases that the effect would not be to induce the intending purchaser to accept goods of one kind when he desired those of another. It is not likely that a person desiring a child's sleeping garment would accept a work shirt in its stead; but he might be deceived into believing that the sleeping garment was produced by the same concern as that which put out the work shirt, because of the similarity of the marks.

4. SAME—SAME—DOUBT RESOLVED AGAINST NEWCOMER.

If there is doubt whether confusion or mistake would result from the registration of a mark, the doubt must be resolved against the newcomer. The field from which a person may select a trade-mark is practically unlimited, and hence there is no excuse for his impinging upon or even closely approaching the mark of his business rival.

Mr. J. W. Milburn for E-Z Waist Co.

Mr. E. F. Pierce for Reliance Mfg. Co.

Before SMYTH, Chief Justice, ROBB and VAN ORSDEL, Associate Judges.

SMITH, C. J.:

The Reliance Manufacturing Company sought registration of the trade-mark "E-Z-On" for work shirts. Opposition was interposed by the E-Z Waist Company as the owner and user of the registered trade-mark "E-Z", applied by it to children's knitted waists, knitted and nainsook union suits, and sleeping garments, on the ground that the goods of both parties were of the same class, and that because of this the registration of the mark to the manufacturing company would be likely to lead to confusion. Applicant claims use of the mark since November 14, 1916, while the opposer's date is as far back as 1895. The opposer, therefore, is entitled to priority. It is admitted by the applicant that its mark and that of the opposer so nearly resemble each other that if used on goods of the same descriptive properties confusion might result, but it insists that work shirts to which the one is applied do not belong to the same class of goods as those upon which the other is used. The two tribunals of the Patent Office united in holding that the opposition was not well founded, and that the application for registration should be granted.

Section 5 of the Trade-Mark Act (33 Stat., 725) says that no mark by which the goods of the owner of the mark may be distinguished from other goods of the same class shall be refused registration except in certain cases which are immaterial here. This means that a mark by which the goods of the owner may not be distinguished from other goods of the same class shall not be registered. If the marks before us so nearly resemble each other that the mark of the applicant would not distinguish its goods from those of the opposer it should not be registered.

[1, 2] The opposer is the pioneer user of the mark. We think manufacture of work shirts would come within the natural development of its business as a maker of children's waists, union suits, sleep garments, etc. The goods belong to the same class and possess the same descriptive properties. We have said that the owner of a trade-mark will not be hampered or embarrassed in the legitimate extension of his business by the registration of the mark to another. (Canton Culvert & Silo Company v. Consolidated Car-Heating Co., 44 App. D. C., 491; 226 O. G., 1799.) In another case Mr. Justice Van Orsdel, speaking for this court, declared that the word "class," as used in the statute, means broadly a genus including as species any goods upon which the use of the same mark, when the goods are exposed side by side, would tend to mislead the purchasing public. The goods of the contending parties in that case were knitted and textile undershirts, drawers and union suits on the one hand; and men's, women's, and children's stockings on the other. It was held that they possessed the same descriptive properties, and registration of the mark to the last comer was denied. (N. Wolf & Sons v. Lord & Taylor, 41 App. D. C., 514; 202 O. G., 632.) This decision followed Church & D. Co. v. Russ (99 Fed., 276; 91 O. G., 228), where it was held to be a recognized rule that different species of goods are of the same class when a certain trade-mark used on them would enable an unscrupulous dealer to palm off on an unsuspecting purchaser the goods of one make when he supposed he was receiving the goods of another. If a person familiar with the goods of the opposer in this case desired to purchase work shirts and was offered some bearing the mark "E-Z-On" he would likely be led to believe that they were produced by the opposer. Another authority bearing on the point is Collins & Co. v. Oliver Ames & Sons (18 Fed., 561).

[3, 4] Appellee has brought to our attention decisions wherein it was held that confusion would not result from the use of the same mark by different parties if the effect would not be to induce the intending purchaser to accept goods of one kind when he desired those of another; as, for instance, to accept tea when he desired coffee. While this test may be satisfactory in some cases it is not in all. It is not likely that a person desiring a child's sleeping garment would accept a work shirt in its stead, but he might be deceived into believing that the sleeping garment was produced by the same concern as that which put out the work shirt, because of the similarity of the marks. The purpose of the Trade-Mark Act is to prevent fraud and mistake. That purpose would not be served if we permitted this mark to be registered by the applicant. If it be said that it is not clear that confusion or mistake would result from the registration of the mark we answer that it is not necessary that it should be in order that registration may be denied. If we doubt upon the subject the doubt must be resolved against the newcomer. The reason for this is that the field from which a person may select a trade-mark is practically unlimited, and hence there is no excuse for his impinging upon, or even closely approaching, the mark of his business rival. (William Waltke & Co. v. Geo. H. Schafer & Co., 49 App. D. C., 254; 263 Fed., 650; 273 O. G., 630.)

We think, therefore, that the opposition should have been sustained, and consequently the decision of the commissioner is reversed.

Reversed.

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER NO. 2,817.)

U. S. PATENT OFFICE, Washington, May 24, 1923.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 202, Charcoal and Coke (Division XXXI), establish subclasses—

12. Bone-black apparatus—
13. Kilns or retorts.

The patents contained in these subclasses have been taken for the most part from class 127, Sugar and Salt, subclass 2, Bone black, hereinafter abolished.

In class 252, Substance Preparation (Division VI), establish subclasses—

1. Miscellaneous.
2. Absorbents—
3. Carbon type.
4. Volatile-organic-liquid recovery.
5. Cooling and refrigerating compositions.
6. Colloids and suspensoids.
7. Waste sulphite liquor.
8. Chemical purification of mineral substances.

The patents contained in subclass 2 have been taken for the most part from class 127, Sugar and Salt, subclass 2, Bone black, hereinafter abolished, and from class 252, Substance Preparation, and those contained in subclass 3 have been taken for the most part from class 127, Sugar and Salt, subclass 2, Bone black, hereinafter abolished, and from various subclasses in class 210, Liquid Separation or Purification, and include compositions of matter in solid form for absorbing gaseous, liquid, or solid matter, which function by occlusion, absorption, capillarity, or other surface effect. The patents contained in subclasses 1, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 have been taken for the most part from the patents contained in class 252, Substance Preparation, as it previously existed without being divided into subclasses.

In class 127, Sugar and Salt (Division XXXI), change the title of the class to read 127, Sugar, Starch, and Carbohydrates, abolish the existing subclasses, and establish in lieu thereof the following subclasses and definitions, the patents formerly contained in subclass 2, Bone black, having been placed for the most part in class 202, Charcoal and Coke, subclass 12, Bone-black apparatus, and the subclass indented thereunder, and class 252, Substance Preparation, subclass 2, Absorbents, and the subclass indented thereunder, hereinbefore established; those formerly contained in subclasses 9, Evaporating pans, and 18, Vacuum pans, with part of those formerly contained in subclass 15, Refining sugar, having been placed in class 159, Concentrating Evaporators, hereinafter established; those formerly contained in subclasses 14, Refining salt, and 16, Salt making, having been placed partly in class 159, Concentrating Evaporators, hereinafter established, and partly in class 23, Chemicals, subclass 13, Salines (see the fifth note following the class definition of class 159); and those formerly contained in subclass 24, Vacuum coolers, having been placed for the most part in class 62, Refrigeration, subclass 152, Liquid coolers, Vacuum, and the subclass indented thereunder:

127.—SUGAR, STARCH, AND CARBOHYDRATES.

Apparatus—
1. Hydrolyzing,
2. Treating sacchariferous material—
3. Leaching or diffusion—
4. Combined disintegrator,
5. Advancing solid material—
6. Multiple stage,
7. Tubular cell,
8. Diffusion batteries,
9. Treating sacchariferous solutions—
10. Dialyzers,
11. Defecating apparatus—
12. Gas and liquid contact,
13. Separating tanks,
14. Mixing tanks,
15. Forming crystals—
16. Concentrating and crystallizing,
17. Treating crystals—
18. Purging and molding—
19. Centrifugal,
20. Purging,
21. Granulating and mixing,
22. Melting or dissolving,
23. Treating amylaceous material—
24. Separating and purifying—
25. Screens or washers,
26. Tables,
27. Decanters or settling tanks,
28. Cookers.

Products—
29. Miscellaneous,
30. Sugars only—
31. Lactose,
32. Modified starches—
33. Added chemical.

Processes—
34. Carbohydrate manufacture and refining—
35. Biochemical treatments,
36. Hydrolysis of carbohydrates—
37. Cellulose material,
38. Amylaceous material—
39. With preliminary purification of starch,
40. With purification of product,
41. Inversion of sucrose,
42. Sugar manufacture and refining—
43. Extracting from solid material—
44. Chemical treatment,
45. Counterflow,
46. Treatment of sacchariferous solutions—
47. Chemical precipitation of sucrose,
48. Chemical precipitation of impurities—
49. Impregnated absorbent,
50. Alkaline reagent followed by precipitant,
51. Acid reagent followed by precipitant,
52. Gassing,
53. Physical separation of impurities—
54. Dialysis,
55. Filtering or absorption,
56. Centrifuging,
57. Settling or flotation,
58. Crystallizing or solidifying—
59. Molding,
60. Seeding,
61. Evaporating to crystallization—
62. Return of intermediate products,
63. Treating solid sugar or crystals—
64. Purging or bleaching,
65. Starch manufacture and refining—
66. Tubers,
67. Treatment of starch-bearing material—
68. Steeping,
69. Treatment of amylaceous liquids—
70. Chemical,
71. Treating starch.

Establish, in Division XXXI, Class 159, Concentrating Evaporators, with the following subclasses and definitions, the patents contained in this class having been taken for the most part from class 127, Sugar and Salt, subclasses 9, Evaporating pans; 14, Refining Salt; 15, Refining sugar; 16, Salt making; and 18, Vacuum pans, hereinbefore abolished, and from various subclasses in classes 122, Liquid Heaters and Vaporizers; 257, Heat Exchange; and 261, Gas and Liquid Contact Apparatus:

159.—CONCENTRATING EVAPORATORS.
1. Miscellaneous.
2. Superheating and pressure release.
3. Spray type—
4. Gaseous current.
5. Film type—
6. Centrifugal,
7. Moving-film apport—
8. Gaseous current—
9. Rotary drum or disk—
10. Exterior surface,
11. Rotary drum or disk—
12. Inclosing chamber,
13. Moving film—
14. Climbing,
15. Zigzag.
16. Gaseous blast or current.
17. Multiple effects—
18. Superimposed,
19. Combined closed and open,
20. Variable or counter flow.
21. Combined closed and open pans,
22. Closed evaporating chambers—
23. Indirectly heated—
24. Regenerative,
25. Rotatable agitator or coil,
26. Heated tubes—
27. Vertical,
28. Heating elements,
29. Directly heated,
30. Samplers,
31. Liquid traps or separators.
32. Open pans—
33. With rakes,
34. Tiltable, removable, or portable,
35. Interposed liquid receptacle,
36. Steam and furnace heated,
37. Steam heated,
38. Furnace heated—
39. Liquid tubes in flue,
40. Flues in pan,
41. With dampers.
42. Strainers or skimmers.
43. Fluid feed or discharge devices—
44. Automatic.
45. Apparatus for graining and separating crystals.
46. Preliminary heaters and heat economizers.
47. Processes—
48. Spray,
49. Film,
50. Concentration and crystallization.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON, Commissioner.

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER No. 2,818.)

U. S. PATENT OFFICE, Washington, May 25, 1923.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 200, Electricity, Circuit Makers and Breakers (Division XXXVII), establish the following subclass and definition:

Thermal current—
115.5. Combined connector.

115.5. THERMAL CURRENT, COMBINED CONNECTOR. The thermal-current cut-out is incorporated as a part of or in combination with a connector.

Note.—Connectors generally are classified in class 173 ELECTRICITY, CONDUCTORS, subclass 324, Connectors, and the subclasses indented thereunder.

The patents contained in this subclass have been taken from various subclasses indented under subclass 324, Connectors, in class 173, Electricity, Conductors.

In class 200, Electricity, Circuit Makers and Breakers (Division XXXVII), subclass 114, Thermal current, Combined switch, abolish the existing definition and establish in lieu thereof the following definition:

In which the thermal element is combined with a switch or circuit controller.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON, Commissioner.

182.—SEWERAGE.
1. Miscellaneous.
2. Catch basins—
3. Liquid-seal outlet—
4. Automatic valve,
5. Automatic outlet valve,
6. Street-curb inlet.
Traps—
7. Liquid seal—
8. Refrigerator type,
9. Grease trap,
10. Hopper,
11. Air port,
12. Refiller,
13. Mercury seal,
14. Automatic valve—
15. Inlet,
16. Outlet,
17. Hand valve,
18. Plural connection,
19. Projecting inlet and outlet,
20. Projecting inlet,
21. Projecting outlet,
22. Flushing pipe,
23. Internal strainer,
24. Closures,
Valve seal—
25. Vertical pipe,
26. Horizontal pipe.
27. Air valves.
28. Flushers.
29. Cleaners.
30. Animal stops.
31. Grated inlets,

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON, Commissioner.

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER No. 2,820.)

U. S. PATENT OFFICE, Washington, June 6, 1923.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 182, Sewerage (Division XLIII), abolish the existing subclasses and establish in lieu thereof the following subclasses and definitions:

(ORDER No. 2,821.)

U. S. PATENT OFFICE, Washington, June 7, 1923.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 211, Store Furniture (Division VIII), abolish subclasses—

Cabinets—
41. Type—
42. Delivering.

The patents formerly contained in these subclasses have been placed for the most part in class 276, Type Setting, subclasses 44, Type cases, and 45, Type cases, Feeding, hereinafter established.

In class 276, Type Setting (Division XVII), establish the following subclasses and definitions, the patents contained therein having been taken for the most part from class 211, Store Furniture, subclasses 41, Cabinets, Type, and 42, Cabinets, Type, Delivering, hereinbefore abolished:

44. Type cases—
45. Feeding.

44. TYPE CASES. Means for holding or storing type for the compositor. Includes type cases proper and also accessories such as stands, cabinets, etc.

Search Classes—
199—TYPE CASTING, subclass 44, Integral line, Magazines.
211—STORE FURNITURE, subclass 7, Cabinets.

45. TYPE CASES, FEEDING. Means for feeding type to the delivery point of the holding means or means for delivering the type to be set up or stored.

Search this class, subclass 37.
Search Classes—
199—TYPE CASTING, subclasses 15, Integral line, Assembling and distributing, Multiple-magazine machines, and the subclasses indented thereunder; 19, Integral line, Assembling, Multiple-magazine machines, and the subclasses indented thereunder; and 44, Integral line, Magazines, and the subclasses indented thereunder.
211—STORE FURNITURE, subclass 8, Cabinets, Delivering.

In class 276, Type Setting (Division XVII), add to the main class definition, before the note, the words:

Also cabinets, trays, or other means for holding or storing type for the compositor, together with means for feeding the type to the delivery point of the holding means or from the type cabinet.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

TRADE-MARKS

OFFICIAL GAZETTE, JUNE 26, 1923.

[VOL. 311. No. 4.]

The following trade-marks are published in compliance with section 6 of the act of February 20, 1905, as amended March 2, 1907. Notice of opposition must be filed within thirty days of this publication.

Marks applied for "under the ten-year proviso" are registrable under the provision in clause (b) of section 5 of said act as amended February 18, 1911.

As provided by section 14 of said act, a fee of ten dollars must accompany each notice of opposition.

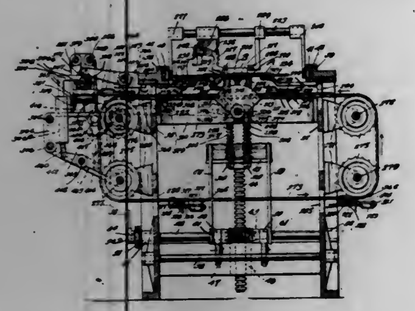
1,459,718. CAGE FOR ANTIFRICTION BEARINGS. GEORGE R. BOTT, New Rochelle, N. Y., assignor to Norma Company of America, Long Island City, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 24, 1920. Serial No. 398,772. 9 Claims. (Cl. 64—59.)



9. A bearing cage comprising separable spring metal units each having an annular body wall normally of shallow conical form, and provided upon its inner edge with spaced fingers extending in convergent relation to each other, and recesses alternately arranged with respect to said fingers, said units adapted for arrangement on opposite sides of a series of bearing elements and the body walls of said unit having means to retain the bearing elements in spaced relation to each other, said body walls adapted to be buckled inwardly beyond medial planes paralleling the common plane of rotation of the bearing elements to thereby cause the fingers of each unit to interlockingly engage with the recesses on the opposed unit and lock said units in assembled relation.

1. In a wrapping machine, a wrapper holder, feeding means adapted to singly remove wrappers from said wrapper holder and deposit said wrappers at a point removed from said wrapper holder, a support for said wrappers, means adapted to intermittently raise said support after each removal of said wrappers to maintain the uppermost wrappers in a predetermined plane, a plurality of paste applying means disposed above said wrapper holder, each comprising a reservoir, a paste roller adapted to receive paste therefrom, means adapted to constantly rotate said paste roller, a rotary paste applying brush member adapted to receive paste from said paste roller and apply said paste to successive wrappers at predetermined portions thereof prior to their removal from said wrapper holder, means adapted to deposit said articles to be wrapped in superimposed relation to said deposited wrappers, and means adapted to cause said wrappers to be wrapped and pasted about said articles.

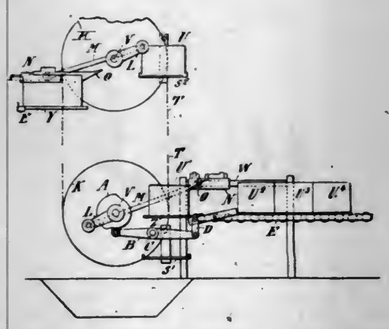
1,459,720. ACTUATING MEANS FOR MACHINE PLATENS. CONRAD M. CONRADSON, Madison, Wis., assignor to Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 24, 1919. Serial No. 333,053. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—27.)

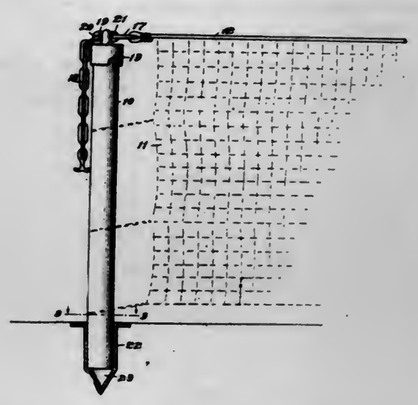


1. The combination of a frame having double walls and long journal bearings therethrough and oppositely inclined runways, a reciprocating platen having a base extending over the runways with oppositely inclined surfaces fitting those of the frame runways, a rack between the runways rigidly secured to the platen and a bull wheel having its axis journaled at both ends in said journal bearings and having sets of oppositely inclined cogs the cogs of one set being staggered relatively to the cogs of the other set and corresponding sets of cogs on the platen rack to intermesh with those on the wheel, herring bone gearing also journaled between the frame walls for driving the bull wheel whereby wear between the surfaces is taken up and chatter between the gearing and the rack is prevented.

1,459,721. METHOD OF TREATING CORRESPONDING PARTS OF PAIRS OF SHOES. NEWELL V. DYER, Holbrook, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Original application filed May 3, 1918, Serial No. 232,278. Divided and this application filed May 18, 1920. Serial No. 382,365. 2 Claims. (Cl. 101—32.)

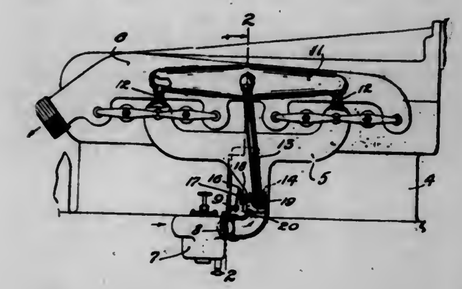
1. That improvement in the method of making shoe uppers which comprises the steps of preparing a pair of corresponding parts, one for a right and the other for a left shoe, assembling them with the outlines of the two parts substantially in registration with the grain side of one part in surface contact with the grain side of the other part so that each finished surface protects the other, and then simultaneously placing identifying symbols on the outer or flesh sides of the pair of parts to facilitate assembling said parts in the same pair of shoes.

1,459,722. AUTOMATIC CASE LIFT. ROLF AAGE ERSLEV, Copenhagen-Valby, Denmark. Filed Sept. 30, 1921. Serial No. 504,471. 3 Claims. (Cl. 198—20.)



1. An automatic case-lift including horizontal shafts carrying chain-wheels, endless chains passed around said wheels, lift-chairs suspended in said chains, horizontal tracks to and from the case-lift, horizontal reciprocating sliders operated by said chain-wheels and provided with noses for engaging cases, a rocking-member for the tilting of the cases directly operated by the chain-wheel shaft in front of the entrance-track, and stopping-noses on said rocking-member; substantially as and for the purpose specified.

1,459,723. MEANS FOR SUPPORTING AND TENSIONING TENNIS NETS AND THE LIKE. DOUGLAS VICTOR ESKELL, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 29, 1921. Serial No. 511,251. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—24.)



1. In a device for securing a tennis net cable under tension, the combination with an upright post and a tennis net provided with a cable, of adjustable means for securing the cable to the post, said means including a cap fitted to the upper end of the post and provided with a U-shaped link socket projecting upwardly therefrom and a link chain secured to the cable and adapted when the cable is stretched towards the post to have any of the links of the chain engaging in the socket thereby to hold the net in its stretched position.

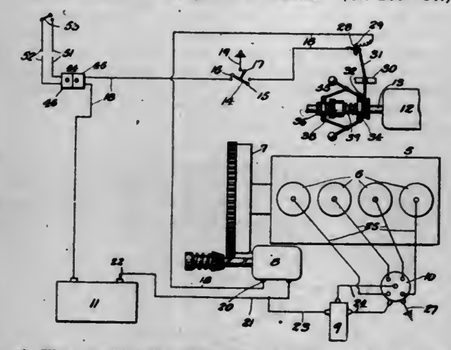
1,459,724. INTAKE MANIFOLD FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. HUGO P. FESENMAIER, Morton, Minn. Filed Dec. 10, 1921. Serial No. 521,359. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)

1. An intake manifold structure for internal combustion engines having two delivery conduits, one of which is arranged to be heated while the other remains relatively cold, a valve which when closed causes the vapor to pass through the heated conduit, a carburetor arranged to deliver to the conduits of said manifold structure, a main throttle valve for controlling the delivery of vapor from said carburetor to said manifold structure, and a connection between said two valves whereby said first noted valve will be moved to open position when said throttle valve is moved to substantially an extreme open position.



1,459,725. UNBREAKABLE NURSING BOTTLE. PHILIP W. FAEHAFER, Schuylkill Haven, Pa. Filed Oct. 2, 1922. Serial No. 591,884. 2 Claims. (Cl. 215—11.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of a metallic container, an inner fragile container, a perforate cap threadedly engaged with said metallic container adapted to have a liquid-tight contact with said fragile container, a tube removably secured in said cap, and a nipple gripped between said tube and said cap.

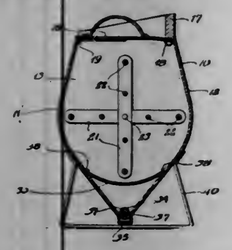
1,459,726. APPARATUS FOR AUTOMATICALLY STARTING ENGINES OF MOTOR VEHICLES. ALBERT GOODHEIM, West Hoboken, N. J. Filed July 15, 1920. Serial No. 396,558. 4 Claims. (Cl. 200—37.)

4. The combination with the ignition and starting mechanism circuits of the engine of a motor vehicle, of make and break devices in said circuits, a governor device adapted to operate said devices to control the opening and closing of the circuit therethrough whereby said governor device will operate to automatically close the starting mechanism circuit through said make and break devices to start the engine when stalled, a switch device for controlling said starting mechanism and ignition circuits, and another switch device in the circuit to the starting mechanism, said switch device being provided with means for normally closing said circuit, means involving circuit wires for opening the circuit through said last named switch device, and a switch device in the circuit wires of said last named means for controlling the circuit to said starting mechanism.

1,459,727. BOBBIN-ANTISPLITTING DEVICE. FRED B. GUYETTE and FREDERICK M. GUNN, Guild, N. H. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,934. 2 Claims. (Cl. 242—120.)



1. A device of the character specified including a bobbin stem having the usual annular reinforcing ribs and an annular groove spaced from the ribs and of a width substantially equal to the width of one of said ribs, a split band of resilient material fitted in said groove and of a width and thickness to fill said groove and project beyond the plane of the surface of the stem, said band adapted to reinforce and strengthen the stem.

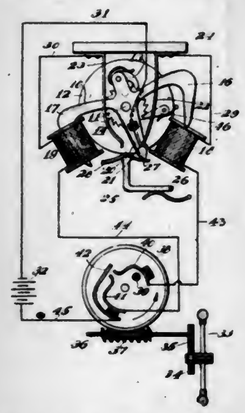
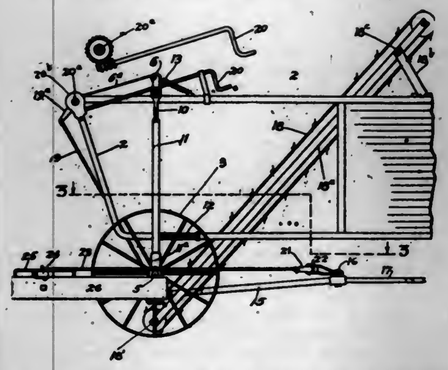
1,459,728. WASHING MACHINE. ZENO C. HABERMAN, Watertown, S. Dak. Filed Feb. 24, 1920. Serial No. 361,076. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—32.)

A device of the class described comprising a support, a receptacle having curved rear and front walls secured to said support, said rear wall being provided with a thickened portion extending above the upper edge of said front wall, laterally disposed flanges extending around the upper end of said receptacle on opposite sides of said thickened portion, a cover pivotally secured to the thickened portion of said rear walls, a depending flange extending from one end of said cover and adapted to engage the front wall of said receptacle, and a handle secured to the top of said cover.



1,459,729. ELECTRIC HEATER. WILLIAM S. HADAWAY, Jr., New Rochelle, N. Y. Filed Dec. 30, 1915, Serial No. 69,334. Renewed Oct. 27, 1921. Serial No. 510,947. 30 Claims. (Cl. 126—85.)

5. Heating apparatus comprising a member constructed to form a fuel combustion chamber and electro-responsive means for heating a carrier of oxygen prior to its ignition to a temperature required to initiate combustion of the fuel in said chamber and for discharging said heated carrier against said fuel to initiate combustion thereof.



26. The herein described method of heating which comprises heating a vapor by other means than by ignition thereof to a temperature above the ignition temperature of a fuel, applying a current of the heated vapor to the fuel, and admitting air to the point of combustion.

1,459,730. OPERATING MECHANISM FOR REGISTERS. FRANK C. HARRIS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 17, 1919. Serial No. 338,735. 9 Claims. (Cl. 235—92.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of a rocking member, a register, pawl and ratchet mechanism connecting said member and said register, a first electromagnetic device for moving said member in one direction, a second electromagnetic device for moving said member in the other direction, a source of current, an operating circuit extending from said source to each of said devices, a first switching mechanism for successively closing said circuits, a second switching mechanism actuated by said member for opening the circuit of said first device after its operation and placing the circuit of said second device in condition for operation by said first switching mechanism, and mechanical means for moving said member through the latter part of its motion in either direction.

1,459,731. FRAME FOR GATHERING MACHINES. HENRY HENDERSON, Halstad, Minn. Filed Nov. 15, 1918. Serial No. 262,671. 9 Claims. (Cl. 56—345.)

1. The combination, with a frame, and a forwardly and downwardly inclined pick-up elevator mounted therein, of carrying and guiding wheels for said frame, a yoke having its end portions supported by said wheels and straddling said frame and elevator, and means yieldingly connecting the sides of said frame with said yoke, and permitting relative oscillation of said yoke and said machine frame and elevator.

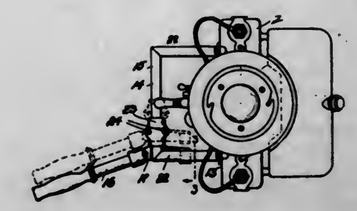
1,459,732. PROCESS FOR TREATING OILS. GERALD EDWIN HUGHES, Sr., Kansas City, Mo. Filed Feb. 14, 1921. Serial No. 444,935. 11 Claims. (Cl. 134—56.)

9. A method of making paints and varnishes including heating linseed oil with glue, in the proportions of one gallon of oil to one pound of glue, until action ceases, removing the glue, soaking the same in water to soften it, and heating the resultant jelly with kerosene in the proportions of one pound of the jelly to one gallon of kerosene, then mixing the treated linseed oil with the treated kerosene.



10. An oil for paints including linseed oil and kerosene treated with glue.

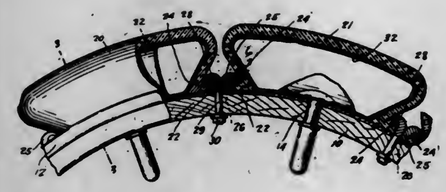
1,459,733. DRIER OR FILLER FOR PAINTS AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. GERALD EDWIN HUGHES, Sr., Kansas City, Mo. Original application filed Feb. 14, 1921, Serial No. 444,935. Divided and this application filed Mar. 17, 1922. Serial No. 544,680. 4 Claims. (Cl. 134—57.)

2. A filler for paint including glue preliminarily treated with linseed oil and kerosene, and then combined with resin and litharge.

4. The method of preparing a filler for paints which consists in heating glue with oil, separating the residue of the glue from the oil, mixing the same with resin and litharge, heating the mixture above the melting point of the resin, allowing the result to cool, and then grinding it.

1,459,734. TILLER FOR OUTBOARD MOTORS. LOUIS J. JOHNSON, Mishawaka, Ind., assignor to Johnson Bros. Engineering Corporation, South Bend, Ind. Filed Feb. 13, 1922. Serial No. 536,319. 4 Claims. (Cl. 115—17.)

1. The combination with an outboard motor movable in a vertical plane and in a horizontal plane, of a tiller for controlling said motor in its movement, said tiller being pivotally connected to the motor and movable upwardly in a vertical plane, limiting means for limiting the downward movement of the tiller in a vertical plane and means whereby said tiller may be moved transversely and swung upwardly and downwardly in a vertical plane.



1,459,735. CLOSURE FOR ICE BAGS. HENRY P. KRAFT, Ridgewood, N. J., assignor to A. Schrader's Son, Incorporated, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 31, 1919. Serial No. 286,346. 4 Claims. (Cl. 24—30.5.)

1. A closure for ice bags or the like, comprising two members pivoted together at one end and adapted to embrace between them the opposite sides of the neck of the bag, one of the members being of concave form and having longitudinal beaded edges on its side which engages the bag and the other being of convex form on such side whereby to enter the concavity in the first, and means for detachably connecting the free ends of said members.

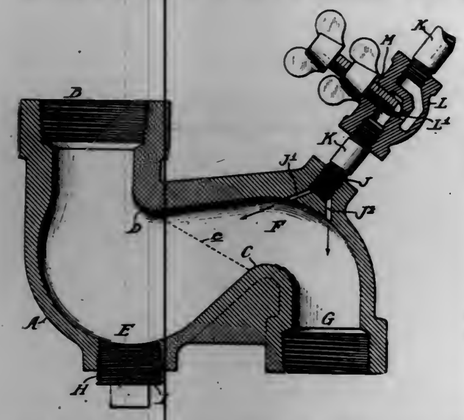
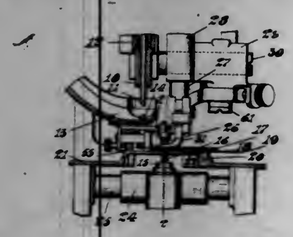
1,459,736. VEHICLE WHEEL. SAMUEL KRAMER, Newark, N. J. Filed July 8, 1921. Serial No. 483,198. 3 Claims. (Cl. 152—22.)



1. A vehicle wheel tread comprising, in combination with the felly and channelled rim, a plurality of segmental shoes provided with undercut ends disposed on said rim between the flanged sides thereof, an inflatable element in each shoe, independent inlet valves for each inflatable element, said valves extending through said rim and felly, means fixed to said rim for engaging one of the undercut ends of said shoes and means removably engaging said rim and felly for clamping the opposite undercut ends of said shoes.

1,459,737. TRACK SANDER. RALPH A. LIGHT and JOSEPH W. PRICE, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa., assignors to The United States Metallic Packing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 27, 1922. Serial No. 597,240. 3 Claims. (Cl. 291—11.)



1. A track sander comprising a trap adapted to receive sand by gravity from a sand box and having a bowl wherein the sand is normally retained, a discharge opening separated from the bowl by an upwardly extending wall and a passage connecting the bowl and discharge opening over the wall, in combination with a blast nozzle located in the connecting passage above the normal sand level therein and directed toward the bowl portion of the trap.

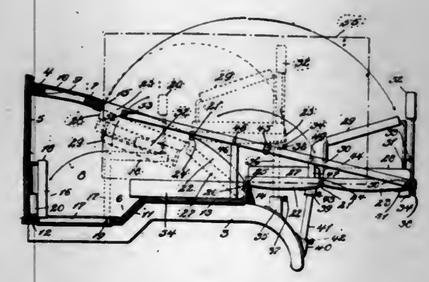
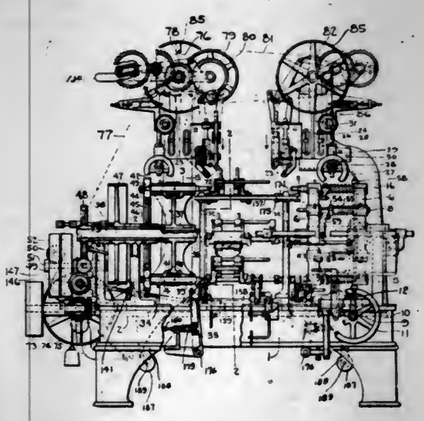
1,459,738. MACHINE FOR INSERTING EYELETS. JAMES E. MCINTIRE, Weymouth, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 20, 1919. Serial No. 339,364. 30 Claims. (Cl. 218—15.)



30. In a fastener-inserting machine having work-feeding mechanism, an adjustable unit comprising a gage for indicating the initial position for a leading portion of the work and means for guiding an edge of the work during the feeding thereof.

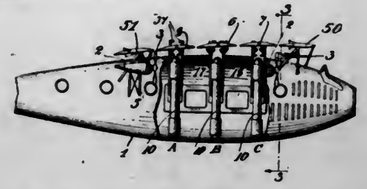
1,459,739. WRENCH. JOHN B. MENZL, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Feb. 15, 1922. Serial No. 536,615. 15 Claims. (Cl. 81—129.)



1. In a wrench, a handle for supporting and manipulating said wrench, a jaw pivotally mounted on said handle, a second jaw movable toward and from the said pivoted jaw, and a device movable relatively to said handle and controlled by the relative movement of the pivoted jaw and the handle to control the movement of said second jaw.

1,459,740. VEHICLE BODY. FRANK J. MUECK, St. Louis, Mo., assignor to The Mueck Auto Body Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Sept. 22, 1922. Serial No. 590,214. 2 Claims. (Cl. 296—66.)

1. In combination with a hollow tonneau, a closure for said tonneau composed of parts rotatively secured together, said closure rotatively secured to said tonneau at its one extremity, means of selectively securing the closure of said tonneau in a horizontal position external to said tonneau.

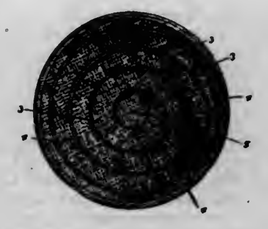


1,459,741. MACHINE FOR FINISHING FLANGED ARTICLES. JOHN M. NASH, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Feb. 17, 1921. Serial No. 445,580. 39 Claims. (Cl. 51—145.)

1. A machine for sanding flanged members, disks and similar articles comprising means for successively presenting and continuously rotating such articles, and means for sanding the outer peripheries thereof, said last means adapted for adjustment, whereby either a cylindrical surface or a rounded corner may be produced upon the outer peripheries of said articles.

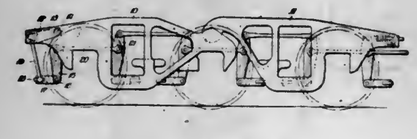
2. A machine for sanding flanged members, disks and similar articles, comprising means for rotating said articles, a sanding belt adapted to travel across the margins thereof, and means for varying the point of application of the belt upon the margins.

1,459,742. AIRSHIP. JOHN NEFF, Sr., West Hoboken, N. J. Filed Oct. 27, 1921. Serial No. 510,778. 14 Claims. (Cl. 244—13.)



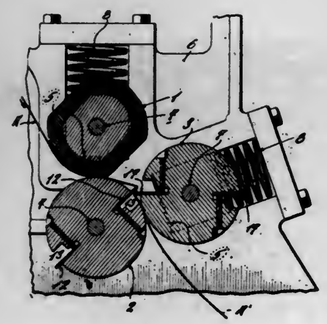
1. In an aero vehicle, in combination, a pair of relatively flat reciprocating wings, sets of valves in said wings each set mounted on a common pivot, and means for rotating said pivotes to open said valves at one part of the reciprocatory movement of the wings and to close said valves at another part of said movement.

1,459,743. TONE ARM. FRANK OBERST, Glendale, N. Y., assignor to Sonora Phonograph Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed June 6, 1919. Serial No. 302,105. 1 Claim. (Cl. 274—23.)



A tone-arm for talking machines, comprising a horizontally swinging main portion provided at its outer end with a barrel having an integral head closing one end thereof and open and interiorly screw-threaded at its other end, said barrel having a circumferential slot, a swivel head having a radial bore and adapted to be fitted endwise in the barrel through the open end thereof, an extension for said tone-arm adapted to be inserted through the slot in said barrel and detachably fixed in the bore of said swivel head, an absorbent lubricant containing washer fitted in the open end of said swivel head, and a plug cap for the open end of said barrel having a reduced externally screwthreaded portion adapted to engage the interiorly screwthreaded end of the barrel to hold the washer and swivel head in place and provided with a milled flange adapted to engage the edge of the barrel and substantially of the same diameter and flush with the outer circumference of the barrel.

1,459,744. FLEXIBLE PACKING AND PROCESS FOR MAKING IT. JAMES OSTRANDER, Indianapolis, Ind., assignor to Grapho-Metal Packing Company, Indianapolis, Ind., a Corporation. Filed Dec. 9, 1920. Serial No. 429,349. 20 Claims. (Cl. 154—45.5.)

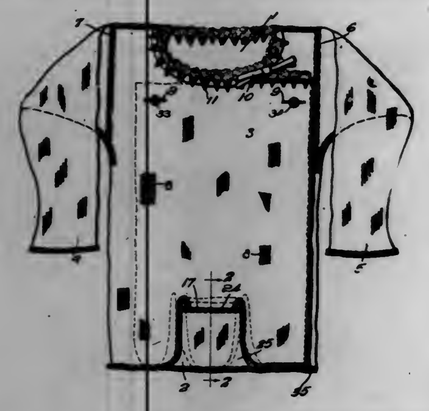


1. The process of manufacturing packing, which consists in impregnating a sheet of fibrous material with a lubricant, spreading a layer of metallic packing composition thereon, rolling said sheet to form a mass, and compressing said mass into any desired shape.

1,459,745. BRAKE MECHANISM. ARMAND H. PEYCKE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to American Steel Foundries, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 18, 1920. Serial No. 417,684. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—205.)

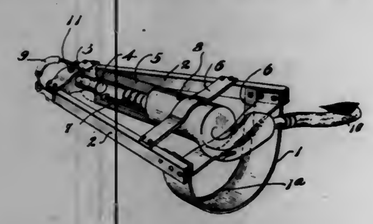
5. In a railway car truck, the combination of oppositely arranged side frames, a member connecting said side frames, and lever supporting means carried by said connecting member on substantially the same level, one in the plane of an associated truck wheel and the other located laterally with respect to said plane.

1,459,746. WEB-SEVERING DEVICE. CHARLES F. PFLANZE, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Dec. 17, 1919. Serial No. 345,605. 17 Claims. (Cl. 164—66.)



1. In a device for feeding and severing a traveling web of paper, a rotary severing blade movable with the traveling web, and a rotary tightening blade also movable with the traveling web, said bladea being engaged with opposite sides of the traveling web so that the edge of the rotary tightening blade will intersect the path of said severing blade to tighten said web on the severing blade, said tightening blade having a smooth edge engaging the web and said severing blade being provided with a serrated edge which engages the web.

1,459,747. INFANT'S GARMENT. HARRIET LYONS REDMOND, Boston, Mass., assignor to The William Carter Company, Needham Heights, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed June 16, 1921. Serial No. 478,153. 2 Claims. (Cl. 2—41.)



2. An infant's shirt having overlapping front portions, the under portion being provided at its lower end with a transverse slit and the upper portion with a reentrant or cut-out 25 having a tab 26 of substantially the width of said cut-out and adapted to be passed through said transverse slit, the back of the garment having attached thereto a tab 30, said tabs being adapted to have a diaper or the like attached thereto.

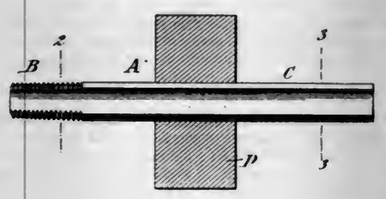
1,459,748. PNEUMATIC EARTH SCRAPER. LEIGH RANDALL RHODES, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Nov. 10, 1920. Serial No. 423,047. 11 Claims. (Cl. 37—1.)

1. A portable hand controlled earth excavating device of the character described, including an earth scraping blade, a frame carrying the blade and providing a means for pulling the blade through the earth, and a power operating driving element mounted upon and carried by the frame.

1,459,749. CASKET. WILLIAM J. RILEY, St. Louis, Mo. Filed July 17, 1922. Serial No. 575,584. 1 Claim. (Cl. 27—8.)



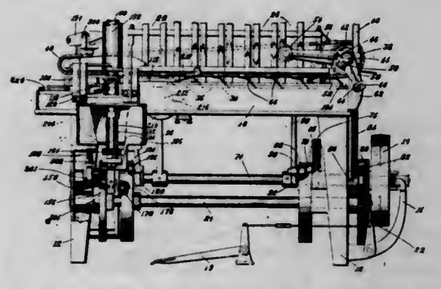
A casket having an opaque monolithic body portion and transparent plate glass cover, the edges of the plate glass cover being beveled and the upper edges of the body portion being beveled permitting the lid or cover to be fused to the body portion so that the surface of the lid or cover will be flush with the sides of the body portion.

1,459,750. SHIRT RETAINER. DAVID SCHREIBER, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 10, 1921. Serial No. 491,066. 1 Claim. (Cl. 241—3.)

A shirt retainer adapted to be worn interiorly of the trousers and exteriorly of the shirt, comprising a body encircling strap, a portion intermediate the ends of which constitutes a frictional section adapted to overlie the lumbar region of the body and frictionally engage the shirt and the remainder of which strap is elastic, and cooperating attaching means associated with the free ends of the strap to permit the ends to be secured together with the elastic portions of the strap under tension around the body over the shirt and beneath the trousers.

1,459,751. TOOL FOR TIRE VALVES OR THE LIKE. MAXIMILIAN CHARLES SCHWEINERT, New York, N. Y. Original application filed Feb. 24, 1915, Serial No. 10,346. Divided and this application filed May 28, 1920. Serial No. 384,907. 3 Claims. (Cl. 10—141.)

1. A tap comprising a rod of channeled metal having a shank of uniform diameter, and having cutting threads formed at one end, said threaded end being of less diameter than said unthreaded portion, and the unthreaded shank being of undiminished dimensions.



1,459,752. SPECIFIC-GRAVITY INDICATOR. ROBINSON P. SEARLE, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Feb. 2, 1921. Serial No. 441,749. 2 Claims. (Cl. 265—45.)

1. A device of the class described for testing the specific gravity of a liquid which should be maintained at a desired standard, said device comprising an elongated buoyant member having one end weighted relative to the other, the weight being such that the weighted end will not sink if the liquid has a specific gravity corresponding to that of the desired standard, the member then floating in a horizontal position but taking various angular positions in liquids having lesser specific gravity than that of the standard.

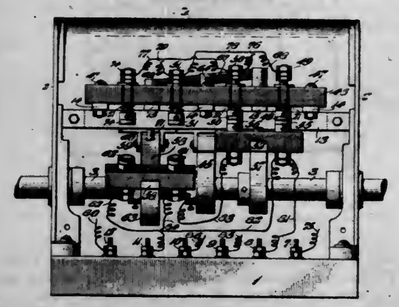
1,459,753. HEEL-BUILDING MACHINE. RALPH C. SIMMONS, Beverly, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Original application filed Oct. 24, 1918, Serial No. 259,578. Renewed Dec. 2, 1920. Serial No. 427,847. 28 Claims. (Cl. 12—50.)

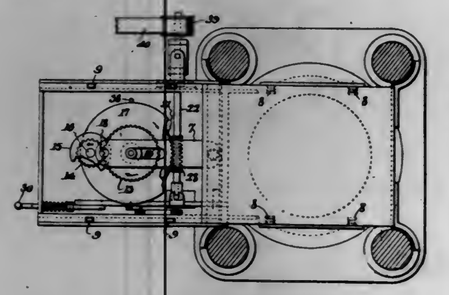
1. In a heel building machine, the combination of a series of lift magazines, a support adjacent to the magazines, means for removing a series of lifts from the magazines and depositing them upon the support in spaced relation, means for receiving a heel pile and means movable in one direction only for advancing said series of lifts along the support in spaced relation and delivering them one upon another to said receiving means.

1,459,754. PACKAGED ARTICLE. WILLIAM HENRY SMITH, Boston, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 30, 1919. Serial No. 334,551. 2 Claims. (Cl. 216—46.)



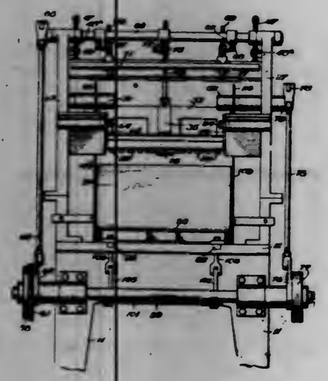
1. A package of rubber heels which have the size marks on the tread faces thereof comprising a pair of heels superposed one upon the other with their heel seat faces abutting and their tread faces exposed, and a piece of tape of a width not greater than the combined heights of the heels wrapped about the edges of the heels and fastened to said edges whereby the heels are held from separation and the tread face of each heel is exposed to view to permit the color and size of the heels to be learned from inspection.

1,459,755. CARRYING HANDLE FOR CAMERAS. CHARLES F. SPEIDEL, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 16, 1922. Serial No. 582,122. 3 Claims. (Cl. 95—11.)



1. In a carrying handle, the combination with a body to be supported, having spaced bearings and spring actuated links mounted at their lower ends in the bearings to normally swing downwardly against the body, of a hand grip adapted to lie close against the body between the bearings and having longitudinal slots in its ends through which the outer ends of the links extend in sliding engagement.

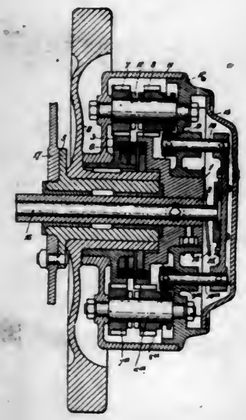
1,459,756. ELECTRICAL CONTROLLING MECHANISM. HARRY E. STAHL, Trenton, N. J., assignor to The Willey Company, Incorporated, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 23, 1922. Serial No. 590,120. 5 Claims. (Cl. 172—240.)



1. The combination with a motor having a double winding to effect its rotation in either direction, of a controller comprising a driven shaft, a cam thereon having a plurality of cam faces, a rock arm actuated by said cam, contacts carried by said rock arm, resistance controlled by said contacts, a pair of rock arms, contacts thereon, cams on said shaft to actuate in timed relationship each of said pair of rock arms, resiliently mounted contacts to co-operate with the contacts of said rocker arms, and electrical connections with said contacts and motor windings whereby the direction of rotation of the motor is changed during the rotation of said driven shaft.

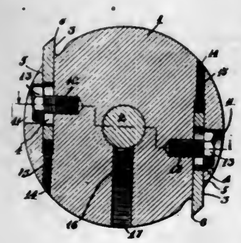
1,459,757. SEMIAUTOMATIC TABLE-MOVING ATTACHMENT FOR PRESSES. FRANCIS E. STEVENSON, Mount Gilead, Ohio, assignor to The Hydraulic Press Manufacturing Company, Mount Gilead, Ohio. Filed Nov. 19, 1921. Serial No. 516,500. 12 Claims. (Cl. 192—139.)

1. In a device of the class described, a reciprocating table, an arm connected to said table, a housing, a pin rigidly mounted therein, said arm having a slot engaging said pin and means for giving said arm a longitudinal movement and a rotary movement about said pin, thereby reciprocating said table.



1,459,758. BLANK FEED FOR SLITTERS. CLARENCE M. SYMONDS, San Anselmo, Calif., assignor to American Can Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 12, 1919. Serial No. 303,663. 5 Claims. (Cl. 271—10.)

1. The combination of slitting rolls, means for feeding sheets horizontally thereto, a stack holder above said rolls, means for lifting sheets edgewise upward from said stack holder and releasing them to drop edgewise by gravity, means for guiding the sheets downwardly and rearwardly to said horizontally feeding means so that the formerly top edges of the sheets are presented towards the slitting rolls, and actuating mechanism for operating said lifting means and horizontally feeding means and slitting rolls.



1,459,759. MEANS FOR STARTING, STOPPING, AND DRIVING MACHINERY. EMILE JOHN WELLFENS, Manchester, England. Filed Aug. 1, 1922. Serial No. 578,979. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)

1. A device of the class described, comprising, in combination, a driving member and a driven member, a sun wheel secured to said driven member for rotation therewith, a second sun wheel rotatable relative to said driven member, a resilient connection between said sun wheels, pairs of planetary pinions carried by said driving member, the pinions of each pair being in mesh with the respective sun wheels and having cooperating clutch members, and means for shifting one pinion of each pair thereby to bring the clutch members into operative engagement, the ratio of the gearing being such that when the clutch members are in engagement the resilient connection will be placed under tension by the rotation of the driving member.

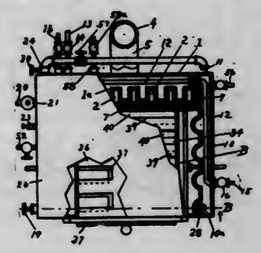
1,459,760. CUTTER HEAD. HARRY G. ALDRIDGE, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Huther Bros. Saw Mfg. Co., Inc., Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 23, 1922. Serial No. 545,953. 2 Claims. (Cl. 144—225.)

1. In a cutter, the combination with a cylindrical head having slots therein lying in chords of the circumference, of knives occupying the slots and separate end plates clamped to the head and provided with channels in which the sides of the knives are seated.



1,459,761. PORTABLE HOUSE. CHARLES W. ANDREWS, Spokane, Wash. Filed Apr. 12, 1921. Serial No. 460,710. 4 Claims. (Cl. 20—2.)

1. The combination in a knock-down house with an end sill and grooved side sill having complementary mortises and intercepting mortises in the upper face of the grooved side sill, of grooved studs seated in said intercepting mortises, an upper beam supported on said studs and provided with a groove in its under face, side boards having their edges in said grooved members, a roof member comprising notched rafters, means for keying said rafters to said upper beam, and tie rods extending through said rafters, beam and sill.

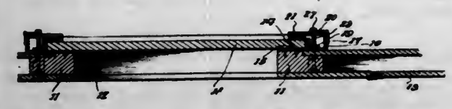
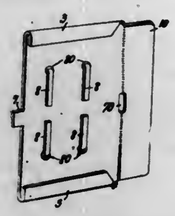
1,459,762. TRIUNE HEAT EQUIPMENT FOR THE HOME. OLIVER S. BOWMAN, Colorado Springs, Colo. Filed May 13, 1922. Serial No. 560,764. 40 Claims. (Cl. 126—5.)



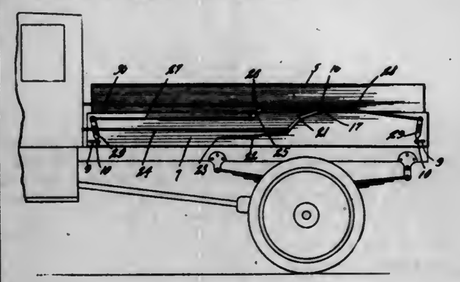
1. In an equipment of the class described, in combination; a rear wall, comprising a vertical water chamber, having vertical grooves in the front thereof; an insulation wall disposed in front of said grooves, thereby forming downwardly-extending flues; for the purposes set forth.

1,459,763. CORD HOLDER. JOHN W. BROWN and JAMES N. FITZSIMMONS, Newark, Ohio. Filed Feb. 1, 1922. Serial No. 533,320. 2 Claims. (Cl. 242—141.)



1. In a cord holder, a frame including depending sides, a base plate connecting the lower ends of said sides, wings provided upon the ends of said base plate, a pivotal connection between said wings and the sides of said frame, and a rigidly mounted cord receiving member arising centrally from said base plate.

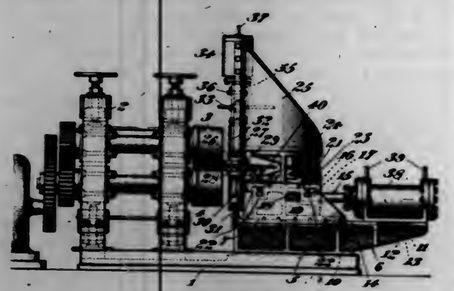
1,459,764. CAR-DOOR CLAMP. JAMES E. COSSAIRT, Platte Center, Nebr. Filed June 24, 1922. Serial No. 570,602. 4 Claims. (Cl. 20—30.)



2. The combination with the wall of a car having a door opening therein, of a door fitting across said opening, a supporting member on the inner side of the wall of the car, a jamb on the inner side of the wall of the car between the door opening and the supporting member, a flap swingingly attached to the supporting member and adapted to overlap the edge of the door and bear flat against the inner side of the door, and means mounted in the jamb and housed in the wall of the car and engaging the flap to bind the same against the door and the door against the wall of the car.

1,459,765. INTERCHANGEABLE SIGN LETTERS. WORDSWORTH M. ELLIOTT, Crete, and SHELDON E. COOK, Lincoln, Nebr. Filed Mar. 18, 1922, Serial No. 544,818. Renewed Nov. 28, 1922. 7 Claims. (Cl. 40—140.)

1. A formative indicator composed of a plurality of units each of like contour and each comprising a body portion on which is received a letter or character, the said body portion having an extension at one side and having its upper and lower edges back-turned to form keeper flanges, the keeper flanges of one unit being adapted for telescopically receiving the side extension of another unit, and means on the two units for holding them together.



1,459,766. GRAVEL DUMP. THEODORE AUGUST HARTUNG, Austin, Tex. Filed Jan. 25, 1922. Serial No. 531,785. 1 Claim. (Cl. 298—33.)

In a wagon body, side and end members, said end members having slotted portions formed in the inner surface thereof adjacent to their lower edges, locking plates adapted to slide within the slotted portions, means at each end of each locking plate for moving the locking plates within the slotted portions throughout their entire lengths of the locking plates, a sectional bottom, the sections of the bottom being pivotally supported, means for moving the sections of the bottom to their active positions, and the ends of said sections adapted to rest on the locking plates to hold the sections of the bottom in their active positions.

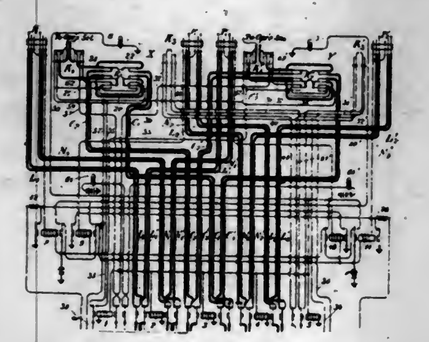
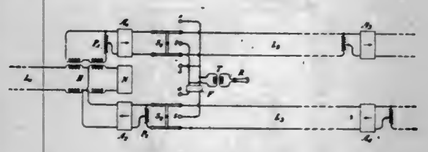
1,459,767. DISK-ROLLING MACHINE. HENRY Y. HILDEBRAND, Johnstown, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Bethlehem Steel Products Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 3, 1920, Serial No. 378,631. Renewed Aug. 8, 1922. Serial No. 580,566. 3 Claims. (Cl. 80—16.)

3. In a disk rolling machine, a pair of overhung rolls, means for rotating the same, a base, a guide frame mounted longitudinally thereon, the guides of which extend longitudinally thereof in the general direction of the roll axes, a carriage slidably mounted on said guide-frame, fluid-pressure operated means for advancing and retracting said carriage, a superstructure mounted upon said carriage, means for adjusting said superstructure transversely of said carriage, a pair of opposed rotatable clamping jaws mounted on said superstructure and fluid-pressure operated means adapted to advance, retract and hold one of said clamping jaws.



1,459,768. ANCHOR. FREDERICK JAMES JACKSON, Auckland, New Zealand. Filed June 16, 1922. Serial No. 568,808. 1 Claim. (Cl. 114—207.)

An anchor comprising a shank formed with a stop at one end and acting when the anchor is in operative position and an eye at the other end; an elongated link attached to said eye and a ring connected to said link and serving as a stop when the anchor is folded; a head provided with flukes, slidable on the shank and said link between the first mentioned stop and the ring and a flexible element attached to said ring.



1,459,769. REPEATER CIRCUITS. OLIVER B. JACOBS, East Orange, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 17, 1919. Serial No. 297,866. 17 Claims. (Cl. 179—170.)

1. In a signaling system, a repeater, a plurality of lines, manual switching apparatus at one operator's position for associating said repeater with any one of said lines, a second manual switching apparatus at another operator's position for associating said repeater with one of a plurality of lines, and means for placing said repeater under the control of either switching apparatus.

1,459,770. SYSTEM FOR TESTING LINE BALANCE. ALVA L. JONES, Asbury Park, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 15, 1921. Serial No. 515,369. 10 Claims. (Cl. 179—175.)

1. The method of measuring unbalance between a two-wire line and its network at the junction with a four-wire line having repeater elements therein, which consists in disconnecting said repeater elements on their sides away from the two-wire line and connecting them in tandem, and adjusting their gain to the singing point.

1,459,771. METHOD AND MACHINE FOR FORMING SHEET TILING. WILLIAM J. KENT, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to The Mechanical Rubber Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 12, 1922. Serial No. 581,355. 7 Claims. (Cl. 154—1.)

1. A machine for forming sheets from relatively long strips of material which comprises a table along which the strips and sheet are moved in a definite path in the formation of the sheet, a supply magazine set at an inclined angle to said path for supporting a stack of strips with their longitudinal edges at said inclined angle, a pusher device set at said inclined angle for engaging the successive strips of the stack, and means for moving said pusher device in said path for applying said strips to the partially formed sheet upon the table.

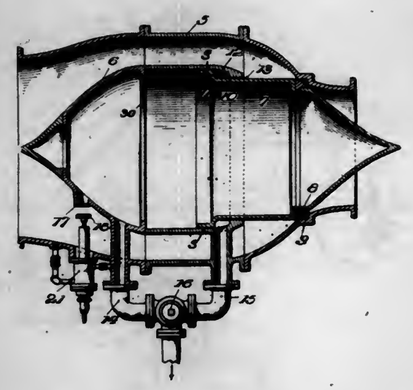
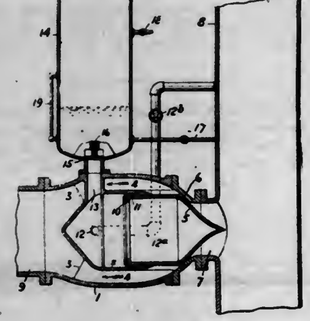
1,459,772. WINDOW-SHADE ROLLER. CHARLES W. KIRSCH, Sturgis, Mich. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,334. 3 Claims. (Cl. 150—25.)



2. A window shade roller provided in its outer face with a groove extending from end to end thereof, the walls of said groove presenting sharp corners where they meet the circumferential face of the roller, projections extending into the ends of said groove, spaced from the bottom and side walls thereof, a plurality of arcuate spring members adapted to yieldably embrace the roller and each terminating at one end in a projection adapted to engage in said groove the shade adapted to be depressed at one end portion into said groove and held engaged therein by the projections of said spring members, the latter slidable longitudinally of the roller while engaged with the shade whereby the members nearest adjacent the ends of the roller may be moved to bring the projections thereof into engaging relation to the projections extending into the ends of said groove, the latter preventing said projections from being sprung out of said groove, the sharp corners aforesaid coacting with said spring members to prevent slippage of the shade.

1,459,773. PROCESS FOR RECOVERING THE RESIDUAL SOAP FROM CARBONATE-OF-LIME SLUDGE. PETER KREBITZ, Munich, Germany. Original application filed June 15, 1921, Serial No. 477,787. Divided and this application filed Nov. 16, 1922. Serial No. 601,391. 1 Claim. (Cl. 87—16.)

In the herein described process of recovering residual soap from carbonate of lime sludge, the step which consists in adding to the sludge a sufficient quantity of resin soap so that the entire soap content of the sludge will consist of at least twenty per cent of saponified resin.



1,459,774. PLUNGER VALVE. CHESTER W. LARNER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to The William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 22, 1918. Serial No. 213,171. 11 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)

3. In a valve comprising a body, a fixed hollow valve element spaced from the body to afford a fluid way, a hollow plunger valve element adapted to co-operate with the body as a seat and forming with the fixed element an internal chamber and an annular chamber, and in combination therewith, a communication stopping short of the body and provided through the wall of the fixed element only and between the fluid way and said internal chamber whereby pressure is supplied to said internal chamber to close the plunger element to its seat when pressure beyond the plunger falls as by leakage due to a break, substantially as described.

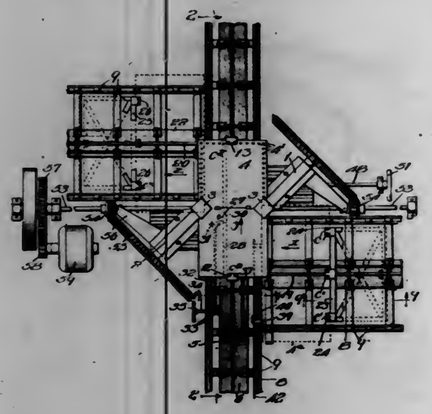
1,459,775. PRESSURE-RELIEF VALVE. CHESTER W. LARNER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to The William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 7, 1920. Serial No. 428,882. 12 Claims. (Cl. 137—53.)



1. A relief valve comprising the combination of a body containing an internal cylinder closed at one end and having between it and the body an annular water way through which pressure is relieved, an air tank communicating with the cylinder, and a piston arranged in the cylinder and co-operating with the body as a valve seat and having differential areas of which one is exposed to the pressure to be relieved and of which the other is exposed to the pressure in the tank to normally hold the valve closed.

1,459,776. PLATE-PUNCHING MACHINE. GEORGE LASKER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 8, 1919. Serial No. 336,700. 19 Claims. (Cl. 164—117.)

1. In a mechanism of the kind described and in combination, punch mechanism, and means for guiding and intermittently feeding the work to be punched to said punch mechanism in a predetermined manner in a plurality of transversely intersecting directions, the feeding movements automatically moving the work a distance equal to the spacing between punch holes.

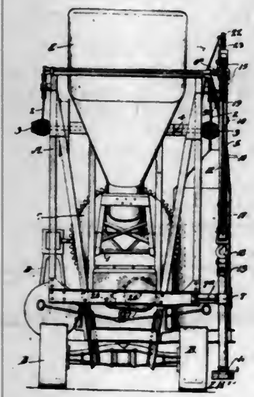
1,459,777. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR THE CHLORINATION OF METHANE (CH_4). RICHARD LEISER and FRITZ ZIFFER, Vienna, Austria. Filed Feb. 14, 1920. Serial No. 358,716. 2 Claims. (Cl. 260—166.)

1. In the process of manufacturing methyl-chlorid from methane and chlorin gas, exposing a mixture of methane containing gas with chlorin gas in the presence of an excess of methane in the proportion of one volume of chlorin to about six volumes of methane to the action of actinic light with starting the reaction by external heating.



1,459,778. TEMPLE FOR EYEGLASSES. THOMAS LEYTHAM, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Shur-On Optical Company, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 27, 1922. Serial No. 590,971. 2 Claims. (Cl. 18—59.)

1. The method of forming temples for ophthalmic mountings which consists in expanding a tubular body member at one end, inserting into the tubular body member a reinforcing wire substantially throughout the length of the latter and a filling piece in the expanded end, and molding the parts to the desired shape.

1,459,779. LOADING DEVICE. ERICH H. LICHTENBERG, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Koehring Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed June 17, 1920. Serial No. 389,632. 19 Claims. (Cl. 212—51.)

1. In a lifting crane of the character described, the combination with a movably mounted supporting frame, of a mast slidably mounted thereon and adapted to engage the ground when in a lowered position, means for holding the mast in an elevated position operable automatically to permit the mast to engage the ground when a load is imposed thereon, and batch box engaging means associated with the mast.

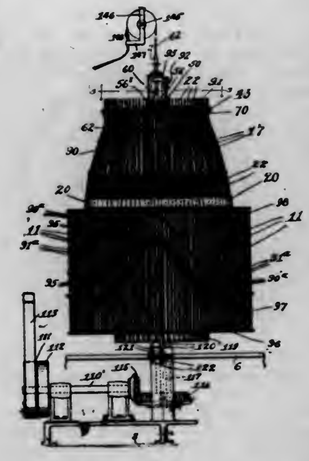
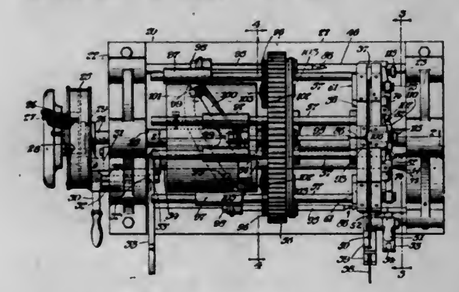
1,459,780. UPHOLSTERING PADDING. ADOLPH H. LICHTER, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 21, 1919. Serial No. 305,842. 7 Claims. (Cl. 155—184.)



1. An upholstering padding having raised tufted portions consisting of a layer of loose fibrous tufting material secured by stitches between a sheet material and a freely extensible sheet material that will extend to conform to the raised portions of the upholstering padding and tufts while stitching.

1,459,781. REED-WEAVING MACHINE. MARSHALL B. LLOYD, Menominee, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Heywood-Wakefield Company, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 28, 1917. Serial No. 171,431. 39 Claims. (Cl. 139—14.)



7. An apparatus for weaving reed fabric and the like embodying therein fabric limiting means against which the fabric is formed, means for holding the stakes in weaving relation thereto, means having a plurality of grooves in alignment with the stake holding means for receiving the free ends of the stakes and normally retaining them, means for actuating the free ends of the desired stakes to project them from said grooves, means for holding the ejected stakes in ejected position for a period to permit placement of the filler strand, and means for inserting the filler strand, whereby a fabric can be formed as a separate unit apart from the fabric limiting means.

1,459,782. MACHINE FOR MAKING HAIR WAVERS. EVARTS G. LOOMIS, Newark, N. J., assignor to Brett Manufacturing Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 14, 1920. Serial No. 373,743. 15 Claims. (Cl. 140—71.)

1. In a machine for making hair wavers, the combination with a movable element adapted to support and progressively advance a strand of wire, of sets of complementary clamps and cutters arranged in spaced relation to each other and in proximity to the path of the wire, means for progressively actuating said clamps and cutters during the travel of the wire, whereby the wire is clamped and cut at intervals to produce predetermined lengths, and mechanism, including rotary and longitudinally movable wire engaging devices, whereby each succeeding wire length is doubled upon itself and longitudinally twisted.

1,459,783. MAILING TUBE. JOSEPH LOUFEK, Keokuk, Iowa, assignor to Iowa Can Company, Keokuk, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed Oct. 15, 1921. Serial No. 507,888. 2 Claims. (Cl. 229—40.)

1. A mailing tube comprising a tubular container having an open end provided with a plurality of diametrically-opposite perforations through the wall of the tube in spaced relation to the open end thereof, a closure cap fitting the said open end of the tube, and a single cord passed through the perforations and formed with a pair of loops, said loops being engaged with each other and crossing at the center of the cap, the ends of the cord being secured together.

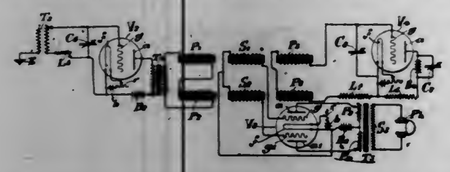
1,459,784. POWDER-DISPENSING BOX. JOSEPH LOUFEK, Keokuk, Iowa, assignor to Iowa Can Company, Keokuk, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed Dec. 28, 1921. Serial No. 525,425. 1 Claim. (Cl. 43—146.)

A box for dispensing powders, insecticides or the like comprising an open-ended paste board cylinder forming a body member, a concavo-convex head mounted at each end of the cylinder, with the convex side outwardly, each head being formed of paste board and having an integral, depending flange adapted to embrace the ends of the cylinder, each head having impressed on its inner, concave side radially disposed ribs formed of the material of the head and adapted to strengthen the same and retain the normal concavo-convex form under-pressure, the outer faces of each head being smooth.

1,459,785. MATCH BOX. THOMAS G. LOVEGROVE, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Dec. 21, 1920. Serial No. 432,232. 4 Claims. (Cl. 206—33.)



1. A match box consisting of a body and a cover therefor, said body being adapted to contain therein matches and a match-striking surface, said cover being hinged at one end to said body and having therein near the other end thereof a passage which is adapted to form a communication with and expose said match-striking surface, the walls of said passage being continued inwardly toward the striking surface.

1,459,786. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR ELECTRICAL COMMUNICATION. DAVID G. MCCAA, Lancaster, Pa., assignor of one-third to Federal Telegraph Compnay, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Jan. 19, 1920. Serial No. 352,463. 8 Claims. (Cl. 250—8.)

1. The method of electrically transmitting intelligence, which consists in producing high frequency oscillations, modulating the amplitude thereof at a constant frequency above audibility, controlling the same to represent the intelligence to be transmitted, impressing the energy upon a transmitting medium, receiving the energy from said transmitting medium and effecting thereby current of said constant modulation frequency, impressing said current upon different paths whose joint effect upon a translating instrument is substantially nil, causing to react with said current locally produced current waves of frequency producing equal and opposite beats of constant frequency, and causing said beats to affect said signal translating instrument cumulatively.

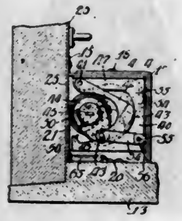
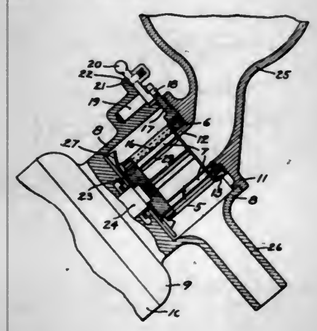
1,459,787. UMBRELLA RACK. FRANK R. MCGEE, Steubenville, Ohio. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,912. 3 Claims. (Cl. 45—33.)



2. An umbrella rack comprising in combination a plurality of wall bracket members adapted to be rigidly secured to a supporting structure, said bracket members comprising a back plate, an integral upwardly and outwardly convexly curved hook portion projecting from the upper edge of said back plate, and an integral outwardly projecting lug projecting from the lower edge of said back plate, said lug having its forward end projecting downwardly, and a combined wall shield and drip pan adapted to be securely supported by said bracket members, said wall shield and drip pan comprising an integral metal plate having means adjacent its upper edge for resiliently engaging over the hook portion and under the bottom lug of said wall brackets, and said plate having its lower end curved and projected forwardly to form a drip pan portion.

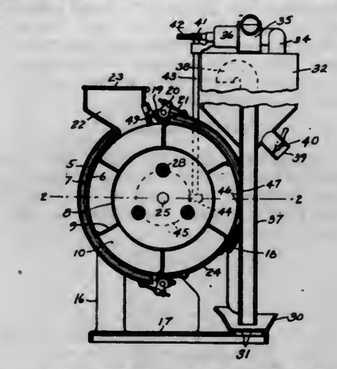
1,459,788. BRAKE FOR TRAMWAY AND RAILWAY ROLLING STOCK. ALFRED WALTER MALEY, West Bromwich, England. Filed June 21, 1920. Serial No. 390,567. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—159.)



1. In an electrically driven rail vehicle the combination with a regenerative braking controller of a track brake, and means actuated by said controller for applying said track brake by pressure exerted between said brake and said vehicle.

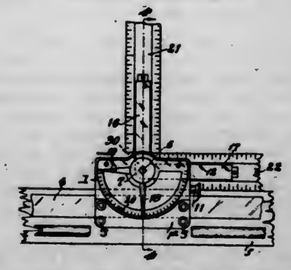
1,459,789. CURTAIN-ROLLER SUPPORT. HUGH M. MARSH, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Catherine A. Fox, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 12, 1921. Serial No. 521,595. 5 Claims. (Cl. 156—39.)

3. The combination of means defining a window opening, a curtain roller extending thereacross, a curtain wound on said roller, a mounting at each end of the roller and secured adjacent to the window opening, interengaging means between the roller at each end and the mounting thereat for holding the roller for automatic movement in a path toward a predetermined plane when the curtain is drawn upon so as to unwind some thereof from the roller, and means for limiting the movement of the roller toward such predetermined plane whereby the place where the curtain unwinds from the roller is in such predetermined plane at all times when being so unwound therefrom.



1,459,790. COFFEE MILL. CONDICT M. NEVIUS, Hornell, N. Y. Filed June 27, 1922. Serial No. 571,159. 6 Claims. (Cl. 83—6.)

1. A coffee-mill comprising: a cylindrical container provided with a plurality of longitudinal slots; a cutter-blade projecting into the container at each slot; and means, for imparting revolution to coffee within the container, comprising a circle of impelling members revoluble close to and substantially parallel with the edges of the blades; the respective numbers of blades and of impelling members being prime to each other.



1,459,791. COFFEE ROASTER. CONDICT M. NEVIUS, Hornell, N. Y. Filed Sept. 8, 1922. Serial No. 586,980. 3 Claims. (Cl. 34—4.)

1. A coffee-roaster comprising: a continuously-movable endless carrier provided with a peripheral series of outwardly-open receptacles for coffee; a housing closely embracing the carrier and constituting normally a closure for all of the receptacles, but provided with openings for the introduction and removal of the coffee; and stationary radiant heating means located within and embraced by the carrier so as to heat all parts of the carrier simultaneously.

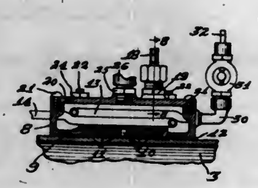
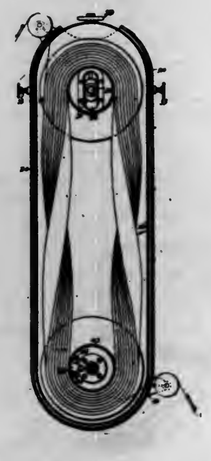
1,459,792. DRAFTING INSTRUMENT. CHARLES PHILIPE LOUIS NILANT, Haarlem, Netherlands. Filed June 14, 1921. Serial No. 477,524. 6 Claims. (Cl. 33—79.)



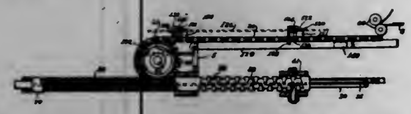
1. In a drafting instrument in combination, a runway adapted to be secured to the blade of a conventional square, a base mounted on the runway, a rigid member pivoted in the base, a pair of arms on the member, a pair of motion transmitting elements, one mounted on the rigid member and the other on the base, and means for retaining said elements out of engagement.

1,459,793. WATER BOMB. MAX CARL AUGUST HERMANN PAPE, Neumuhlen-Dietrichsdorf, near Kiel, Germany, assignor to the Firm of Carbonit Aktiengesellschaft, Hamburg, Germany. Filed Sept. 30, 1920. Serial No. 413,885. 3 Claims. (Cl. 102—3.)



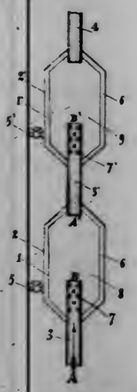
1. A water bomb comprising a number of superposed sections detachably connected with one another to form a single unit, each section having a fuse and a charge of explosives, the sections becoming detached from one another on being dropped into the water to adjust themselves one above the other.

1,459,794. HUMIDIFIER. JAMES O. PATTY, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 10, 1921. Serial No. 443,785. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—25.)



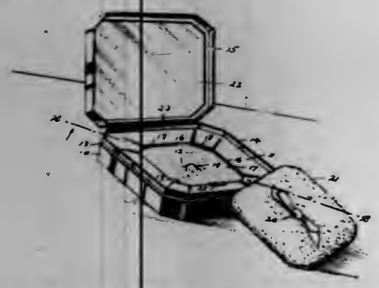
1. The combination with an explosive engine and its intake and exhaust manifolds, of a humidifier comprising a casing adapted to be mounted on said exhaust manifold, an apertured boss formed on the inner surface of the base of said casing, means permitting water to drip on said apertured boss, a steam outlet tube connected with the top of said casing, an air pipe coil in said casing above said apertured boss, means connected with one end of said pipe coil for controlling the flow of air through said pipe coil, an air outlet tube connected with the other end of said pipe coil, and a three-way connector mounted on the engine intake manifold to which said air outlet tube and said steam outlet tube are connected.

1,459,795. COILING STRIP MATERIAL SUCH AS CINEMATOGRAPH FILM. ARTHUR GEORGE PAVELY and CHARLES FRIEDRICH OSCAR EDUARD SCHMITT, Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa. Filed Mar. 14, 1922. Serial No. 543,691. 9 Claims. (Cl. 88—18.7.)



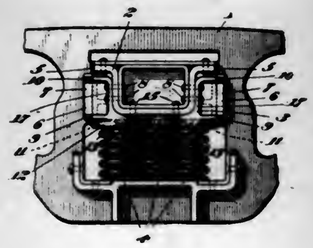
1. A strip coil composed of a number of superimposed convolutions each of which has two half twists formed in it.

1,459,796. INTERMITTENT DRIVE MECHANISM. HAROLD D. PENNEY, Pelham, and CHARLES E. WHITEMAN, Richmond Hill, N. Y., and GEORGE F. RUSS, Jersey City, N. J., assignors to Automatic Inserting Machine Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Nov. 17, 1917, Serial No. 201,950. Patent No. 1,317,387. Divided and this application filed Aug. 12, 1919. Serial No. 317,002. 14 Claims. (Cl. 74—40.)



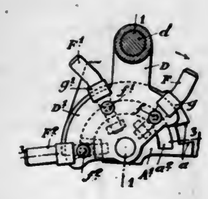
2. In combination, a worm; a shaft; a continuously rotated sleeve slidable on said shaft, and provided with a worm thread engaging said worm and with a pair of intersecting spiral grooves joined at their ends and of opposite pitch; and a positioning means engaging in said grooves.

1,459,797. SILENCER FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. CESARE PAROLINI and GUSTAVE PERRON, Paris, France. Filed Aug. 16, 1921. Serial No. 492,788. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—160.)



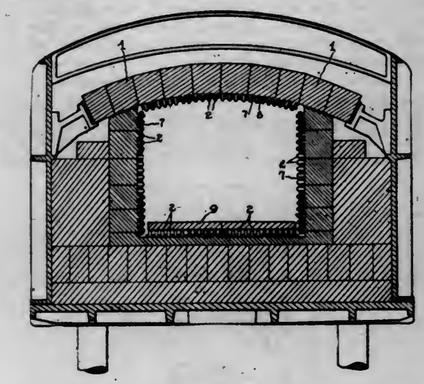
1. A silencer for the exhaust of internal combustion engines, characterized by the arrangement of one or more large chambers wherein the exhaust gases are allowed to expand, said chambers being constructed with double walls comprising between them a space in which a vacuum is produced.

1,459,798. VANITY BOX. CARLYLE C. PRINDLE, Douglaston, N. Y. Filed Feb. 12, 1923. Serial No. 618,479. 4 Claims. (Cl. 132—83.)



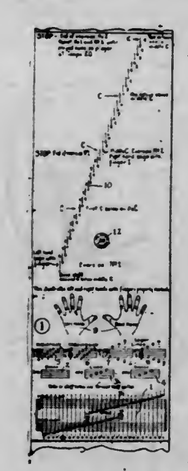
1. A vanity box comprising a powder holding compartment; an open-centered top therefor; a covering pan removably secured in service on said top for closing the center thereof; means communicating with the interior of said compartment for delivering a small quantity of powder from said compartment to the upper side of said pan; and a closure cover for said box adapted when closed for pressing a manipulator for said powder close upon said pan for limiting the delivery of said powder from said compartment to said pan.

1,459,799. COMBINED SPRING CAP AND TRUCK BOLSTER COLUMN GUIDE. RALPH V. SAGE, Philadelphia, and GEORGE E. THACKRAY, Westmont Borough, Pa. Filed Oct. 31, 1921. Serial No. 511,640. 5 Claims. (Cl. 105—197.)



1. The combination with a bolster, the lower end portions of which are narrower than the upper portions of the bolster ends, of a spring cap and column guide secured to the end portion thereof, comprising a plate portion under the bolster end provided with spring pockets in its lower surface and with integral column guides, said plate portions and column guides extending laterally from the bolster end.

1,459,800. GUN CARRIAGE HAVING CRANKED AXLETREES. EUGÈNE SCHNEIDER, Paris, France, assignor to Schneider & Cie., Paris, France, a Limited Joint-Stock Company of France. Filed Nov. 27, 1922. Serial No. 603,697. 2 Claims. (Cl. 89—40.)



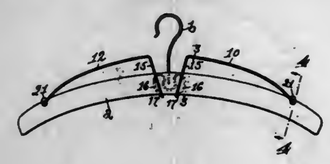
1. In a wheeled gun carriage, the combination of a sheath secured to said carriage, a cranked axle tree rotatably engaging said sheath, a half-disc secured to said sheath and having formed therein a plurality of notches and a concentric groove, a plurality of locking bolts pivotally secured to each crank-portion of said axle tree and having lugs adapted to engage said notches, a plurality of springs for automatically forcing said bolts into engagement with said notches when the gun is being lifted, a portion of said bolts being normally held in inoperative position by engagement with one face of said half-disc, and means secured to said crank and extending into said groove for limiting the angular distance through which said crank and disc may be relatively moved.

1,459,801. ELECTRIC FURNACE. EDWIN L. SMALLEY, East Orange, N. J. Filed Aug. 6, 1020. Serial No. 401,717. 5 Claims. (Cl. 204—64.)

1. An electric furnace having its housing exposed to the furnace interior, means engageable with the housing for the inwardly uncovered, removable lodgement of a resistance conductor, and movable securing means for said conductor.

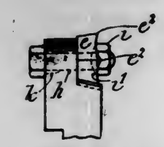
1,459,802. MEANS OF TEACHING PIANO PLAYING. IRVING M. SMITH, San Diego, Calif., assignor to The Q R S Music Company. Filed June 5, 1919. Serial No. 301,958. 16 Claims. (Cl. 84—164.)

1. A music instruction strip comprising, a movable sheet bearing visual textual precept, and an immediately following perforation adapted to result in an actuation of a musical instrument in audible illustration of the precept, combined substantially as set forth.



1,459,803. DIAPHRAGM FOR SOUND-REPRODUCING APPARATUS. JOHN A. STEURER, New York, N. Y. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,352. 9 Claims. (Cl. 181—32.)

1. As a new article of manufacture, a diaphragm for sound reproducing apparatus comprising a disc of non-absorbent material, provided on at least one face with a concentric coating composed of dried liquid adhesive material, combined with finely divided damping material, distributed substantially uniformly therethrough, and submerged therein.

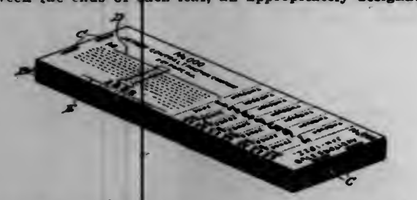


6. As a new article of manufacture a diaphragm for sound reproducing apparatus, comprising a disc of non-absorbent material provided on at least one face with a concentric coating of dried liquid adhesive material comprising a phenolic condensation product dissolved in a volatile vehicle.

1,459,804. GARMENT HANGER. WALTER M. P. TARR, Lowell, Mass. Filed Aug. 19, 1922. Serial No. 583,019. 8 Claims. (Cl. 211—13.)

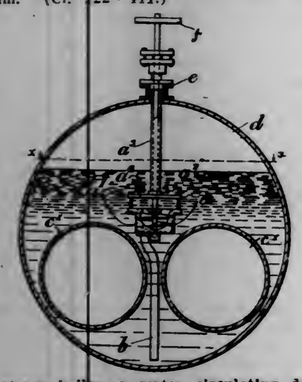
4. The combination with a garment hanger, of a clamping device cooperating therewith and provided with means for bearing upon one surface of the hanger at two points spaced apart and with means for bearing upon the opposite surface of the hanger at a third point intermediate said two bearing points, and having means for gripping the opposite sides of the hanger at said intermediate point, said means being connected together to be applied to and removed from the said hanger as a unit.

1,459,805. TOOL AND TOOL HOLDER FOR TURNING, PLANING, AND LIKE OPERATIONS. WALTER TOM TASKER, Cliftonville, Margate, England. Filed Nov. 17, 1920. Serial No. 424,724. 10 Claims. (Cl. 29—100.)



1. A tool holder comprising a metal bar adapted to be fixed in a slide rest or equivalent support and having a recessed front end portion formed with a hole designed to receive holding down means whereby a cutting tool can be rigidly fixed on said recessed portion of the bar and a rear end wall the surface of which is inclined backwardly and upwardly to engage with and support laterally the tool seated on the recessed portion of the bar.

1,459,806. RAILWAY TICKET. CHARLES L. S. TINGLEY, St. Davids, Pa. Filed May 18, 1922. Serial No. 561,811. 3 Claims. (Cl. 283—23.)



1. A railway ticket for commutation travel comprising a plurality of leaves secured together at each end, said leaves comprising a plurality of zone coupons disposed between the ends of each leaf, an appropriately designated detachable auditor's stub at one of the ends and an appropriately designated passenger's stub at the other end.

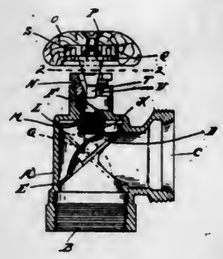
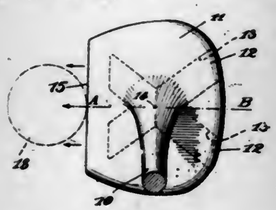
1,459,807. STEAM BOILER. ISAAC TODD, Belfast, Ireland. Filed Sept. 30, 1920. Serial No. 413,766. 1 Claim. (Cl. 122—411.)



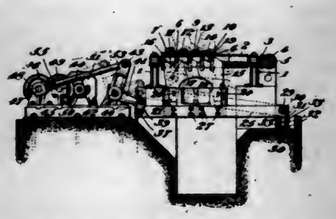
In a steam boiler, a water circulating device comprising in combination, a pump casing, a cover for said casing, a tubular member attached, at one end, to the boiler and, at the other end, to said cover, means securing said cover to said pump casing so as to leave discharge orifices therebetween, a pipe leading from the interior of said casing to the bottom of the water space of the boiler, a pump rotatably mounted in said casing, a spindle for said pump extending through said tubular member, a steam tight joint around said spindle, and a pulley on said spindle outside the boiler, all substantially as set forth.

1,459,808. FURNACE DOOR. PORTER G. WALL, Arapal, N. C. Filed June 12, 1922. Serial No. 567,715. 1 Claim. (Cl. 110—173.)



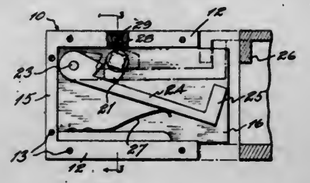
A door for a furnace comprising a frame having openings in its rear for receiving binding means for connecting it with the front of a furnace, said frame having guideways therein, a slide vertically movable in the guideways, latch means for holding the slide in adjusted position, a base member at each side of the frame having a hole therein, a bracket at each side of the frame adjacent the upper end thereof, a rod passing through the bracket and the hole in each base member and adapted to have its end enter the ground to hold the frame in position and a projection on each rod for forming a rest for each bracket.

1,459,809. VALVE. ADOLPH V. WANGENHEIM, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Detroit Lubricator Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Feb. 27, 1922. Serial No. 539,437. 8 Claims. (Cl. 251—36.)



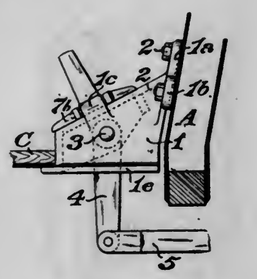
1. The combination with a casing having inlet and outlet openings and a cylindrical portion intermediate the same, of a disk valve arranged obliquely across the cylindrical casing in peripheral sealing contact therewith, and means for rotating said disk from a position for obstructing the flow of fluid through said casing to a position permitting such flow.

1,459,810. GOLF CLUB. CHARLES M. WILLS, Atlantic City, N. J. Filed Oct. 19, 1921. Serial No. 508,752. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)



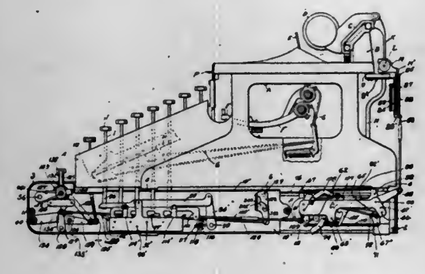
1. In a golf club, in combination, a head, a shaft fixedly attached to the head and an X-shaped weighting material within the head, so positioned that the center of its arm intersection will coincide with the center of the shaft and head juncture.

1,459,811. ROLLING-MILL APPLIANCE. TOM WILSON, Johnstown, Pa. Filed Aug. 13, 1921. Serial No. 491,936. 11 Claims. (Cl. 80—48.)



11. A rolling mill appliance comprising a stationary feed table provided with a plurality of rollers, each having a number of collars thereon forming a plurality of aligned grooves in said rollers, a plurality of manipulators mounted between said rollers and provided with a series of saw-tooth serrations in their upper surfaces corresponding to the grooves in said rollers, said manipulators being mounted upon actuating bars of considerable length pivoted near their ends, means for lifting and lowering the other ends of said bars and manipulators, whereby pieces are lifted from one groove of the rollers, slid laterally and downwardly in the serrations, and deposited in the next groove while being turned ninety degrees on their axes by contact with the collars as they are lowered on said rollers.

1,459,812. CAR LOCK. FRANK ZEMAN, Little Falls, Minn. Filed Jan. 26, 1922. Serial No. 531,841. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—124.)

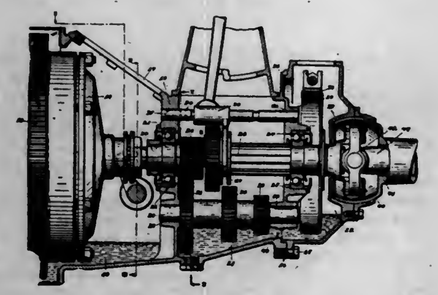


A lock comprising a casing, open at one end, guides on the open end of the casing, a keeper adapted to fit between the guides, a locking hook pivoted within the casing, the free end of said hook being operable between the guides and to enter the keeper, a barrel pivoted in the casing, said barrel having a notch in its periphery, a rectangular extension on the barrel, a key for engaging the extension to rotate the barrel, a cam on the barrel for engaging and moving the hook out of the keeper, a spring impelled detent normally engaging in the barrel notch whereby said cam is held against the hook when in open position, means formed with said key for retracting said detent when the key is inserted, and yieldable means for urging the hook into locking position.

1,459,813. LOCOMOTIVE GRATE SHAKER. GEORGE B. ASHWORTH, Amsterdam, N. Y. Filed Feb. 6, 1923. Serial No. 617,285. 3 Claims. (Cl. 126—169.)

1. In a grate shaking appliance, the combination of a supporting casing, having a plurality of slots in its top portion; a fulcrum pin, fitted transversely in said casing; grate levers, each journalled on said pin, and extending through a casing slot; and locking members, each pivoted to the casing and adapted to engage a grate shaking lever and cover the spaces between the front and rear sides of said lever and the ends of the slot through which it passes.

1,459,814. COMBINED TYPEWRITING AND ADDING MACHINE. GLENN J. BARRETT, Grand Rapids, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Remington Typewriter Company, Ilion, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 13, 1909. Serial No. 532,889. 124 Claims. (Cl. 235—60.)

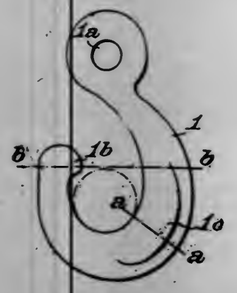


1. In an adding machine, selecting mechanism comprising a series of movable feelers, means for moving the entire series of said feelers, and means for obstructing a selected one of said feelers to modify its motion.

25. In a combined typewriting and adding machine, the combination of the carriage, the printing instrumentalities and the tabulator of a typewriter, said tabulator including one or more adjustable column stops and co-operating stops, adding mechanism for adding numbers written on the typewriter, and a denomination selecting device for said adding mechanism operated by the column stop or stops of the typewriter tabulator.

71. In an adding machine, the combination of a register, means for setting up a number to be added on said register, operating mechanism for operating said register in accordance with the number set up, and a shield for said register controlled by said setting-up means and said operating mechanism.

112. In an adding machine, the combination of a series of register wheels, a series of racks for operating said register wheels, means for imparting to any one of said racks on occasion an additional increment of motion to transfer, and means for splitting the machine comprising one or more abutments that can be interposed into the path of one or more of said bars and thus prevent transfer by the particular bar or bars affected.



1,459,815. LUBRICATING SYSTEM. EDWARD H. BELDEN, Toledo, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Dec. 7, 1917. Serial No. 205,966. 14 Claims. (Cl. 184—11.)

1. A lubricating system for motor vehicles comprising the combination of a gear casing, provided with a partition dividing it into separate chambers, a port in said partition above the oil level in the chambers, means in one of the chambers for directing lubricating oil against the side walls of the chamber, and a horizontally inclined flange integrally secured to the side wall of that chamber and extending to the partition to direct oil through said port into the second chamber.

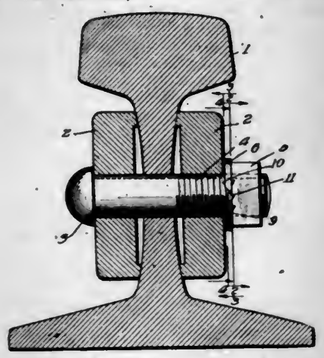
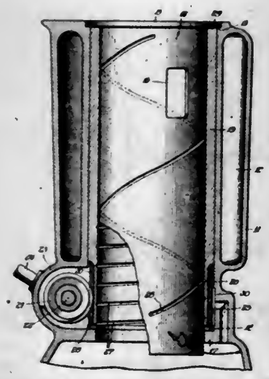
1,459,816. HOOK FOR CRANE-SLING CHAINS. WILLIAM J. BENIS, Schenectady, N. Y. Filed Sept. 15, 1921. Serial No. 500,863. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—230.5.)



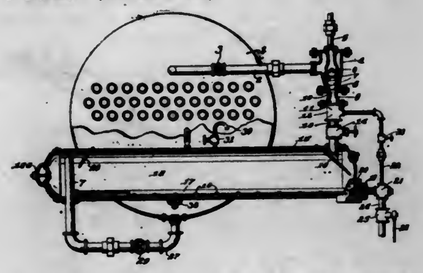
A crane sling hook, having the free end of its bill shaped to form a rounded knob projecting inwardly only, whereby danger of the load becoming hung on the end of the bill and of its slipping off therefrom is obviated.

1,459,817. SAFETY RELIEF DEVICE. ROBERT V. BINGAY, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Pittsburgh Transformer Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 27, 1919. Serial No. 333,787. 2 Claims. (Cl. 220—85.)



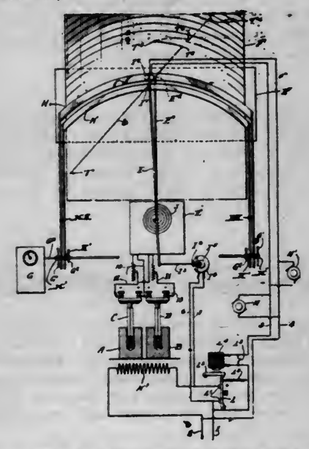
1. A safety relief device for a transformer tank comprising an outlet member extending above an opening in the transformer tank top and having an outwardly extending circumferential flange thereon, a cover plate for said outlet having its edges extending over said flange to normally make sealing contact therewith and adapted to move upward therefrom to provide a free substantially radial opening and increase the area of the cover plate exposed to the pressure from the outlet, and spring means normally resiliently holding said cover plate closed with a pressure less than the opening force due to the pressure and reaction against the entire under surface of the cover plate when opened by pressure from within, so that the cover plate when lifted slightly will be held open by both the pressure and reaction of the escaping gases to quickly reduce the pressure within the transformer tank to a safe amount before closing.

1,459,818. NUT LOCK. TONY BLANKENSHIP, Kincaid, Ill., assignor of one-half to Joseph J. Davis, Kincaid, Ill. Filed Mar. 30, 1922. Serial No. 548,060. 1 Claim. (Cl. 151—13.)



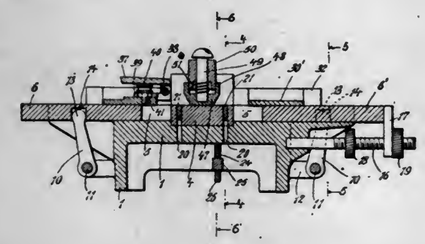
The combination with a threaded bolt, a nut threadedly engageable therewith, a split washer arranged on said bolt between the work and said nut, the major portion of said washer constituting the body thereof being of a substantial thickness and non-resilient, said washer having a beveled edge at the thickened side of the split therein and being reduced substantially in thickness from a point near the edge of the other side thereof to provide a resilient tongue at one end of the washer, said tongue along its edge having an upwardly projecting beveled surface extending across said edge and overlapping the beveled edge of the thickened side of the washer, said tongue also having an outstanding tooth projecting forwardly beyond one side of the washer to engage said nut, the side faces of said washer lying normally in a plane substantially parallel with the side of the nut and the surfaces to be engaged by said washer, whereby when the nut is tightened a gripping engagement is effected between the nut and the washer by said tooth without placing the thickened body portion of the washer under tension.

1,459,819. LUBRICATING SYSTEM. CLARENCE E. BONNER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Bonner-Charter Motor Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 8, 1921. Serial No. 459,699. 17 Claims. (Cl. 123—190.)



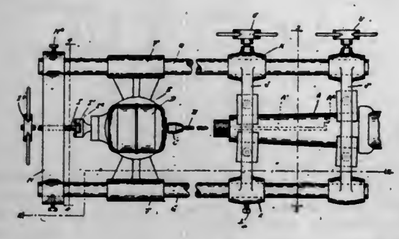
1. In combination with an engine cylinder having an inner cylinder member, an outer case, and a sleeve valve operating between said member and case, a spiral oil distributing groove formed upon the outer surface of the cylinder member, and a coacting reversely extending spiral groove formed upon the inner surface of the valve member.

1,459,820. WATER PURIFIER. EDWARD J. BROCK, St. Louis, Mo. Filed July 25, 1919. Serial No. 313,352. 4 Claims. (Cl. 122—441.)



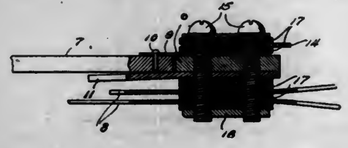
1. In a water purifier apparatus for steam boilers, the combination of a purifying tank, a mixing chamber, a pipe connected to the boiler below the water level therein and leading to said mixing chamber, a feed-water pipe also entering said mixing chamber, an inlet pipe leading from said mixing chamber and entering said tank at one end thereof, a pipe provided with perforations in its under side and extending along the bottom of said tank, a by-pass pipe leading from the inlet pipe and connected to said perforated pipe, a pipe and blow off valve connected with the by-pass pipe beyond the perforated pipe and a valved pipe connected to and extending through the bottom of the boiler, projecting into said purifying tank and having an open end located near the top thereof at the opposite end of said tank from that at which the inlet pipe enters.

1,459,821. CONTROL APPARATUS. RICHARD P. BROWN, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Brown Instrument Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 14, 1921. Serial No. 452,077. 11 Claims. (Cl. 266—5.)



1. Apparatus for subjecting a body to heat treatment comprising in combination thermometric means responsive to the relation between the rate at which heat is being absorbed or given off by the body undergoing heat treatment and the corresponding change in temperature of the body and a control device actuated by said means on the variation in said relation occurring when the body passes through a transformation point.

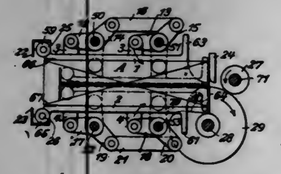
1,459,822. FILM PATCHING MACHINE. WALTER E. CARLETON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Sept. 10, 1920. Serial No. 409,416. 7 Claims. (Cl. 154—42.)



3. In a film patching machine, a pair of knives spaced apart to move in parallel planes, a pair of reciprocatory slides located on opposed sides of said knives and movable transversely thereto, said slides being provided with means for holding film ends in selected positions thereon, means for limiting the movement of said slides in one direction with a selected point on the film ends registering with the said knives, and in an opposite direction with the cut film ends properly overlapping to form the patch, and a gauge element adapted to bear on one of the film ends at a selected distance from the severed edge when advanced in the last mentioned direction.

1,459,823. DRILLING DEVICE. CHESTER C. CODDING, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-half to George T. Hunter, Detroit, Mich. Filed Sept. 30, 1921. Serial No. 504,292. 11 Claims. (Cl. 77—18.)

1. A portable drilling device comprising a drill, a mounting for said drill composed of spaced bars, means carried by said mounting for clamping and supporting the same upon a spindle, said means axially aligning the drill and spindle, and means for rotating the drill and feeding the same toward the spindle.



1,459,824. ELECTROMAGNETIC DEVICE. WILLIAM H. D. FORD, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 6, 1920. Serial No. 422,240. 5 Claims. (Cl. 175—336.)

1. In an electro-magnetic device, a magnetic circuit including an armature and a core, flexible means for securing the armature to the core, means co-operating with said armature and said core for decreasing the reluctance of the magnetic circuit at the point where the armature is secured to the core.

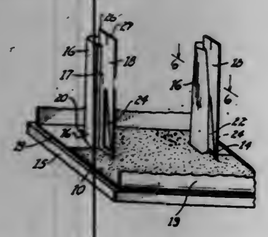
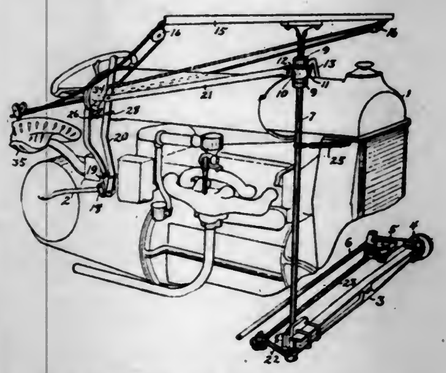
1,459,825. DEVICE FOR FOLDING PAPER BAGS. PAUL GANGLER, Esslingen, Germany. Filed May 15, 1922. Serial No. 561,038. 5 Claims. (Cl. 93—8.)



1. In a device for folding angular paper bags, the combination of a top and bottom plate, means for moving said plates substantially parallel towards each other and rearwards, a pair of knives, and means for moving said knives substantially parallel towards each other and rearwards at right angles to said plates.

1,459,826. BERTH. ALTON E. Gosso, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Gosso Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 29, 1921. Serial No. 488,412. 8 Claims. (Cl. 5—9.)



1. In a device of the kind described, a cot comprising side and end frame members, said end frame members having integral tubular bearings at their ends, the side frame members being enclosed at their ends within said bearing ends of the end frame members, and brackets adapted to be arranged on upright posts to pivotally receive and engage the tubular bearing portions of said end frame members and means for supporting the free edge of said frame members from said posts.

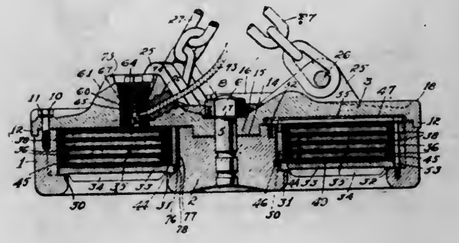
1,459,827. SHINGLE. NORMAN P. HARSHBERGER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 27, 1922. Serial No. 532,173. 8 Claims. (Cl. 206—46.)

1. A shingle former comprising a strip adapted to pass through a slit in a shingle, said strip having a tapering flange projecting at an acute angle therefrom, and adapted to bend a portion of said shingle adjacent the slit.

1,459,828. STEERING ATTACHMENT FOR TRACTORS. CALVIN GLENN HARTLEY, Roanoke, Ind., assignor to Knox Engineering and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Aug. 8, 1921. Serial No. 490,523. 5 Claims. (Cl. 180—77.)

1. In an attachment for a tractor having a steering gear and clutch, an auxiliary steering member including a post and tiller fixed thereon; a universal bearing on the tractor for supporting the post near the lower end thereof, said post having operable relation with the steering gear of the tractor and being adapted to have swinging and turning movement in said bearing; a movable bearing near the upper end of the post having means in connection therewith for guiding the same; an auxiliary lever having fixed relation with the clutch pedal of the tractor; a bar having connection with the movable bearing on the post and the auxiliary lever for imparting movement from the post to said lever; a latch adapted to have locking engagement with the auxiliary lever; and a pair of lines having connection with the auxiliary lever and respective operable relations with the corresponding opposite ends of the tiller.

1,459,829. WATERPROOF ELECTRIC HEATER AND ITS METHOD OF MANUFACTURE. LEE P. HYNES, Albany, N. Y., assignor to Consolidated Car-Heating Company, Albany, N. Y., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Oct. 18, 1921. Serial No. 508,542. 23 Claims. (Cl. 219—63.)



1. The mode of manufacturing an electric heater which consists in shaping a metallic shell by pressing a tube into the desired form and inserting therein a heating conductor with insulation and connecting terminals.

1,459,830. LIFTING MAGNET. FRANCIS W. JESSOP, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Electric & Controller Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 20, 1918. Serial No. 231,565. 20 Claims. (Cl. 175—367.)

2. In a lifting magnet, the combination of a casing for the coil consisting of an annular coil protecting wall and constituting a pole shoe, a pole piece, a cover for application to the casing and pole piece and by means of which said parts are properly positioned with respect to each other, means disposed within the diameter of the casing wall and connecting the cover to said wall and pole piece, the cover having protecting parts for shielding the connecting means, and a coil within the casing about the pole piece.

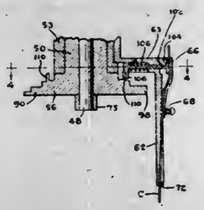
1,459,831. TOOTHBRUSH-HOLDING DEVICE. CHARLEY L. JONES, Altus, Okla. Filed Sept. 19, 1922. Serial No. 589,250. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—15.1.)

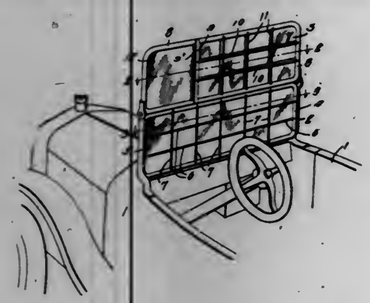


1. A device for holding and sterilizing a tooth brush, comprising a tube, a receptacle for holding a disinfectant removably mounted in one end of the tube, a cap element detachably mounted in the opposite end of the tube and having a longitudinally extending opening removably holding the end of the handle of a tooth brush.

1,459,832. VACUUM APPARATUS FOR STRIPPING CARDS. PAUL KESTNER, Boulogne-sur-Seine, France, assignor to Etablissements de Ventilation Kestner & Neu, Centeleu-Lille, Nord, France, a French Corporation. Filed Dec. 10, 1920. Serial No. 429,741. 4 Claims. (Cl. 19—109.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat L., 1313.)

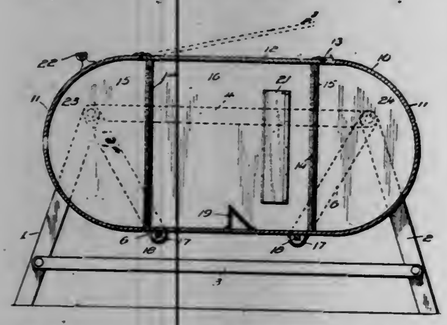
1. In a vacuum stripping apparatus for carding machines, the combination with a carding cylinder and doffer, of a support including a guideway coextensive with the axial length of the carding elements, a carriage movable along the guideway, suction nozzles mounted on the carriage to traverse the carding elements, and means for hinging the support to the machine frame so that said support, together with the carriage and nozzles, can be turned to and from the carding elements.

1,459,833. KNOTTING MECHANISM FOR TYING SACKS. FRANK O. LINDGREN, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 3, 1922. Serial No. 549,345. 7 Claims (Cl. 226—57.)



1. A knotting mechanism for tying sacks comprising means for laying a cord around the mouth of the sack, an oscillating arm, two spaced fingers on the free end of said arm, a rock shaft mounted on said arm, a finger carried by said rock shaft and adapted to move into and out of the space between said spaced fingers, means for causing the first portion of the laid cord to pass back of all of said fingers, means for causing the second portion of the laid cord to pass behind said spaced fingers and in front of the other finger, and means for closing the last mentioned finger upon the second portion of the laid cord.

1,459,834. WINDSHIELD PROTECTOR. ANGUS C. MCKINNON, Maxton, N. C. Filed Oct. 24, 1921. Serial No. 509,956. 1 Claim. (Cl. 296—84.)



A windshield, comprising a metallic frame and glass pane therein, horizontally and vertically disposed metallic elements connected with said frame and extending across the panel, said elements lying adjacent the surfaces of said glass pane and having their free ends rigidly united in position, the metallic elements at one side of the frame positioned in front of the driver's seat, being arranged so as to leave that portion of the glass pane uncovered to provide a clear vision space.

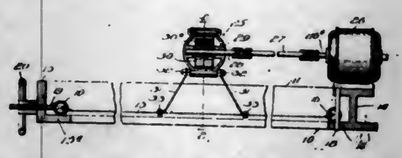
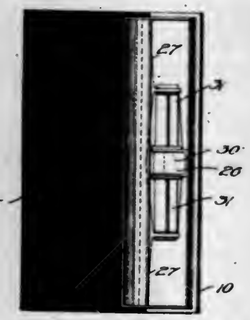
1,459,835. WASHING MACHINE. RUDOLPH MADSEN, Klamath Falls, Oreg. Filed Oct. 28, 1921. Serial No. 511,115. 1 Claim. (Cl. 68—21.)



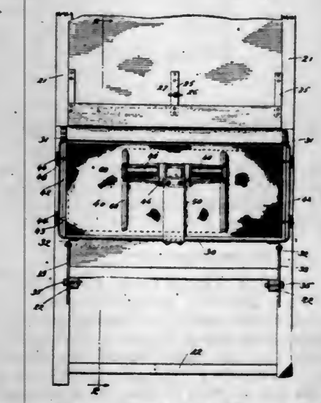
In a washing machine, a supporting frame, a swinging receptacle carried thereby and having the inner face of each of its side walls provided with a pair of spaced vertical guides, the guides on one side wall opposing the guides on the other side wall, a pair of transversely disposed foraminous partitions slidably mounted in said guides and providing said receptacle centrally thereof with a clothes chamber, and clothes turning elements secured to each side wall and to the bottom of said receptacle.

1,459,836. FILTER. FRED W. MANNING, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Sept. 18, 1919. Serial No. 324,507. Renewed Nov. 6, 1922. Serial No. 599,442. 11 Claims. (Cl. 210—180.)



2. A filter, comprising the combination of a hollow cylindrical shell, end members closing said shell, a sludge inlet in one of said end members, a filtrate outlet in the other of said end members, filtering means within said shell, and a conveyor for removing through said sludge inlet the solids filtered from the sludge.

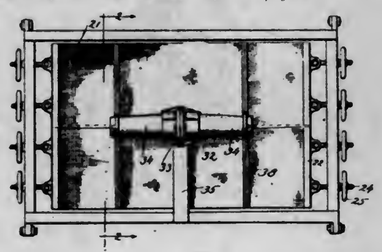
1,459,837. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah, assignor of two-thirds to Minnie L. Mitchell, Magna, Utah. Filed Jan. 2, 1918. Serial No. 209,920. 17 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)



1. In apparatus of the class described, a screen, means for supporting said screen and maintaining a high tension therein, and means positively connected to said screen for producing minute circular vibrations therein.

1,459,838. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah, assignor of two-tairds to Minnie L. Mitchell, Magna, Utah. Filed May 6, 1918, Serial No. 232,798. Renewed Jan. 25, 1923. 20 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)

1. In apparatus of the class described, a screen, supporting means connected to said screen, means located in the plane of the screen for producing high frequency vibrations in a plane perpendicular to the plane of the screen, and means for transmitting said vibrations to said screen.



1,459,839. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, St. George, N. Y., assignor of two-thirds to Minnie L. Mitchell, Magna, Utah. Filed Oct. 16, 1918, Serial No. 258,466. Renewed May 17, 1923. 26 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)

1. In apparatus of the class described, an inclined screen supported in substantially fixed position, and means for producing in said screen a plurality of simultaneously acting series of minute circular vibrations in planes perpendicular to the plane of the screen.

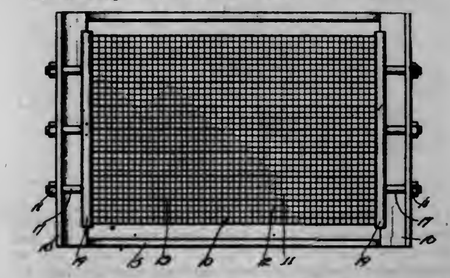
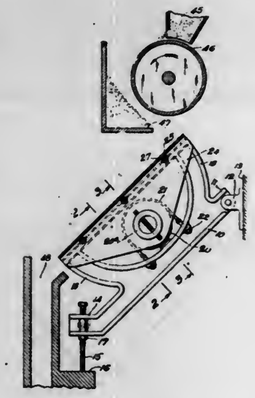
1,459,840. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah, assignor of two-thirds to Minnie L. Mitchell, Magna, Utah. Filed Oct. 21, 1918. Serial No. 258,981. 12 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)



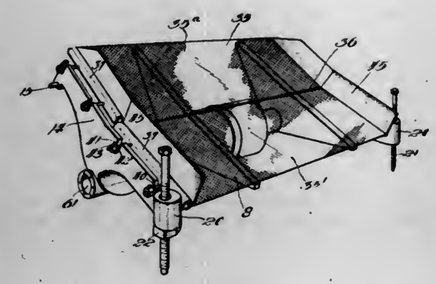
1. The combination in a screening machine, of a stationarily supported screening medium, means for mounting said screening medium in an inclined position with the lower parts thereof having a lesser slope than the upper parts thereof, means for introducing loose materials on to the upper part of said screening medium, and means for producing substantially circular vibrations in said screening medium as said materials pass thereover.

1,459,841. VIBRATOR FOR SCREENING MACHINES, ETC. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah. Filed Feb. 6, 1919. Serial No. 275,321. 26 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)



1. In combination, a rotating system mounted to have freedom of motion in a plane transverse to the axis of rotation, and means mechanically free of said system, and impelled thereby adapted to provide an eccentrically disposed mass center, whereby a moment having a rotating instantaneous axis is set up producing harmonic motion by said system in closed orbits transverse to said axis.

1,459,842. SCREENING MACHINE AND SCREEN CLOTH THEREFOR. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, St. George, N. Y. Filed May 23, 1919, Serial No. 299,090. Renewed Apr. 26, 1923. 7 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)

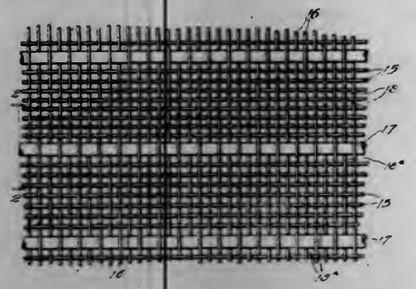


1. A woven wire screen cloth adapted to be supported in a state of tension and set into vibration by impact comprising a warp and weft of relatively fine wires, said fine wires being replaced at predetermined intervals with relatively heavy wires arranged to receive initially the stress of vibration.

1,459,843. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, St. George, N. Y. Filed July 7, 1919, Serial No. 308,922. Renewed Apr. 19, 1923. 18 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)

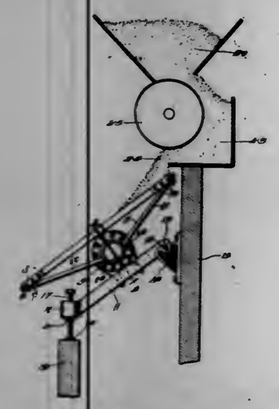
1. In combination, a vibrator, supporting members carried by said vibrator arranged to be actuated in different phases, and a screen mounted on said supporting members.

1,459,844. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah. Filed Dec. 22, 1919. Serial No. 346,751. 19 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)



1. In screening apparatus, a supporting frame comprising upstanding parallel end members, a horizontal supporting base member arranged to connect integrally said end members, and means for pivotally supporting said frame.

1,459,845. SCREENING MACHINE AND SCREEN CLOTH THEREFOR. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah. Filed Sept 30, 1920. Serial No. 413,843. 10 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)



1. A wire screen cloth adapted to be vibrated in screening machines comprising a warp and weft of relatively fine wires, said fine wires being replaced at predetermined intervals with relatively heavy wires having an oblong cross-section whereby a reinforced screen cloth having substantially uniform mesh throughout is provided.

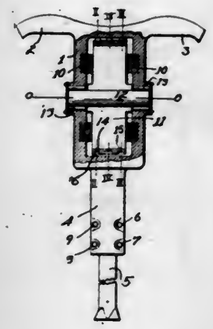
1,459,846. VIBRATING SCREEN. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah. Filed Sept. 30, 1920. Serial No. 413,844. 12 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)

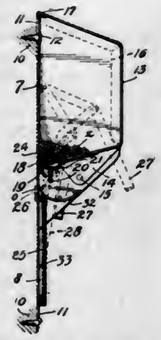


1. In a screening machine, the combination with a vibrator having a casing adapted to execute vibration in paths forming closed orbits, of a plurality of supporting devices respectively mounted on different parts of said casing, and screens on each of said devices.

1,459,847. DIFFERENTIAL VIBRATOR. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah. Filed July 26, 1921. Serial No. 487,818. 9 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)

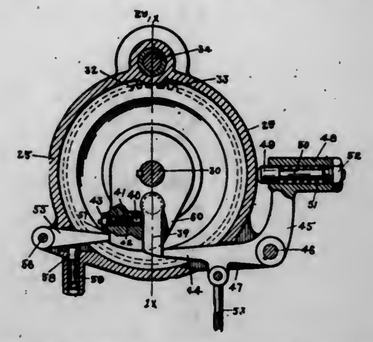
1. In a vibrator, a frame and a rotor adapted to rotate with respect to said frame and in running balance, a mass radially disposed and adapted to rotate at less than the speed of the rotor, a second mass driven at the speed of the rotor, both of said masses driven by but free from fixture with said rotor.

1,459,848. PERCUSSION DRILL AND THE LIKE. BENJAMIN A. MITCHELL, Garfield, Utah. Filed July 26, 1921. Serial No. 487,819. 15 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)



1. In percussion apparatus, a rotor, a stationary frame having a circular surface adjacent to the rotor in running balance adapted to rotate in said frame, an annular path between said rotor and said surface, and a mass adapted to roll therein in contact with said frame surface and said rotor, a second mass in a pocket within said rotor in contact with and adapted to contact with said stationary surface during the revolution of the rotor, and means for rotating the rotor.

1,459,849. PACKAGE FOR BRAID OR THE LIKE. OLIVER MITCHELL, Brookline, Mass. Filed Mar. 30, 1921. Serial No. 456,892. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—51.)

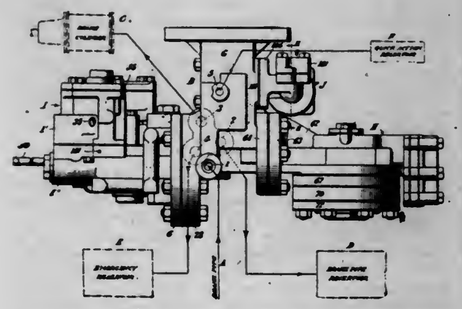


1. A package for braid or the like, made up of a pair of relatively wide cover parts, connected at their ends and carrying a relatively narrow spindle, or load receiving extension at the free ends of the cover, adapted to be folded in between the covers.

1,459,850. MATCH BOX. LEWIS S. MOORE, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Nov. 10, 1921. Serial No. 514,233. 14 Claims. (Cl. 206—21.)

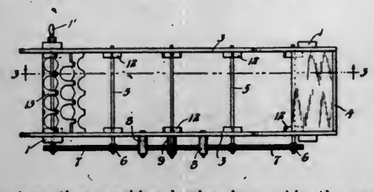
1. The combination with a receptacle having a match escape passageway, of a feed blade movable into and out of the receptacle through said passageway, and an escapement normally closing said passageway and arranged to be operated by the feed blade to open said passageway.

1,459,851. CLUTCH. WILLIAM F. MORSE, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Samuel R. Parry, Rochester, N. Y. Original application filed June 29, 1918, Serial No. 242,648. Divided and this application filed Sept. 28, 1920. Serial No. 413,399. 2 Claims. (Cl. 192—29.)



1. A clutch for a box covering machine, comprising a hub, having a keyway therein, a sleeve on which said hub is adapted to rotate, said sleeve hving a key therein, a crank for rocking said key into engagement with the keyway in the hub and causing the sleeve and hub to rotate together, a spring back of said crank, an arm integral with said sleeve having a recess therein, said crank swinging in said recess and projecting beyond it, a latch engaging the forward side of said crank to move it and disengage said key from said keyway, a latch engaging the rear side of said arm to prevent backward movement thereof, said latches being pivoted on a stationary casing and being substantially in line with and pointing toward each other to hold said arm stationary between said latches.

1,459,852. MANUFACTURE OF ETHYL ACETATE. MARTIN MUGDAN and WILLY HERRMANN, Nuremberg, Germany, assignors to Consortium für Elektrochemische Industrie G. m. b. H., Nuremberg, Germany. Filed Nov. 26, 1913. Serial No. 803,279. 13 Claims. (Cl. 260—106.)

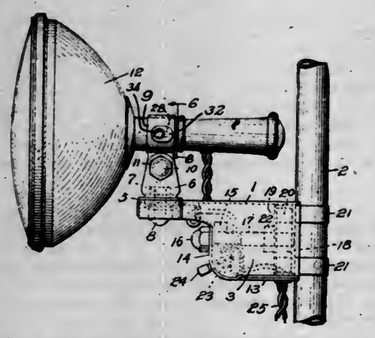


1. The process of making ethyl acetate which comprises bringing acetaldehyde in contact with aluminum alcoholate and a substance containing a halogen.

1,459,853. AIR-BRAKE APPARATUS. SPENCER G. NEAL, New York, N. Y., assignor to Automatic Straight Air Brake Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 24, 1921. Serial No. 503,011. 85 Claims. (Cl. 303—27.)

1. An air brake apparatus comprising a triple valve, a brake cylinder, a brake pipe connected to the triple valve, a main slide valve in said triple valve, a main actuating piston connected to said slide valve, and a pilot valve to admit brake pipe pressure on opposite sides of the main actuating piston independently of the main slide valve, said pilot valve operating upon a reduction of brake pipe pressure to exhaust brake pipe air from one side of said actuating piston to permit brake pipe air on the opposite side of said piston to move it and the main slide valve into position to admit air to the brake cylinder.

1,459,854. POTATO-SORTING MACHINE. HJALMER A. NELSON, Detroit, Minn. Filed Jan. 2, 1923. Serial No. 610,138. 14 Claims. (Cl. 130—32.)



1. A sorting machine having in combination, a frame having longitudinally extending side members, a reticulate articulated endless apron disposed between said side members agitating and propelling members at each end of said apron over which said apron travels and means for positively driving said agitating and propelling member.

1,459,855. SHEET-METAL ROOFING. HARRY LOUIS OLDEN, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Nov. 30, 1920. Serial No. 427,401. 1 Claim. (Cl. 108—18.)

A metal roofing sheet having non-complementary V-ridges along two opposite ends thereof, adapted for relative ridge nesting for lap joining two sheets to provide a connecting seam, with the crowns of the nested ridges in contact, one ridge of the sheet having its opposite walls and at the base thereof corrugated longitudinally for breaking a continuous contact between the walls of the non-complementary ridge when nested to form a connecting seam.

1,459,856. SPOTLIGHT BRACKET. OTHO M. OTTE, Tarentum, Pa. Filed Sept. 10, 1920. Serial No. 409,425. 5 Claims. (Cl. 240—7.)

1. In a spot-light bracket, a hollow main arm, adjustable clamping means for mounting said arm on a support, including support-engaging elements spaced longitudinally with relation to the support, a single tightening device for said elements and means for evenly distributing the pull of said device on said elements, a switch for the spot light circuit and a conduit for wires, said tightening device, switch and conduit being contained in said hollow arm.

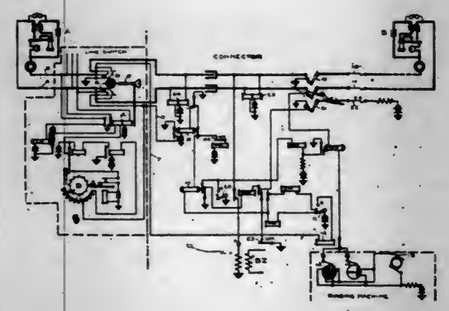
1,459,857. SLIDE RULE. OLIN D. PARSONS, West Englewood, N. J. Filed May 26, 1919. Serial No. 299,964. 9 Claims. (Cl. 235—70.)

1. A calculating device comprising a member having a scale thereon unequally graduated to indicate a series of values raised to a predetermined power, and relatively movable graduated means adapted to cooperate therewith for adding or subtracting powers or roots of said values.

1,459,858. BALL BEARING. HARRY N. PARSONS, Chicago, Ill., assignor to U. S. Ball Bearing Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 10, 1922. Serial No. 559,781. 6 Claims. (Cl. 64—59.)

1. In a ball bearing, inner and outer concentric race members, parallel raceways therein, one of said raceways having filling slots, the other raceway being uninterrupted by filling slots, a set of balls in each raceway, said uninterrupted raceway being adapted to be filled with balls by displacing the race members eccentrically to each other, and a separate retainer for each set of balls, each retainer comprising two pieces, one of which lies on the inside of said balls, the other on the outside of said balls.



1,459,859. MECHANICAL SWITCHING SYSTEM. WINFRED T. POWELL, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to The Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 12, 1919. Serial No. 303,621. 18 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

1. In a telephone system, a telephone line, an impulse transmitting device for sending combinations of impulses differing only in character over two sides of said telephone line in series, an impulse receiving device variably operated in response to said impulse transmitting device, and an automatic switch which assumes a position in accordance with the adjustment of said impulse receiving device.

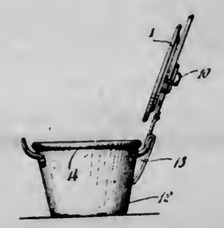
1,459,860. AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE SYSTEM. WINFRED T. POWELL, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to The Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 15, 1919. Serial No. 311,064. 11 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

1. In an automatic telephone system, a plurality of subscribers' lines of different classes, means including final connector switches for interconnecting said lines, a single trunk terminating at each of said switches, a signaling device associated with each subscriber's line, and means for discriminating in which class of lines a call originates for variably operating said signaling devices.



1,459,861. COMBINED BRUSH AND SCRAPER. JOHN J. REARDON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 29, 1922. Serial No. 557,344. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—111.)

The combination with a street cleaning brush having a body formed with an upwardly projecting, rectangular, central position, of a plate having a central opening corresponding in shape to and receiving the upwardly projecting portion of the body of the brush, means passing through the plate and engaging the body of the brush for holding said plate in position, said plate having its opposite longitudinal portions provided with upwardly and outwardly diverging scraping blades, the brush body being formed at its middle with oppositely disposed, downwardly and convergently extending sockets, and a handle adapted to be disposed in either of said sockets whereby either blade may be used.

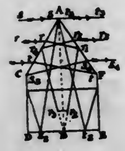
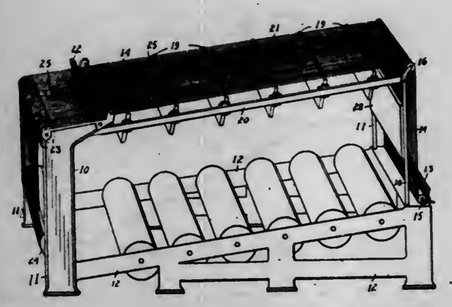
1,459,862. HINGE FOR VESSEL COVERS. CHARLES SCUDDER, Long Island City, N. Y. Filed Feb. 3, 1922. Serial No. 533,794. 5 Claims. (Cl. 220—32.)



1. In combination, a vessel provided with a handle and a cover having a projection, a hinge, a recessed portion for said hinge engaging said handle around which the cover may be rotated, and a movable clamp for said hinge to engage and hold the projection on said cover.

1,459,863. MEASURED-SERVICE TELEPHONE SYSTEM. FRANK M. SLOUGH, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to The Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 25, 1918. Serial No. 224,415. 11 Claims. (Cl. 179—7.)

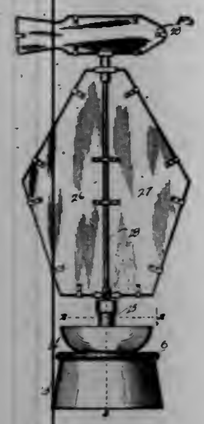


1. In a telephone system, the combination with a subscriber's telephone line, of a register mechanism for the said line located at a main station, of a second register mechanism for the said line located at a substation on the line, and means operative under the control of the main station registration mechanism to operate the substation mechanism a fractional number of times the main station mechanism is operated.

1,459,864. ERECTING PRISM FOR TELESCOPES AND OTHER OPTICAL INSTRUMENTS. ALFRED TAYLOR and HAROLD DENNIS TAYLOR, York, England. Filed July 20, 1920. Serial No. 397,712. 4 Claims. (Cl. 88—1.)

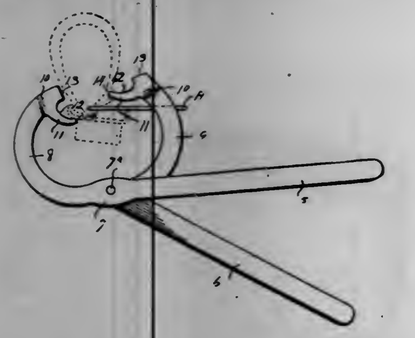
4. A roof erecting prism formed of one solid piece having a single roof edge prism formed on each of two of the opposite sides of a central parallel sided portion the vertices of the roof-edged prisms being at right angles to each other.

1,459,865. YARN-INSPECTING MACHINE. HERVEY W. UNGER, Falconer, N. Y. Filed July 9, 1921. Serial No. 483,446. 6 Claims. (Cl. 28—57.)



1. The combination in a frame having a plurality of spools over which yarn is run, of a plurality of spaced inspection boards mounted thereon over which said yarn is also run, the parts being so located that said spools can be seen through the spaces between said boards.

1,459,866. SIGN SUPPORT. CLARENCE DALE VEST, Stockton, Calif. Filed Mar. 28, 1922, Serial No. 547,593. Renewed May 15, 1923. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—145.)



In a device of the character described, the combination of a base, a plate mounted on said base, a filler mounted within said base and adapted to add weight thereto, a bead formed upon the upper edge of said base, a bowl adapted to rock on said plate and to contact said bead, a shaft rotatably secured to said bowl, display means carried on said shaft, said display means consisting of flat wing-like surfaces adapted to be contacted by a wind to cause a rocking motion of said bowl and means for returning said bowl to its normal position.

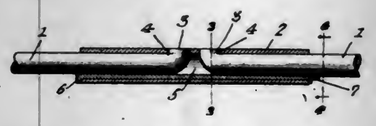
1,459,867. TIRE TOOL. JULES A. VOIROL, Hartford, Conn. Filed Aug. 14, 1920. Serial No. 403,476. 2 Claims. (Cl. 157—6.)

1. A tire tool comprising a pair of handles, each handle having one of its end portions extended to one side of said handle to provide a jaw, an extension extending from the inner longitudinal edge of each jaw, each of said extensions being disposed substantially at right angles to the jaw thereof and inwardly of the end face of the jaw, the end face of each jaw adjacent said extensions being arranged to alternately engage the side wall of a tire, said extensions being arranged to alternately engage a tire rim and the side wall of the tire remote from the wall engaged by the end face of the opposite jaw, the extension engaged with the tire rim serving as a fulcrum for the tool.



1,459,868. ELECTRIC STOVE. WILLIAM RALPH WILLIAMSON, Thayer, Mo. Filed Oct. 10, 1921. Serial No. 506,614. 9 Claims. (Cl. 219—38.)

1. A stove of the character described comprising a drum provided with a steam outlet pipe, a boiler located above the drum, a pipe leading from the upper end of the boiler and coiled to define a super heater coil, a U-shaped pipe connected with said super heater coil and connected with pipes leading downwardly into the drum for discharging steam into the latter, and a heating coil carried by the outside of the boiler.

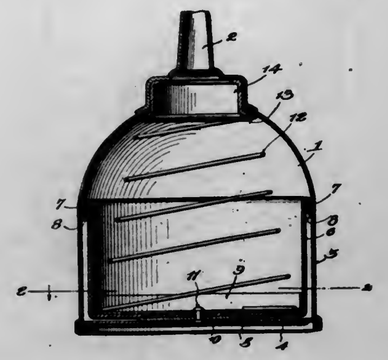
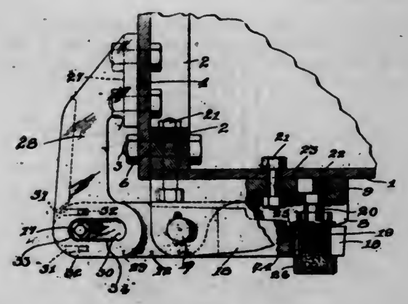
1,459,869. ROD COUPLING. HIRAM ALLEN, Williamsburg, Kans. Filed Apr. 13, 1922. Serial No. 552,250. 2 Claims. (Cl. 287—113.)

1. In a device of the class described, a sleeve having a transverse opening; a rod in the sleeve and having a projection received in the opening; a retainer located between the sleeve and the rod and constituting means for retaining the projection in the opening, the retainer being provided at one end with a flange engaging one end of the sleeve; and a removable securing device in the retainer and engaging the other end of the sleeve.



1,459,870. FURNACE GRATE. EMIL R. ANDERSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 7, 1921. Serial No. 443,080. 8 Claims. (Cl. 110—40.)

6. In a furnace, a grate comprising an endless series of hollow grate bars and guides therefor, the construction comprising means for effecting a circulation of air through said guides and grate bars from the ash pit to the fire box of the furnace.



1,459,871. OIL CAN. TOLLEF O. BAKKEN, Bode, Iowa. Filed Sept. 19, 1921. Serial No. 501,795. 6 Claims. (Cl. 221—48.)

1. An oil can comprising a body section having its upper end offset inwardly and its bottom formed with a central opening, a flexible cup-member having its upper edge turned over and engaged with the offset portion of the body section, a pressure disk secured to the bottom of the cup-member and normally closing the bottom opening of the body section, a rigid pan secured in the bottom of the cup-member, a top section fitted over the turned over edge portion of the cup-member on the body offset portion and securing the cup-member to the latter, and a coil spring compressed between the pan and the top section for manually holding the cup member extended.

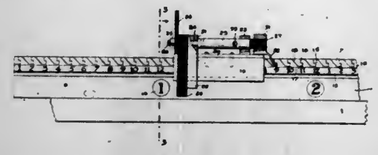
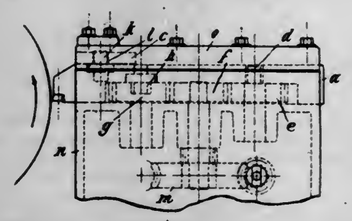
1,459,872. HINGE. CHARLES R. BELK, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Apr. 19, 1922. Serial No. 555,648. 11 Claims. (Cl. 16—179.)



1. A hinge of the character described comprising a body plate carried by a stationary object, spaced ribs on said plate, perforated ears on the plate between said ribs, movable supporting arms mounted upon said ears for pivotal movement, spaced plates carried by a movable object, bracket arms formed integral with said plates and having pivotal connection with one end of the supporting arms and means engaging the other end of said supporting arms for adjusting the position of the same.

1,459,873. SAW GAUGE. ALLEN H. BLACKBURN, Hayward, Calif. Filed Feb. 8, 1922. Serial No. 535,062. 7 Claims. (Cl. 143—168.)



1. A saw gauge comprising a graduated bar adapted to extend from one side of a saw along the upper side of a saw table, a plurality of equi-distantly spaced upward projections on said bar, a channel shaped body member adapted to fit over the upper side of the bar, a detent carried by said channel shaped member adapted to extend between any two and engage one of said projections and a member on said channel shaped member against which an edge of material to be sawed is adapted to engage.

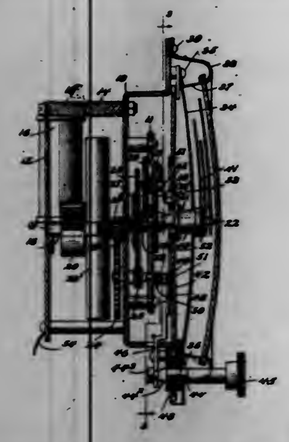
1,459,874. CURVE-FORMING REST FOR MACHINE TOOLS. ERNST BLAU, Ratibor, Germany. Filed Apr. 12, 1922. Serial No. 551,990. 7 Claims. (Cl. 82—14.)

1. A curve rest for the manufacture of curved profiles comprising a swinging tool holder having a pivot; a template adapted to guide said pivot; and driving means for moving said holder including a crank pin.

4. A curve forming rest for machine tools comprising a frame; a tool holder slidably mounted in said frame; a cover for said support and provided with a groove; a pin secured to said tool holder and projecting into said groove; and means including a gear wheel for moving said tool holder in the predetermined manner.

1,459,875. THREAD-SPLICING MACHINE. ARTHUR A. BRIGHAM, Boston, Mass. Filed Apr. 15, 1922. Serial No. 552,915. 5 Claims. (Cl. 117—6.)



1. In a thread splicing machine, the combination of two opposed twister heads mounted substantially in alinement with each other, each constructed to hold a thread and each rotatable in opposite directions to twist or untwist a thread, and a spiral spring mounted in front of said heads to hold the individual strands of untwisted thread.

1,459,876. ALARM-CONTROLLING MECHANISM FOR CLOCKS. THADDEUS STEPHENS CASNER, Plainfield, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to George Rawak, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 18, 1920, Serial No. 411,071. Senewed May 8, 1923. 9 Claims. (Cl. 58—19.)

1. In a clock, in combination, a frame, clock mechanism supported on the frame, and an electrical alarm controlling mechanism also supported on the frame, in cluding a spring contact, a rotatable insulating member having a contact ring thereon against which the spring contact normally bears, and manually operable means for separating said spring contact and contact ring, for the purpose set forth.

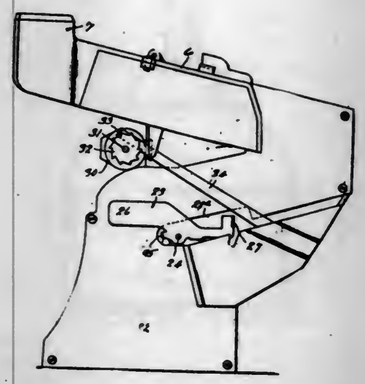
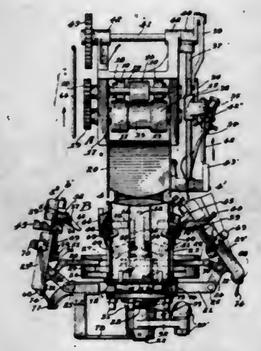
1,459,877. CAPPED NAIL AND TACK. LEWIS DANIEL, Newport, Ky., assignor to Clarence J. Rennekamp, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Nov. 21, 1921. Serial No. 516,613. 6 Claims. (Cl. 85—55.)



1. In combination with a headed tack or nail or the like, a piece having split outwardly curved edges, said piece being adapted to slip over the shank of the tack or nail, and a top piece adapted to cover the top of the said head, and engage over the split edges of said first mentioned piece.

1,459,878. GAS DUCT IN AIRSHIPS. LUDWIG DÜRR, Friedrichshafen, Germany, assignor to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschrankter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed June 28, 1920. Serial No. 392,537. 7 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)

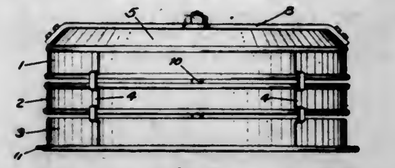


1. In an airship in combination, a gas cell, a valve in the wall of said cell near the bottom thereof, a flue extending from said valve upwards into the outer air and means for preventing the pressure exerted by said wall from throttling said flue.

1,459,879. REGISTER-OPERATING MECHANISM. JAMES H. EGAN, Ventnor, N. J. Original application filed Nov. 8, 1919, Serial No. 336,648. Divided and this application filed Apr. 22, 1920, Serial No. 375,842. Renewed Sept. 1, 1922. Serial No. 585,837. 3 Claims. (Cl. 235—91.)

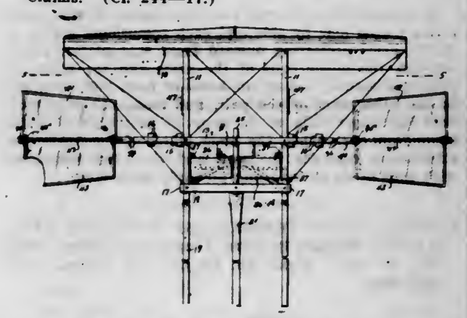
1. The combination with duplicate delivery mechanisms each having a turning part and an escapement controlling the same, of a register, and means actuated by said turning parts respectively to operate the register differently.

1,459,880. BAG-OPENING MACHINE. EDWARD T. ENRIGHT, Jersey City, N. J., assignor to P. Lorillard Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 10, 1922. Serial No. 567,324. 18 Claims. (Cl. 226—49.)



1. In a bag opening machine, a bag holder, provisions for opening a bag therein including mechanism operative for gripping the side edges of the bag for maintaining the same open, and means for permitting a second bag present in the holder to lie flat therein upon operation of the said mechanism, whereby the presence of the second bag will not interfere with the opening activity of the first bag.

1,459,881. WASHING MACHINE. WILLIAM FOBSTER FRASER, Port Robinson, Ontario, Canada. Filed Oct. 7, 1922. Serial No. 593,056. 3 Claims. (Cl. 259—140.)



1. In a washing machine, a plunger ring having a peripheral conduit formed at the lower end thereof of substantially U shaped cross section, the outer wall of the conduit coinciding with the ring proper, the lower edge of the outer wall of the conduit turned outwardly to form a substantially horizontal flange, and the lower edge of the inner wall of the conduit turned inwardly to form a substantially horizontal flange, and the upper edge of the ring inclined inwardly.

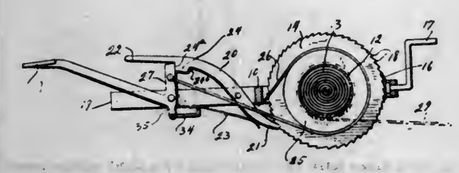
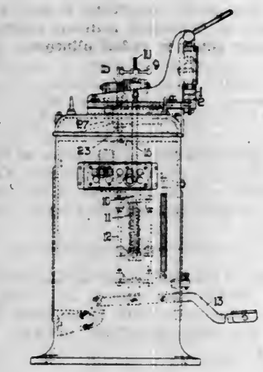
1,459,882. AEROPLANE. EDWARD L. GOODIN, Copeland, Ark., assignor of one-half to George B. M. Will, Crabtree, Ark. Filed Feb. 8, 1922. Serial No. 534,946. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—17.)



1. In an aeroplane, the combination with a supporting plane and a fuselage, of spaced pairs of spaced braces arranged at each side of the fuselage and extending fore and aft thereof, a lever extending intermediate each outer pair of spaced braces and pivotally connected thereto and provided at its outer end with propeller mechanism, the inner ends of said levers operating intermediate the inner pairs of spaced braces, other levers extending intermediate the inner pairs of spaced braces and having portions affording handles extending within the fuselage, the outer ends of said levers operating intermediate the outer pair of spaced braces, and a link connection between the inner ends of the first named levers and the outer ends of the last named levers.

1,459,883. AEROPLANE. EDWARD L. GOODIN, Copeland, Ark., assignor of one-third to George B. M. Will, Crabtree, Ark. Original application filed Feb. 8, 1922. Serial No. 534,946. Divided and this application filed Oct. 28, 1922. Serial No. 597,657. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—29.)

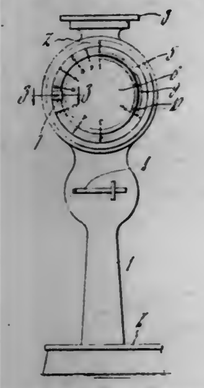


In an aeroplane, the combination with a warping normally horizontally disposed tail plane, of means for elevating or depressing either side of said plane embodying side members for said plane, pivoted T levers having the stems thereof secured to said side members, a pair of pivoted foot controls, flexible control elements connected at opposite sides of each of said foot controls and to the ends of the head of the T lever, and a yielding brake element engaged with each of said flexible control elements.

1,459,884. LAUNCHING DEVICE FOR AEROPLANES. EDWARD L. GOODIN, Copeland, Ark., assignor of one-third to George B. M. Will, Crabtree, Ark. Filed Jan. 20, 1923. Serial No. 613,926. 5 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)

1. In a launching device for aeroplanes, a spring drum carried by the aeroplane and having wound thereon a cable unwound by tensioning of the springs of the drum, a ratchet and pawl means for preventing rotation of the drum in a direction winding the cable thereon, a brake for the drum, an operating mechanism for the brake, an engagement between the brake operating means and said pawl locking the brake operating means against movement when the brake is tensioned.

1,459,885. WELDING. CECIL ALLARTON HADLEY, Bradford, England, assignor to The Rose Street Foundry and Engineering Company, Limited, Inverness, Scotland. Filed Sept. 11, 1922. Serial No. 587,488. 3 Claims. (Cl. 219—4.)



1. An electrode welding machine comprising electrodes, means to displace said electrodes towards one another and means to control the speed of displacement of said electrodes throughout their range of travel.

1,459,886. COMPUTING MACHINE. KARL R. HAMMOND, Springfield, Mass. Filed Dec. 31, 1919. Serial No. 348,655. 9 Claims. (Cl. 235—1.)

1. In a ratio computing machine, a pair of relatively movable and adjacent dials for indicating weight values, and a separate gravity actuated measuring device controlling each dial arranged to move the same graphically in accordance with the logarithms of weight values measured whereby a ratio of measured values of the same kind may be determined by said dials.

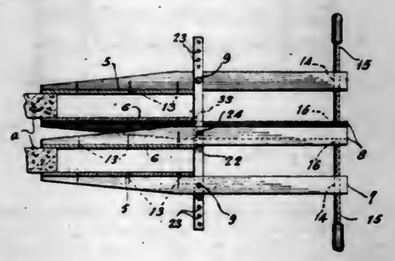
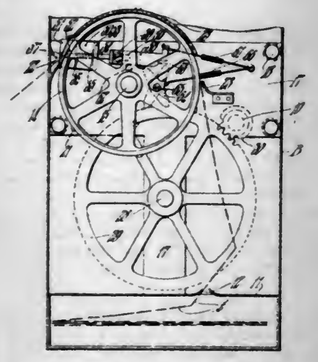
1,459,887. PATCH FOR TIRES. EARL C. HANDSCHUG, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Feb. 28, 1921. Serial No. 448,289. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—24.)



An inside tire patch, comprising a split sleeve composed of layers of fabricated material bonded together and having their edges in radial alinement, a series of separate loops secured to the sleeve at each side of the split, a non-metallic pliable rod passing through all of said loops between the edges of the sleeve to bind the sleeve around an inner tube, and a flap having one edge overlapped by one of the layers of the sleeve at one side of the split beyond the ends of the series of loops at that side of the split, said flap extending across the split beyond the opposite ends of the loops at the opposite side of the split, and said flap extending beyond each end of the sleeve.

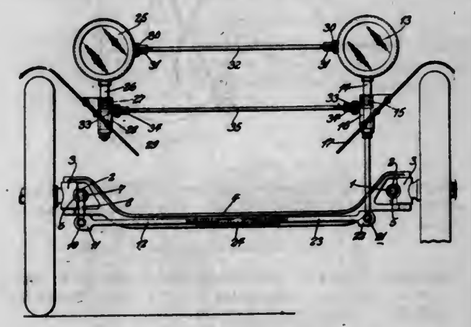
1,459,888. PROCESS AND TOOL FOR MAKING LEATHER BUTTONS. MOSES D. HEYMAN, Ozone Park, N. Y., assignor to Felix Hertz, New York, N. Y. Filed July 11, 1922. Serial No. 574,238. 8 Claims. (Cl. 79—1.)



1. A method of making a leather button with a loop shank, comprising the interweaving of a strip upon itself, bringing a marginal loop of the weave opposite an intermediate mesh of the weave, and pressing the loop upon the end of a rigid outstanding member to force it through said mesh and contract the weave around the stem of the loop.

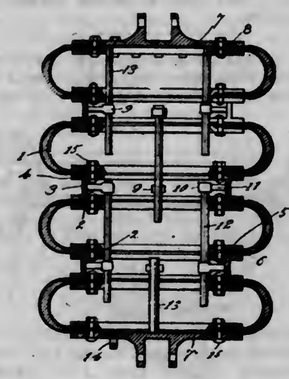
1,459,889. CONCRETE-WALL FORM. GLEN B. HOAG, Fullerton, Calif. Filed Nov. 7, 1921. Serial No. 513,477. 1 Claim. (Cl. 25—131.)

In a concrete wall form, the combination of two single forms placed side by side and each comprising a pair of plates, arms projecting upward from said plates, means between the upper ends of the arms and the plates to pivotally connect one of the arms of each pair of plates to the other arm of the pair, and means to adjustably hold the upper ends of the arms of each pair of plates away from each other, the inner plates of the forms constituting a core for the wall and the arms associated with said inner plates being pivotally connected.



1,459,890. STRIP FEEDING AND PUNCHING APPARATUS. EDWARD B. HINE, Longmeadow, Mass. Filed May 9, 1922. Serial No. 559,679. 13 Claims. (Cl. 234—34.)

1. The combination with a measuring pump, of a member movable back and forth by and proportionately with the pump piston, ticket feeding means operable on movement of said member in one direction to move the ticket by distances equal to various fractions of its length depending on the stroke of the pump piston, and auxiliary feeding means subsequently operable during movement of said member in the other direction to move the ticket by complementary distances.



1,459,891. DIRIGIBLE HEADLIGHT FOR VEHICLES. CHARLES F. HOOVER, Venice, Ill., and ORIE L. THOMASON, St. Louis, Mo., assignors to said Hoover. Filed Aug. 30, 1922. Serial No. 585,193. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—62.)

1. In a vehicle having a front axle, a steering knuckle arranged to turn on a vertical axis at one end of the axle, and a socket on the inner side of the steering knuckle, the combination of a steering arm extending forwardly through said socket and beyond the front side thereof for turning the steering knuckle, clamping nuts at the front and rear sides of said socket securing said arm in rigid position, a rod separate from said steering arm secured in the nut at the front side of said socket and extending downwardly and forwardly to the plane of the axle, a transverse rod in the plane of the front axle having swivel connection with said first-named rod, a vertical lamp spindle mounted for turning movements, a forwardly extended rod in connection with the lower end of said spindle in the same horizontal plane with the forward end of said first-named rod and having swivel connection with said second rod, a lamp on the upper end of said spindle, a second lamp spindle, a lamp mounted on the second spindle, and a connection for turning the second lamp from the first one.

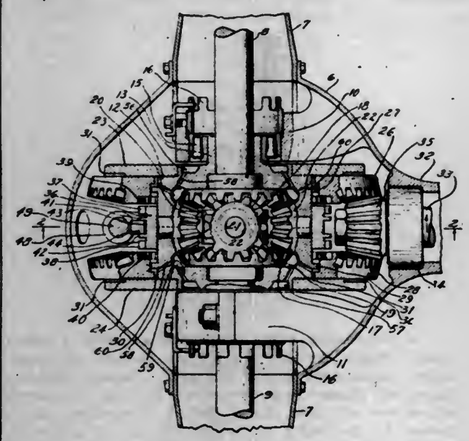
1,459,892. PNEUMATIC SPRING. JAMES G. HUGHES, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Apr. 6, 1922. Serial No. 550,020. 5 Claims. (Cl. 267—65.)

1. In a pneumatic spring device, the combination with a pneumatic tire casing of resilient material, of closing members for confining said ring lying across the axial opening therein at both sides thereof, so as to confine a body of air between the closing members, said air space being confined at its periphery by the casing.



1,459,893. IGNITION SYSTEM. JOHN H. HUNT, Dayton, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Delco-Light Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 10, 1919. Serial No. 288,938. 10 Claims. (Cl. 123—148.)

1. In an ignition system, the combination with an engine; of a relatively low voltage current source; a relatively high voltage current source; an ignition coil arranged to provide a spark at the instant of connection with the high voltage source, or a spark at the instant of break of connection with the low voltage source; a timer arranged to time the make of the ignition circuit at the proper advance for engine running, and to time the break of the ignition circuit at the proper retard for engine starting; and means for connecting either current source with the ignition coil and timer.

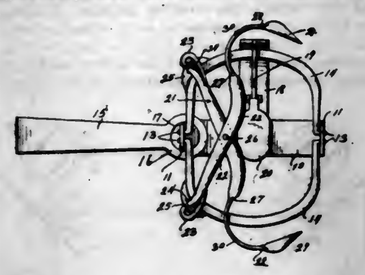
1,459,894. REVERSIBLE DIFFERENTIAL GEARING FOR VEHICLES. GEORGE H. IRWIN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Utilities Development Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 10, 1919. Serial No. 276,034. 10 Claims. (Cl. 74—99.)

1. In differential driving mechanism, the combination with differential gearing, of a rotatable hub, a shaft structure connected to rotate with said hub, end plates secured to said hub, peripheral flanges on said hub adjacent said end plates, transmission gears confined on said hub between said end plates and flanges and rotatable on said hub, means for rotating said gears, and clutch mechanism located between said end plates for clutching either of said gears in driving connection with said hub.

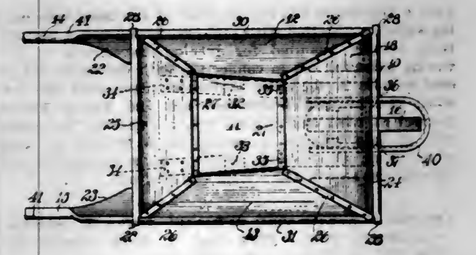
1,459,895. BLAST-FURNACE STOCK-LINE PROTECTION. EDWARD L. IVES, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Freyn, Brassert & Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Oct. 24, 1921. Serial No. 509,774. 2 Claims. (Cl. 266—31.)

1. In a blast furnace, protecting plates located at the stock line thereof, said plates containing in excess of three per cent of manganese.



1,459,896. COUNTERSINK GAUGE. WILLIAM N. JOHN, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Dec. 8, 1921. Serial No. 520,827. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—169.)

1. A countersink gauge comprising a barrel, a sleeve slidable within the barrel, a plunger mounted for longitudinal adjustment within the sleeve, means yieldably urging said plunger to project outwardly from said barrel, said sleeve and said barrel having cooperating marks thereon for indicating the relative amount of projection of said plunger, and a stem in said sleeve for locking said plunger in adjusted position.



1,459,897. ANIMAL TRAP. LOUIS J. LA VALLE, Warren, Pa. Filed Sept. 9, 1922. Serial No. 587,185. 8 Claims. (Cl. 43—90.)

2. In a trap of the character described, a pair of main jaws, spring means normally tending to close the jaws, a trip mechanism for holding the jaws open in set position, a pair of pivotally connected pincher members operatively connected with the jaws, the pincher members being of hook formation with their intermediate portions formed rigid and their hook portions reduced to define springs permitting yielding.

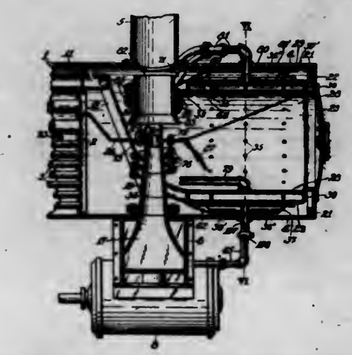
1,459,898. METAL WHEELBARROW. DANIEL C. MELVIHILL, Hannibal, Mo. Filed Feb. 10, 1922. Serial No. 535,482. 12 Claims. (Cl. 280—52.)

1. A metal wheel barrow having integral bottom, sides and handles.

1,459,899. GARAGE-DOOR-HOLDER DEVICE. OLE P. OVERLIEN, Black River Falls, Wis. Filed June 17, 1922. Serial No. 569,074. 2 Claims. (Cl. 292—278.)



1. In a device of the character described, a pair of brackets adapted to be secured to the inner sides of a pair of outwardly swinging doors, a rod adjustable in length and having one extremity pivoted to one of the brackets, said rod being pivoted near its other end to the other bracket but projecting beyond said last named pivot, a spring catch engageable with said projecting end to lock the same when the doors are opened and means secured to the catch and extending to a point adjacent the door for releasing said catch.

1,459,900. METHOD OF MAKING SALICYLATES. MARK E. PUTNAM and JOHN MCCRADIE, Midland, Mich., assignors to The Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Feb. 21, 1921. Serial No. 446,745. 7 Claims. (Cl. 260—11.)

1. In a method of making an alkali-metal salt of salicylic acid, the steps which consist in neutralising a solution of such acid with a carbonate of the desired metal, adding to the neutralising solution a small percentage, relatively to the amount of the resulting alkali-metal salicylate present, of a soluble salt of a common metal of the fourth group, secondary series of the periodic system, passing hydrogen sulphide through such solution, separating the latter from the resultant precipitate, and concentrating such solution to dryness.

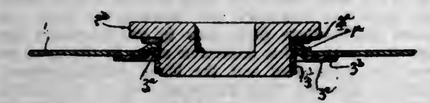
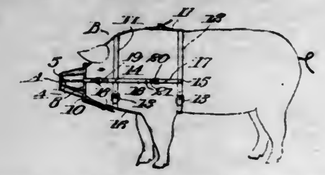
1,459,901. MEANS FOR HEATING BOILER FEED WATER. BURR R. SKINNER, Aberdeen, S. Dak. Filed June 20, 1919. Serial No. 305,618. 4 Claims. (Cl. 122—428.)

1. A feed-water heater including two concentrically arranged rings, one end of each ring having two concavely curved portions, a head connected to the ends of the rings and having two curved portions connected to the curved portions of the rings, a head connected to the opposite ends of the rings, a feed-pipe arranged above and adjacent to the lower portion of the inner one of the rings and connected directly thereto, and two steam-jacket wall segments having top and bottom portions and also end portions secured to the outer side of the outer one of the two rings, the upper and lower portions of one end portion of each segment having concavely-curved portions corresponding to the curved head portions of the two rings.



1,459,902. SEARCHLIGHT FOR THE GUIDANCE OR DETECTION OF AIRCRAFT. ELMER A. SPERRY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 19, 1918. Serial No. 229,485. 16 Claims. (Cl. 176—51.)

8. In combination, an electric arc searchlight pivoted for movement about a substantially horizontal axis, a light condenser in said searchlight and means controlled by the position of the searchlight for passing a cooling draught of air over said condenser when any portion thereof is above the horizontal plane of the arc.



1,459,903. BUNG FOR METALLIC RECEPTACLES. GROVER F. BEHRINGER, Defiance, Ohio, assignor to The American Steel Package Company, Defiance, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 18, 1921. Serial No. 446,026. 5 Claims. (Cl. 220—39.)

1. In combination with a receptacle provided with a bung opening and an annular reinforcing plug sealing portion, a threaded sput having an annular flange extending laterally from said bung opening and terminating in an annular portion seated beneath each interlocking with said plug sealing portion, and a threaded plug in said sput seated on said plug sealing portion and drawing the latter and said sput toward each other in clamping and sealing relation to said annular reinforcing portion of the receptacle surrounding said bung opening when drawn up.

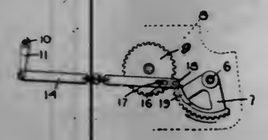
1,459,904. BROOD-SOW MUZZLE. CARL F. BRACHT, Twin Brooks, S. Dak. Filed July 15, 1920. Serial No. 396,623. 1 Claim. (Cl. 119—133.)

A muzzle for the purpose specified having an attaching harness consisting of spaced straps, buckles to adjustably secure the straps in endless formation, sectional straps in crossing said straps secured thereto and having adjustable buckle connection, for the sections arranged intermediate the first straps, and the second straps having portions projecting beyond one of the first straps to mount the muzzle and buckles to secure the free ends of said portions located on the portions at a distance from the free ends.



1,459,905. DRAWING PRESS. ARTHUR A. BYERLEIN, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Toledo Machine & Tool Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 3, 1920. Serial No. 421,491. 1 Claim. (Cl. 113—38.)

In a drawing press, a frame, a hollow vertically reciprocable shaping plunger carried by the frame, a vertically reciprocable blank holding plunger in the shaping plunger, vertically alined guides carried by the frame and the opposite sides of the shaping plunger, cross bars spaced above the upper end of the blank holding plunger, means in said space for adjustably connecting the cross bars to the upper end of the blank holding plunger, guide rods projecting upwardly and downwardly from and secured intermediate their ends to the cross-bars and received in said guides, adjustable studs in the space between the cross bars and the blank holding plunger, extending upwardly from the upper end of the shaping plunger, spring bumpers carried by the cross bars and in registry with said studs and also arranged in the space between the cross bars and the blank holding plunger, a crank shaft carried by the frame and connected to the shaping plunger to actuate the latter, and cams on the crank shaft located in close relation to the tops of the cross bars and in the space between the upper ends of the guide rods to actuate the latter and thereby the blank holding plunger.

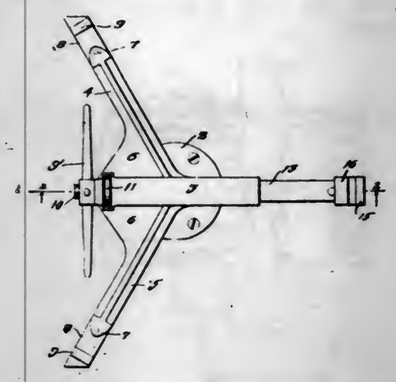
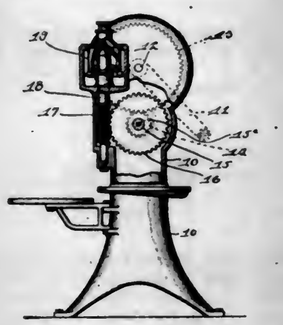
1,459,906. COMPRESSION-RELIEVING MECHANISM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. HONORE DEMERS, Manchester, N. H. Filed June 17, 1921. Serial No. 478,330. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—182.)



In a motor cycle, the combination with a motor cycle frame having a gear box, of an internal combustion engine having a shaft by which the compression in the cylinders may be relieved, a starting gear, a starting pedal, a sector gear rigid with the starting pedal and adapted to actuate the starting gear, an arm fast on said shaft, a slotted link pivoted to said arm, a guiding pin extending from the gear box and operating in said slot and by which the link is guided, and a cam on the periphery of said sector gear adapted to engage the end of the link and thereby operate the shaft to relieve the pressure in the engine cylinders.

1,459,907. PEAT MACHINE. FRED T. DOW, Bangor, Me. Filed Dec. 17, 1921. Serial No. 523,200. 10 Claims. (Cl. 41—28.)

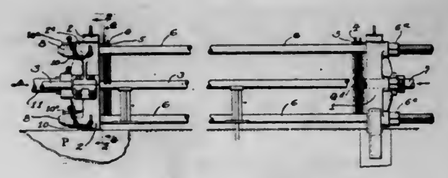


1. The combination with a plate-like member having a plurality of small apertures, of means for cutting peat adjacent the plate and for rubbing the peat through said apertures thereby to produce a peat product in the form of elongated fragments of closely-compacted peat having relatively small diameter.

1,459,908. RIM-STRAIGHTENING DEVICE. ALBERT J. DROLSHAGEN, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Milwaukee Pattern & Mfg. Co., Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Nov. 15, 1920. Serial No. 424,177. 1 Claim. (Cl. 153—32.)

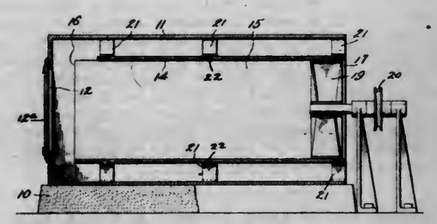
An attachment for a machine of the class described having stationary arms and a movable arm adapted to support thereon a rim, a curved plate, a socket in the end of said movable arm adapted to receive therein the intermediate portion of said plate, and means at the ends of said plate for engagement with the inner side of a rim when straightening the same.

1,459,909. DEVICE FOR ADJUSTING BOWL AND BOWL SPINDLES ON CENTRIFUGAL SEPARATORS. GORDON F. FOWLER, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Sears, Roebuck and Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 29, 1920. Serial No. 369,587. 2 Claims. (Cl. 233—23.)



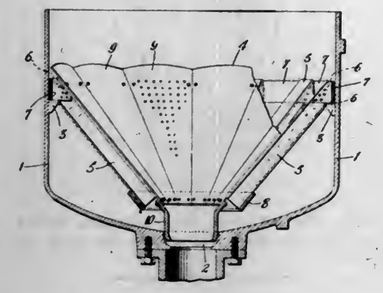
1. In a centrifugal separator the combination with a bowl of a spindle for supporting said bowl, said bowl and spindle being provided with counterpart recesses and projections for locking said spindle in relation to said bowl, a gear casing, a shaft journalled in said gear casing, a worm on said spindle, a worm gear connected with said shaft and engaging said worm on said spindle, a second gear on said shaft, a third gear for driving said second gear at a multiplied speed, means for driving said third gear, one extremity of said shaft being journalled in the wall of said gear casing and accessible from the exterior thereof, said shaft being provided on said extremity accessible from the exterior of the gear casing with means adapted to receive a tool for imparting rotation thereto in locating said bowl and spindle in relation to said counterpart recesses and projections thereon, and a detachable tool having a part corresponding with and being adapted to engage the said tool receiving part on said shaft.

1,459,910. METHOD OF REMOVING RUST FROM METAL ARTICLES. JULIAN S. GRAVELY, Wytheville, Va., assignor to Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Conn., a Corporation. Filed July 22, 1922. Serial No. 576,865. 1 Claim. (Cl. 148—8.)



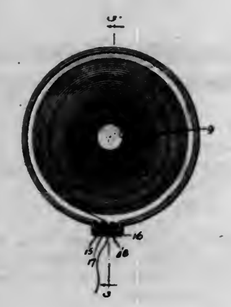
A method of removing rust from metal articles consisting in subjecting them to the action of a substantially neutral solution of the ammonium salt of an organic acid, and then, after a due interval of time, washing off the resulting slime produced by the reaction of the ammonium salt solution upon the rusted surface of the article.

1,459,911. FILTER PRESS. ALANSON McD. GRAY, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to The M. W. Kellogg Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 8, 1922. Serial No. 542,110. 1 Claim. (Cl. 210—177.)



A filter press comprising in combination a fixed head, a movable head, tie-rods extending between said heads, extension heads threaded on said tie-rods at the end of the rods co-operating with said movable head, said extension heads having slots therethrough and keys for said slots normally co-operating with the outer face of said movable head for transmitting the thrust from said head to said tie-rods.

1,459,912. DRYING MACHINE. GIOVANNI IANIERI, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Jan. 27, 1922. Serial No. 532,308. 5 Claims. (Cl. 34—19.)

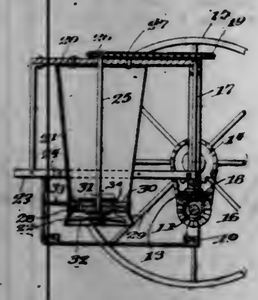


3. A device of the character described comprising an outer casing open at one end and having its other end provided with air inlet openings, means for regulating the passage of air through said inlet openings, an inner casing disposed within said outer casing in spaced relation to the walls thereof and having its rear end open and its forward end provided with a large opening, and a rotary ventilator fan mounted in said large opening.

1,459,913. DIGESTER AND STRAINER THEREFOR. FRANCIS E. JOHNSON, Jr., Orange, N. J., assignor to The M. W. Kellogg Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 1, 1921. Serial No. 474,245. 4 Claims. (Cl. 92—7.)

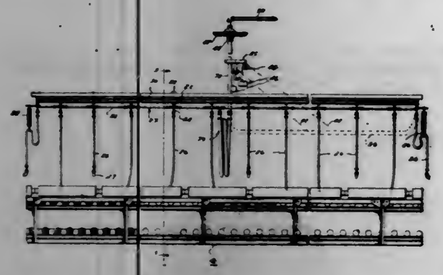
1. A digester apparatus comprising a tank and a strainer therein supported at one end only.

1,459,914. ROLL-FILM HOLDER. JOHN A. KNOBR, Bayonne, N. J. Filed June 8, 1921. Serial No. 475,952. 4 Claims. (Cl. 242—71.)



4. A roll film holder comprising a tubular body having a slot in its periphery, the edges of said slot being bent outwardly and then inwardly upon itself to form a pair of jaws, said jaws being adapted to press against each other, a piece of felt for each jaw to prevent admission of light in the holder, a side member at each end of the tubular body and each formed with a projection extending beyond the periphery of the tubular body and adapted to lie adjacent the ends of said jaws, said projections at the sides being formed with lateral members adapted to overlap a portion of the outer surface of the jaws whereby to prevent light entering into the holder from the ends of the jaws.

1,459,915. INSECTICIDE SPRAYER. VALENTINE KOEHMSTEDT, Grafton, N. Dak. Filed Apr. 6, 1921. Serial No. 459,090. 2 Claims. (Cl. 275—15.)



1. An insecticide sprayer for plants including a stationary insecticide hopper, a powder discharging means in the bottom of the hopper, a downwardly and outwardly flaring baffle wall carried by the bottom of the hopper below the discharging means, and a centrifugal throwing means within the flared wall in position to receive powder thereon from the discharging means and throw said powder outwardly against the inner face of the said wall.

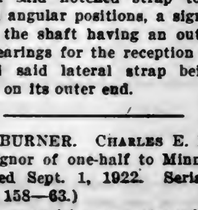
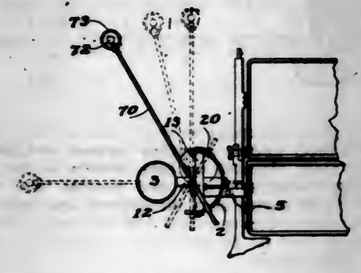
1,459,916. CONVEYING SYSTEM. JESSE E. MCBRIDE, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Palmer-Bee Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Nov. 21, 1921. Serial No. 516,564. 17 Claims. (Cl. 18—4.)

6. The combination with a conveyor for carrying molds having expansible cores, of a fluid conveying main moving with said conveyor, and conductors connected to said main and adapted to be detachably connected to said molds.



11. In the method of manipulating molds in the manufacture of molded articles, the continuous advancement of the molds and the inflation of portions thereof during their continuous advancement.

1,459,917. DIAL. ALFRED R. MCCANN, Hamilton, Ohio, assignor to The Liberty Machine Tool Co., Hamilton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 20, 1921. Serial No. 464,999. 1 Claim. (Cl. 116—129.)

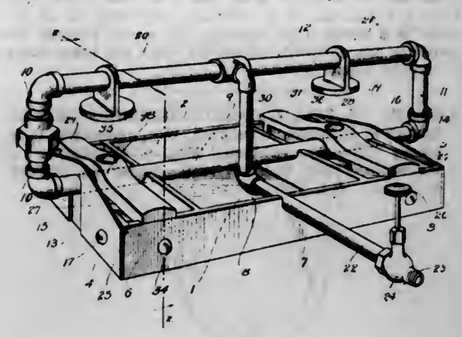


In a planer or the like, the combination of a support, a shaft rotatably journaled in the support, a sleeve fixed on the shaft and provided with a shoulder, a dial loosely fitted on the sleeve and against its shoulder, the inner face of the dial lying closely adjacent but not contacting the faces of the support, and a nut threaded on the sleeve and adapted to clamp the dial against the shoulder, the face of the support and the periphery of the dial being formed with co-operative indices.

1,459,918. STEPLADDER. SIDNEY A. MCGAW, Fresno, Calif. Filed Feb. 20, 1922. Serial No. 538,127. 2 Claims. (Cl. 228—38.)

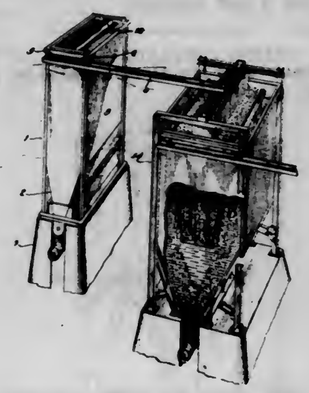
1. In a step ladder having runners and a plurality of steps extending between the runners, a plurality of step braces, each brace having a socket adapted to receive an end of a step, the under wall of the socket extending beyond the face of the socket, an extension of said under wall being bent at an acute angle backward to the runner, and a portion of said under wall being pressed out so it depends downward in a common plane with the end wall of said socket.

1,459,919. VEHICLE SIGNAL. EDWARD F. MCGILLICUDDY, Seattle, Wash. Filed Aug. 9, 1922. Serial No. 580,699. 3 Claims. (Cl. 116—54.)



1. The combination with a bracket comprising a longitudinal strap having journal bearings along its upper edge, a circular-segmental strap having spaced notches in its edge, a transverse strap connecting the longitudinal strap and the circular-segmental strap, and extending outwardly of the longitudinal strap, and a supporting clamp secured to said longitudinal strap, of a shaft rotative within said bearings, and terminating at its rear end in an integral laterally extending control handle cooperating with said notched strap to maintain the shaft in adjusted angular positions, a signal arm secured upon said shaft, the shaft having an outward extension forward of its bearings for the reception and support of a spotlight, and said lateral strap being adapted to support a mirror on its outer end.

1,459,920. OIL BURNER. CHARLES E. MCKEE, Kansas City, Mo., assignor of one-half to Minnie Toner, Camden, Mo. Filed Sept. 1, 1922. Serial No. 585,683. 1 Claim. (Cl. 158—63.)



An oil burner comprising a rectangular base having two longitudinal side walls, two end walls and a bottom, two transverse partitions spaced from the end walls, the partitions and end walls having pipe receiving seats, a loop of pipe having an intake connection and orifices through which the fuel may discharge, said pipe being received in the seats in the end walls and partitions, means fastened to the ends of the base for clamping the pipe onto the seats, and cross bars fastened to the base and having openings in line with the discharge orifices of the pipe, the openings in the cross bars being in line with openings in the bottom of the base whereby air may pass up through the bottom of the base around the outlet orifices for the loop and after combining with the air, pass through the openings in the bars.

1,459,921. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR THE HYDRODYNAMIC SEPARATION OF PARTICLES. THEODORE NAGEL, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Nov. 7, 1921. Serial No. 513,236. 9 Claims. (Cl. 83—82.)

1. The method of separating a material from a mixture of two materials and a liquid which method consists in projecting the mixture upwardly through and out of a liquid body to cause the materials of the mixture to travel at different velocities and the slower moving material to pass out of the mixture below the exit of the other material.

1,459,922. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR THE HYDRODYNAMIC SEPARATION OF PARTICLES. THEODORE NAGEL, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Mar. 4, 1922. Serial No. 540,958. 6 Claims. (Cl. 83—82.)

1. The method which consists in projecting an unclassified unseparated mixture of particles through and in contact with a quiescent liquid body to dilute the same and thereafter projecting the particles into an upwardly moving liquid body at an angle to the direction of motion of said upwardly moving liquid body while so controlling the velocity and direction of the upwardly moving liquid as to cause the particles of one material to be carried upwardly with the upwardly moving liquid body and the particles of the other material to traverse or cross the upwardly moving liquid and to pass out of the same.

1,459,923. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR TREATING MATERIAL WITH GAS. THEODORE NAGEL, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 26, 1922. Serial No. 556,810. 4 Claims. (Cl. 263—25.)

1. The method which consists in advancing a charge of material and a gas through a chamber horizontally and in opposite directions, all of the gas at all times during its passage through the chamber flowing in practically a uniform, helical, annular path, to force substantially all of the gas during each helical advancement thereof to contact with the charge and to present every particle of the charge to the gas during its passage through the chamber.

2. In an apparatus of the class described, a cylindrical member or shell, a cylindrical member within said shell extending longitudinaly thereof and spaced from the walls thereof and a helical member within the space between the shell and said cylindrical member, said cylindrical members and said helical member being rotatable as a unit.

1,459,924. CUSHION CAP FOR STAPLING MACHINES AND THE LIKE. LOU OBSTFELD, New York, N. Y., assignor to Markwell Manufacturing Co., Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 6, 1922. Serial No. 550,048. 1 Claim. (Cl. 1—21.)

A cushion cap for stapling machines and the like comprising an upper dome-shaped cushioning member having an inner dome-shaped face and an obliquely and inwardly disposed peripheral member, said upper member being provided with auxiliary pneumatic cushioning means in the form of a substantially centrally disposed indentation on the inner face thereof.

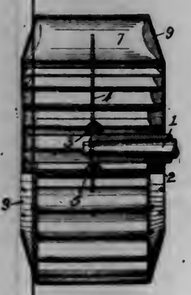
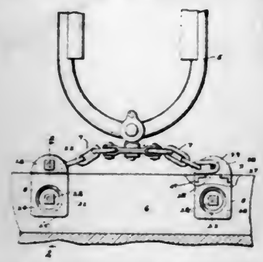
1,459,925. FLUID STRAINER. AUGUST OLIN, Alameda, Calif., assignor to Atlas Imperial Engine Company, Oakland, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Feb. 16, 1922. Serial No. 536,912. 5 Claims. (Cl. 210—164.)



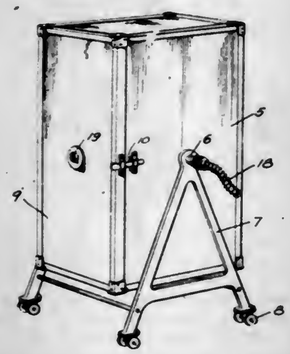
1. A strainer comprising an internally threaded casing, adapted to have fluid pressure conduits secured to the opposite ends thereof, and a plug screw threadedly arranged within said casing of a cross sectional area less than that of the internal cross section of the said casing having flattened sides that do not extend the entire length thereof.

1,459,926. TIE HOLDER. PETER OASI, Stockton, Calif. Filed Jan. 4, 1922. Serial No. 526,889. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—60.)



1. A necktie holder comprising a frame bar, an inwardly projecting member mounted on the inner side thereof and having a slot therein for engaging a collar button, a fastening element secured to the outer side of the frame bar for detachably connecting a tie thereto, and spring fingers arranged on the outer side of the frame bar to engage the collar and secure the device in a proper position thereon.

1,459,927. FAN. GERALD E. OTIS, Moline, Ill., assignor to The Herman Nelson Corporation, Moline, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 9, 1921. Serial No. 468,201. 1 Claim. (Cl. 230—11.)

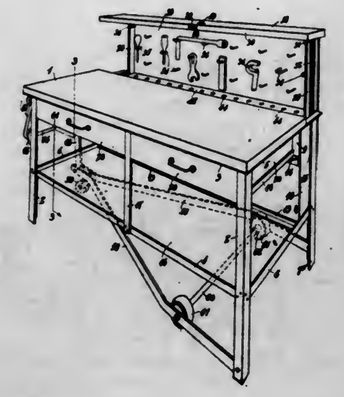


In a fan of the class described, a hub, a disk axially secured to the hub and projecting radially therefrom, said disk having a set of equidistantly spaced inwardly projecting slots provided in its periphery entirely around the same, a set of blades of curved form in cross section each having a centrally disposed slot in its inner edge and adapted to enter a slot of the disk with its slot straddling the inner end wall of the disk slot, and annular side members disposed at the outer ends of the blades in rigid stud and slot connection therewith, the side members being spaced at their inner edges from the hub and each extending outwardly at an incline to a radial plane whereby the spaces between the members are narrowed outwardly from the inner edges of the side members.

1,459,928. LOWER-STANCHION-SECURING MEANS. ROBERT F. RASMUSSEN, Oshkosh, Wis., assignor to C. A. Libbey Company, Oshkosh, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Dec. 26, 1919. Serial No. 347,276. 4 Claims. (Cl. 119—149.)

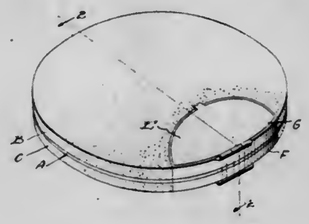
1. A stall appliance comprising separate bracket members adapted to embrace a curbing, an upwardly projecting ear carried by each bracket member, and a transversely extending bolt extending through and connecting the ears of the bracket members and said bracket members with a stall appliance.

1,459,929. DRYING APPARATUS. ORWELL C. REEVES, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Jan. 24, 1921. Serial No. 439,412. 4 Claims. (Cl. 34—39.)



2. A drying apparatus comprising a frame, a cabinet rotatably mounted thereon, the cabinet having an apertured pipe adjacent one wall for the introduction of heated air and the like and its opposite wall being formed with a vent for the outlet of the air and moisture, friction means surrounding said pipe for holding the cabinet in any angular position, and a series of spaced screens for the support of the articles to be dried arranged between said pipe and vent.

1,459,930. TOOL RACK. ALBERT J. RIEHLE, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Mar. 2, 1922. Serial No. 540,523. 9 Claims. (Cl. 144—285.)



1. In a tool rack, a structure comprising a compartment having one upright side movable up and down and provided with means whereby said side holds articles on its inner surface, to be enclosed in said compartment or exposed for access as said side is moved one way or another, a drawer in said structure, and means whereby said drawer is locked when said side is moved to enclose said articles.

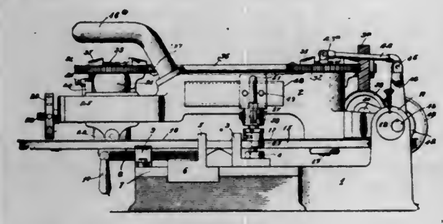
1,459,931. COMBINED ROUGE AND POWDER PUFF. WADSWORTH D. ROY, Birmingham, Mich. Filed Nov. 10, 1921. Serial No. 514,170. 6 Claims. (Cl. 132—82.)

1. In combination with a centrally disposed layer, a surface layer of fluffy fabric disposed on each face of said central layer, each of said surface layers having a correspondingly positioned cut away portion which leaves the adjacent portion of the central layer exposed, a pair of outwardly opening containers located in the cut-away portions of said fabric pieces on each side of said central layer, and resilient means for holding said containers in position relatively to one another and in detachable relation about the otherwise exposed portion of said central layer.



1,459,932. PROCESS OF HEAT-TREATMENT. EDGAR STANSFIELD, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. Filed Apr. 3, 1920. Serial No. 371,136. 10 Claims. (Cl. 202—8.)

10. The process of heat treatment of carbonaceous material which consists in comminuting it, passing it, by gravity, in narrow streams, inclined at a greater angle to the horizontal than the angle of repose of the material, in the absence of air and with agitation, causing the layer to be increased in thickness and to be subjected from below to heat sufficient to remove volatile substances from it, which heat increases in temperature as the material moves downward, and controlling the time of treatment by means of the rate of withdrawal of the treated material.

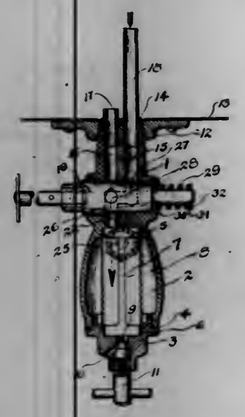
1,459,933. BAND-SAW MACHINE. EMANUEL STAUDER, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Huther Bros. Saw Manufacturing Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 25, 1921. Serial No. 464,158. 15 Claims. (Cl. 29—68.)



1. In a band saw machine, the combination with a work holder, of a pair of pulley wheels, a band saw running on said wheels, a drive shaft and a driving connection between the latter and each of the wheels

1,459,934. VALVE. EUGENE A. STILES, Kokomo, Ind., assignor to Kokomo Brass Works, Kokomo, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed May 16, 1921. Serial No. 469,934. 1 Claim. (Cl. 158—46.5.)

A valve comprising a body having a plug rotatably mounted transversely thereof, the body having at one end thereof two longitudinal passages arranged substantially parallel and spaced from each other, and having at the other end a chamber provided with a cap nut, the cap nut and the opposite end of the chamber having cooperating recesses to receive and hold in position therebetween a screen member, the cap nut having a discharge passage communicating with the lower end of the interior of the screen member and having a closure for the discharge opening, the chamber having an outlet tube adjacent to its upper end and outside of the screw member, and the said plug having ports therein for establishing communication interchangeably between the two parallel passages and the interior of the screen member.

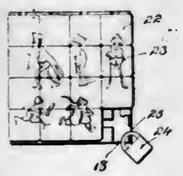
1,459,935. HOIST FOR VEHICLE BODIES. HENRY C. STRUCHEN, St. Paul, Minn. Filed July 12, 1920. Serial No. 395,524. 1 Claim. (Cl. 298—21.)

In a hoist for a tiltable vehicle body, a power take-off device operatively connected with the propelling mechanism of the vehicle, a pair of winding drums journaled on the vehicle frame, driving mechanism between said take-off device and drums adapted to hold the drums against rotation by the weight of the body and to turn said drums in either direction upon engagement of the take-off device with the vehicle propelling mechanism, arms depending from the body, a sheave at the lower extremity of each arm, a sheave near the upper end of each arm and above the frame of the vehicle, a cable having one end thereof attached to one drum and the other end thereof to the other drum, each reach of the cable passing beneath the lower sheave and over the upper sheave of one of said arms, as and for the purposes described.



1,459,936. EJECTOR SYSTEM. ROBERT SUCZEK, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to C. H. Wheeler Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 17, 1922, Serial No. 553,573. Renewed May 9, 1923. 28 Claims. (Cl. 230—13.)

1. The combination with means forming a passage between regions having different pressures, of means for withdrawing elastic fluid from the region of lower pressure and discharging it at higher pressure comprising ejector apparatus having a suction chamber, a diffuser and nozzle structure, means for delivering elastic motive fluid to said nozzle structure to effect jet formation of said motive fluid for entraining thereby said first named elastic fluid in said suction chamber, said suction chamber communicating with and receiving elastic fluid from said region of lower pressure, said suction chamber and diffuser included in said passage, and automatically operating valve structure preventing reverse flow of fluid through said passage.

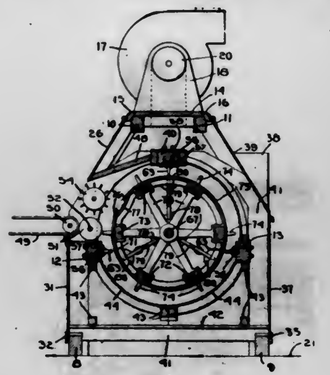
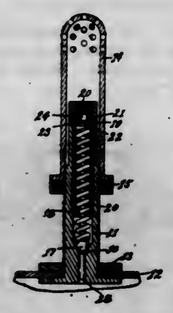
1,459,937. COMBINED PUZZLE AND EDUCATIONAL DEVICE. HENRY C. TEIPEL, Hartford, Wis. Filed May 5, 1921. Serial No. 467,200. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—41.)



1. A device of the character described comprising a strip of metal folded on itself so as to form transverse channels and T-shaped portions between the channels, longitudinal slots being cut to connect the transverse channels and side strips secured to the sides of the first named strip after it has been folded so as to form closures for the transverse channels.

1,459,938. CONE DUSTER. CHARLES P. R. THIEL, North Andover, Mass., assignor to Davis & Furber Machine Company, North Andover, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed July 20, 1922. Serial No. 576,323. 13 Claims. (Cl. 19—90.)



11. A cone duster comprising a cabinet, a reticulated cage mounted in the cabinet, a feed opening through the cabinet wall and cage, a discharge opening through the cabinet wall and cage, a beater mechanism within the cage, a continuous space surrounding the cage between it and the cabinet, and a suction fan connected to the said space whereby, as the material is fed through the cage and beaten, the heavier dirt is discharged on the bottom of the cabinet and the lighter dust is sucked out from all parts of the cabinet by the fan.

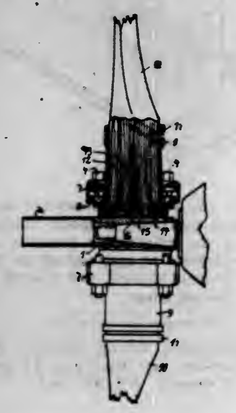
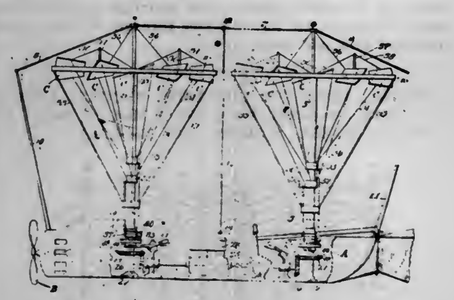
1,459,939. BLOW-OFF VALVE FOR PNEUMATIC TIRES. ALFRED H. UATUMMS, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 10, 1922. Serial No. 551,967. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—53.)



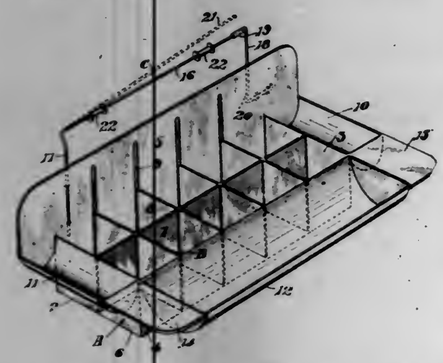
A valve of the character described having a spring adapted to yieldingly keep the same closed, an adjusting member adapted to regulate the tension of the valve spring and a locking member adapted to lock the adjusting member, said members being threaded within the valve, said adjusting member having a transverse groove in its upper face and said locking member having a transverse groove in its upper face and said locking member having a transverse slot through which a tool may be dropped to engage said channel.

1,459,940. COLLAR BUTTON. ANDREW VANCSO, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 8, 1922. Serial No. 586,835. 5 Claims. (Cl. 24—101.)



1. A collar button of integral construction comprising a flat collar button hole and shirt button hole engaging portion, a shirt collar engaging portion curved throughout its length and attached at one of its edges to an adjacent edge of the first-mentioned portion, and an elongated collar engaging portion tubular in cross-section and attached at one end to said flat portion with the free end of said collar engaging portion flattened and said end turned outwardly away from the shirt collar engaging portion.

1,459,941. ADJUSTABLE PROPELLER NAVE. ERWIN WESNIGK, Berlin, Germany. Filed Aug. 17, 1921. Serial No. 493,122. 3 Claims. (Cl. 170—162.)

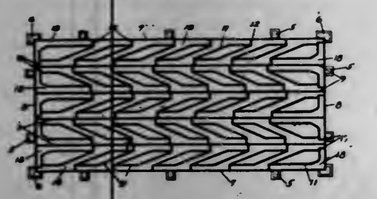


1. In an adjustable aerial propeller, in combination, a shaft; a nave comprising a body adapted to be fixed upon said shaft; hollow blade shank sleeves for the blades, provided with outwardly directed flanges, and a thrust ball bearing cooperating with the outer face of each of said flanges and fastened to said nave body, each of said thrust bearings being so large in diameter as to include the resultant of the centrifugal force and air thrust acting upon the blade and to be able without the aid of additional bearings to hold the blade in the manner of a turntable.

1,459,942. AIRPLANE. JESSE M. ARROWOOD, Valparaiso, Ind. Filed Apr. 9, 1920. Serial No. 372,422. 10 Claims. (Cl. 244—15.)

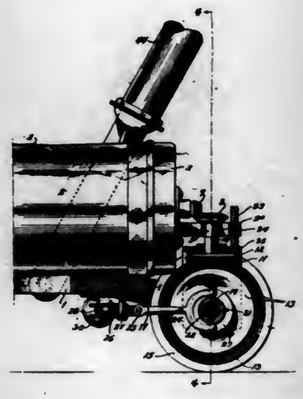
1. In a flying machine, a hull, a propeller therefor, a rotatable mast journaled in and arising from the hull, a circular plane mounted on said mast, an outer series of equi-distant vanes, and an inner series of equi-distant vanes the axes of which extend radially from said mast, devices for simultaneously tilting said vanes, and means for rotating said propeller.

1,459,943. SUTURE BOX. ETHEL M. BAILEY, Yreka, Calif. Filed June 21, 1922. Serial No. 569,783. 4 Claims. (Cl. 206—16.)



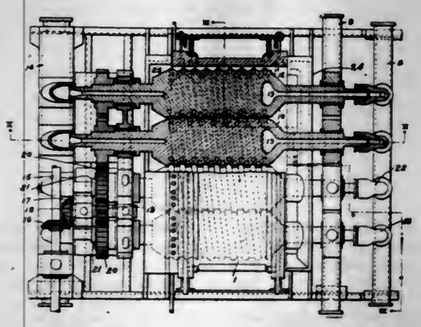
1. A device of the character described comprising a rectangular shaped container, a spacer disposed in the container dividing the same into a plurality of compartments, a trough disposed at each end of the container, a trough disposed in front thereof, and a spool support on the rear side of the container.

1,459,944. TELESCOPE RIFLE SIGHT. WARREN S. BELDING, Philipsburg, Pa. Filed Jan. 18, 1922. Serial No. 530,060. 2 Claims. (Cl. 33—50.)



1. In a telescope rifle sight the combination of a base bar, a plate, a rear sight band, and telescope holders, the base bar being pivoted to the plate and the plate adapted to interlocking engagement with the rear sight band and having at either end a part adapted to coact with the telescope holders, a V-shaped block on the underside of the base bar adapted to securely engage with the cartridge receiver, the cartridge receiver itself and a thumb screw which passes through the bar and is threaded into said plate.

1,459,945. MOLD FOR CONCRETE BLOCKS. EMIL C. BONIGER, Davenport, Iowa. Filed Mar. 21, 1921. Serial No. 453,885. 2 Claims. (Cl. 25—121.)

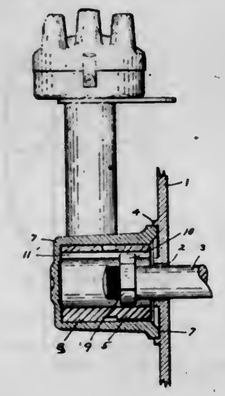


1. A device of the class described, comprising a frame; and a series of substantially diamond-shaped forms arranged in said frame in spaced-apart overlapping relation, and provided at their ends with oppositely disposed extensions adapted for engagement with said frame.

1,459,946. VACUUM CLEANER. VINCENT CAMARATA, JOHN CODRICK, and RAYMOND P. DANLEY, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Nov. 20, 1922. Serial No. 602,173. 8 Claims. (Cl. 15—18.)

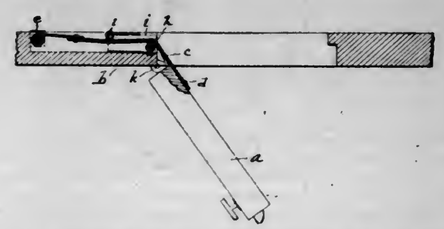
1. A vacuum cleaner comprising a frame; a motor; a nozzle; propelling wheels adjustably mounted on the frame and operatively connected to the motor; reversing means operatively connected to the motor and propelling wheels, and means for controlling the propelling wheels and reversing means at the will of the operator.

1,459,947. COOLING AND FRAGMENTING APPARATUS AND METHOD. HENRY C. CRONEMEYER, Beaver, Pa. Filed July 10, 1922. Serial No. 573,880. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—91.)



1. Solidifying and fragmenting apparatus including a casing and two pairs of rollers mounted on parallel axes lying within a single plane and arranged within the casing, the rollers of each pair rotatable in the same direction and the direction of rotation as between the pairs being opposite, said rollers being provided with spiral surface corrugations, the corrugations of the two rollers of each pair being in register, and said rollers being spaced at intervals from the inner wall of the casing and from one another.

1,459,948. GEAR DRIVE. JAMES KENDALL DELANO, Yonkers, N. Y. Filed Aug. 1, 1922. Serial No. 579,040. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—7.)



In a universal drive for gearing, in combination with a gear cover formed with a locating boss and a concentric bole, and a drive shaft extending through said cover and eccentric with said boss, of a gear housing on said cover and provided with a bearing concentric with said boss, a gear rotatably mounted in said bearing and formed with a bore and keyway therein, a drive nut adapted to be secured upon the end of the shaft and of less diameter than the diameter of the bore of said gear, a lug formed on said nut of less width than the width of said keyway, said lug adapted to engage said keyway and drive said gear, and having a limited free movement within said gear and said keyway to compensate for the eccentricity of said shaft with respect to said gear.

1,459,949. CHECKSTRAP FOR DOORS. WALTER P. DORL, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Door Control Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 6, 1920. Serial No. 415,135. 5 Claims. (Cl. 16—78.)

1. In combination with a swinging door and the jamb to which the same is hinged, a flexible strap one end of which is secured to the door, the other end of which is secured to a spindle so as to be wound therearound when the spindle is rotated in one direction, such spindle carried by the jamb and mounted for rotation, spring means encircling such spindle and so connected therewith and with the jamb as to maintain the spindle under rotary tension tending to revolve the same in a direction to retract the strap when the door is closed, the tension of such spring, however, being insufficient to retract the strap and close the door.

1,459,950. GRAVITY DROP. JOHN DOWNIE, Seattle, Wash. Filed Mar. 7, 1922. Serial No. 541,735. 7 Claims. (Cl. 187—28.)

5. A gravity drop of the class described including a carriage, means for guiding said carriage for vertical movement, a shaft journalled in the upper portion of said carriage, a brake drum secured on said shaft, a pulley secured on said shaft, flexible carriage supporting means passing around said pulley and arranged to rotate said brake drum as said carriage moves up and down, brake shoes for said brake drum, a cradle movable on said carriage, releasable means for normally supporting said cradle and means connecting said cradle with said brake shoes and arranged to apply said brake shoes to said brake drum when said cradle supporting means is moved to release said cradle.

1,459,951. DENTAL BRIDGE. HIERONYMUS EISELE, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Aug. 7, 1922. Serial No. 580,077. 2 Claims. (Cl. 32—12.)

1,459,952. SAFETY GAUGE GLASS. GEORGE ERNST, Newark, N. J. Filed Dec. 7, 1920. Serial No. 428,964. 5 Claims. (Cl. 73—54.)

1. The herein described indicator bar for gauge glasses, the same comprising a straight bar having a flat surface with parallel edges, and a sheet material member fitted over said flat surface and having edge flanges embracing the edges of the bar, said member having color markings on its inner surface.

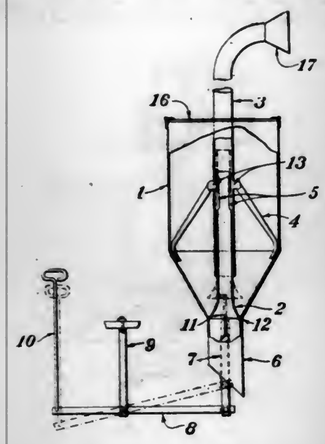
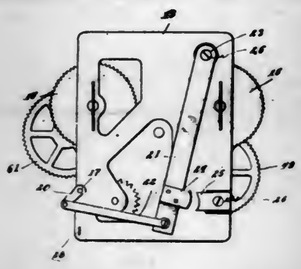
1,459,953. OSTEOPATHIC TABLE. ALBERT M. FREISE, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Feb. 21, 1920. Serial No. 360,429. 9 Claims. (Cl. 128—72.)

1. In a chiropractic table such as described, in combination with a head and dorsal portion, of a foot portion having a stationary top; a slide guided within said stationary top; an extension on said slide hingedly connected thereto; and means for controlling and limiting the movement of said slide relative to said dorsal portion.



1,459,954. SUPPORT FOR VEHICLES. JOHN EDWARD HANCOCK, Charleston, S. C. Filed July 21, 1921. Serial No. 486,422. 9 Claims. (Cl. 254—88.)

1. In an apparatus of the character described, a base including sills having inclines presenting runways, blocks at the ends of said sills constituting supports, a cross piece, roller shafts journaled in said cross piece and said sills, rollers on said shafts, a cradle associated with said base and including side bars mounted on the rollers of the base, end cross bars and an intermediate cross bar, one of said end cross bars and said intermediate cross bar having guide openings, a swinging guide arranged on the cross piece of the base and cooperating with the guide openings of said cross bars, wheels carried by the side bars of the cradle, a pair of pedestals at one end of the cradle including inclines, supports and stops, latch mechanism associated with said pedestals and including pivoted latches, trips comprising pivoted trip bars, and a second pair of pedestals at the opposite ends of the cradle.



1,459,955. POWDER SPRAYER. ELMER JOHNSON, Washington, D. C.; dedicated, by mesne assignments, to the People of the United States. Filed Feb. 28, 1923. Serial No. 621,876. 1 Claim. (Cl. 43—147.) (Filed under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, 22 Stat. L., 625.)

In a dusting machine, a hopper containing insecticide, a tube leading from said hopper, pipes leading inside said hopper from said tube, a funnel at the top of said tube for introducing air into said tube and said pipes, an outlet in said hopper, and a valve controlling said outlet for distributing insecticide from the hopper to be mixed with the air introduced into said tube.

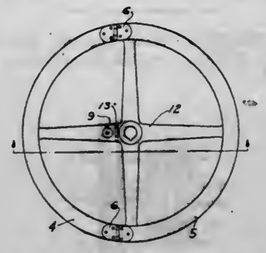
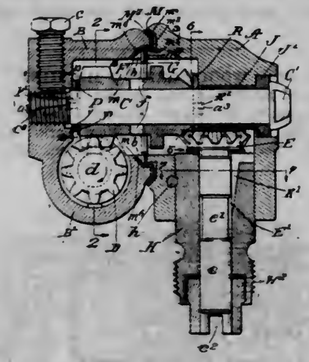
1,459,956. ELECTRIC SWITCH. BEN MAZZA, Grand Junction, Colo. Filed Apr. 25, 1919. Serial No. 292,588. 2 Claims. (Cl. 200—40.)



1. In a time control switch, the combination with a clock mechanism including an auxiliary motor, of a switch including a stationary contact and a movable contact, means operated by the clock mechanism for alternately moving the movable contact in opposite directions, a rotatable element included in such clock operated means, means located in the path of said rotatable element for stopping the movement of the movable contact when the switch reaches a closed position, means including a transversely movable bar also located in the path of the rotatable element for stopping the movement of said movable contact when the switch is opened and means whereby the switch operating mechanism may be controlled to release the rotatable element at predetermined times.



1,459,957. FOLDING STEERING WHEEL. FREDRICK B. MERRITT, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Jan. 10, 1922. Serial No. 528,350. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—33.)

A steering wheel comprising fixed and movable rim segments, a hub provided with the former, the segments being split on a line to one side of the hub, a spoke on the movable segment at right angles to the split line and extending to the hub, and hinges between said rim segments and between the said spoke and hub arranged to enable the movable segment being folded up onto the fixed segment.

1,459,958. SWIVEL-GEAR JOINT AND HOUSING. JOHN K. OLSEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Mar. 30, 1922. Serial No. 548,238. 9 Claims. (Cl. 74—101.)

9. A swivel gear joint comprising two gear housing members, each adapted for housing a pair of intermeshing gears constituting a continuous train and adapted for seating upon each other at a plane transverse to the two intermediate gears of said train, the housing member having the outleading driven shaft of the train comprising two parts, one of which is a sleeve bearing for said outleading driven shaft, said sleeve having its exterior diameter at least as great as that of the gear on said outleading shaft whereby said outleading shaft with its gear mounted in said sleeve may be inserted bodily into the other part of said housing member, and means for keying said inserted sleeve in place therein.

1,459,959. PROCESS FOR THE ACCELERATION OF PROPIONIC FERMENTATION. JAMES M. SHERMAN, Washington, D. C., and ROSCOE H. SHAW, Chicago, Ill.; dedicated, by mesne assignments, to the People of the United States. Filed Aug. 26, 1922. Serial No. 584,541. 15 Claims. (Cl. 260—120.) (Filed under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, 22 Stat. L., 625.)

1. The use of Lactobacillus casei to increase the rate of production of propionates from carbohydrates by action of organisms of the type of Bacterium acidi propionici.

2. The use of Proteus vulgaris to increase the rate of production of propionates from carbohydrates by action of organisms of the type of Bacterium acidi propionici.

3. The use of Bacterium viscosus to increase the rate of production of propionates from carbohydrates by action of organisms of the type of Bacterium acidi propionici.

4. The use of Lactobacillus casei to increase the rate of production of propionates from salts of organic acids by action of organisms of the type of Bacterium acidi propionici.

5. The use of Proteus vulgaris to increase the rate of production of propionates from salts of organic acids by action of organisms of the type of Bacterium acidi propionici.

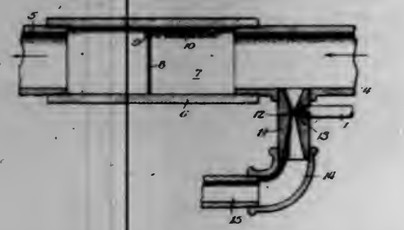
12. The use of organisms which produce lactic acid from carbohydrates, the salts of which acid are also acted upon by the propionic organism to yield propionates and acetates, to increase the rate of production of propionates from carbohydrates by action of organisms of the type of Bacterium acidi propionici.

1,459,960. ELECTRIC PUMP-OPERATED FUEL-FEEDING DEVICE. WALTER VAN GUILDER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Apr. 8, 1922. Serial No. 550,600. 4 Claims. (Cl. 158—36.)

1. In a combination for the purpose of supplying fuel by gravity to the carbureter of an internal combustion engine from a fuel source at a lower level, an electrically operated pump having its intake connected with said fuel source; a fuel receptacle at a higher lever with which the discharge of the pump is connected, said receptacle having above the liquid-containing space thereof two inlet ports, and means for opening them alternately, one at a high level and the other at a low level of liquid in the receptacle; an air inlet passage leading to the port which is opened at high level; a circuit in which the pump motor is energized extending in part in said passage, and having a gap therein, and means for opening and closing said gap which is moved for opening said gap by the movement for opening said last mentioned port.

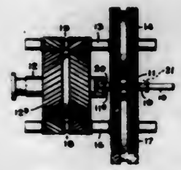


1,459,961. VARIABLE VENTURI FOR SUCTION FEED SYSTEMS. LEONARD H. WHEELER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Apr. 14, 1922. Serial No. 552,806. 10 Claims. (Cl. 158—36.)

1. In combination with an internal combustion engine having an exhaust passage and liquid fuel feeding means employing suction for moving the fuel for distribution to the engine, a suction producing device comprising a

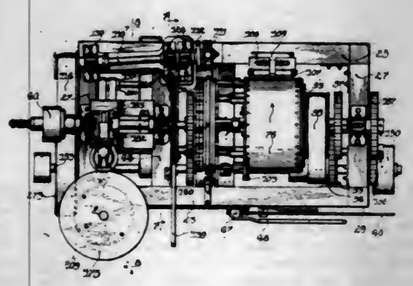
Venturi tube constituting a part of the engine exhaust passage, and having an inlet leading to its constricted portion from the fuel feeding means for producing a suction effect thereon, said Venturi tube being variable in shape for regulating such suction effect.

1,459,962. EXHAUST-PRESSURE GOVERNOR FOR SUCTION-FEED SYSTEMS. LEONARD H. WHEELER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Apr. 14, 1922. Serial No. 552,807. 4 Claims. (Cl. 158—36.)



1. The combination of an internal combustion engine provided with liquid fuel feeding means operated by suction and an exhaust passage comprising two branches, one branch having a venturi with an inlet leading from the fuel feeding means to the constricted portion of the venturi, and the other branch being provided with a valve yieldingly held in closed position but adapted to open to relieve excessive back pressure in the exhaust passage.

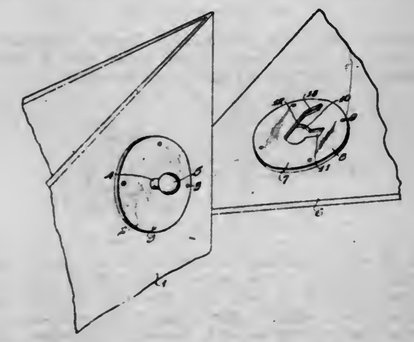
1,459,963. MECHANICAL MOVEMENT. JAMES ALLINGHAM, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 1, 1918, Serial No. 260,664. Renewed Sept. 4, 1920. Serial No. 408,307. 12 Claims. (Cl. 64—100.)



12. In an apparatus of the class described, the combination with a suitable support, of a drive shaft and a transmission shaft journaled thereon, a drive wheel on the drive shaft, a transmission wheel on the transmission shaft, a piston carrying cylinder mounted on the drive wheel near its periphery, means connecting the piston of said cylinder with the periphery of the transmission wheel, and elastic fluid pressure adapted for entrance into the cylinder for coaction with the ends of said pistons.

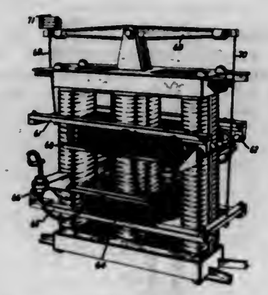
1,459,964. GEARING. KARL ALQUIST, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 5, 1919. Serial No. 287,859. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

1. In a gearing, a high speed pinion comprising a right hand helical pinion member and a left hand pinion member, separate quill shafts for said pinion members, a length of shaft extending through said quill shafts and connected at spaced points thereto whereby the pinion members can adjust themselves relatively to each other, a low speed gear wheel means, and intermediate speed gear wheel means for transmitting power between said pinion members and said low speed gear wheel means.



1,459,965. WOODWORKING MACHINE. CARL F. ANDERSON, Brookfield, and LESTER W. KNAPP, Berwyn, Ill., assignors to Conlon Electric Washer Company, Cicero, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 27, 1920. Serial No. 406,388. 28 Claims. (Cl. 144—2.)

1. In a machine of the class described, the combination of a rotary cutter knife for performing a cutting operation on a head blank, a head clamp adapted to retain said head blank during the cutting operation and to present by relative movement the entire periphery of said head blank to the knife, and boring mechanism associated in timed relation with said head clamp for boring a plurality of holes about the face of said head blank during the cutting operation.



1,459,966. GARMENT FASTENER. ROY H. ANDERSON, St. James, Minn. Filed Oct. 14, 1920. Serial No. 416,908. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—224.)

A garment fastener comprising a pair of complementary disks, one of said disks having a centrally located stud having an enlarged spherical head, the other disk being provided with a central opening having communication with a rectangular slot, said opening being sufficiently large to receive the head of said stud, a resilient spring formed on the edge of the central opening at a point opposite the rectangular slot, and a finger angularly disposed on the end of the resilient spring so that same is positioned directly over the rectangular slot and engages the spherical head for holding the stud in the slot when the complementary fastening members are assembled.

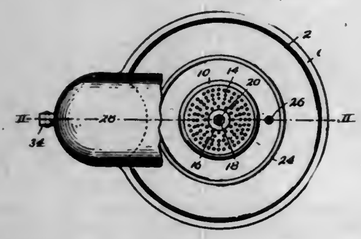
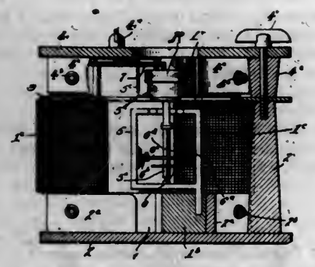
1,459,967. REGULATING DEVICE. LYMAN ARNOLD, Lynn, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 19, 1917. Serial No. 202,758. 14 Claims. (Cl. 171—119.)



9. In a constant-current transformer having relatively movable coils, mounting means for the relatively movable coils constraining their pivotal movement in parallel planes.

1,459,968. VACUUM CLEANER. LOUIS BAILLY, Columbus, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Municipal Equipment Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Mar. 21, 1921. Serial No. 454,019. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—14.)

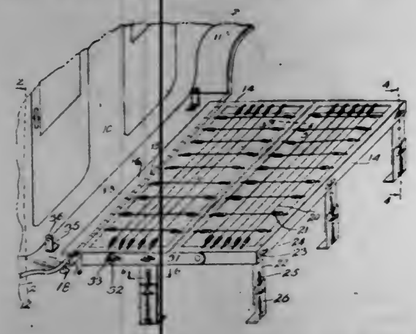


In a vacuum street sweeper having a rotating brush, a hollow saddle over the brush, suction and blast pipes, suction and blast nozzles connected to the said saddle and flexibly joined to the suction and blast pipes, a wheeled frame, and manually actuated connections on the frame for adjusting the saddle and its nozzles vertically with respect to the brush, including a rod carried by the said saddle and its nozzles, bell cranks mounted on the frame and engaging the rod, and a manually actuated winding shaft having flexible connections secured to the bell cranks.

1,459,969. OIL BURNER. JAMES K. BEAUCHAMP, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Apr. 15, 1922. Serial No. 553,210. 2 Claims. (Cl. 158—91.)

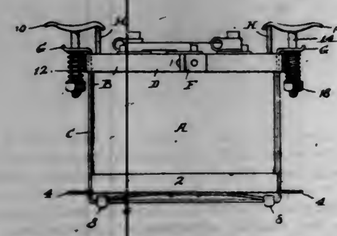
1. An oil burner consisting of a combustion chamber, a generator chamber formed integral with the bottom of said combustion chamber, a perforated cap forming the upper portion of said generator chamber, means for supplying the combustion chamber with oil, and an air intake tube terminating above said generator chamber.

1,459,970. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR TESTING MAGNETIZABLE OBJECTS. CHARLES W. BURROWS, Washington, D. C., assignor of one-fourth to Rudolph J. Wig, Washington, D. C. Filed July 25, 1917. Serial No. 182,716. 7 Claims. (Cl. 175—183.)



1. The herein described method of ascertaining the hardness, tensile strength, homogeneity, presence of flaws and previous heat treatment, of magnetizable objects, consisting in subjecting such object to the action of a relatively rotating or whirling magnetic field, yieldingly restraining the relative deflection of said objects and field, and determining the physical properties of the object by the extent of the magnetic interaction or strength of the torque developed between the object and the field.

1,459,971. PROCESS OF PRODUCING ESTERS. CARNIE B. CARTER, Pittsburgh, Pa., and ALBERT E. COXE, Chicago, Ill., assignors, by mesne assignments, to S. Karpen & Bros., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Nov. 13, 1920. Serial No. 423,870. 11 Claims. (Cl. 260—106.)



1. The method of producing an ester which comprises causing a reaction, at elevated temperature, between a halogen derivative of natural gas and a metallic salt of an acid, in the presence of a solvent comprising alcohol.

1,459,972. COMBINED BED AND LUGGAGE CARRIER. FERDINAND C. CLAWSON, Des Moines, and GEORGE GRANT KIBBEE, Forest City, Iowa. Filed Jan. 16, 1922. Serial No. 529,624. 1 Claim. (Cl. 5—119.)

In a device of the class described, a bed and luggage carrier structure designed for use with a vehicle having a running board, comprising first and second frames, each having means forming a support for bed clothing, means for hinging the first frame at one edge to the outer edge of the running board to move from horizontal to vertical position, means for hinging the outer edge of said first frame to the edge of the second frame to permit the frames to stand in aligned horizontal position or in vertical, folded position with the second frame outside the first frame adjacent thereto, braces pivoted to the ends of the second frame, means for securing said braces in overlapped positions to the ends of the first frame when the frames are extended, and means for securing said braces to the vehicle in positions inclined inwardly and downwardly from the frames for rigidly supporting the frames in vertical position and forming end members of a luggage carrier.

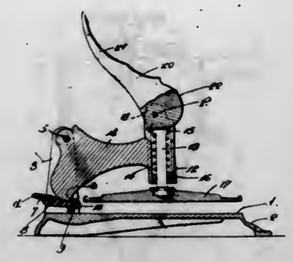
1,459,973. BATTERY SHOCK ABSORBER. EDWARD J. COLGAN, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Feb. 10, 1921. Serial No. 443,978. 2 Claims. (Cl. 180—68.5.)

1. In combination with a storage battery and its support, a tray in which the battery is set, and a bow spring interposed between said tray and the battery support and provided with lugs to prevent its displacement relative to the support.

1,459,974. ROLLER BEARING. FRANK ARCHELAUS CRITZ, Jr., West Point, Miss. Filed Nov. 4, 1921. Serial No. 512,779. 3 Claims. (Cl. 64—62.)

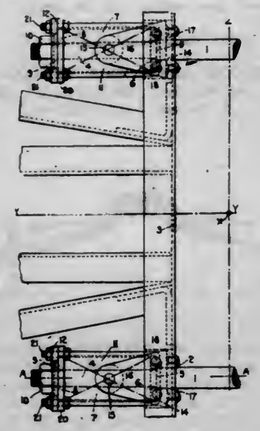
2. In roller bearings, the combination of rollers each having a collar in the center with reduced adjacent bearing surfaces at each side, trunnions at each end of the roller, engaging cage rings having openings receiving said trunnions and rotatably mounting said rollers, the collar and adjacent reduced bearing surfaces of the roller having a cone shape, and engaging corresponding beveled surfaces of inner and outer sleeves, the diameters of the reduced adjacent bearings, at the circular lines where said bearings join said collar, being to the diameters of the collar through said circular lines, respectively, as the diameters of the inner sleeve at said circular lines of juncture are to the diameters of the inner surface of the outer sleeve, at the points of contact with each edge of said collar, respectively.

1,459,975. NOZZLE FOR THE DELIVERY OF WATER OR OTHER LIQUID UNDER PRESSURE. CLIFFORD ROGER FLEMING-WILLIAMS, Lake Windermere, England. Filed Sept. 1, 1921. Serial No. 497,778. 7 Claims. (Cl. 299—107.)



1. A nozzle of the kind herein referred to and comprising a tubular portion having a restricted orifice at one end, and a bulbous chamber of larger cross sectional dimensions than said tubular portion, said chamber communicating with said tubular portion and having a relatively large delivery orifice in axial alignment with said tubular portion substantially as set forth.

1,459,976. TORTILLA PRESS. ALFRED C. GORE and CHARLES L. GORE, San Antonio, Tex. Filed May 17, 1921. Serial No. 470,452. 2 Claims. (Cl. 107—15.)



1. An apparatus of the character described comprising a base plate, a pressure plate, a supporting arm pivotally mounted above the base plate, means to swing the supporting arm, a sleeve carried by the supporting arm and adapted to be disposed vertically above the said base plate or swung to a position above and to one side of the base plate when the said supporting arm is swung on its pivot, latch means to maintain the supporting arm in fixed position when the said sleeve is disposed above the base plate, an operating arm pivotally mounted above the sleeve and equipped with a cam member, means for connecting the sleeve with the said pressure plate, said means being adapted to be engaged by the said cam member whereby a pressure may be exerted on the pressure plate when the said operating arm is swung to move the said cam across the said means.

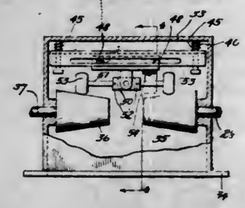
1,459,977. RAILWAY AND TRAMWAY VEHICLE. HERBERT NIGEL GRESLEY, Doncaster, England, assignor to The Leeds Forge Company, Limited, Leeds, England. Filed Oct. 23, 1922. Serial No. 596,264. 7 Claims. (Cl. 105—4.)

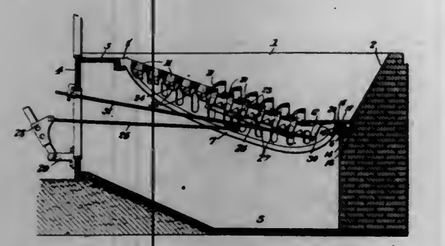


1. In a coupling arrangement for railway and tramway vehicles of the kind in which the adjacent ends of two vehicles are supported by one common bogie, spring control gear fitted to the vehicle headstocks and adapted to steady the vehicles when traveling on curved portions of the track.

1,459,978. TYPOGRAPHICAL MACHINE. DAVID S. KENNEDY, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Mergenthaler Linotype Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed June 16, 1922. Serial No. 568,711. 19 Claims. (Cl. 199—16.)

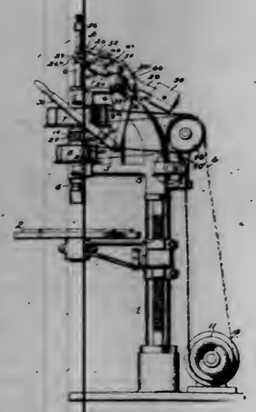
1. In a typographical machine, the combination of two series of matrix magazines arranged side by side or in tandem, distributing mechanism cooperating continuously with all the magazines of both series, assembling mechanism common to the two series, and supporting and shifting means whereby any selected magazine of either series may be moved into operative relation to the assembling mechanism without disturbing the cooperative relation existing between the magazines and the distributing mechanism.

1,459,979. WIND-PROPELLED SHIP. FRANK OTTO KOHN, Hudson, Iowa. Filed Jan. 11, 1923. Serial No. 611,914. 2 Claims. (Cl. 115—34.)



2. In a ship propulsion means, a propeller shaft, a transmission shaft aligned therewith and separated therefrom, conical pulleys at the ends of said shafts, the peripheries of said pulleys converging toward each other, a casing journalling the pulley ends of said shafts, a floating platform having longitudinal slots therein, a second platform, pintles in said second platform slidable in the slots of said first-named platform, ears on the second-named platform, a sleeve trunnioned between said ears, a spindle rotatably mounted in said sleeve, spherical-surfaced rollers rigidly mounted on the ends of said spindle and contacting with the conical pulleys, said rollers being adapted to shift up on one pulley and down on the other to decrease or increase the speed of the propeller shaft with respect to the transmission shaft, and a lever arm adapted to shift the spindle rollers.

1,459,980. STOKING GRATE. WILLARD B. MCBURNEY, Atlanta, Ga. Filed June 6, 1921. Serial No. 475,345. 9 Claims. (Cl. 110—39.)



4. In a stoking grate, a grate bar comprising a grate portion, ribs extending longitudinally of the bar, plates on the opposite ends of the ribs and grate portion, an apron extending from the lower edge of one of the ribs, and a shaking arm displaceably seated at one end between the ends of said apron and ribs and against the adjacent end plate.

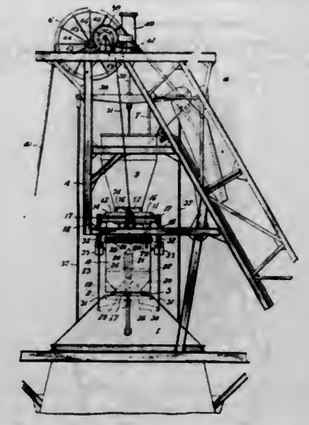
8. In a stoking grate, a unitary section comprising opposite supporting beams rearwardly declined and having bearings in their upper edges, spacing members between and interlocking with the upper and lower ends respectively of the opposite supporting beams, a succession of grate bars mounted between said beams and having end trunnions journaled in said bearings, an anchoring plate supporting the lower end of the grate section, said anchoring plate having openings therein and projections on the lower ends of the supporting beams seated in said openings.

1,459,981. TAPPING MACHINE. EDWARD J. MCCLELLAN, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Garvin Machine Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 23, 1921. Serial No. 463,988. 15 Claims. (Cl. 10—136.)

1. In a tapping machine, the combination of a tapping spindle, driving mechanism for rotating the spindle respectively in opposite directions, an actuating-lever operable to initiate the rotation of the spindle by the driving mechanism for the tapping operation, automatic means for causing the reverse rotation of the spindle by the driving mechanism on the completion of the tapping operation, and means operated solely by said actuating lever for causing the reverse rotation of the spindle independantly of the automatic reverse.

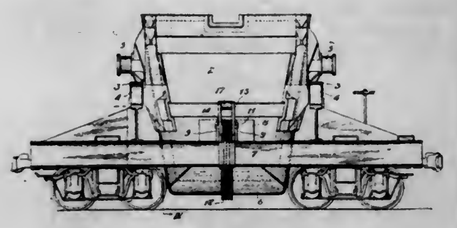
1,459,982. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR CLEANING GASES. ARTHUR G. MCKEE, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Mar. 29, 1920. Serial No. 369,563. 17 Claims. (Cl. 153—77.)

1. The method of cleaning air or other gas which consists of imparting a primary rotating motion to a column of the gas, constantly removing the particles of foreign matter from the zone of action of the rotating column rejected by centrifugal force, imparting to the central portion of the rotating column a secondary rotating motion whereby all of the outgoing gases are subjected to said secondary rotating motion, and withdrawing cleaned gas away from the center of said rotating column.



1,459,983. SHOCK-ABSORBING SPRING. EDWARD MATTHEWS, Denver, Colo. Filed Oct. 17, 1921. Serial No. 508,097. 2 Claims. (Cl. 267—45.)

1. In combination a supporting member, a spring perch secured to the same, a main spring, a shackle connecting the end of the spring to the perch, a member clamped to said perch, a bolt non-rotatably connected with said member, a helical spring surrounding said bolt, a plate provided with an opening slidably connected with said bolt and resting on said spring, an auxiliary spring centrally connected with the first mentioned spring, an opening in the end of said auxiliary spring, said opening engaging the bolt, and a nut cooperating with said bolt whereby the end of the auxiliary spring may be adjusted with relation to the main spring.



1,459,984. FURNACE-CHARGING APPARATUS. ALFRED C. NELSON, Lakewood, Ohio, assignor to The William B. Pollock Company, Youngstown, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Dec. 4, 1920. Serial No. 428,247. 10 Claims. (Cl. 214—19.)

1. In furnace charging apparatus, a furnace having a top-opening and a closure therefor, a rotatable, traveling car adapted to be moved back and forth over said furnace, said car having a bottom-opening adapted to register with said top-opening and a closure for said bottom-opening, means for loading material into said car when it is at one side of said furnace, means for moving said car back and forth across said furnace, means for rotating said car, and means for opening and closing said closures when they are in registering position.

1,459,985. LADLE-TILTING MECHANISM. ALFRED C. NELSON, Lakewood, Ohio, assignor to The William B. Pollock Company, Youngstown, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 6, 1921. Serial No. 490,248. 16 Claims. (Cl. 105—273.)

5. The combination of a ladle, brackets secured to opposite sides of said ladle, a flexible member loosely encompassing the bottom of said ladle, having its ends supported by said brackets, one of said ends being detachably supported by one of said brackets and provided with an eye adapted to be engaged by a crane hook, said flexible member being constructed and supported to present said eye outwardly of the side of said ladle.

1,459,986. UNION SUIT. WALTER L. PENDERGRASS, Mobile, Ala., assignor to Sol Kahn and Leo Kahn, Mobile, Ala., doing business as Kahn Manufacturing Company. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,720. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—144.)

A union garment comprising a shirt and trousers joined, a strip of material attached to the inner face of the shirt at the lower rear edge thereof and having a free edge at a distance from the shirt edge, a waist band attached to the free edge of said strip and having fastening means, an apron attached to the lower edge of the waist band, the trousers being split at the sides from the waist band downwardly to provide a drop seat, and cooperative fastening means on the upper part of the drop seat, the fastening means being hidden by the lower edge of the shirt.

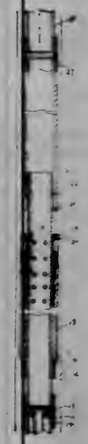
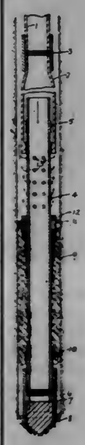
1,459,987. METER BEARING. WILLARD E. PORTER, Lynn, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Feb. 26, 1917, Serial No. 151,060. Divided and this application filed Sept. 2, 1919. Serial No. 321,032. 3 Claims. (Cl. 64—25.)



1. In a meter, in combination, a plug having an enlarged head and a chamber in its opposite end, a metallic cup mounted in said chamber, a non-metallic bearing member adapted to support the movable element of said meter, mounted in said cup, a lubricant in said chamber, said cup having openings communicating with said chamber whereby said lubricant can reach the bearing surface of said member, and a cap covering said chamber and provided with an opening adapted to permit the entry of the movable element of the meter.

1,459,988. TRANSFORMER INSTALLATION. WILBUR A. PRESSEY, Pittsfield, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 25, 1919. Serial No. 319,704. 1 Claim. (Cl. 175—361.)



In a transformer installation, an outdoor high tension transformer enclosed in a grounded metal casing, metal connection compartments extending outwardly from said casing and having depending portions at their outer ends, conductors from underground to the high tension side of said transformer, other conductors from underground to the low tension side of said transformer, said conductors passing through openings in the depending portions of said connection compartments and being provided with connections within said compartments, and grounded metal protection enclosing the conductors between the ground and said compartments.

1,459,989. PROCESS OF AND APPARATUS FOR SETTING CASING AND SCREEN IN WELLS AND CEMENTING. WARREN B. REED, Morgan City, La., assignor of one-fourth to J. R. Suman, Houston, Tex., and one-fourth to E. A. Pharr, one-eighth to W. G. Reed, and one-eighth to Walter Hepler, all of Morgan City, La. Filed Mar. 30, 1922. Serial No. 548,068. 11 Claims. (Cl. 166—1.)

1. In the operation of completing a well, the process of introducing into the hole a casing, wash pipe and screen, washing the screen, setting the screen on the bottom, expanding a packing means above said screen, washing the outside of said casing above the packer, closing said screen from the interior of said casing, cementing the space about said casing above said packing means, lowering said casing onto said packer, washing the interior of said casing, opening said washpipe, washing said screen and removing said wash pipe.

1,459,990. PROCESS OF SETTING CASING AND CEMENTING THE SAME. WARREN B. REED, Morgan City, La. Filed May 8, 1922. Serial No. 559,243. 5 Claims. (Cl. 166—21.)

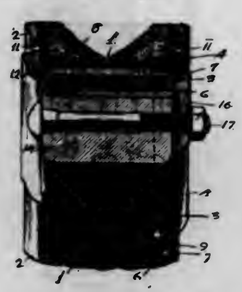
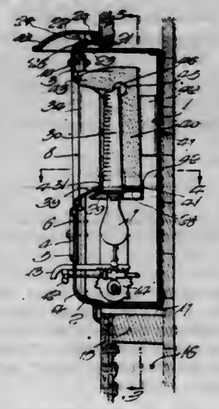
1,459,991. SHIPPING CONTAINER. LUTHER E. ROOKS, Jackson, Tenn. Filed Feb. 25, 1922. Serial No. 539,126. 8 Claims. (Cl. 217—72.)



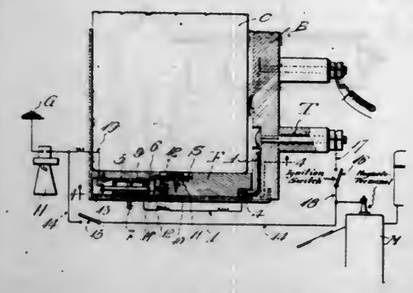
1. A shipping container comprising body sections to be assembled end to end, hoops surrounding the said sections adjacent their meeting ends and affording circumscribing shoulders, and a binding hoop for encompassing the said ends of the sections and constructed to fit over the first mentioned hoops and engage behind the shoulders provided by their edges.

1,459,992. RESILIENT WHEEL. JAMES W. ROUPRICH, Washington, D. C. Filed June 24, 1920. Serial No. 391,323. 5 Claims. (Cl. 152—28.)



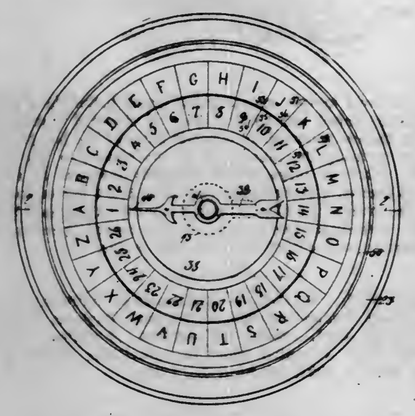
1. A wheel of the class described comprising a hub, an annular member floating with respect to said hub, said member comprising an inner and outer rim integrally connected, yielding means between said hub and inner rim, additional yielding means cooperating with the aforesaid yielding means to retain said annular member in position, side plates secured to said hub, the peripheries thereof extending to points immediately adjacent the inner periphery of said outer rim, permitting a clearance with respect to the latter and dust shields secured to the outer rim overlapping said side plate extending the points adjacent said hub.

1,459,993. DEMOUNTABLE RIM. WILLIAM RYAN, Paso Robles, Calif. Filed May 21, 1921. Serial No. 471,426. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—35.)



A demountable rim comprising a continuous rim having an annular flange on one side thereof and radially disposed lugs formed integral therewith on the opposite edge of said ring; and a member having an annular flange similar to the annular flange of the ring and provided with an inwardly projecting flange of a diameter adapted to fit within the ring, said inwardly projecting flange having slots formed in the edge thereof to engage the radially disposed lugs of the ring whereby said ring and inwardly disposed flange may be retained in overlapping relation with the edge of the ring abutting against the inner side of the annular flange to form an unbroken annular channel adapted to receive a tire.

1,459,994. GAS HEATER. HENRY H. SANFORD, Mansfield, Ohio. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,466. 5 Claims. (Cl. 126—92.)

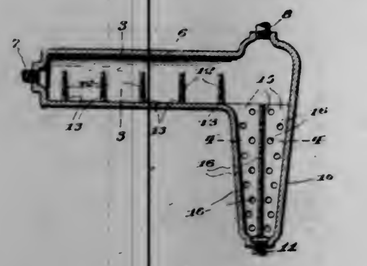


1. A heater comprising a casing having an opening in its front and provided with a horizontal support extending across its interior, a burner below said support, a fire back resting on said support and free to move upwardly therefrom, and a plurality of radiants resting on said support in front of said fire back, said fire back and radiants being relatively movable and being provided with co-acting means for securing the radiants in place when the fire back is lowered and for releasing said radiants from engagement with the fire back when said fire back is raised.

1,459,995. HIDDEN SWITCH FOR COIL BOXES. COURTLAND SARING, Sharon, Pa. Filed Mar. 6, 1922. Serial No. 541,469. 7 Claims. (Cl. 175—360.)

1. A coil box including a terminal for connection with a source of energy, a flooring board for the coil box, a conductor strip extending longitudinally of the flooring board, a contact extending from said conductor strip, a switch carried by the flooring board and including an element movable into and out of engagement with the contact, and a conductor for connecting the switch with a source of energy terminal carried by the coil box.

1,459,996. EDUCATIONAL AND AMUSEMENT TOY. CHARLES SCHWARZ, Bayonne, N. J. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 555,017. 5 Claims. (Cl. 35—9.)



1. In a toy the combination of a supporting platform, a disc with indications thereon detachably supported on the platform, a rotatable indicating disc journaled to the platform, a pointer on the latter disc and means to vary the speed of rotation of the rotatable indicating disc.

1,459,997. BOILER CLEANER. HARGUS G. SHELLY, Mulvane, Kans. Filed Mar. 28, 1922. Serial No. 547,476. 2 Claims. (Cl. 210—60.)

1. A boiler cleaner comprising a horizontally disposed elongated vessel having an inlet connection at one end, the other end of said vessel terminating in a dome shaped enlargement, said enlargement having an outlet connection, a depending sediment collecting well forming a continuation of said vessel and said enlargement, said enlargement and said well having downwardly tapering walls, a series of vertical, radially disposed perforated baffle plates in said well and a series of vertical, transversely disposed baffle plates in said horizontally disposed vessel.

1,459,998. LAWN MOWER. EPHRIAM W. SIMMONS, Corinth, Miss. Filed Aug. 10, 1921. Serial No. 491,192. 5 Claims. (C. 56—25.)

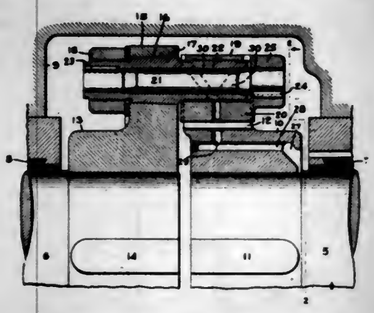
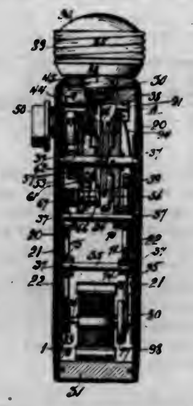
1,459,999. RAILWAY SIGNALING APPARATUS. ARTHUR EWART TATTERSALL, Harrow, England. Filed Feb. 24, 1921. Serial No. 447,576. 2 Claims. (Cl. 246—34.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. The combination, with a track section having insulated rails, of a constant current transformer having primary and secondary coils, leads connecting the primary coil with a source of alternating current, leads connecting the secondary coil with the said rails, the said transformer having a large magnetic leakage and operating to maintain a constant current in the secondary circuit whether the rails are occupied by a train or not, and a local circuit operatively connected with the said rails and having a signal and a relay included in it.

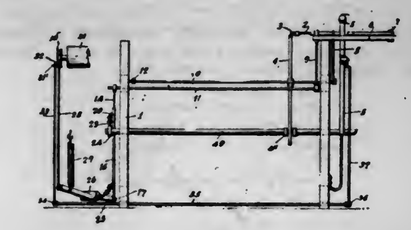
1,460,000. PROTECTIVE DEVICE FOR POLYPHASE CIRCUITS. LOUIS W. THOMPSON, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 7, 1920. Serial No. 371,798. 4 Claims. (Cl. 175—294.)

3. In a protective device for a polyphase circuit, a switch tripping mechanism, an electromagnet in each phase, the electromagnets having each a shunt coil, a series coil acting in opposition to the shunt coil, and a movable member acted upon by the shunt and series coils for operating the tripping mechanism, whereby upon the failure of any phase the opposing effect of the series coil substantially ceases and the shunt coil of the electromagnet in that phase attracts its movable member and moves the tripping mechanism to open the said circuit.



1,460,001. SHAFT COUPLING. ERNEST N. TWOGOOD, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 3, 1920. Serial No. 393,805. 13 Claims. (Cl. 64—89.)

1. In a coupling for adjacent shaft ends, the combination of a set of outwardly projecting members, a set of inwardly projecting members, said members engaging each other, and means connecting said sets to the shaft ends, the means for connecting one of said sets comprising torsional shaft members.



1,460,002. FLASH LIGHT. ANDREW URAN, New York, N. Y., assignor of one-half to Julius Weiss, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 9, 1922. Serial No. 535,343. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.5.)

2. In a flashlight the combination of a casing comprising a pair of side members having openings formed therein, a strip having journal bearings formed therein fastened to the inner face of each of said side members, said journal bearings coaxial with the openings in said side members, removable covers on the outer face of said side members covering the openings therein, a frame constituting a permanent magnet forming with the said side members a compartment for said flashlight, an electric lamp connected to one end of the casing, an electric generator in the casing in electric circuit with said lamp, means to operate the electric generator in said compartment and supported in the journal bearings of said strips, an operating arm on the outside of the casing and a connection between said arm and the said means to operate the electric generator.

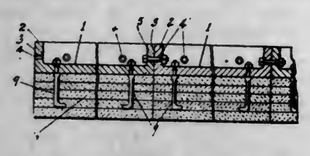
1,460,003. STOP MECHANISM FOR ROTARY BOX LOOMS. JOSEPH EMILE WAGEMANS and GUSTAVE LEDEWYN, Brussels, Belgium. Filed June 8, 1914. Serial No. 843,856. 2 Claims. (Cl. 139—29.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

2. In a loom, a carrier actuated when a weft thread breaks or a cop is exhausted, a lever operated thereby, a rotatable shuttle barrel, means in connection with the lever for producing the rotation of the shuttle barrel, an operating lever for starting and stopping the loom, and means for actuating the operating lever only when all of the shuttles in the barrel have been used, said means comprising a projection rotatable with the barrel, a hook for engaging the projection, and a connection from the hook to the operating lever.



1,460,004. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR DECORTICATING NUTS. HALL WARREN, Galveston, Tex. Original application filed Apr. 12, 1920, Serial No. 373,303. Divided and this application filed July 7, 1920, Serial No. 394,560. Renewed Jan. 12, 1923. Serial No. 519,799. 11 Claims. (Cl. 83—36.)

1. In an apparatus for decorticating nuts, a husker for removing the outer fibrous layer comprising a rotary cutter and a flexible stationary cutter cooperating with said rotary cutter to effect the removal of the husks consisting of a housing having an open end adjacent the rotary cutter, a plurality of cutter segments linked to each other and disposed in said housing, flanges secured to the side wall of said housing to limit the movement of said cutter segments toward said rotary cutter, a cross head carried by the upper end of said housing and connected to said cutter segments to hold them against movement in the direction of rotation of said cutter, a pneumatic tube for resiliently resisting the movement of said cutter segments away from said rotary cutter, and a retractile coil spring for maintaining said cutter segments against said flanges and resiliently resisting motion of said cutter segments in the direction opposite to the rotation of said rotary cutter, all as and for the purposes set forth.

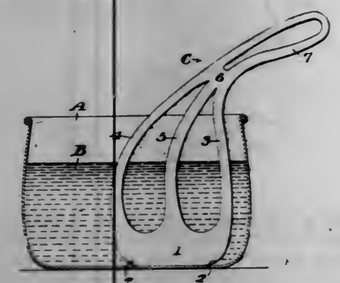
1,460,005. WALL BLOCK OR MEMBER. OTTO H. L. WERNICKE, Gull Point, Fla. Filed Jan. 12, 1922. Serial No. 528,734. 6 Claims. (Cl. 72—16.)

3. A wall member consisting of a metal back plate having rearwardly projecting coupling members provided with holes to receive coupling bolts, and a facing anchored to said plate.



1,460,006. COMBINED DAVENPORT AND BED. WILLIAM WESTPHAL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 555,015. 16 Claims. (Cl. 5—44.)

1. In furniture of the character described; a base; a reversible back frame pivotally connected to said base at one side thereof; a reversible seat frame pivotally connected to said base at the other side thereof and at a level lower than that at which the back frame is pivoted; arms fixed to and projecting from the base and a link at each end of said seat and back frames pivotally connected at one end to said seat frame and at its other end to said back frame, said links being below the level of the seat frame when the frames are in seat form and adapted to simultaneously turn said back frame with said seat frame.

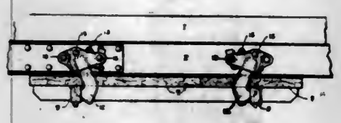
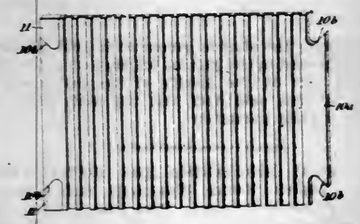
1,460,007. STIRRING PADDLE. ALLIE M. WILLIAMS, Fort Smith, Ark. Filed Mar. 16, 1923. Serial No. 625,494. 6 Claims. (Cl. 259—144.)

1. A stirring paddle comprising a bottom portion with straight edge and curved corners, a body portion rising therefrom and inclined to one side in the plane thereof and having curved edges, and a handle portion forming a continuation of said body and following the inclination thereof.



1,460,008. ROCK PULVERIZER. CARL S. WILLIS, Bellingham, Wash. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,373. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—9.)

1. A rod pulverizer, comprising ends spaced apart and secured together, each end having a corresponding series of rod supporting frames secured to it to project from its inner face and support the rods intermediate their ends, the inner surfaces of which frames have means for preventing the rods moving collectively round the frame as the rods rotate and apertured between the rod supports and the ends to provide escape of the material from that space, a group of freely movably rods supported in the corresponding frame of each end and extending between them, means for rotating the ends with their supported rods, means for delivering the material to be pulverized on the upper surfaces of the rods in the several groups, and means for screening the material as it falls from the rods.



1,460,009. RAILWAY CAR. WILLIAM E. WISE, Toledo, Ohio. Filed June 23, 1921. Serial No. 479,723. 10 Claims. (Cl. 105—308.)

1. In a door device for railway cars, a door hinged to the car body, with the door pintles arranged longitudinally of the car, a pair of door-supporting members pivoted upon the car body and arranged to cooperatively engage portions of the door to retain the same in closed position, the said members being disposed in opposite directions with respect to each other and being arranged to cooperate between the door and the car body in such manner that one of said members will arrest the door against slippage longitudinally of the car, in one direction and the other against such slippage in the opposite direction.

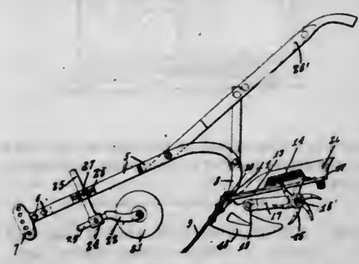
1,460,010. ISOLATOR FOR BATTERY SEPARATORS. CHESTER M. ANGELL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Vesta Battery Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 26, 1922. Serial No. 563,854. 8 Claims. (Cl. 204—29.)

5. Device according to claim 1 in which the plate portion is provided with a number of small perforations.

1,460,011. BEARING HOLDER. MATHIAS B. BANOWETZ, Charlotte, Iowa. Filed Aug. 12, 1922. Serial No. 581,485. 3 Claims. (Cl. 81—38.)



1. A supporting device for bearing members, comprising a pair of crossed arms pivoted to each other intermediate their ends and adapted to be arranged between the jaws of a vise, said arms being provided with offset ends disposed substantially parallel to each other, the ends of each arm being of different size and the two small ends of the arms being arranged adjacent to each other.

1,460,012. METHOD OF PREPARING COLLOIDAL METALS AND METALLOIDS AND COMPOUNDS OF SAME. LUDWIG BEREND, Amoneburg, near Biebrich-on-the-Rhine, Germany. Filed June 28, 1920. Serial No. 392,535. 13 Claims. (Cl. 252.)

1. A process of preparing inorganic substances in colloidal form consisting in inorganic substances being treated with cellulose waste liquor while heating until the desired insoluble substance is obtained in colloidal form.

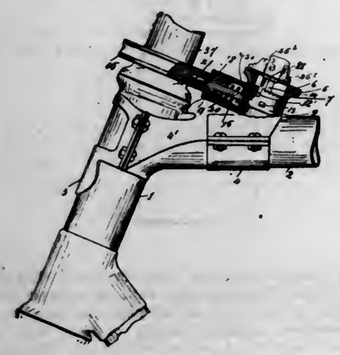
1,460,013. PLOW. CLARENCE R. BOULDIN, McKenzie, Tenn. Filed June 10, 1921. Serial No. 476,552. 1 Claim. (Cl. 55—144.)

A harvesting plow comprising spaced beams having curved rear ends, a plow blade having connection with the curved rear ends of the beams, slides secured to the plow blade and extending rearwardly therefrom, a pivoted screening member comprising a plurality of spaced bars, a bar connecting the rear ends of the spaced bars, a hood supported by the screening member, pivoted arms carried by the slides, said pivoted arms extending inwardly and lying in proximity to each other, a wheel supported between the adjacent ends of the arms, said wheel adapted to contact with the hood to move the screening member vertically, and side boards carried by the screening member.



1,460,014. FLOOR AND CEILING CONSTRUCTION. HENRY D. CONWAY, Detroit, Mich. Filed Sept. 1, 1920. Serial No. 407,470. 7 Claims. (Cl. 72—66.)

1,460,015. LOCK FOR VEHICLES. ALFONSO CAPPELLARI, Bologna, Italy, assignor of one-half to Luigi Donzelli, Bologna, Italy. Filed June 23, 1922. Serial No. 570,333. 5 Claims. (Cl. 70—18.)

1. A safety device including a cylindrical box mounted on one of the parts to be locked, a sliding block in said box provided with a bolt, a spring for forcing said bolt toward the other part to be locked, a bore in the last mentioned part adapted to receive said bolt, a stem projecting from said block and extending in a direction opposite to that of said bolt, manually operated means for moving said block in one direction against the action of said spring, a cylindrical tube arranged at right angles to said box and provided with an aperture to permit the passage of said stem, a tubular chamber arranged at right angles to said box and provided with an aperture to permit the passage of said stem, a rotatable tube arranged in said chamber, a block arranged in said tube and axially guided by the latter, a cover for said chamber, a pivot pin mounted in said cover and provided with an integral angle piece, the upper face of said cover forming a dial, a block provided with radial pointers loosely connected to the pivot piece, radial groooves in the upper face of the block arranged in the tube, one of said grooves being of greater depth than the remainder of the grooves to permit the arm of the angle piece to enter the same and allow the block within the tube to move toward said cover, and a projection on said tube adapted to be engaged by the arm of the angle piece to cause rotation of the tube, a series of peripherally arranged small apertures in the wall of said rotatable tube lying in the plane in which the stem moves, said tube being also provided with larger holes adapted to receive said stem when one of the last mentioned holes registers with the aperture in the cylindrical chamber.

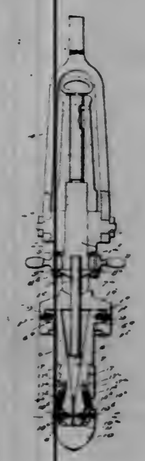
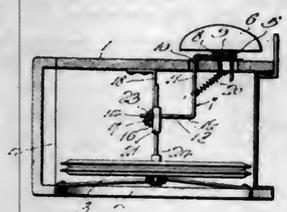
1,460,016. BAGGAGE RECEPTACLE. FRANK B. EMERY, Petersburg, Va. Filed May 9, 1921. Serial No. 468,022. 6 Claims. (Cl. 190—19.)



1. In a baggage receptacle, the combination of a soft, pliant partition member permanently secured to the upper portions of the side walls of the receptacle and dividing the interior of said receptacle into a plurality of separate, distinct compartments, said partition being movable toward and away from the bottom of the receptacle whereby the areas of the respective compartments may be varied at will, the area of either compartment being limited only by the capacity of the receptacle.

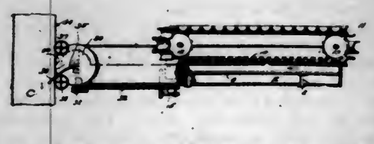
1,460,017. JAR CLOSURE. CHARLES C. EMICK, Lancaster, Pa. Filed Aug. 17, 1922. Serial No. 582,446. 5 Claims. (Cl. 215—46.)

1. The combination with a jar closure having threads pressed in its circumferential wall, of a finger piece for the closure having portions extending in opposite directions therefrom circumferentially of said wall of the closure and seated and secured within the valleys of the threads.



1,460,018. CASING ELEVATOR. JAMES D. GIBBS, Louisville, Ky. Filed Dec. 2, 1921. Serial No. 519,452. 11 Claims. (Cl. 294—102.)

1. In a device of the class described, a carrier member, radially movable members supported thereby, means for moving said members, and gripping wedges slidably carried by said radially movable members.



1,460,019. AUTOMATIC ALARM. FRANK PERLEY HARTLEY, Bangor, Me. Filed Oct. 23, 1922. Serial No. 596,366. 4 Claims. (Cl. 116—102.)

2. An automatic alarm comprising a casing having a slot in one side, a bracket in the casing spaced from said slot, alarm means, an alarm control lever extending through said slot and fulcrumed upon the casing, and yieldably held against movement into a set position, said lever when in a set position preventing operation of the alarm means, a latch pivoted on said bracket for normally holding said lever against movement out of a set position, a thermostat at one side of the casing, and a releasing device pivoted to said latch and engaging said thermostat.

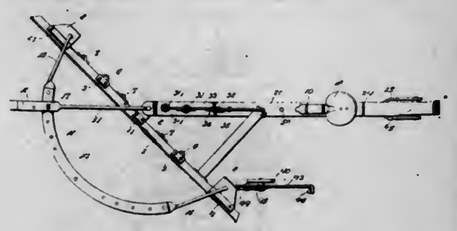
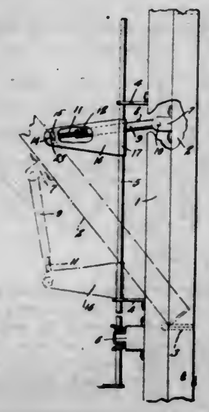
1,460,020. MECHANISM FOR HANDLING BOTTLES, ETC. MERTON C. HEATH, Terre Haute, Ind. Filed Feb. 28, 1920. Serial No. 361,971. 1 Claim. (Cl. 198—22.)



In a mechanism for handling bottles, the combination with a movable apron and a conveyor adjacent thereto, of a rotary disk in close relation to the apron and in position to receive bottles from the apron, means overlying and terminating at the center of the disk and projecting over the conveyor in position to intercept a bottle on the disk and to direct it onto the conveyor, a guard wheel overlying the disk and the conveyor and mounted to rotate on an axis parallel with the axis of the disk, and means for rotating the disk and for moving the apron in the direction to discharge thereto.

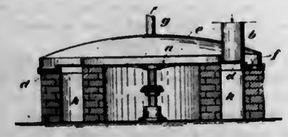
1,460,021. STOVEPIPE. JOHN T. HILDEBRAND, Ritz, Ark. Filed Sept. 22, 1922. Serial No. 589,825. 1 Claim. (Cl. 126—309.)



A stove pipe section formed from a single sheet of metal having one of its meeting edges bent upon itself inwardly and then outwardly to form a longitudinal groove having a plurality of slits therein, and its opposite meeting edge bent to provide a bevelled flange adapted to accommodate the outermost portion of the groove so as to make the meeting edges engage in parallelism to provide an even surface, and inwardly and downwardly inclined lugs projecting from the bevelled flange and designed to engage the slits for holding the meeting edges in locked engagement as described.

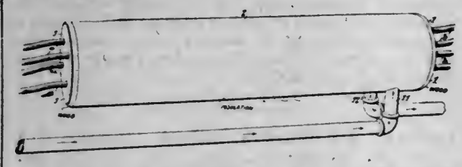
1,460,022. GRADER. GEORGE E. KETCHUM, Marceline, Mo. Filed Dec. 31, 1921. Serial No. 526,112. 7 Claims. (Cl. 37—178.)

1. A grader comprising a blade, a main supporting beam extending rearwardly from the blade and having detachable pivotal connection therewith, and a plurality of draft members extending from the blade and having detachable pivotal connections with the same, one of said draft members constituting the connection between the blade and the main supporting beam.



1,460,023. TRANSOM LIFT. GEORGE LEAKE, Mason City, Iowa. Filed May 8, 1922. Serial No. 559,325. 3 Claims. (Cl. 268—17.)

1. The combination with a frame and a transom hinged to the frame, of an operating member mounted for right-line sliding movement on the frame; an arm carried by the operating member and projecting away from the transom; a link extended across the operating member when the transom is closed; means for effecting a pivotal connection between the link and the transom at a point closely adjacent to the transom and on one side of the operating member when the transom is closed; and means for pivoting the link to the arm, on the opposite side of the operating member, the two pivoting means being located nearly in horizontal alinement when the transom is closed.



1,460,024. APPARATUS FOR THE SEMICOKING OF COAL, SLATE, OR OTHER BITUMINOUS SUBSTANCES. KARL FAINZ ZU LÖWENSTEIN, Berlin, Germany. Filed Aug. 22, 1921. Serial No. 494,213. 4 Claims. (Cl. 202—4.)

1. An apparatus of the character described comprising in combination a horizontally arranged disk, means for housing said disk, means for rotating said disk, an annular heating channel arranged below said disk whereby heat may be applied directly to the lower face of said disk and a feeding tube arranged above said disk substantially as and for the purpose specified.

1,460,025. INSTANTANEOUS HEATER. CHARLES D. MCLEAN, Berlin, N. H., assignor to Mechanical & Electrical Manufacturing Co., Incorporated, Berlin, N. H. Filed May 18, 1922. Serial No. 561,940. 8 Claims (Cl. 219—39.)

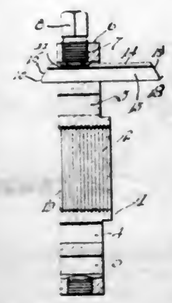
1. A heating appliance of the character stated comprising two independent pairs of heating units, each of which units including a heating core and a water passage surrounding the core, means insulating the core from the water passage, the several water passages being arranged in series and in communication and terminating with an inlet at one end and with an outlet at the other end for connection with a supply or service pipe.

1,460,026. SALT PRESS. JAMES PATRICK MADDEN, Bethlehem, Pa., assignor to Bethlehem Steel Company, Bethlehem, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 12, 1921. Serial No. 507,221. 15 Claims. (Cl. 100—57.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of a stationary vertically arranged die chamber open at its ends, a plunger adapted to enter the upper end of said chamber and move downwardly therein, a movable bottom die member adapted to close the lower end of said chamber, means operating through one continuous movement for moving said lower die member hori-

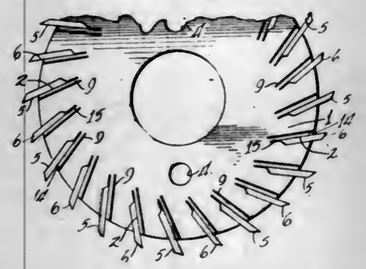
mentally to position below the lower end of said chamber and then vertically against the lower end of said chamber, closing it and operating through one continuous reverse movement to move said die member downwardly on vertical lines and then laterally to one side of the lower end of said chamber.

5. In a device of the class described, the combination of a stationary vertically arranged die chamber open at its ends, a plunger adapted to enter the upper end of said chamber and move downwardly therein, a horizontal support a distance below the lower end of said chamber greater than the height of the compressed material, a supporting and operating member adapted to slide across said support under said chamber from one side, a lower die member longitudinally movable with and on said supporting member with its upper surface normally slightly below the plane of the lower end of said chamber, the contact surfaces of said die member and supporting member being at a vertical incline to the line of movement, a fixed stop for interrupting the horizontal movement of said die member when it reaches a position below said chamber whereby the continued movement of said supporting member will by the wedging action of the inclined contact surfaces force said die member vertically into close contact with the lower end of said chamber.



1,460,027. AIR-RELEASE DEVICE. WALTER A. E. MADDOCK, Hamilton, N. Dak. Filed Apr. 14, 1921. Serial No. 461,214. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—12.)

As an article of manufacture, an air releasing device for tire valves comprising a tubular body having its forward portion interiorly threaded for engaging the threads of a valve stem, a cone shaped perforated head fitted in the forward portion of said body at a point spaced from the screw threads and having a pointed forward end for engaging and depressing the valve, the rear portion of said head and adjacent portion of the tubular body being formed with inwardly pressed interfitting annular beads forming an attaching means for the head, the rear portion of the tubular body being reduced in cross sectional area to form a small air outlet opening, and to prevent foreign matter from freely entering the tubular body.



1,460,028. MILLING-MACHINE CUTTER. JULIUS MATTSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 8, 1922. Serial No. 586,904. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—105.)

1. A device of the character described comprising a cutter plate adapted to be carried by the spindle of a milling machine or the like, said plate being provided with an opening disposed transversely therethrough and a threaded bore extending outwardly from one wall of said opening to the peripheral wall of said plate, a threaded set screw adapted to be received in the threaded bore, a gripping plate disposed in said opening and in registration with the lower end of said threaded bore, and means for limiting the movement of said gripping plate in one direction and a cutting blade having a sectional contour corresponding with the side walls of said opening adapted to be received in said opening and locked in position by said set screw.

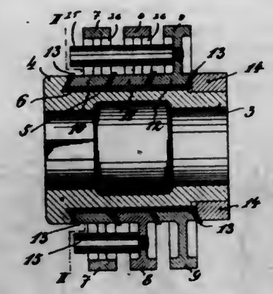
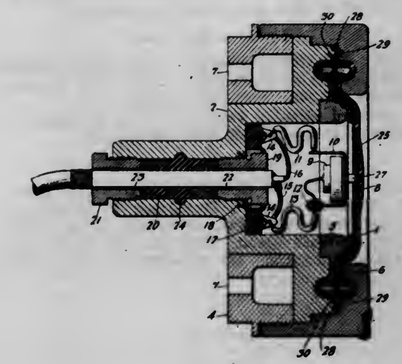
1,460,029. MILLING-MACHINE CUTTER. JULIUS MATTSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 30, 1922. Serial No. 597,898. 5 Claims. (Cl. 29—105.)



1. A milling machine cutter comprising a circular plate adapted to be rotated, said plate having recesses in its outer periphery, cutters disposed in said recesses, and means for locking said cutters in place, certain of said cutters extending further from the axis of rotation of said plate than the other cutters, while the work engaging portions of the other cutters extend below the work engaging portions of the first named cutters.

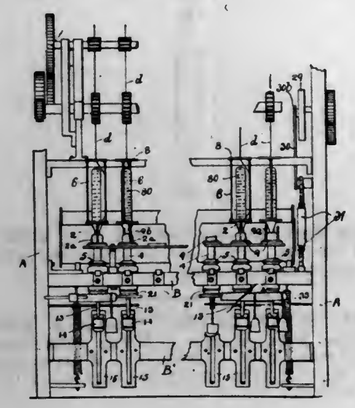
1,460,030. MILLING-MACHINE CUTTER. JULIUS MATTSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 21, 1922. Serial No. 608,270. 8 Claims. (Cl. 29—105.)



1. A device of the type described comprising a tool plate, and circular and non-circular cutters carried by said tool plate, said non-circular cutters being turned more at right angles to the direction of travel of said circular cutters than the circular cutters.

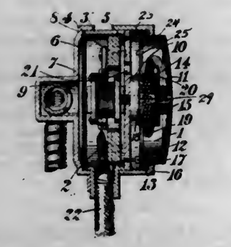
1,460,031. MOUNTING FOR SLIP RINGS OF DYNAMO-ELECTRIC MACHINES. ERNST MEYERCORDT, Locknits, near Stettin, Germany. Filed Sept. 9, 1920. Serial No. 409,281. 4 Claims. (Cl. 171—322.)

1. In combination with a slip ring support having an axially presented recess, a slip ring having an axial projection engaging said recess, said slip ring having an axially presented recess on the side opposite to said projection, and means clamping said slip ring against said support in axial direction, said clamping means having an axial projection engaging the recess in said slip ring.



1,460,032. VIBRATION DETECTOR. CHARLES R. MOORE, Wyoming, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 24, 1919. Serial No. 306,495. 18 Claims. (Cl. 177—386.)

1. In a vibration detector for use under varying pressures, a stretched diaphragm, a current-varying device supported by said diaphragm, and means for rendering the degree of stretching of said diaphragm substantially independent of variations in pressure.



1,460,033. SPINNING, DOUBLING, TWISTING, AND LIKE MACHINE. SAMUEL MOORHOUSE, Leeds, England. Filed Apr. 26, 1921. Serial No. 464,501. 8 Claims. (Cl. 118—49.)

1. In a machine of the character described, the combination of a vertically positioned spindle, means for reciprocating said spindle, a substantially conical shaped cup surrounding the spindle with the smaller end directed downward, said cup being supported in an upright position at both its upper and lower ends, and means for rotating the cup.

1,460,034. TELEPHONE TRANSMITTER. ROBERT LAMBERT MURRAY, Bushey Heath, England, assignor to Telephone Manufacturing Company Limited, London, England. Filed Aug. 24, 1921. Serial No. 494,771. 3 Claims. (Cl. 179—138.)

2. In a telephone transmitter, a support, a microphone comprising a fixed element in the form of a disc carried by the support and a movable element comprising a cup-shaped member having carbon granules therein arranged to co-operate with the fixed element, a diaphragm domed to present an external convex surface, said diaphragm being secured solely at its circumferential margin to said support, and provided with an integral central boss to which said cup-shaped element is attached with its open mouth directed towards but spaced away from said fixed element.

1,460,035. CONCRETE INSERT. LAURITS A. NIELSEN, Seattle, Wash. Filed Nov. 9, 1920. Serial No. 422,856. 1 Claim. (Cl. 72—105.)

A device of the class described, comprising a tubular body of the same diameter throughout its length having a threaded opening at its upper end and provided at its lower end with anchor legs formed integral with and continuing downwardly from opposite sides of the body, in a converging manner, and provided at their ends with outturned feet; said legs and feet lying within the lines of the body portion, and an anchor bolt mounted within the threaded aperture.

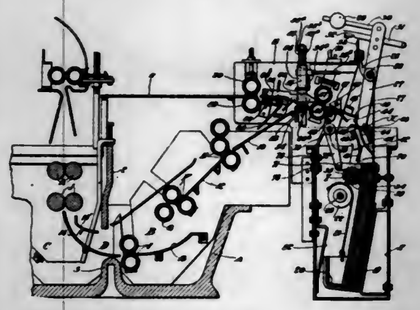
1,460,036. SCREW DRIVER. WILLIAM J. PARSONS, Montague, Mass., assignor to Millers Falls Company, Millers Falls, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed June 28, 1922. Serial No. 571,360. 2 Claims. (Cl. 279—95.)

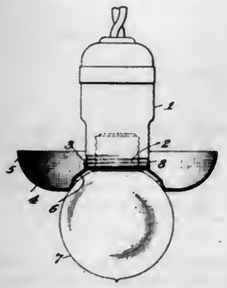


1. A tool of the character stated, comprising, in combination, a handle having a longitudinal central bore, enlarged at the outer end of the handle, to form a socket concentric with the main portion of the bore, a shank formed to fit and move endwise in the main portion of the bore, a head of greater diameter than, and concentric with, the shank, and having an annular flange, formed to bear on the outer end of the handle, said head being formed to be moved endwise into, and to fit the handle socket, and to engage the outer end portion of the shank, attaching means adapted to secure the head to the shank, when the outer end of the shank and the head are outside the handle, and attaching means adapted to secure the inner end portion of the shank to the handle, when the head is inserted in the handle socket, to prevent relative endwise movement of the shank and handle, the head and handle being provided with complemental clutch parts, adapted to be interengaged by movement of the head into the socket, and to prevent rotation of the handle on the shank.

1,460,037. ROTATABLE CONNECTOR. ISAAC PIERSON, Wellesley, Mass.; PHILIP H. PIERSON, administrator of said Isaac Pierson, deceased. Filed Apr. 17, 1919. Serial No. 290,893. 7 Claims. (Cl. 173—324.)

3. In a swivel connector an electrode carrying member; a casing; means connecting said member and casing; a plurality of substantially spheroidal contact cups having axial openings therein; means for mounting said cups in said casing; a plurality of electrodes concentrically mounted on said electrode carrying member and having the free ends extending into said cups, said ends being provided with contact members following the inner contour of said cup.

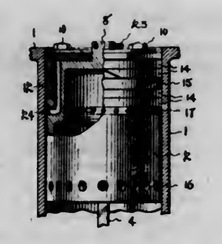
1,460,038. DEFLECTOR FOR PLATE-FEEDING MECHANISMS. ELMER C. POOL, New Castle, Pa. Filed July 28, 1922. Serial No. 578,187. 7 Claims. (Cl. 271—56.)



1. In an automatic plate feeding mechanism, a pair of calipering members, means for feeding said plates from a pack, a switch member pivotally mounted for vertical movement at a point forward of said calipering members, said switch member being normally held in its upper position out of the path of travel of said plates by one of said calipering members, said calipering member being adapted to be moved upwardly away from said switch by the plates when more than one plate passes between the calipering members, whereby said switch member will fall into the path of travel of the plates and effect them out of their normal path.

1,460,039. CLEANING PASTE. CARL AXEL ROBERT SAMSIOE, Stockholm, Sweden. Filed Feb. 5, 1920. Serial No. 356,369. 1 Claim. (Cl. 87—5.)

An approved cleaning paste consisting essentially of a mixture of bicarbonate of soda and glycerine.



1,460,040. HUSK FOR ELECTRIC-LIGHT FIXTURES. JOHN WILLIAM SCHULZE, Providence, R. I., assignor to Alfred Vester Sons, Inc., Providence, R. I., a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed Dec. 10, 1920. Serial No. 429,681. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—362.)

The combination with an electric light socket of a husk provided with means to engage the lower surface thereof, said husk comprising an annular member depending downwardly from said socket to form a concave portion for the reception of a lamp in relative close position thereto, and thence flaring outwardly and upwardly.

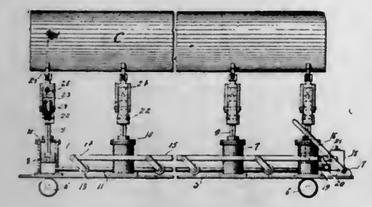
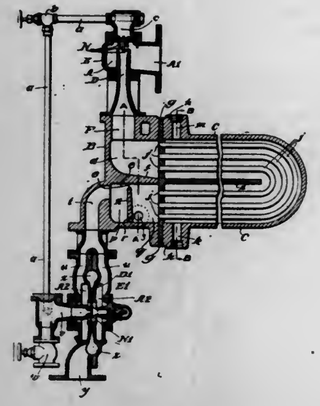
1,460,041. PISTON. THOMAS C. SMITH, Bridgeport, Conn., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-third to George P. Smith and Roger E. Dickinson, both of New Haven, Conn., and one-third to Albert C. Menges and Robert L. Carr, both of Memphis, Tenn. Filed Sept. 3, 1921. Serial No. 498,390. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)

1. In a device as described, a piston having a reduced portion upon which a piston packing ring is seated and a longitudinal slot in said reduced portion adapted to receive a tool employed for removing said ring.



1,460,042. WATER-HEATING APPARATUS. WALTER S. SMITH, Foxboro, Mass. Filed Feb. 9, 1923. Serial No. 618,130. 9 Claims. (Cl. 126—366.)

1. The combination of a hot water heater having a fire-box, a water chamber and pipes for conducting water to and from said chamber; a water storage tank, a casing interposed in the pipe for conducting water to the heater chamber, a coil in said casing, a pipe connecting one end of the coil with the tank, and a pipe leading from the opposite end of the coil into the fire-box and thence from the latter to the tank, that the water may circulate from the tank through the coil and the pipes associated therewith, to be preliminarily heated by the water passing through the casing, and further heated by the fire in the fire-box.



1,460,043. APPARATUS FOR SUPPORTING GLASS CYLINDERS. THOMAS STENHOUSE, Washington, Pa., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of sixteen and two-thirds per cent to Alexander L. Duval D'Adrian, Washington, Pa., and sixteen and two-thirds per cent to Bernhard F. Drakenfeld, jr., New York, N. Y. Original application filed Nov. 25, 1919, Serial No. 340,630. Divided and this application filed Mar. 25, 1921. Serial No. 455,583. Renewed Apr. 7, 1923. 1 Claim. (Cl. 49—14.)

In a support for glass cylinders, a fluid sustained series of cylinder supports, and means to control the sustaining influence of the fluid, and thereby equally distribute the weight of the cylinder betwen the supports, each support including a piston and piston rod, a carriage mounted upon the upper end of the piston rod for movement transversely relative to the normal axis of the cylinder, a saddle on said carriage to receive the cylinder, and means acting to cushion the transverse movement of the carriage, and to return the same to its normal central position, when the cylinder is removed.

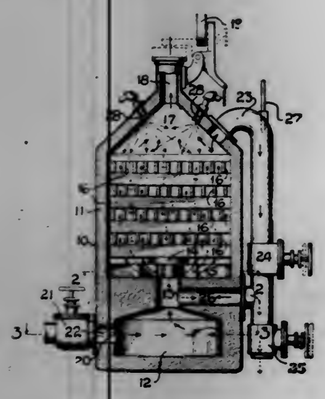
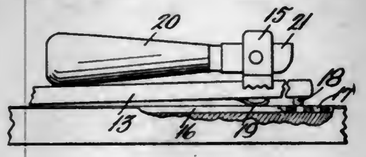
1,460,044. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR COMPRESSING FLUID. ROBERT SUCZEK, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to C. H. Wheeler Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 16, 1919, Serial No. 271,362. Renewed May 9, 1923. 11 Claims. (Cl. 230—13.)

1. The method of compressing an uncondensable elastic fluid in a plurality of stages, which consists in ejecting the same by condensable motive fluid to a higher pressure, passing the mixture in divided streams at high velocity through a plurality of continuous passages which are long as compared to their diameter, extracting heat from the walls of said passages, condensing said motive fluid, and ejecting the uncondensed fluid by motive fluid to a higher pressure, the ratio of compression in the first stage being higher than the ratio of compression in the later stage.



3. Combined ejector-condenser structure comprising ejectors, an interstage condenser comprising a plurality of continuous tubes extending forwardly and backwardly and connecting the discharge of one ejector with the suction of another ejector, and a baffle between the forwardly and backwardly extending portions of said tubes.

1,460,045. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR COMPRESSING FLUID. ROBERT SUCZEK, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to C. H. Wheeler Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 13, 1921, Serial No. 469,163. Renewed May 9, 1923. 20 Claims. (Cl. 230—13.)

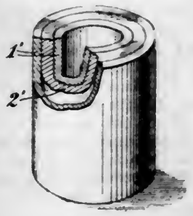


5. Ejector apparatus comprising expansion nozzle structure, co-operating diffuser structure, means for conveying motive fluid to said nozzle structure, means for diminishing the pressure of said motive fluid to predetermined degree, and means for bypassing said last named means.

1,460,046. APPARATUS FOR APPLYING HEAT AND METHOD OF USING SUCH APPARATUS. RUDOLPH VUILLEUMIER, New Rochelle, N. Y., assignor to The Safety Car Heating & Lighting Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 5, 1917. Serial No. 166,676. 9 Claims. (Cl. 48—74.)

6. In apparatus of the class described, in combination, means provided with a heat-absorbing surface, means forming a combustion chamber, means adapted to lead gases from said combustion chamber through said heat-absorbing means, means adapted to lead gases from the remote side of said heat-absorbing means back into said gases on the inlet side of said heat-absorbing means, and means adapted to cause rotation of the burning gases in said combustion chamber.

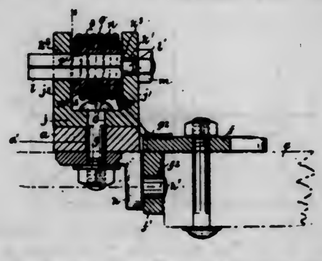
1,460,047. DOOR HOLDER. BENJAMAN B. WALSTON, Dallas, Tex. Filed Oct. 31, 1922. Serial No. 598,108. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—263.)



1. The combination with a hinged door and a fixed support adjacent thereto, of a connection pivoted to the said support, a spring pressed latch bar pivoted to the connection, a plate secured to the door at the outer end of the said bar, said plate being provided with a plurality of sockets, means on the latch bar for engaging in said sockets, and means for engaging said latch bar, holding said means in one of said sockets, whereby both ends of the said bar are locked and the door is held rigid.

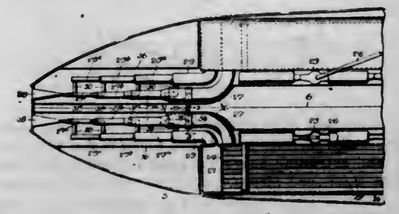
1,460,048. ELECTRICAL HEATING ELEMENT. PERCY A. E. ARMSTRONG, Loudonville, and RALPH P. DE VRIES, Newtonville, N. Y.; said De Vries assignor to said Armstrong. Filed July 29, 1921. Serial No. 488,471. 9 Claims. (Cl. 219—76.)

1. An electrical heating element made of alloy steel containing carbon about .05 to 1%, chromium more than 10% and less than 30% silicon about 2 to 6%, a high melting point metal or metals other than chromium of the sixth group of Mendeleff's table about .20 to about 10%, and the principal part of the remainder iron.



1,460,049. WORKABLE METAL ARTICLE. WILLIAM BOWMAN BALLANTINE, London, England. Filed Mar. 29, 1921. Serial No. 456,750. 2 Claims. (Cl. 50—75.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

1. A workable metal article comprising a core of corrodible ferrous material having a non-corrodible ferro-alloy united thereto to render said article non-corrodible and permit working thereof.



1,460,050. LOOM. EDWARD BLOOM, Paterson, N. J. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,779. 4 Claims. (Cl. 267—1.)

1. The combination of a support, a structure to be controlled movable back and forth therein, a spring having a helical body part and one end portion bearing against the support and the other opposing movement of said member in one direction, and a bearing member embraced by the body part of the spring and freely revoluble in the support on the axis of said body part.

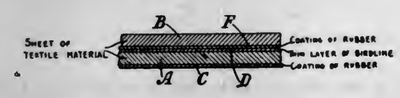
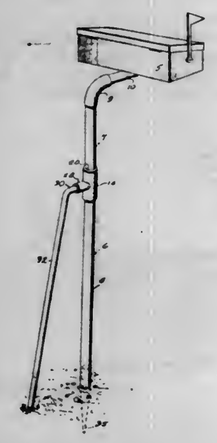
1,460,051. PROPULSION DEVICE. LOUIS G. BOSTEDO, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 2, 1919. Serial No. 328,034. 10 Claims. (Cl. 115—11.)



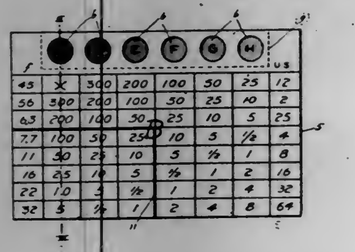
1. In a propulsion apparatus for craft navigating a fluid medium, the combination of a furnace, a steam generator through which the products of combustion from said furnaces are led, an exhaust flue for the products of combustion leading off from said generator, one or more jet compressors in said flue supplied with steam from said generator, and a propulsion tube communicating at its forward end with said flue and open at its rear end to the fluid medium being navigated.

1,460,052. CYCLE. GEORGE W. CLARK, Westfield, Mass., assignor to Westfield Manufacturing Company, Westfield, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 7, 1921. Serial No. 450,258. 6 Claims. (Cl. 208—38.)



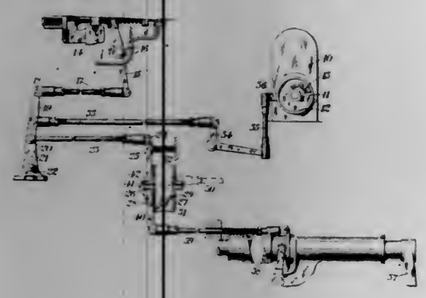
1. In a cycle, a drive shaft, a driven wheel mounted thereon comprising a hub with spaced apart spoke flanges, said hub having a recessed portion centrally disposed between said spoke flanges, and a one way clutching means to provide balanced driving mechanism for said wheel comprising elements on said driven wheel housed in said centrally disposed recess adapted to interconnect with elements on said drive shaft to permit rotation of the driven wheel relative to the drive shaft in one direction and to prevent rotation of the driven wheel relative to the drive shaft in the opposite direction.

1,460,053. BALLOON FABRIC AND METHOD OF MAKING SAME. CHARLES ANGUS CLEGHORN, Woburn Sands, England. Filed Nov. 26, 1919. Serial No. 340,942. 27 Claims. (Cl. 154—2.)



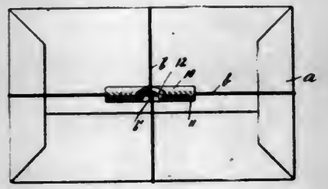
2. A balloon or like fabric composed of two sheets of thin textile material placed face to face, whereof one sheet is of a absorbent material and has on its inner face a "thin layer" of "birdlime" and the other sheet is so prepared that the "birdlime" does not so readily adhere to it as to the first sheet, diatomaceous earth and shellac being incorporated in the birdlime.

1,460,054. MAIL-BOX SUPPORT. EVERETT DAVIS, Elkland, Mo. Filed Feb. 25, 1922. Serial No. 539,138. 1 Claim. (Cl. 248—41.)



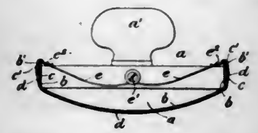
A support for mail boxes comprising a standard consisting of upper and lower tubular sections and a coupling arranged between the sections and formed with a lateral branch, a brace for said standard connected with said lateral branch, a screw threaded plug mounted in the upper portion of the coupling and having a pin of reduced diameter formed integral centrally thereof to provide rotatable connection with the upper section of the standard, said plug being provided with upwardly directed ears on each side of the pin and the lower edge of the upper section being provided with notches for receiving the upwardly directed ears for holding the upper section in a fixed position.

1,460,055. LIGHT GAUGE. CLAYTON L. DREW, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Nov. 17, 1921. Serial No. 515,914. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—23.)



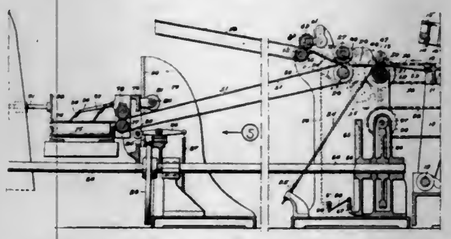
In a light gauge, a plate doubled at its top and having windows formed in said plate in the doubled portion and body, the windows in said doubled portion and body registering, said film strip having portions of varying density, said portions of said film being adapted to register with said windows, a chart formed on the face of the body of said plate, said chart having columns formed below each of said windows, figures vertically arranged in said columns, said figure designating shutter speeds, and additional columns having figures vertically arranged and denoting shutter apertures, the figures in said columns beneath said windows being in horizontal alignment with said figures in said additional columns, substantially as and for the purpose specified.

1,460,056. AUTOMATIC CONTROLLING MEANS FOR THE IGNITION TIMING IN INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. CHARLES KEARNS EDWARDS and DUDLEY EUGENE BATTY, London, England, assignors to Associated Equipment Company, Limited, London, England, a British Company. Filed July 14, 1921. Serial No. 484,735. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—117.)



1. In an internal combustion engine, the combination with an ignition timing device, a valve controlling a supply of fluid to the engine cylinder, and a member operative according to changes in the speed of the engine, of a cam operatively connected with said valve and adjusted simultaneously with the same, said cam being shaped to suit the particular characteristics of the engine, and spring controlled means connected with said ignition timing device and arranged to be actuated by said cam and by said member in such a manner that the ignition timing device can be regulated according to changes in the speed of the engine and to changes in the supply of fluid to the engine.

1,460,057. HANDLE. WILLIAM C. J. EISEN, Jersey City, N. J. Filed Jan. 20, 1922. Serial No. 530,555. 3 Claims. (Cl. 229—52.)

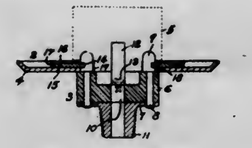


1. A detachable handle for parcels for packages tied by a string or the like, comprising a rod having a groove in the circumference extending throughout the entire length thereof and serving to engage the string.

1,460,058. DUPLICATING MEANS. HERBERT BRUNEL ARMITAGE EVERSHED, Guildford, England. Filed Oct. 19, 1920. Serial No. 417,876. 2 Claims. (Cl. 101—125.)

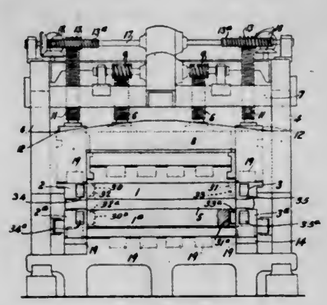
1. In a duplicating appliance, the combination comprising a body portion, an arcuate plate below the body portion and extending above the same at each end of the appliance, a felt pad disposed over the said arcuate plate, a clip at each end of the appliance each adapted to engage one end of the said arcuate plate and one end of the said pad, a gripping device on the top of the appliance at each end, a stencil paper adapted to enclose the said pad and clips and to be gripped at each end by the said gripping device.

1,460,059. SHEET-STACKING MECHANISM. BERNARD M. FINE, Deptford Township, Gloucester County, N. J., assignor to Samuel M. Langston Company, Camden, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 17, 1921. Serial No. 508,082. 30 Claims. (Cl. 93—93.)



1. A machine of the class described, including two spaced pairs of superposed feed rolls, the lower roll of each pair having portions of reduced diameter, separate sets of conveyor belts engaging with the reduced diameter portions of said lower rolls, and means for guiding material from one set of rolls to the other, independently of the conveyor belts of the first mentioned rolls.

1,460,060. ELECTRICAL FIXTURE. MONROE GUETT, Hartford, Conn., assignor to The Hart & Hegeman Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Sept. 30, 1920. Serial No. 413,763. 2 Claims. (Cl. 173—330.)



1. An electrical fixture comprising a receptacle and a plug attachably associated therewith, and provided with means for securing an electrical connection therebetween when the members are connected and which is broken by the separation of the members, the plug having diametrically opposite notched rigid heads, the receptacle having a rotary internally notched ring which when the notches thereof register with said openings, permits the separation or connection of the plug and the receptacle, and cam means for turning the ring to cause the solid part thereof to enter the notches of the studs when the members are connected.

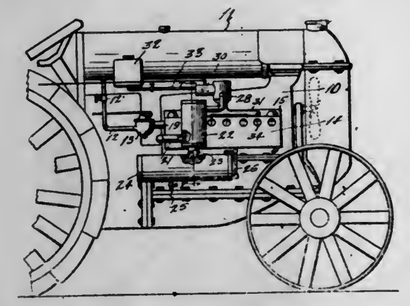
1,460,061. AXLE MILL. GAVIN SHEARER HAMILTON, Motherwell, and THOMAS THOMSON, Holytown, Scotland. Filed Feb. 15, 1922. Serial No. 536,664. 2 Claims. (Cl. 80—20.)

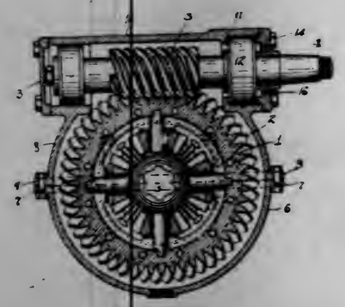


1. An axle mill comprising, in combination, three sets of superposed plates mounted for relative reciprocatory movement and presenting operative faces spaced to accommodate the bar to be treated and shaped to conform with the contour of the finished axle and means for first imparting feeding movements to the intermediate set of the three to form the middle portion of the axle and then imparting feeding movements to the external sets of the three to form the ends of the axle.

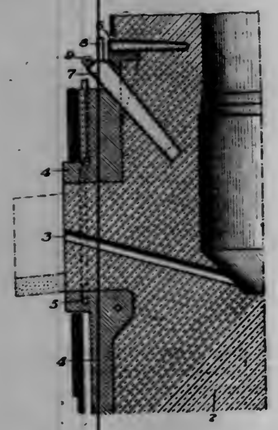
1,460,062. MOTOR-CONTROL SYSTEM. BENJAMIN W. JONES, Schenectady, N. Y., and ERNEST C. GOOCH, Estes Park, Colo., assignors to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 26, 1920, Serial No. 354,086. Renewed Nov. 4, 1922. Serial No. 599,147. 7 Claims. (Cl. 172—179.)

1. The combination with an electric motor having a series field and speed varying controller therefor having means for connecting the motor to a source of supply with the series field and armature in shunt circuits, of a normally short circuited resistance in the motor armature circuit, an electromagnetic switch biased to one position for controlling said resistance, the said switch having two windings, one of which is temporarily energized responsively to the motor current to effect the movement of said switch against its bias, and include the said resistance in the motor armature circuit when the said controller is moved to vary the motor speed, and the other winding is connected across the resistance for subsequently governing the operation of the switch to its biased position to control the short circuiting of the said resistance.

1,460,063. FUEL-OIL SEPARATOR AND VAPORIZER. MARTIN A. JONES, RUDOLPH KROLLAGE, and EARNEST C. YEAGER, McGregor, Tex. Filed June 26, 1922. Serial No. 570,853. 11 Claims. (Cl. 48—107.)



5. In a crude fuel oil separating and vaporizing apparatus for internal combustion engines, a crude oil supply tank, an independent heating coil exposed to the exhaust gases of an engine, a separating and expanding drum connected with the coil, a collecting receptacle for the separated liquids under the drum, and an intake manifold connected with the drum.



1,460,064. AXLE CONSTRUCTION. ROBERT KECK, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Double Drive Truck Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of South Dakota. Filed July 23, 1918. Serial No. 246,285. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—99.)

In a worm driven axle the combination of a differential enclosing casing consisting of an upper and a lower section, said upper section having formed integrally with the upper wall thereof an open-ended transversely extending tubular housing provided with an integral internal flange spaced from its forward end to provide an abutment for the forward bearing of a worm shaft, flanges upon the abutting edges of said upper and lower sections, fastening elements associated with said flanges and serving as the sole means of securing the lower section to said upper section, a differential mechanism maintained in assembled position by said lower section, a worm shaft mounted within said housing on said upper section and provided with forward and rearward bearings, an annular cover plate removably connected with the forward end of said housing for positioning said forward bearing against said internal flange and a disclike cover plate removably connected with the rearward portion of said tubular housing to provide for access to said rearward bearing.

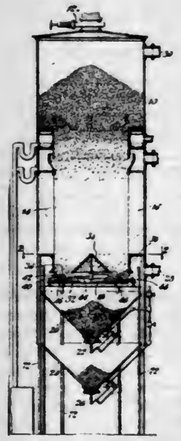
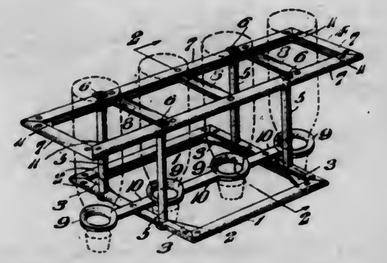
1,460,065. BLAST FURNACE. JULIAN KENNEDY, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Jan. 26, 1921. Serial No. 440,083. 8 Claims. (Cl. 202—32.)



1. The combination with a blast furnace having an iron notch, of a cooler seated in the wall of the furnace directly above and adjacent said notch, and a supplemental cooler seated in said well intermediate said first-mentioned cooler and notch, said supplemental cooler being slightly to one side of the vertical plane of said notch and extending obliquely downward toward the notch, substantially as described.

1,460,066. FURNACE. JAMES H. KNAPP, Edgeworth, Pa., assignor to Tate-Jones & Company, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 22, 1920. Serial No. 418,686. 13 Claims. (Cl. 214—18.)

1. Conveyor mechanism for furnaces, comprising a plurality of transversely arranged rotatable conveyor members, each member having a plurality of lifting portions extending transversely of the furnace arranged to successively and intermittently engage the articles to be heated and move them step by step longitudinally of the furnace chamber, and means other than said members for supporting the articles between successive movements thereof, substantially as described.

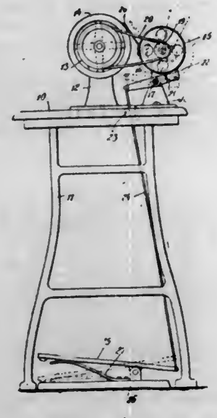


1,460,067. COKE-DISCHARGING APPARATUS. WILBUR G. LAIRD, New York, N. Y., assignor to Henry L. Doherty, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 3, 1920. Serial No. 421,441. 11 Claims. (Cl. 202—5.)

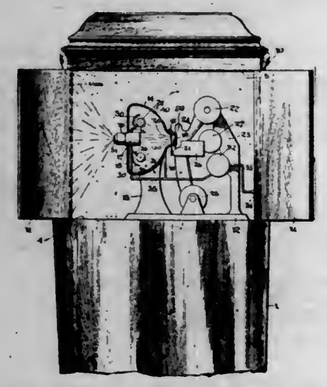
10. A coal carbonizing furnace having in combination a gas-tight shell, a support for a column of fuel in said shell comprising an annular plate having its outer edge spaced from the inner face of the shell and arranged to receive fuel discharged from said fuel column, a scraper on said plate, and a pair of separately operated driving means mounted at an angle to one another and connected with said scraper to simultaneously operate on said scraper for imparting a discharging movement thereto.

1,460,068. CRATE FOR BOTTLE-CLEANING MACHINES. BENJAMIN E. LINFOOT, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Dec. 15, 1920. Serial No. 431,035. 5 Claims. (Cl. 141—7.)

1. In a bottle holding crate of the character stated, a base formed of side bars of channelled form with fillets at the corners thereof, said fillets being seated in the channels of said side bars and secured thereto, and a socket on said base adapted to receive the neck of an inverted bottle and firmly and steadily sustain the same thereon.



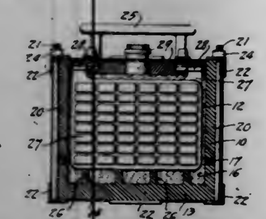
1,460,069. CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR OF RAILROAD CARS. ANDREW M. MCGILL, Bethlehem, Pa. Filed Mar. 15, 1922. Serial No. 543,998. 6 Claims. (Cl. 105—397.)



6. A car construction comprising sheathing formed in upper and lower sections, the abutting extremities thereof being cut or formed along an angle extending downwardly and outwardly from the car, and a metal flashing extending between the abutting ends of the upper and lower sections of the sheathing.

1,460,070. MOTOR DRIVE FOR SEWING MACHINES. HYMAN MAIMIN, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 29, 1919. Serial No. 348,027. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—26.)

1. In a sewing machine mounted upon a table and provided with a driving wheel, the combination of a pedestal adapted to be attached to the table of the machine, a motor mounted to swing about an axis on the pedestal and be held in operative relation to the wheel of the machine by its own weight, a lever mounted on the pedestal and formed at one end to engage the motor, and means for automatically actuating the lever to bring its end into engagement with the motor to lift the same out of operative relation to the wheel of the machine.



1,460,071. MOTION-PICTURE CABINET. ARTHUR GATES MERRIMAN, Columbus, Ohio. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,483. 2 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

1. In a cinematographic apparatus, a cabinet casing having a translucent panel in the walls thereof, a substantially hemispherical lamp projector casing supported within said compartment with the larger end thereof facing the translucent panel, said lamp casing being closed at its larger end by an integral wall having an axial opening formed therethrough and having an elongated integral neck portion at its smaller end in axial alinement with the opening through the larger end thereof, said neck portion having vertically alined slots through its walls, adjacent to its extremity and having an additional slot through its walls in parallel relation to the plane of the first slots and between the latter and the body of the lamp projector casing, an edgewise swingable shutter working in said second slot, means for feeding opaque picture ribbon through said first slots to expose portions of the latter within the neck portion of the casing, a mirror disposed transversely of the neck portion of the casing at the extremity of the latter and in confronting relation to said translucent screen, an incandescent lamp disposed within the casing for projecting rays of light upon the exposed portion of picture ribbon, and means for operating said ribbon feeding means and said shutter to feed said ribbon through said neck portion of the casing and to alternately prevent and permit rays of light from the incandescent lamp to strike the exposed portion of ribbon.

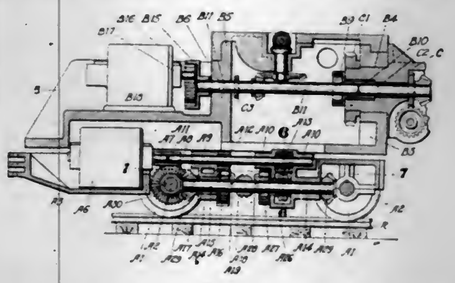
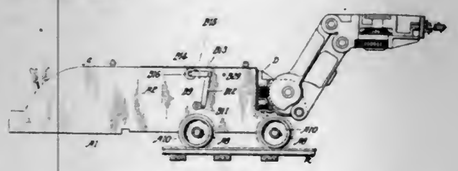
1,460,072. STORAGE BATTERY. JACK D. MINTZ, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 11, 1922. Serial No. 593,745. 2 Claims. (Cl. 204—29.)

2. In combination, a rectangular frame having partitions dividing the same into a plurality of compartments, a base having its lower end closed and similarly divided into compartments, a gasket arranged between the frame and base and embodying portions extending between adjacent ends of the compartment walls, and clamping elements engaging the upper surface of the frame and the lower surface of the base to compress the base and frame upon said gasket, said base and gasket being provided with aligned slots through which said clamping elements extend.



1,460,073. MINING AND QUARRYING MACHINE. CYRUS S. OLDROYD, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to Oldroyd Manufacturing Company, Knoxville, Tenn., a Corporation of Tennessee. Filed May 3, 1917, Serial No. 166,172. Renewed Dec. 11, 1922. 138 Claims. (Cl. 262—25.)

1. In a machine of the nature described, the combination of a cutting mechanism supporting means having a neck seated rotatably in a bearing, an elongated cutting mechanism hinged to said support to permit movement of said mechanism toward and from the axial line of said neck parallel to said axial line, and transmission means extending through said neck for actuating said cutting mechanism, substantially as described.



1,460,074. MOTOR-DRIVEN TRUCK. CYRUS S. OLDROYD, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to Oldroyd Manufacturing Company, Knoxville, Tenn., a Corporation of Tennessee. Original application filed May 30, 1917, Serial No. 166,172. Divided and this application filed May 16, 1919, Serial No. 297,501. Renewed Dec. 11, 1922. 3 Claims. (Cl. 105—117.)

1. In a truck of the nature described, the combination of carrying wheels, axles on which said carrying wheels are mounted, a first shaft transverse to said axles, gearing connecting said shaft to one of said axles, a motor, a second shaft driven by the motor and located parallel to the first mentioned shaft, a third shaft transverse to the first and the second shafts, and worm gearing connecting the first shaft to the third shaft and the third shaft to the second shaft for reduction of velocity from the second shaft to the first shaft, substantially as described.

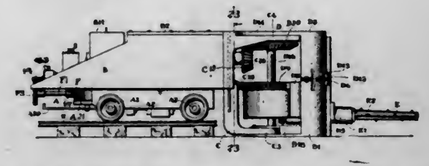
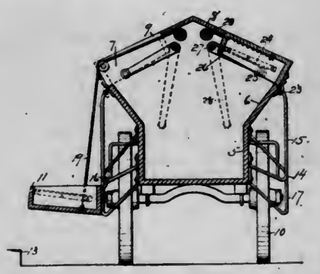
1,460,075. MINING AND QUARRYING MACHINE. CYRUS S. OLDROYD, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to Oldroyd Manufacturing Company, Knoxville, Tenn., a Corporation of Tennessee. Filed June 3, 1919, Serial No. 301,478. Renewed Dec. 11, 1922. 18 Claims. (Cl. 262—25.)



1. In a machine of the nature described, the combination of cutting mechanism and a truck supporting the cutting mechanism, the truck comprising carrying wheels, axles on which said carrying wheels are mounted, a first shaft, gearing connecting said shaft with one of said axles, two gear members loosely surrounding the first shaft, a second driven shaft, means for constantly transmitting motion from said second shaft to one of said gear members, means comprising ratchet mechanism for constantly transmitting motion from one of said members to the other of said gear members, and clutch mechanism slidable on the first shaft for engaging either of said members to compel the rotation of the first shaft, substantially as described.

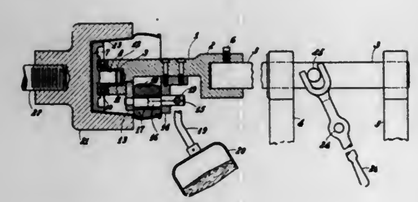
1,460,076. MINING AND QUARRYING MACHINE. CYRUS S. OLDROYD, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to Oldroyd Manufacturing Company, Knoxville, Tenn., a Corporation of Tennessee. Filed July 14, 1919, Serial No. 310,817. Renewed Dec. 11, 1922. 63 Claims. (Cl. 262—30.)



12. In a machine of the nature described, the combination with a neck structure having a neck seated in a horizontal bearing, a head, a tool support hinged to said head on an axial line which is transverse to the length of the machine, and cutting mechanism on the tool support, of a pair of parallel link members hinged to said neck structure and said head by shafts which are parallel to each other and are transverse to the axial line of said neck, a gear member on one of said shafts, power means for rotating said gear member and operator-controlled yielding power transmission mechanism in operative relation with said gear member and the tool support for slowly turning the latter on its axial line for moving the cutting mechanism sidewise for sidewise cutting, substantially as described.

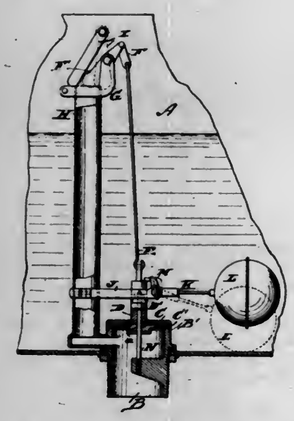
1,460,077. MINING MACHINE. CYRUS S. OLDROYD, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Jan. 8, 1921. Serial No. 435,821. 50 Claims. (Cl. 262—25.)

1. In a machine of the nature described, the combination of a body turnable horizontally, means for turning said body, a rotatable neck which is horizontal and parallel to the machine body, means for actuating said neck, a cutting tool, members supported by said neck and comprising a pair of parallel rotatable screws for supporting said tool on said neck for movement on the neck toward and from the axial line of the neck, and means for actuating said cutting tool, substantially as described.



1,460,078. REFUSE-COLLECTING WAGON. JAMES PULLAR, Hartford, Conn. Filed Sept. 10, 1920. Serial No. 409,306. 6 Claims. (Cl. 214—67.)

1. In combination with a wagon body closed on all sides but open at the top for substantially its whole length, a shallow tray closed on all sides but open at the top, means for supporting the tray in a lowered position for the emptying of refuse thereinto from receptacles at different points along its length and dumped from said receptacles by tipping them over the upper edge of said tray, and means for raising the tray and for inverting it over the top of said wagon body to dump said refuse into said body along its whole length.



1,460,079. EXPANDING ROLLER TOOL. ROBERT FLOYD SALISBURY, New Kensington, Pa., assignor to Aluminum Company of America, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 4, 1922. Serial No. 541,240. 4 Claims. (Cl. 113—52.)

1. An expanding tool comprising a chuck, a body provided with a center plate mounted in the body and adapted to cooperate with the chuck to hold an article operated upon, a stub shaft journaled in the body having an eccentric portion, an expanding roller rotatably mounted on the said eccentric portion, and means for rotating the shaft to move the roller towards and from the axis of said body.

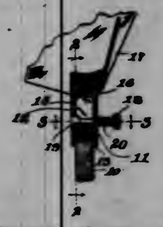
1,460,080. FLUSH VALVE. WILLIAM SHERWOOD, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 1, 1920. Serial No. 393,282. 2 Claims. (Cl. 4—5.)

1. In a device of the character described an overflow pipe carrying spaced brackets thereon composed of laterally extending arms, a substantially inverted V-shaped bell crank having one arm pivoted to the said bracket and carrying a link on the other arm, a lever carrying a roller at one end connected to the bell crank at the point of intersection of the said arms and extending below the pivot point of the same to the bracket, a vertically sliding valve carried by the lower bracket and connected to said link, and a rocker arm contacting with the lever whereby the valve is elevated.

1,460,081. TOWEL HOLDER. GEORGE A. SOMMERS, Marshfield, Wis. Filed Feb. 7, 1920. Serial No. 356,853. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—264.)



A holder consisting of a length of wire folded upon itself to provide clamping legs substantially throughout and of unequal length with the shorter leg at its free end diverging from the longer leg, the longer leg terminating in a ring by means of which the holder may be pivotally suspended from a support, the short leg terminating below said ring whereby a space is provided between the same and the support by the greater length of the other leg so that said suspending means and ring will not obstruct the attachment of an article to the holder, the connected end of the legs being lowermost an outwardly extending eye at the free end of the shorter leg, and said legs being spaced apart to enable a suspended article to be wrapped about the holder a plurality of times.

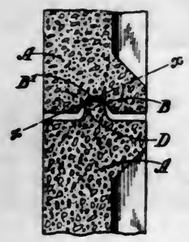
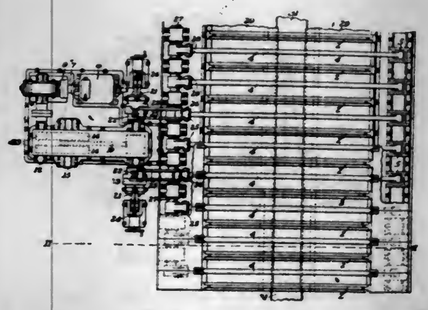
1,460,082. SEPARABLE HEADREST. GEORGE W. SPAHR, Mechanicsburg, Pa. Filed June 17, 1922. Serial No. 569,088. 4 Claims. (Cl. 155—174.)



1. The combination of two separable members comprising a post and a socket, the post having a slot through its entire width and a countersink, means for releasably securing said members comprising a transversely extending push pin adapted to slide vertically and transversely through said slot, said pin having a head adapted to be partially seated in said countersink and in a depression in the adjacent wall of the socket.

1,460,083. RECORDING SIGNAL. ELIHU THOMSON, Swampscott, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 27, 1921. Serial No. 524,939. 7 Claims. (Cl. 17.8—88.)

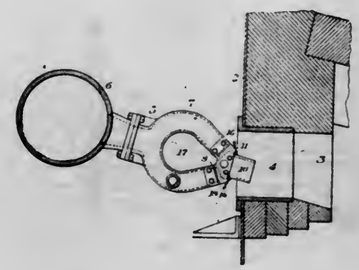


1. A signal recording apparatus comprising a porous strip carrying a material which when exposed to the action of a suitable reagent will change in color, means for moving said strip past an orifice, means for producing from said orifice a jet of gas which will produce a change in color of the material on said strip and means for moving the jet in response to a signaling current.

1,460,084. BUILDING BLOCK. JOHN EDWARD WALLIS, Rickmansworth, England. Filed May 6, 1922. Serial No. 558,946. 5 Claims. (Cl. 72—38.)

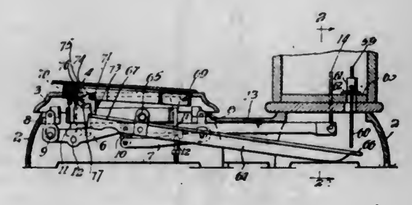
1. A building block having horizontal and vertical jointing faces, one of each of said faces having a tapering channel extending substantially the full length thereof, the remaining faces having a centrally disposed rib, each of the latter being provided with a nib adapted to fit within the bottom of the channel of the next adjacent block.

1,460,085. APPARATUS FOR SHAKING OUT CASTINGS. HARRY C. WATSON, Canton, Ohio. Filed May 22, 1920. Serial No. 383,392. 10 Claims. (Cl. 22—94.)



1. Apparatus for shaking out castings, comprising a table having a series of spaced fixed bars, and a series of alternating vertically movable bars, together with actuating connections for the movable bars, said connections being operative to produce a positive raising of the movable bars and then inoperative to permit a substantially true gravity drop thereof independently of further movement of said connections, substantially as described.

1,460,086. GAS BURNER. HENRY T. WATTS, Youngstown, Ohio. Filed July 23, 1920. Serial No. 398,399. 15 Claims. (Cl. 158—99.)



1. A gas burner, comprising two convergingly-directed laterally long gas nozzles, a pipe between the gas streams issuing from the nozzle and serving as a deflector, said pipe having orifices through which a gaseous medium may be discharged at high pressure if desired to assist the flow of gas, and a mixing chamber into which the gas together with air is discharged, substantially as described.

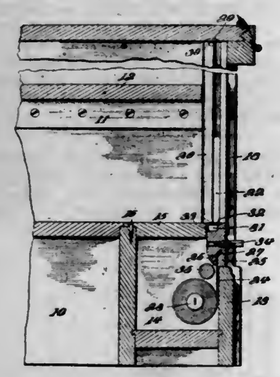
1,460,087. AUTOMATIC SCALE. MATHIAS J. WEBER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Continental Scale Works, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 27, 1920. Serial No. 412,961. 8 Claims. (Cl. 265—68.)



1. The combination with a platform scale, of a member to be moved, a platform upon which the weight is placed, scale levers upon which the platform is supported, means yieldingly holding the platform in elevated position relatively to the levers, an operating lever pivotally mounted between its ends upon the platform, one end of the operating lever arranged to contact with said member for moving same, means carried by the platform for engaging said lever to move the same on its pivot for moving said member as the weight is applied to the platform, and means for automatically releasing the lever when the lever has performed its function, the operating lever being adapted to drop free of said member when released.

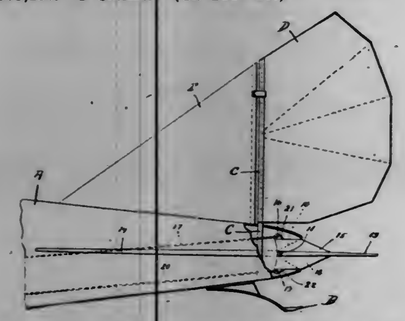
1,460,088. PIPE CUTTING, ROUNDING, AND THREADING MACHINE. EDGAR H. WILSON, Chartiers Township, Allegheny County, Pa., assignor to Taylor-Wilson Manufacturing Company, McKees Rocks, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 7, 1920, Serial No. 387,246. Renewed May 4, 1922. Serial No. 558,425. 27 Claims. (Cl. 29—33.)

1. In a machine of the class described, a barrel, means co-operating therewith for gripping the material being operated upon, means for rotating said barrel, a movable threading die, and a plurality of independently operable means driven by said barrel, rotating means for positively advancing said die, one of said means being effective for also retracting said die, substantially as described.

1,460,089. DUST-EXCLUDING DEVICE FOR SHELVING. ALBERT M. WOLTZ, Baltimore, Md., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Leon W. Himmel, Isador Himmel, and Jeannette Himmel, copartners, trading as M. L. Himmel & Son, Baltimore, Md. Filed Dec. 11, 1918. Serial No. 266,240. 3 Claims. (Cl. 211—27.)

1. In a dust excluding structure for store furniture the combination of shelving consisting of a display portion and a supporting base, said base having an opening in the front portion thereof, a spring actuated roller mounted within the normally useless space enclosed by said base, a dust excluding curtain connected at one end to said roller and extended through said opening, a lifting block secured to the other end of the curtain and closing said opening when the curtain is in rolled condition, means carried by the display portion for guiding said lifting block, and means at the top of the display portion for engaging said lifting block to hold the curtain extended over said display portion.

1,460,090. DEFORMED BAR. GEORGE BARBR, Coraopolis, Pa. Filed July 22, 1919. Serial No. 312,494. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—111.)



1. A reinforcing bar for concrete having portions thereof square in cross section, successive portions also square in cross section and turned at 45° to the first portions, and transition portions between said square sections, said transition portions being octagonal in cross section and of substantially the same area in cross section as the square portions.

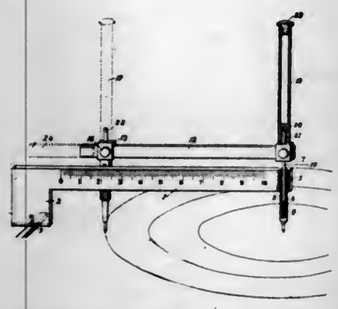
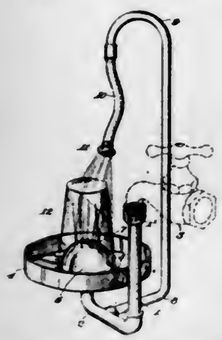
1,460,091. ELEVATOR CONTROL. ERROLD G. BAHL, Lincoln, Nebr. Filed July 15, 1922. Serial No. 575,157. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—29.)



4. In an aeroplane including a fuselage, and a rudder post journaled through the rear end thereof and carrying a rudder, a transverse shaft secured at the rear end of the fuselage to the rear of the rudder post, an elevator formed in one piece pivoted upon said shaft, horns extending from the upper and lower surfaces of the elevator out of alignment with the rudder post, and control wires connected with the extremities of said horns and contained entirely within the fuselage.

1,460,092. APPARATUS FOR DRYING AND POLISHING GLASSES AND ANALOGOUS ARTICLES. HENRY ALFRED COLE, Weston-super-Mare, England. Filed Mar. 21, 1921. Serial No. 454,197. 3 Claims. (Cl. 15—101.)



1. A glass drying and polishing machine comprising an internal polisher, a non-rotatable external polisher having a series of pivoted arms provided with polishing surfaces, means for rotating said internal polisher, and means for moving said external polisher axially relative to the internal polisher.

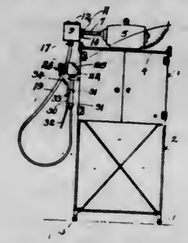
1,460,093. DEVICE FOR DRAWING CIRCLES. NICOLAS BASILE COSTOVICI, Lausanne, Switzerland, assignor to American Nicovici Drawing Instruments Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Company of Delaware. Filed Aug. 28, 1920. Serial No. 406,616. 7 Claims. (Cl. 33—27.)

1. In a device for drawing circles, the combination with a bar, of a center pin comprising two parts rotatable one relatively to the other about an axis common to the two, and whereof one part is mounted on said bar, an arm carrying the other part, and a marker carried by said arm.

1,460,094. TUMBLER WASHER. PETER CUNNEEN, New Rochelle, N. Y. Filed July 23, 1921. Serial No. 487,032. 1 Claim. (Cl. 141—3.)

A tumbler washer, comprising a tumbler-receiving pan, a water supply pipe connected with the bottom of said pan and supporting the same for supplying water to the interior of the tumbler when positioned inverted in said pan, a flexible depending water supply pipe disposed above said pan for discharging water directively against the exterior of the tumbler, a U-shaped pipe to which said flexible pipe is attached at one end and which has its other end tapped into said pan supply pipe, and a common supply pipe adapted for attachment to and detachment from a water faucet and connected to said pan supply pipe, said faucet supply pipe forming the sole support for said pan supply and flexible pipes.

1,460,095. CIGAR LIGHTER. CHARLES H. CUNO, Meriden, Conn., assignor to The Cuno Engineering Corporation, Meriden, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Sept. 13, 1922. Serial No. 587,905. 14 Claims. (Cl. 219—32.)



1. In a cigar lighter, an insulating body member having a recessed front end and having a boss at the rear end, said body having a side groove therearound and having longitudinally-extending wire passages from the front to the rear end, a substantially flat coil of resistance wire positioned in the recess in the front end to form a heater coil, one end of said resistance wire passing to the rear of said body and being electrically connected to a terminal at the end of said boss, said resistance wire being also wound about said body and positioned in said side groove to form a resistance coil, and a metallic ferrule fixed on the side of said body, the other end of said resistance wire being electrically connected to said ferrule.

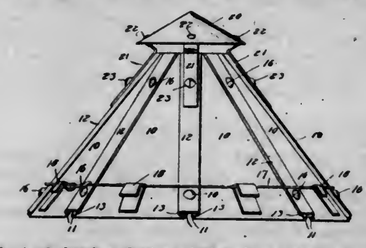
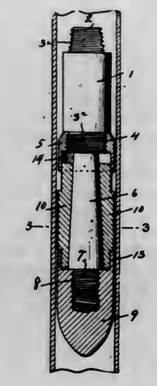
1,460,096. AUTOMOBILE WASHER. HARRY BRYAN DAVIS, Houston, Pa. Filed Nov. 4, 1921. Serial No. 512,861. 3 Claims. (Cl. 15—29.)



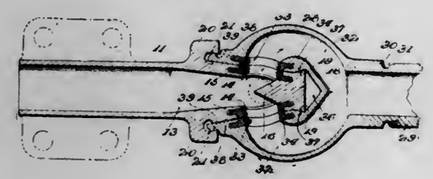
1. In a machine of the character described, a drive shaft, a housing mounted on the shaft to turn freely about the same, a rotatably mounted member adapted to receive a cleaning member, a flexible driving member, driving connections between the flexible driving member and said rotatably mounted member, and driving connections between said shaft and the flexible driving member positioned within the housing and permitting movement of the same about the shaft.

1,460,097. CELLULOSE-ETHER FILM AND COMPOSITION FOR MAKING THE SAME. JOHN M. DONOHUE and EDWARD S. FARROW, Jr., Rochester, N. Y., assignors to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 8, 1923. Serial No. 617,864. 6 Claims. (Cl. 134—79.)



4. A flowable film-forming composition comprising cellulose ether and a high boiling stabilizer capable of maintaining the flexibility of the finished film upon prolonged heating at 65° C., and a volatile liquid comprising a common solvent.

1,460,098. PORTABLE KNOCKDOWN SHELTER. WILLIAM C. HOUSER, Casey, Ill. Filed May 23, 1922. Serial No. 563,096. 4 Claims. (Cl. 108—3.)

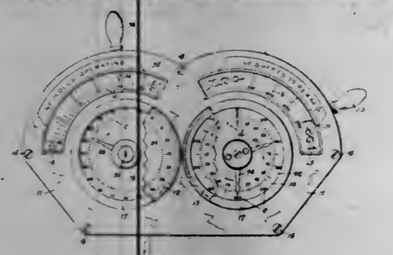


1. A sheltering device of the class described having a hood-shaped body, and spacing means extending therefrom to engage sheltered material to provide a ventilating space.

1,460,099. CASING SPEAR. ELMOND C. IMMEL, Cisco, Tex., assignor of one-half to Edward T. Murray, Eastland, Tex. Filed Sept. 6, 1922. Serial No. 586,527. 4 Claims. (Cl. 294—102.)

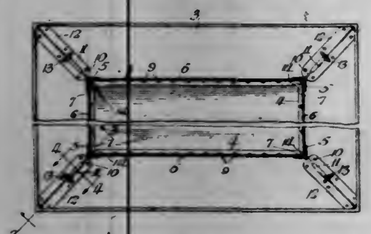
1. In a casing spear, the combination with a body provided with a depending axially aligned spindle, said spindle being tapered from its lower end upwardly to the body, a plurality of slips engaging the surface of the tapered spindle, said slips being independently movable by gravity and having upper and lower reduced ends, and means mounted upon the body adjacent the upper and lower ends of the slips and receiving said ends, thereby retaining the slips in position, and yet permitting them to move by gravity into gripping position.

1,460,100. PIPE JOINT. ARTHUR T. KUEHNER, Elkridge, Md. Filed Apr. 12, 1920. Serial No. 373,381. 18 Claims. (Cl. 285—143.)



1. A pipe joint including a male member, and a female member straddling the male member and mating therewith, the members being provided with coacting wedging faces, and yieldable means acting upon the members at substantially right angles to the length thereof for urging said faces into wedging engagement.

1,460,101. COUNTING APPARATUS. LOUIS LA VECK, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Simplex Paper Accessories Co., Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,461. 11 Claims. (Cl. 235—91.)



1. A counting mechanism comprising a plurality of counting elements movable in steps corresponding to different numeral units and means whereby any one of said elements may be selectively brought into action and the others at the same time rendered inoperative in accordance with changes in the numerical units.

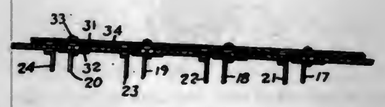
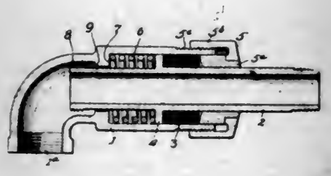
1,460,102. BIRDCAGE CATCH. LEWICKI J. LEON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to L. J. Leon Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,706. 8 Claims. (Cl. 119—17.)



1. A bird-cage, comprising a separable cage-body and pan, both rectangular in shape, said cage-body having corner posts, said pan having a marginal flange surrounding the lower end of the cage-body on the outside thereof, and catch means on said flange at each of the four corners thereof for releasably locking the cage-body and pan together at said corner posts.

1,460,103. COMBINATION SQUARE. DAVID CABRERA LOPEZ, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 9, 1920. Serial No. 387,652. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—104.)



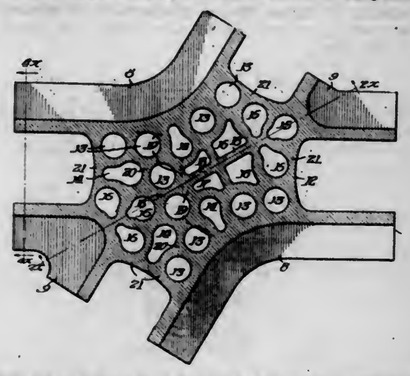
1. A plotter consisting of a generally rectangular body the edges of the body being irregular and having convex portions on arcs of different radii, and the plotter having means representing the centers of said arcs.

1,460,104. ELECTROLYTIC RECTIFIER. ROBERT WELLINGTON MCCLINTOCK and DONALD MCKINNON, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Aug. 13, 1920. Serial No. 403,266. 2 Claims. (Cl. 175—318.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination with the rectifier jars, of an insulating cover for the jars, depending stationary electrodes secured to the insulating cover and extending down into the electrolyte in jars, laterally movable electrodes slidably supported on the cover and means for actuating the movable electrodes in unison.

1,460,105. SWING JOINT. ERNEST J. MALONE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Troy Laundry Machinery Co. Ltd., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 7, 1921. Serial No. 450,311. 2 Claims. (Cl. 285—124.)

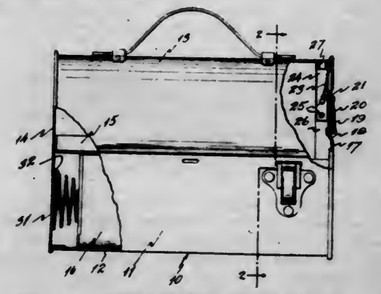
1. A packed telescoping and revolving pipe joint, comprising an inner pipe member and a surrounding pipe member; said pipe members being provided with axially interlocking integral enlargements constructed with intermeshing screw threads upon their opposed circumferential faces and adapted to be screwed one past the other in the assembly of the joint and constitute abutting shoulders which resist axial disassembly of the members.



1,460,106. ELECTRIC-FURNACE MELTING OF MANGANESE SCRAP. WESLEY G. NICHOLS, Chicago, Ill., assignor to American Manganese Steel Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Oct. 27, 1921. Serial No. 510,960. 4 Claims. (Cl. 219—64.)

1. The improvement in the process of melting manganese steel, which consists in charging the steel into an electric furnace, and subjecting the same to an electric arc developed by a wattage that, initially, is substantially up to furnace capacity, and continuing such wattage and thereby bringing the mass to molten state quickly and before oxidation materially depreciates the manganese content.

1,460,107. CAST-STEEL RAILWAY-TRACK MEMBER. WESLEY G. NICHOLS, Chicago Heights, Ill., assignor to American Manganese Steel Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed July 28, 1922. Serial No. 578,043. 8 Claims. (Cl. 246—454.)



2. A cast steel track member having upon its under side an integral sustaining mass underlying substantially the entire area of the member, and having said mass formed with a plurality of isolated recesses subdividing the mass into variously directed reinforcing walls, some of which underlie longitudinal lines of tread portions of the track member while others extend transversely thereof.

1,460,108. LUNCH KIT. JOSEPH G. NIKART, Virginia, Minn. Filed June 12, 1922. Serial No. 567,611. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—4.)

A lunch kit comprising an outer shell, a container fitted into the outer shell, a handle for withdrawing the container from the outer shell, means connected with the handle and actuated upon movement thereof into withdrawing position to unlock said container within the shell, auxiliary locking means to hold the device in assembled position, and means for urging the container out of the shell when the locking means is released and said handle raised.

1,460,109. TEMPERATURE CONTROL FOR BOILER-WASHOUT SYSTEMS. SPENCER OTIS and FRANK S. WICHMAN, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 7, 1921. Serial No. 482,884. 3 Claims. (Cl. 122—396.)

1. In a boiler washing system, a washout tank, a washout line, a pump feeding water from said tank to said line, a return flow pipe leading from said line, and controllable pipes leading from said return flow pipe, respectively, to the suction side of the pump and to said tank.

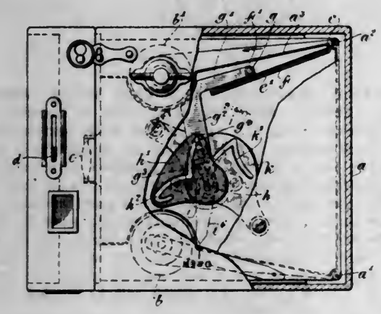
1,460,110. PROCESS FOR RECOVERING CATALYST FROM CATALYSIS RESIDUE. ERNEST V. OWEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Hoover Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 3, 1922. Serial No. 540,768. 10 Claims. (Cl. 23—13.)

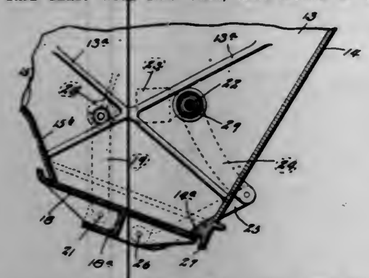


1. The improvement in the art of recovering aluminum chloride from hydrocarbon with which it has combined in the process of catalyzation, which consists in impinging the mixture of hydrocarbon and aluminum chloride while still in a fluid state, against a surface maintained at a temperature sufficient to volatilize the aluminum chloride while permitting hydrocarbon to settle out, and recovering the volatile thus released.

1,460,111. BADGE OR INSIGNIA. WILLIAM L. PANIKOFF, New Haven, Conn. Filed Feb. 27, 1922. Serial No. 539,367. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—1.5.)

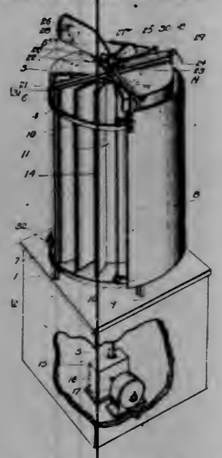
A badge or insignia comprising a bar formed with a series of panels, each panel formed with slots, and a series of individual insignia plates, each formed with prongs adapted to be passed through said slots, whereby the said plates are individually secured in the said panels.

1,460,112. CAMERA. GUNNAR QUARFOTH, New Rochelle, N. Y. Filed Aug. 4, 1922. Serial No. 579,555. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—36.)



1. In a camera, the combination of a casing, a mask, means to support the mask to swing in the casing, an arm connected to the mask, and cam mechanism for actuating the arm to cause the mask to swing from one position to another.

1,460,113. LOCOMOTIVE ASH PAN. WILLIAM M. SHEEHAN, St. Louis, Mo., assignor to Cast Steel Locomotive Ash Pan Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 4, 1921. Serial No. 442,487. 7 Claims. (Cl. 110—167.)



5. A locomotive ash pan provided with a door adapted to close the lower end thereof and supported thereon, an operable shaft journaled in said ash pan and extending through the interior thereof, means operatively connecting said shaft with said door, and means in said ash pan enclosing said shaft and provided with an air chamber through which cooling medium may circulate around said shaft.

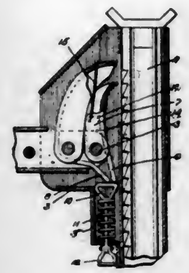
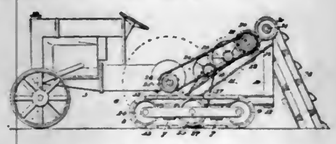
1,460,114. WIND WHEEL. HENRY D. SHELTON, Hughesville, Mo. Filed Feb. 23, 1922. Serial No. 538,540. 5 Claims. (Cl. 170—15.)



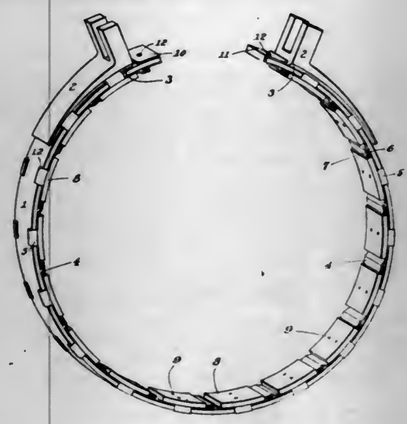
1. A wind wheel comprising a drum having vertical blades, a shaft to which the wind wheel is fastened, a shield pivoted about the axis of the shaft and having a wall part adapted to move about the periphery of the wheel, the shield having a part provided with ratchet teeth, a freely movable vane swinging about an axis in line with the axis of the shaft, and a pawl movable in response to the swinging movement of the vane to ride over the ratchet teeth when the vane moves in one direction and to engage the ratchet teeth when the vane moves in the opposite direction so that when the vane moves in one direction the shield will be shifted with respect to the wheel blades.

1,460,115. REENFORCED-CONCRETE RAILWAY AND THE LIKE SLEEPER. DUDLEY HEPBURN STENT, Delhi, India. Filed Jan. 12, 1923. Serial No. 612,238. 4 Claims. (Cl. 238—117.)



1. In a concrete sleeper pot, a metallic reinforcement including wear plates at the top and bottom of the pot, and a tubular tie bar guide socket exposed at one end only and correlated to and positioned by said reinforcement.

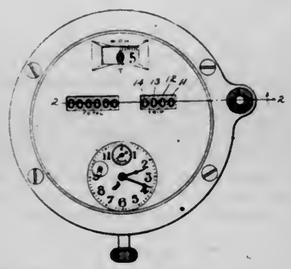
1,460,116. JACK MECHANISM. SAMUEL A. SNELL, St. Louis, Mo., assignor to Moon Brothers Manufacturing Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,521. 8 Claims. (Cl. 254—111.)



1. In a ratchet jack, a frame, a pair of pawls, a coiled spring connected at one end to one of said pawls, and a link connected at its ends to the other end of said spring and to a fixed point on the frame respectively and having a transverse engagement with the other of said pawls.

1,460,117. TRENCHING MACHINE. DANIEL W. STOOKEY, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Filed June 11, 1921. Serial No. 476,770. 6 Claims. (Cl. 37—86.)

1. In combination with a tractor, an excavator, actuating mechanism therefor connecting with and driven by the power plant of the tractor, and a supporting and carrying frame for the excavator detachably connected with the tractor.



1,460,118. LINKED BRAKE-BAND LINING. ALVIN H. SWEET, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-third to Charles A. Sweet and one-third to Charles R. Twitchell, both of Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 27, 1922. Serial No. 577,935. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—259.)

5. In combination, a brake band; a lining comprising a plurality of flexibly connected sections, said sections being adapted for mutual disengagement by transverse sliding; end clips adapted for transverse sliding engagement with said sections; means for aligning said sections within said band; and means for removably attaching said clips to said band.

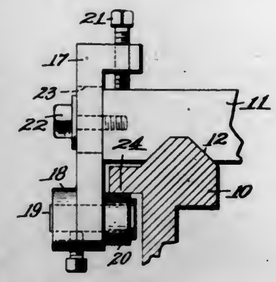
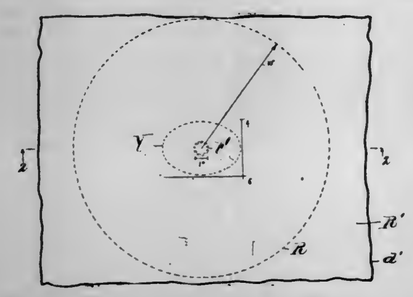
1,460,119. RESETTING MEANS FOR COUNTERS. GEORGE W. TONEY, Waltham, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Old Colony Trust Company, a Corporation of Massachusetts, trustee. Filed Aug. 16, 1917. Serial No. 186,496. 14 Claims. (Cl. 235—144.)



1. The combination in a counter with alined number disks and a driving shaft co-axial with said disks and disconnectibly connected to one of them, of a re-setting device comprising a stem at an angle to the axis of the disks which is movable both axially and rotatably, mechanism operated by axial movement of said stem for disconnecting said disconnectible disk from the said shaft, and mechanism operated by rotation of said stem for turning said disk.

1,460,120. RESETTING MEANS FOR COUNTERS. GEORGE W. TONEY, Waltham, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Old Colony Trust Company, a Corporation of Massachusetts, trustee. Filed Aug. 16, 1917. Serial No. 186,497. 6 Claims. (Cl. 235—144.)



2. The combination with number-exhibiting disks and a drive shaft, of a clutch member connected to said drive shaft, a complemental clutch member connected to said unit disk in a manner permitting axial displacement, a rotatable and endwise movable setting device, intermeshing gears connected to said device and said unit disk for rotating the latter when the setting device is rotated, and a pusher engaged with said device and movable by endwise movement thereof to disconnect the second named clutch member from the first named clutch member.

1,460,121. LATHE-CARRIAGE ATTACHMENT. JOHN J. WITT, Winchendon, Mass., assignor to Goodspeed Machine Company, a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Oct. 29, 1919. Serial No. 334,223. 1 Claim. (Cl. 142—1.)

In a lathe, in combination, a carriage, a support on which said carriage is slidably mounted, rollers engaging an under surface of said support to prevent upward movement of said carriage relatively to said support, brackets for said rollers mounted on the side of said carriage for vertical adjustment thereon, said brackets each having an upward offset extension with a screw threaded therein and engaging a horizontal upper surface of said carriage for moving said bracket upward, and additional means to clamp said brackets in adjusted position against the side of said carriage.

1,460,122. PHOTOGRAPH AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. ADELBERT AMES, Jr., Tewksbury, Mass. Filed Jan. 12, 1920. Serial No. 351,012. 13 Claims. (Cl. 95—5.)

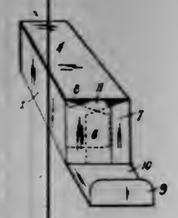
1,460,123. VENDING MACHINE. MELVILLE B. BAIRD and GEORGE A. WALLS, Kansas City, Mo.; Albert H. Steele, administrator of said Melville B. Baird, deceased; said administrator and said Walls, assignors, by direct and mesne assignments, to J. C. W. Bland, Tulsa, Okla. Filed Jan. 5, 1920. Serial No. 349,475. 1 Claim. (Cl. 194—80.)



In combination, an article container, a reciprocatory ejector, a coin receiver carried by the ejector, an ejector actuator having a part to abut against the coin receiver, depending lugs adjacent to the coin receiver and spaced apart to provide guides, a pivoted member having one end weighted and the other end movable between the lugs and normally lying in a position to obstruct the passage of a coin through the coin receiver, and means for tilting the pivoted member to release the coin.

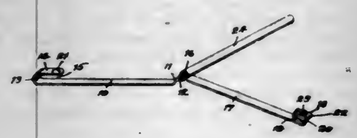
1,460,124. CARTON. FRANK E. BEAM, Toledo, Ohio, assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automat Molding and Folding Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 7, 1920. Serial No. 415,306. 4 Claims. (Cl. 229—38.)

1. A carton having an inner flap and an outer flap projecting from adjacent ends of adjoining sides and adapted to lap each other when in folded relation, the outer flap having a tongue at its outer end for insertion into the carton body over a side edge of the inner flap, and said inner flap having a tongue at the side edge thereof which is lapped by the outer flap tongue and which coacts therewith to retain the carton sides in folded relation.



1,460,125. HOUSEHOLD MIXER AND BEATER. GEORGE B. COLEMAN, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Majik Electric Appliance Company, a Corporation of California. Filed May 16, 1922. Serial No. 561,535. 3 Claims. (Cl. 259—122.)

1. In a household device, a source of motive power, a shaft extending from the source and adapted to be rotated thereby, and means for supporting said device in a substantially upright position for operation comprising a plurality of strips each attached at one end to the source of power, and a member attached to the other ends of the strips, the strips and said member forming a substantially symmetrical arrangement about the extending shaft, and having an axis of symmetry substantially coinciding with the axis of the shaft.

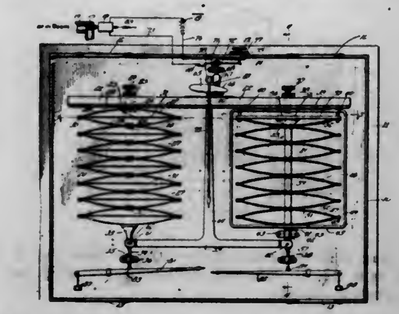
1,460,126. HAIR CRIMPER. JOHN F. DONNELLY, North Plainfield, N. J. Filed June 26, 1922. Serial No. 570,821. 5 Claims. (Cl. 132—41.)



1. A hair crimper, comprising a jaw member, a second jaw member having one of its ends pivoted to one of the ends of the first mentioned jaw member so that both members may be swung to and from each other in spaced parallel arrangement, complemental clamp members on the second ends of both jaw members for releasably fastening both jaw members together, and a third jaw member having one of its ends pivotally held to the pivot of the pair of jaw members so that the third jaw member may be swung to and from lapping position on the second jaw member as well as being detachably engageable by the clamp member of said second jaw member.

1,460,127. BOX FOR CANDY OR THE LIKE. JESSE K. FARLEY, Jr., Kenilworth, Ill. Filed Sept. 30, 1921. Serial No. 504,517. 4 Claims. (Cl. 229—8.)

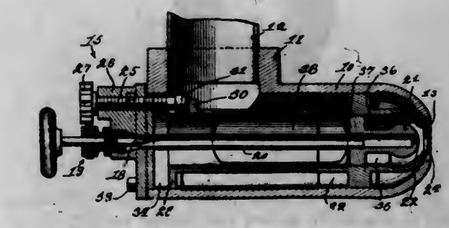
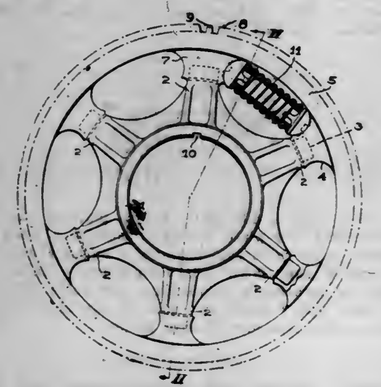
1,460,128. HYDROTHERMOSTATIC SYSTEM. EARL V. HILL, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 29, 1920. Serial No. 369,527. 6 Claims. (Cl. 236—44.)



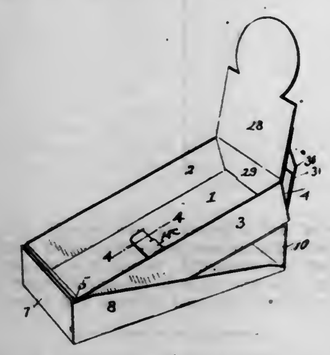
3. The improvement in the art of heating buildings, which consists in maintaining the wet-bulb temperature substantially uniform under varying conditions of humidity.

1,460,129. COMBINED HOT PLATE AND LAUNDRY STOVE. RUDOLPH HOFFMAN, Kankakee, Ill., assignor to Sears, Roebuck and Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 6, 1921. Serial No. 475,501. 11 Claims. (Cl. 126—40.)



1. A combined hot plate and laundry stove comprising a frame, a pair of supporting members at the opposite ends of said frame and secured directly to the under side thereof, each of said members providing two angular supports, and a pair of legs angular in form and detachably secured to each of said supports, said legs being adapted to fit over the corners of said supports.

1,460,130. LIQUID-FUEL BURNER. GEORGE W. HOFMANN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 10, 1919. Serial No. 329,808. 6 Claims. (Cl. 158—76.)



1. In a liquid fuel burner, in combination, a large nozzle, a small nozzle inside said large nozzle slidable along the axis of said large nozzle, an axially located head adapted to discharge a liquid, means for sliding said small nozzle into a position closing said large nozzle or into a position adjacent said discharge head whereby said small nozzle is closed by said head and said large nozzle is opened.

1,460,131. FLEXIBLE GEAR. GEORGE H. F. HOLT, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Western Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 31, 1921. Serial No. 526,137. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—29.)

1. A flexible gear comprising a gear hub provided with a plurality of radial spokes projecting therefrom, a gear rim having a plurality of inwardly depending lugs in alignment with said spokes, one of said spokes and one of said lugs being of different shape from the others, said hub and rim having a key seat and gear tooth, respectively, in central alignment therewith.

1,460,132. DISPLAY CARTON. JOHN V. HORR, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Albert T. Fischer, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Oct. 1, 1920. Serial No. 413,976. 11 Claims. (Cl. 206—44.)

2. A display carton comprising a body portion which serves as a container, a cover for said carton, a member hingedly connected to and extending from one end of the cover and hingedly connected to the bottom of the container and extending upon the outside thereof, said member having a score and being adapted to fold along the bottom and around the end of the container when the cover is in closed position, the container when in open position having an end of the box inserted within the cover adjacent one end thereof, said member having a portion which lies along the bottom of the box and a portion which extends in substantially upright position to support the opposite end of the container and hold the same in inclined position.

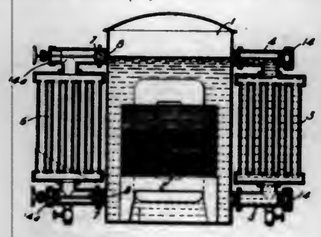
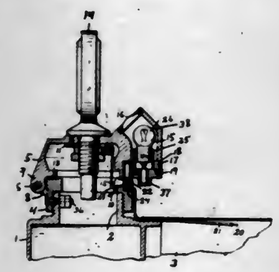
1,460,133. LOCK AND LATCH. NORMAN B. HUBD, New Britain, Conn., assignor to American Hardware Corporation, New Britain, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Oct. 4, 1922. Serial No. 592,235. 6 Claims. (Cl. 292—173.)



1. In a lock, a side plate, a face plate at one edge thereof, said face plate having a passage, a latch bolt mounted to move in said passage, a separate guide for the tail of said latch bolt comprising a plate, with means for detachably interlocking said guide with said side plate and holding the same at an angle thereto, and a separate latch-retracting means.

1,460,134. DEVICE FOR DETERMINING THE SPECIFIC GRAVITY OF LIQUIDS. JACOB M. JOHLIN, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to Semet-Solvay Company, Solvay, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 23, 1920. Serial No. 419,146. 1 Claim. (Cl. 265—44.)

A device for determining the specific gravity of liquids consisting of two tubes of unequal length open at one end and adapted to receive at their other ends gas under pressure through constricted openings and a pressure gauge connected between said tubes.



1,460,135. DETACHABLE TRANSFORMER RADIATOR. CARL G. JONES, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 16, 1919. Serial No. 271,457. 21 Claims. (Cl. 137—21.)

1. A transformer tank and a detachable radiator therefor, said radiator having a plurality of openings in alinement with an opening in said tank, closure means for the opening in said tank and means operable when said tank and said radiator are operatively connected to remove said closure into said radiator for closing one of the openings therein.

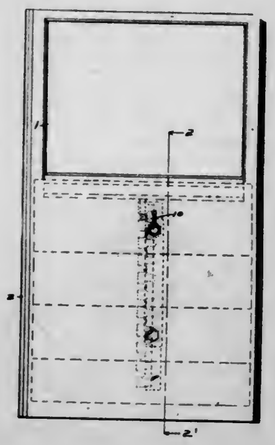
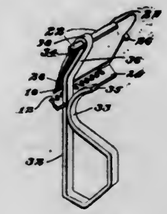
1,460,136. ILLUMINATING DEVICE. CLIFFORD L. LA JEUNESSE, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Aug. 18, 1921. Serial No. 493,494. 4 Claims. (Cl. 240—2.)



1. In an illuminating device, the combination with a base, of a cap hinged thereto and provided with an object to be illuminated projecting above the cap, the cap being provided with a lamp receiving aperture below the object to be illuminated, a lamp holder secured to the cap, an electric conductor secured to the base and insulated therefrom, an electric conductor secured to the lamp holder and insulated therefrom, and yieldable means for establishing electrical connection between said conductors when the cap is closed.

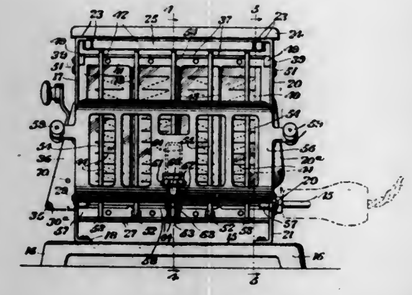
1,460,137. METHOD OF PLATING METALS. HUBERT A. MYERS, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Mar. 6, 1922. Serial No. 541,304. 15 Claims. (Cl. 219—12.)



1. The method of metal plating an object, which consists in electrically melting and welding particles of the metal to the surface of the object, and smoothing, by rubbing the surface as the metal is deposited.

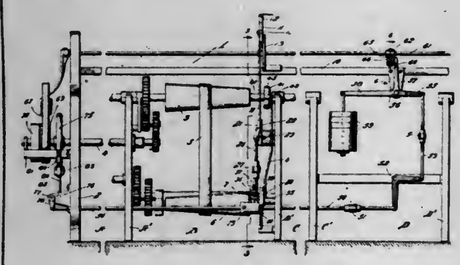
1,460,138. WINDOW-LIFTING DEVICE. HUBERT A. MYERS, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Sept. 18, 1922. Serial No. 588,838. 11 Claims. (Cl. 268—4.)

1. In a window lifter, a plurality of members, each of the members having a plurality of engaging elements, means for operating the members to engage and move the window, the elements engaging the window singly and in sequence, and the members by means of their elements successively engaging the window after each engagement of an element of another of the members.



1,460,139. SAFETY RAZOR. CHARLES S. PARKER, Boston, Mass. Filed Apr. 23, 1921. Serial No. 463,812. 13 Claims. (Cl. 30—12.)

1. A safety razor, having a blade; a guard plate, having a guard flange and means to hold the blade when the two are together; and a handle, separable from both and adapted to engage the guard flange and to press together the plate and blade.



1,460,140. ELECTRIC COOKING DEVICE. MARIUS E. PENSO, New York, N. Y., assignor to National Indicator Company, Long Island City, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 9, 1921. Serial No. 490,945. 24 Claims. (Cl. 219—19.)

1. A device of the class set forth comprising a plurality of upstanding electric heating units, a supporting frame for said units, said units and frame forming an oven heated by said units, and means for supporting slices of bread adjacent the outer sides of said units.

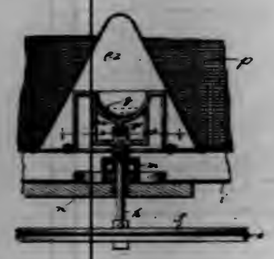
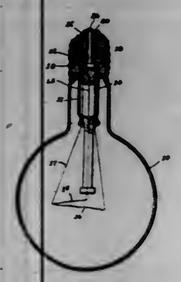
1,460,141. STOP-MOTION MECHANISM FOR FLY FRAMES. GIACOMO PUCCI, Westerly, R. I. Filed Dec. 5, 1922. Serial No. 605,111. 11 Claims. (Cl. 192—8.)



1. In fly frames, the combination of the upper and lower cones of the differential mechanism, a cone belt, a lower cone support pivoted so as to drop on the breaking of the cone belt, a tripping lever adapted to be tripped by the pivoted cone support, and to release the trigger shaft on the breaking of the cone belt, braking means attached to one arm of the tripping lever adapted to brake the upper cone shaft, a trigger shaft, means adapted to forcibly shift the trigger shaft when released by the tripping lever, means connected to the trigger shaft adapted to shift the shipper rod on breakage of the cone belt, and a braking means attached to the driving end of the fly frame connected to the trigger shaft, and adapted on the forcible shifting of the trigger shaft to brake the drive shaft.

1,460,142. CENTRIFUGAL EXTRACTOR. WILLIAM H. ROUSTON, Detroit, Mich.; Grace Duryea Rouston administratrix of said William H. Rouston, deceased. Filed Nov. 26, 1920. Serial No. 426,664. 1 Claim. (Cl. 64—48.)



In an extractor of the centrifugal type, the combination with a vat, of a drive shaft extending upwardly through the bottom of the vat, a clutch member in the form of a cup-shaped hub carried at the upper end of said drive shaft, the bottom of said hub provided with an axial depression, a rotatable basket positioned within said vat and having a bottom bent upwardly axially to form a concavity, a clutch plate secured to the bottom of the basket and extending upwardly interior the concavity and provided with a downwardly convex portion which seats within the hub to form frictional engagement with the side wall thereof to be driven thereby, said convex portion provided with a downwardly projecting axial teat-like member received within the depression in the bottom of the hub to limit the wabble of the basket during rotation.

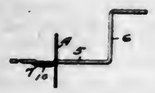
1,460,143. INCANDESCENT LAMP. LOUIS RYZOWICZ and JOHN J. BOLEK, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 6, 1920. Serial No. 401,603. 1 Claim. (Cl. 176—27.)

An electric lamp having a bulb and a base therefor, said base comprising a body of insulating material and a metallic ferrule embracing the insulation, there being a portion of said insulation protruding beyond one end of the ferrule and having a frusto-conical formation, spaced contact members embedded within the insulation on the side of the frusto-conical portion, and a revoluble contact arm having the axis thereof centrally positioned on the base, and having an inclined portion adapted to engage said contacts, said arm providing a contact button adjacent the axis of revolution thereof whereby contact may be made with a centrally disposed contact member in a lamp socket, a plurality of leading in wires passing through the base, each connected to one of the contact members, and a common return wire passing also through the base and connected to the ferrule.



1,460,144. TRAVELER STOP FOR SPINNING RINGS. LITFALLAH G. SABBAG, Boston, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to William W. Miller, Martinsville, Va. Filed June 10, 1922. Serial No. 567,331. 2 Claims. (Cl. 118—69.)

1. A spinning-ring having in connection therewith a traveler-stop permitting the traveler to move undisturbed around the ring during normal spinning but engaging therewith to stop the traveler in a predetermined position in case of yarn-breakage or stoppage of the spinning-frame.

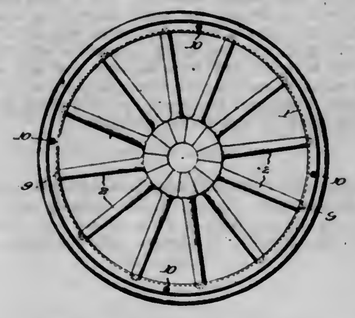
1,460,145. WHEEL AND SHAFT AND METHOD OF INTERLOCKING SAME. LEONARD A. SEISS, Toledo, Ohio. Filed May 6, 1922. Serial No. 559,047. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—148.)

2. The process of connecting a sheet metal wheel to a shaft, which consists in bending a central portion of the wheel at right angles to the face of the wheel and bending central portions of the first named portion at an angle to the first named portion and positioning the shaft between the first named portion and the second named portions and forcing a portion of the shaft into the opening formed in the first named portion by bending the second named portions and forcing the second named portions towards each other and against the portion forced in the said opening and causing the ends of the said portions to conform to the parts of the shaft that connect with the portion forced into the said opening with the body of the shaft.



1,460,146. DEVICE FOR AIR COOLING DUSTPROOF FAN MOTORS. MILTON H. SPIELMAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Feb. 8, 1918. Serial No. 216,141. 2 Claims. (Cl. 142—36.)

1. In combination, a motor having a projecting armature shaft, an airtight casing surrounding the motor and from which the armature shaft projects, a fan on the armature shaft, a tubular casing surrounding the airtight motor casing, the end of the casing adjacent the fan having an inwardly extending flange, and a housing secured to the second mentioned casing and surrounding the fan, a tangential outlet in the housing to provide a blower, said tubular casing fitting within the housing, said flange defining a central opening to the fan for all the air passing through the blower.

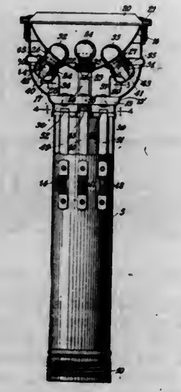
1,460,147. METHOD FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF WHEELS. JOSEPH G. SWAIN, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The Firestone Steel Products Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Original application filed Aug. 13, 1919, Serial No. 317,162. Divided and this application filed Feb. 21, 1921. Serial No. 446,804. Renewed Nov. 25, 1922. 9 Claims. (Cl. 29—174.)

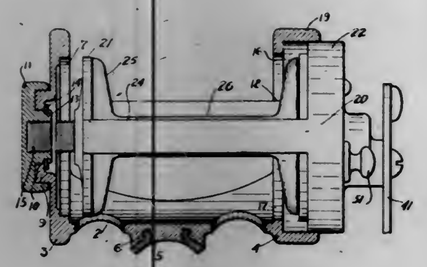


1. A method of wheel manufacture comprising the steps of forming a metallic felloe larger than its finished circumference, forming sockets in the base of said felloe, forming spokes with reduced ends to fit said sockets, assembling the spokes and felloe with the reduced ends of the spokes seated in these sockets and compressing the felloe to form a compact wheel structure.

1,460,148. TRANSPOSITION SCALE. EDGAR D. TILLYER, Southbridge, Mass., assignor to American Optical Company, Southbridge, Mass., a Voluntary Association of Massachusetts. Filed Feb. 6, 1922. Serial No. 534,443. 9 Claims. (Cl. 235—84.)

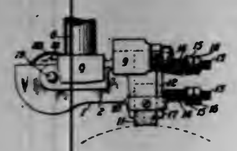
1. An index member having different designations for selective indication of points on the different scales, each of the scales having a designation corresponding to the adjacent designation on the index member for cooperation with the readings of the adjacent dial whereby different readings of equal value may be obtained by selection of the figures indicated by corresponding designations.

1,460,149. FLASH LIGHT. EDMUND R. BARANY, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Franco Electric Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 8, 1922. Serial No. 573,685. 6 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.5.)



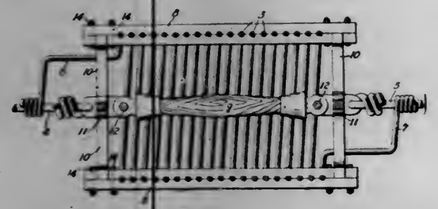
1. A flashlight comprising a casing adapted to receive a source of electrical energy, a reflector associated with said casing, a support arranged at the rear of said reflector, a plurality of lamps associated with said reflector, conductors supported by said suppport and leading individually to said lamps, said conductors cooperating with said lamps to retain said support properly positioned at the rear of said conductor, and means for placing said lamps in circuit with said source of energy through said conductors.

1,460,150. FLASH-LIGHT-BATTERY THRUST CAP. EDMUND R. BARANY, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Franco Electric Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 14, 1922. Serial No. 581,597. 8 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.5.)



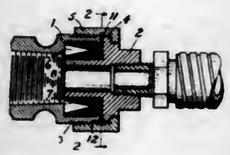
1. A flashlight thrust cap comprising a closure, a resilient thrust element bent intermediate its ends and having a resilient tongue adapted to engage the flashlight battery, said ends being urged into intimate engagement with the wall of said closure by inherent resiliency of said thrust element whereby the same is maintained operatively positioned with respect to said closure.

1,460,151. FISHING REEL. FRANCIS M. CASE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Enterprise Manufacturing Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 29, 1920. Serial No. 377,654. 26 Claims. (Cl. 242—841.)



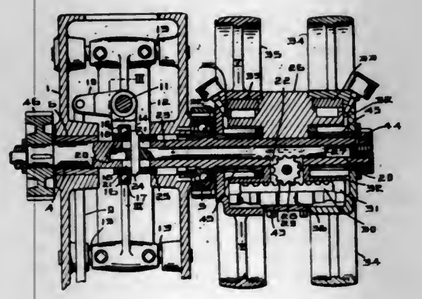
7. A fishing reel, comprising a frame unit having end members and rod attaching means, a spool unit adapted for normal operation of its parts without disconnection thereof when said two units are disassembled, said spool unit including a spool, a supporting frame therefor, and spool operating mechanism, and means for rigidly clamping said units together to prevent lost motion therebetween.

1,460,152. BRUSH HOLDER. JOHN S. DEAN, Edgewood Park, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 24, 1920. Serial No. 412,421. 7 Claims. (Cl. 171—324.)



5. A brush-holder provided with a channel, a brush slidably mounted in said channel, a plurality of extensions adjacent to said channel, a plate movably mounted on said extensions, and means for yieldably maintaining said plate in contact with said brushes.

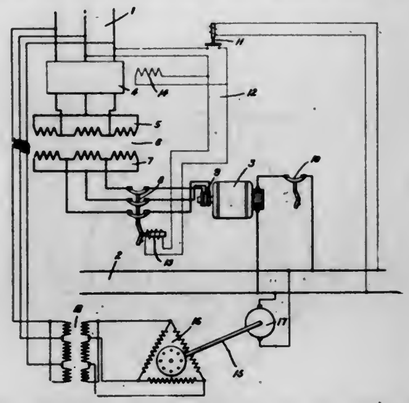
1,460,153. CHOKE COIL. GEORGE C. DILL, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 6, 1919. Serial No. 336,096. 7 Claims. (Cl. 175—360.)



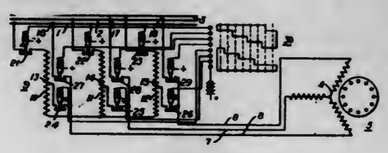
1. A choke coil comprising a strain-resisting insulating member and a coil loosely mounted thereon and surrounding said insulating member to permit bodily movement of the coil with respect to the insulating member.

1,460,154. PIPE COUPLING, JAMES W. FRAZIER and FRED. E. HANSEN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Mar. 3, 1921. Serial No. 449,322. 4 Claims. (Cl. 285—122.)

1. In a pipe coupling, in combination, a pair of mating members, a third member carried by one of said members and adapted to receive the other member in engaging relation, and a means inside said third member adapted while the parts are uncoupled to prevent relative displacement between said third member and one of the mating members and adapted when the parts are coupled to prevent accidental unscrewing of said third member from the other of said mating members.



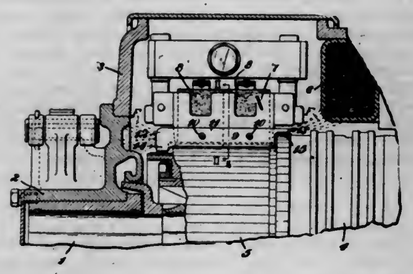
1,460,155. CLUTCH-CONTROL MECHANISM. GEORGE E. HALLENBECK, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to Baker Brothers, Toledo, Ohio, a Firm. Filed Oct. 17, 1918. Serial No. 258,584. 7 Claims. (Cl. 192—48.)



1. A rotary driving member, a split ring for engaging the member, a pair of levers between the ends of the split ring and rockable to spread the ring, a tubular shaft for the driving member, said shaft having a radial opening, a stem reciprocable in the shaft axially of the shaft, and means actuable from the stem and coacting through said opening to engage between the levers for rocking the levers.

1,460,156. AUTOMATIC SUBSTATION. FREDERIC C. HANKER, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 9, 1918. Serial No. 227,431. 10 Claims. (Cl. 171—312.)

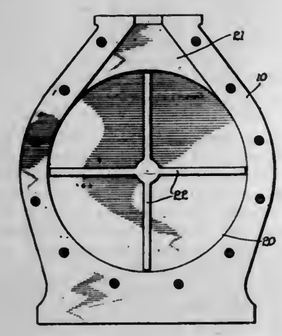
1. In an electrical system, the combination with an alternating-current circuit, a direct-current circuit, a converter and voltage-responsive means for controlling the connection of the converter between both circuits in response to the voltage condition of the direct-current circuit, of means for normally maintaining the voltage of the direct-current circuit while there is no load thereon and for so reducing the voltage of the direct-current circuit, when load is placed thereon, that the voltage-responsive means will be caused to effect the connection of the converter between the two circuits.



1,460,157. MOTOR-CONTROL SYSTEM. RUDOLF E. HELLMUND, Swissvale, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 8, 1918. Serial No. 257,348. 5 Claims. (Cl. 172—274.)

1. The combination with a two-speed induction motor having star-connected phase windings, and a source of electrical energy therefor, of means for connecting said motor to said source for operation at one speed, means for reversing the phase sequence of two of said phase windings, and means for successively changing the connections of the phase windings of said motor to operate said motor at a second speed.

1,460,158. BRUSH HOLDER. RUDOLF E. HELLMUND, Swissvale, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 30, 1920. Serial No. 400,145. 16 Claims. (Cl. 171—324.)

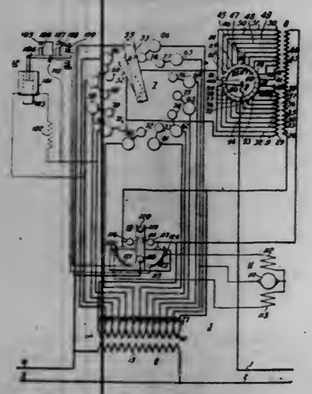


2. A brushholder adapted to maintain a brush in cooperation with a commutator cylinder and provided with means for protecting an arc formed between a brush and the commutator cylinder against the diverting action of magnetic fluxes.

1,460,159. CASTER. JOHN KARPIEJ, Hamtramck, Mich. Filed May 15, 1922. Serial No. 560,913. 1 Claim. (Cl. 16—26.)

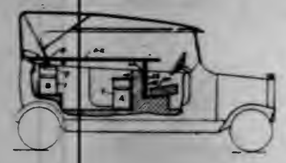
A caster comprising a pair of similar lower members having means for enclosing a ball, substantially flat plates rigid with the upper extremities of said members, semicircular threaded grooves in the upper surfaces of said plates, a boss on each plate partly enclosed by said groove, a member adapted to be secured to a leg of an article of furniture, said member being provided with a circular plate having its outer periphery threaded and having a circular recess in the center thereof, said circular plate being adapted to engage said grooves, and said recess being adapted to be engaged by said bosses.

1,460,160. PUMP. HARRY E. LA BOUR, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 7, 1921. Serial No. 450,349. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—103.)



A centrifugal pump having, in combination, rigid blades defining a whirling space bounded by parallel planes, an axial inlet, and a radial outlet opening directly into said space, said outlet having sides flaring into tangency with said space and subtending an arc of the periphery substantially equal to the arc between the tips of adjacent blades.

1,460,161. REGULATOR SYSTEM. EDWIN LEHR, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 28, 1919. Serial No. 300,393. 21 Claims. (Cl. 171—119.)



1. In a regulator system for a supply circuit, a transformer energized by said supply circuit, and means comprising a relay and an auxiliary transformer controlled thereby for varying the number of active turns of said transformer in accordance with the supply-circuit voltage and for connecting the transformer to the supply circuit to maintain substantially constant voltage on a portion of the supply circuit.

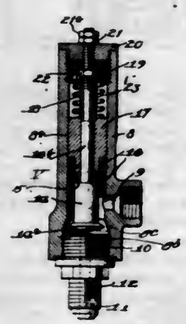
1,460,162. CAMPING OUTFIT. ARTHUR J. LEWIS, Stratford, Conn. Filed July 25, 1921. Serial No. 487,507. 9 Claims. (Cl. 5—2.)

1. A camping outfit comprising a foldable bed, a cabinet provided with a top having a plurality of sections, one of said sections being hinged to the cabinet, supports for one end of the bed secured to said hinged section, said section being mounted so that it may be swung to bring the supports to operative position or to a concealed position within the cabinet at will, and a foldable support independent of the cabinet for the other end of the bed, said cabinet also provided with a compartment adapted to receive the bed and the foldable support when not in use.



1,460,163. BRAKING APPARATUS. MALCOLM LOUGHEAD, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Four Wheel Hydraulic Brake Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Dec. 17, 1920. Serial No. 431,332. 24 Claims. (Cl. 188—152.)

1. In a braking apparatus, a steering wheel, a brake drum on said wheel, a brake band provided with a gap between its ends, means for causing engagement of said band with said drum, a steering knuckle for said wheel, a supporting arm mounted on and movable with said knuckle, a yoke on said arm for engaging one side of said band, means for guiding the movement of the ends of said band toward each other and for preventing lateral displacement from said drum, said means comprising a rod secured to said supporting arm and extending laterally across the gap in said band, and means for preventing rotary movement of said band with said drum and for preventing lateral displacement thereof from said drum at its lower portion, comprising a torque arm depending from the pivot pin in said steering knuckle, and rigidly secured thereto, a stop pin secured in the end of said arm co-axial with said pivot pin, and an opening in said band in which said stop pin is positioned.

1,460,164. HYDRAULIC BRAKE. MALCOLM LOUGHEAD, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Four Wheel Hydraulic Brake Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Jan. 23, 1922. Serial No. 531,142. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—152.)

1. A braking apparatus comprising in combination, a fluid-pressure actuated brake operating device, a fluid compressor, a fluid pressure line extending between the compressor and the said brake operating device, and means interposed in said fluid pressure line and controlled by the pressure existing in said line arranged to partially close the communication between the compressor and the fluid-pressure actuated brake operating device when the fluid in said line has attained a predetermined pressure.

1,460,165. FORM FOR TUNNELS AND CULVERTS. CHARLES D. MCARTHUR, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Blaw-Knox Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 13, 1920. Serial No. 373,508. 11 Claims. (Cl. 25—131.6.)

3. A form carrier or traveller for concrete tunnels and the like, comprising in combination a top truss, a longitudinal side truss, and a carriage for both of said trusses, the side truss being supported at its ends by means located outside the plane of the ends of the top truss, and means at the ends of the side truss for moving the latter toward and away from the center line of the traveller.

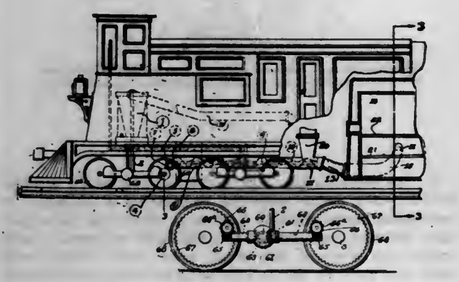
1,460,166. DOOR LOCK. JOHN MCARTHUR, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,482. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—37.)

1. A vehicle door locking mechanism having a bolt mounted for projection at its nose beyond the lower edge of the door and movable parallel with the free edge of the door, said bolt being provided at its inner end with a hook shaped head having an outwardly directed finger, and a manually actuable tumbler straddled by said head and provided with an operating arm for engagement with the extremity of said finger, the nose being provided with a lateral shoulder and a bolt engaging spring being disposed in bolt advancing relation with said shoulder.



1,460,167. FLANGING MACHINE. HUGH MCCABE, Lawrence, Mass. Filed June 2, 1920. Serial No. 385,885. 7 Claims. (Cl. 153—16.)

1. A flanging machine having, in combination, a driven member, a bender actuated thereby, a driving member capable of being moved into and out of engagement with the driven member to advance the bender step-by-step, means for actuating the driving member, and means for limiting the return movement of the driving member between the steps in the flanging operation subsequent to the first, including a member operatively connected with the driving member actuating means, and a device mounted upon said rod to rotate axially around the same and to engage a portion of the driving member when rotated into a predetermined position.

1,460,168. FORCE FEED FOR POWDERED FUEL. FREDERICK L. MCGAHAN, Los Angeles, Calif.; Viola K. Walker, administratrix of said Frederick L. McGahan, deceased, assignor to The Purposed Mind Development Security Association of the World, a Trust Company. Original application filed Jan. 3, 1918, Serial No. 210,146. Patent No. 1,292,399. Divided and this application filed Jan. 17, 1919. Serial No. 271,720. 2 Claims. (Cl. 198—15.)

1. The combination of a locomotive tender having a slot through its floor, a screw conveyor underlying the said slot, a pipe communicating with the locomotive fire-box and leading from the said screw conveyor, means for driving the said screw conveyor, the said means consisting in a gear upon one of the locomotive axles, a gear upon the said screw-shaft, and a gear member intermediate the said first-mentioned gear and the screw-shaft gear, the said gear member having one gear part adapted to be driven by the first-mentioned gear and another part adapted to drive the said screw-shaft gear.

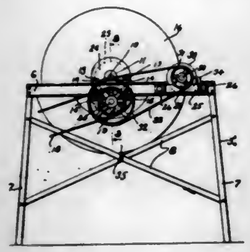
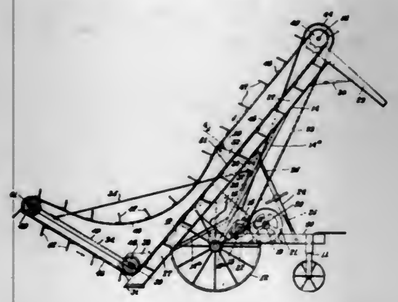
1,460,169. SHEAVE WHEEL. THOMAS SPENCER MILLER, South Orange, N. J. Filed Dec. 11, 1922. Serial No. 606,039. 4 Claims. (Cl. 295—10.)

2. In an apparatus of the class described, a sheave, a groove in the cable groove in said sheave and a hoop of larger diameter than said sheave and adapted to ride in said groove and bear against the cable.



1,460,170. RAILWAY-MOTOR MOUNTING. BENJAMIN S. MOORE, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 6, 1920. Serial No. 415,048. 6 Claims. (Cl. 105—113.)

1. The combination with a driving axle of an electric vehicle, of a motor mounting comprising a plurality of individual motor casings having a connecting yoke portion therefor, and means for yieldably supporting said casing for vertical movement upon said driving axle with the axes of the motors substantially diametrically opposed with respect to the driving axle.



1,460,171. GRINDSTONE. IENAR F. NELSON, Racine, Wis. Filed June 3, 1920. Serial No. 386,247. 2 Claims. (Cl. 51—166.)

1. In combination, a supporting frame including a pair of spaced longitudinally extending members, a bracket secured to one of said members and having two bearings, a bearing associated with the other of said members, a grindstone supporting shaft one end of which is journaled in one of the first mentioned bearings and the other end of which is journaled in the last mentioned bearing, a drive shaft journaled in the other of the first mentioned bearings, and means operatively connecting said shafts.

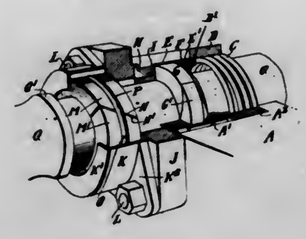
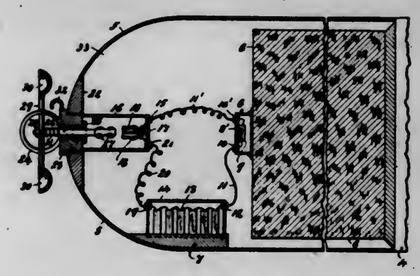
1,460,172. PORTABLE LOADER. NELS P. NELSON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Sept. 3, 1921. Serial No. 498,532. 11 Claims. (Cl. 198—11.)



1. In a portable loader of the character described, a pivotally supported elevator frame, a collector frame loosely and adjustably supported at one end of said elevator frame, and a continuous conveyor adapted to traverse the length of said collector and elevator frames.

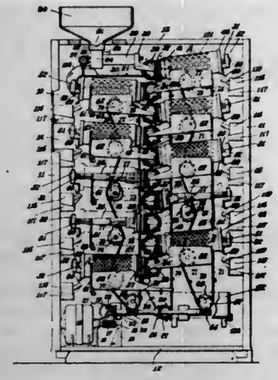
1,460,173. VOLTAGE-REGULATOR MECHANISM. FRANCIS H. PATTEN, Edgewood Park, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 8, 1919. Serial No. 270,099. 6 Claims. (Cl. 200—90.)



3. In a contact device, a pair of contact members, means for resiliently mounting one of said contact members, an electromagnet for moving the resiliently mounted contact perpendicularly to the surface of contact, intermittently operative means for moving the second contact member in the plane of the surface of contact of said members, and a spring member for returning the second contact member to its initial position when moved by said intermittently operative means.

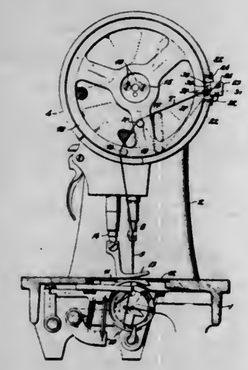
1,460,174. PISTON-ROD SWAB. JOSEPH W. PRICE, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to The United States Metallic Packing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 12, 1921. Serial No. 436,647. 2 Claims. (Cl. 286—20.)

1. A swab for use with piston rods and metallic packings therefor consisting of a segmental ring made up of segments of wood soaked in oil and having ends shaped to overlap each other when said ring segments are assembled on a piston rod.



1,460,175. TORPEDO HEAD. JOSEPH A. RAYDER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Jan. 16, 1923. Serial No. 613,025. 8 Claims. (Cl. 114—20.)

1. The combination with a torpedo for practice firing, of a head containing an audible signal, and means for actuating said signal comprising means operated by the resistance of the water to the motion of the torpedo.



1,460,176. SORTING MACHINE. CHARLES F. RICHARDSON, Woonsocket, R. I., assignor to Karpeles Company, Providence, R. I., a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed Oct. 1, 1921. Serial No. 504,679. 26 Claims. (Cl. 130—16.)

4. In a machine for sorting material according to size, the combination with a feeding mechanism for feeding charges of said material to be separated, of a plurality of sorting stations comprising cylindrical screening devices arranged in series at opposite sides of the machine, the screening devices of one series being disposed at a different plane from the corresponding screening devices of the other series, means for continuously rotating and intermittently oscillating said screening devices and operating said feeding mechanism, and oscillating means for collecting the unsorted material for subsequent separation from each screening device and delivering same to the interior of the succeeding lower screening device of the opposite series.

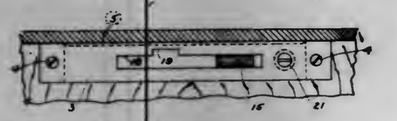
1,460,177. THREAD CONTROLLER FOR SEWING-MACHINE TAKE UPS. JOHN C. RINGE and HENRY C. NISSEN, Stratford, Conn., assignors to The Singer Manufacturing Company, Elizabeth, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 20, 1921. Serial No. 478,780. 6 Claims. (Cl. 112—248.)



1. In a sewing machine, the combination with a rotary take-up and a thread supply, of means for preventing the drawing of thread from its supply under an abnormal condition of the winding of the thread upon the take-up, said means including relatively movable elements rendered effective by the action of the thread.

1,460,178. LID-OPERATING MECHANISM. ADDENAGO ROGGI, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 7, 1922. Serial No. 580,349. 4 Claims. (Cl. 217—60.)

1. Lid-operating mechanism comprising a link having one end pivotally connected to a lid, a link operatively pivotally connected at one end to a container, the other ends of said links pivotally interconnected, a tension spring secured at one end to a stationary part and at its other end to said second-mentioned link to yieldably retard the closing of the lid and accelerate the raising thereof, and means operable from the exterior of the container to adjust the tension of said spring.

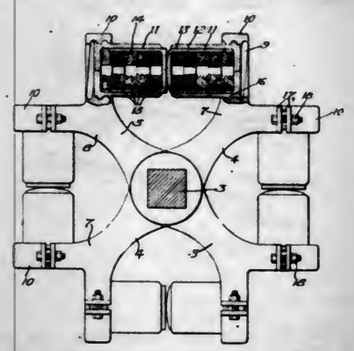
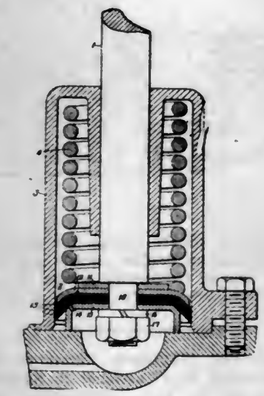
1,460,179. DENTIFRICE. WILLIAM M. RUTHRAUFF, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 24, 1920. Serial No. 376,307. 6 Claims. (Cl. 167—9.)

2. A proteolytic dentifrice comprising, in combination a proteolytic enzyme, acid in amount sufficient to maintain the enzyme and of a nature to stimulate the flow of saliva and to be substantially neutralized thereby, to free the enzyme for adsorption on the mucin plaque, with abrasive and body-forming material.



4. A dentifrice including a proteolytic enzyme, lactic acid, the acidity of the dentifrice being sufficient to maintain the enzyme, and an abrasive inert to lactic acid.

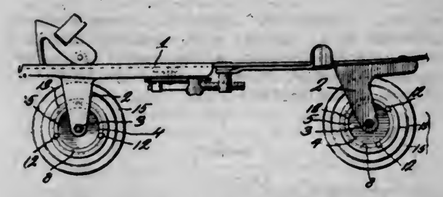
1,460,180. PROCESS FOR CONVERTING THE CARBONATES OR SULPHIDES OF BARIUM OR STRONTIUM INTO THE CORRESPONDING HYDRATES. RALPH W. SHAFOR, Denver, Colo. Filed Aug. 27, 1920. Serial No. 406,281. 13 Claims. (Cl. 204—9.)



1. A cyclic process of recovering barium compounds from residues containing the same, comprising treating the residues with hydrochloric acid to form barium chloride, adding thereto an excess of sodium hydrate to precipitate barium hydrate and form a sodium chloride solution carrying a small percentage of soluble barium salts, cooling the mixture sufficiently to reduce the solubility of the barium hydrate in the liquid menstruum to a minimum, separating the barium hydrate, adding additional sodium hydrate to the sodium chloride solution to keep the impurities therein in solution, concentrating to produce a mother-liquid carrying suspended sodium chloride crystals, sodium hydrate, and a small quantity of soluble sodium chloride and dissolved barium salts, separating the suspended sodium chloride crystals from the mother-liquid, utilizing the latter carrying a small quantity of soluble barium salts in the barium hydrate precipitation-step, dissolving and electrolyzing the sodium chloride to produce sodium hydrate, chlorine and hydrogen, forming hydrochloric acid from the latter two, utilizing the hydrochloric acid from the latter two, utilizing the hydrochloric acid in the barium chloride formation-step, and returning the sodium hydrate to the solution-cycle.

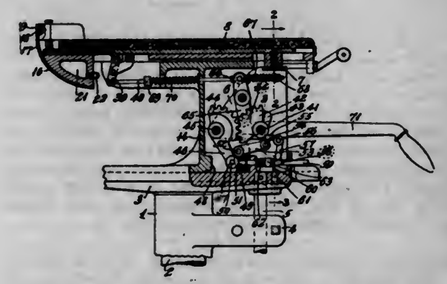
1,460,181. RESILIENT COUPLING. ROBERT SIEGFRIED, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 10, 1919. Serial No. 343,898. 9 Claims. (Cl. 64—96.)

1. A flexible coupling comprising two members severally provided with lateral projections having opposing seats, and a shock-absorbing member mounted in each of said seats, independently of the other seats, and comprising a resiliently mounted member provided with a metallic wearing surface.



1,460,182. PISTON PACKING. KARL A. SIMMON, Edgewood Park, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 9, 1919. Serial No. 288,857. 4 Claims. (Cl. 154—45.5.)

2. A piston packing comprising inferior-grade leather and non-porous fibrous material located on opposite sides thereof for sealing the leather pores.



1,460,183. ROLLER FOR SKATES. CHARLES D. SNYDER, Berrien Springs, Mich. Filed June 4, 1921. Serial No. 474,908. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—52.)

1. The combination with a skate roller comprising a round body member having disposed on the periphery thereof an annular tread receiving rim, tread engaging flanges carried by the rim, of means for holding said tread rim against displacement on the body member, said means comprising rivets extending through apertures in the body member adjacent its periphery and heads carried by the ends of said rivets and overlying and engaging the sides of the flanges of the annular tread rim.

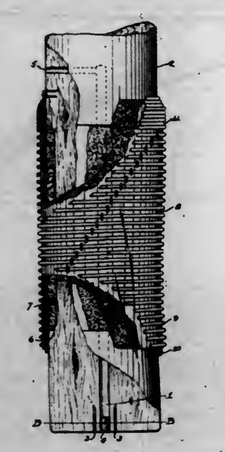
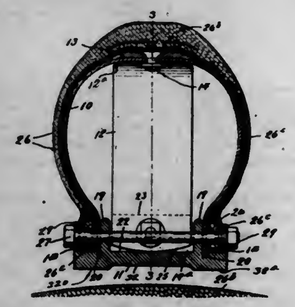
1,460,184. SHIRT BOARD FOR IRONING MACHINES. CHARLES E. WAREAM, Cincinnati, and DANA H. BENJAMIN, Cleveland Heights Ohio, assignors to The American Laundry Machinery Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Original application filed July 2, 1917, Serial No. 178,286. Divided and this application filed July 18, 1917, Serial No. 181,395. Renewed July 18, 1921. Serial No. 485,787. 24 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)



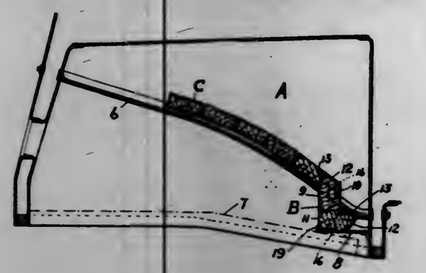
1. A shirt ironing board having its end edges at the neck-band receiving end diverging outwardly and backwardly, and a neck-band former on said board, said end edges being substantially tangent to the curve of the neck-band former.

1,460,185. CONTRACTIBLE DISPLAY AND SHIPPING CASE. MELVIN L. WEBSTER, Independence, Iowa, assignor to Minerva P. Webster, Independence, Iowa. Filed Jan. 7, 1922. Serial No. 527,745. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—45.)



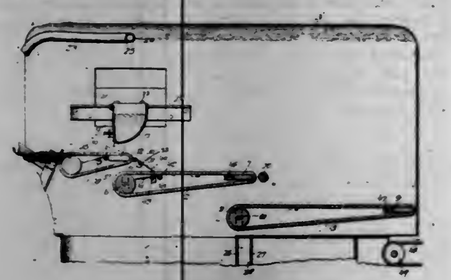
A contractible display and shipping case, comprising an inclined stepped bottom plate shaped by crosswise bending to have raised front walls for the steps thereof providing a plurality of open top compartments, side plates closing the ends of said compartments and having their lower rear corner parts foldable inwardly only to provide easel members, and a rigid flap hinged to the under part of said bottom plate between said corner parts, said flap when swung in one direction acting to prop apart said easel members, and when swung oppositely to release said corner parts permitting them to be folded over inwardly upon said bottom plate to contract the case in dimensions.

1,460,186. POLE-BASE CONSTRUCTION. GEORGE X. WENDLING, San Francisco, Calif. Filed July 5, 1922. Serial No. 572,029. 2 Claims. (Cl. 20—100.)



1. In combination with a pole provided with a longitudinal channel in its butt end forming a reservoir for containing a body of wood preservative fluid, said channel terminating at its upper end in a filling inlet opening at one side of the pole, a body of absorbent for surrounding the pole butt within the length of said channel, and means surrounding said body of absorbent for protecting the same and retaining it in position about the pole whereby the preservative seeping outwardly through the pole butt from said reservoir will maintain said absorbent moist.

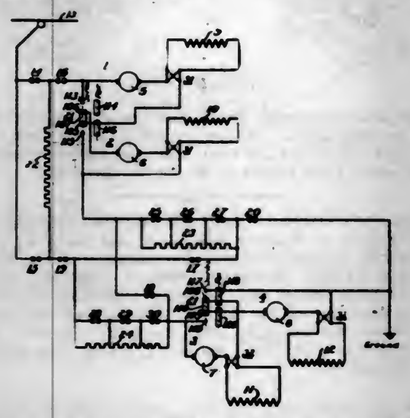
1,460,187. WHEEL TIRE. ROBERT B. WHITMAN, Boston, Mass. Filed Oct. 4, 1920. Serial No. 414,418. 16 Claims. (Cl. 152—8.)



12. A vehicle tire including a rim having opposed annular spring-receiving grooves in its outer face, a set of spaced open loop springs extended from the periphery of said rim having their ends received in said grooves, a second set of spaced open loop springs angularly disposed with relation to the springs of said first set, and having their ends in engagement with the periphery of said rim, and an outer flexible band enclosing and connecting the outer portions of both sets of springs.

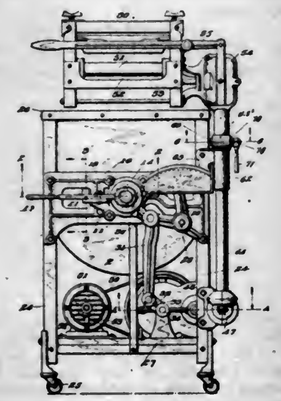
1,460,188. BAFFLE-WALL BRICK. ALFRED H. WILLETT, West New York, and HARRY S. MARTIN, Ridgewood, N. J., assignors to American Arch Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 3, 1919. Serial No. 280,338. 6 Claims. (Cl. 110—87.)

1. In a boiler fire box having inclined circulation tubes and means therebelow for supporting a cross wall, the combination of bricks adapted to be used in one position in the construction of the body portion of said wall and in another position in the construction of the cap portion, each of said bricks having a recess at each end which leaves a shoulder adapted to engage the under portion of an adjacent tube when the brick is in cap forming position whereby forward displacement of the brick is prevented.



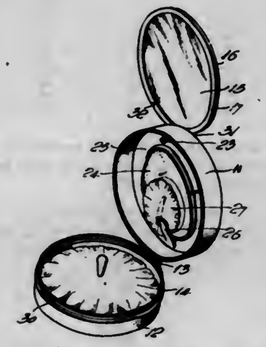
1,460,189. COATING MACHINE. FRANK H. WOOLF, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 3, 1920. Serial No. 355,996. 13 Claims. (Cl. 91—3.)

3. In a coating machine, a receptacle extending transversely across said machine having a slot adjacent its bottom for discharging a substantially uniform curtain of coating material from said receptacle, in combination with a reticulated carrier extending longitudinally of said machine below said receptacle and a second carrier extending from below said first carrier longitudinally of said machine and adapted to receive material from said first carrier, a rotatable member arranged at the discharge end of the second carrier substantially flush with the top face thereof, and means for receiving the material discharged over said member.



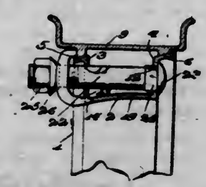
6. In a coating machine, a receptacle extending transversely across said machine having a slot adjacent in its bottom for discharging a substantially uniform curtain of coating material from said receptacle, in combination with a carrier extending longitudinally of said machine below said receptacle, an adjustable apron arranged below the top side of the carrier and an apron arranged at the discharge end of said first carrier, a second carrier extending from below said first carrier longitudinally of said machine and adapted to receive material from said first carrier, an adjustable apron arranged below the top side of the second carrier, a receiving carrier, means at the end of said second carrier for distributing articles discharged from said second carrier.

1,460,190. SYSTEM OF CONTROL. OTTO WORTMAN, Audubon, N. J., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 28, 1921. Serial No. 502,594. 6 Claims. (Cl. 172—179.)



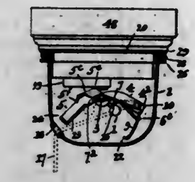
1. In a control system, the combination with a plurality of motors, of a plurality of main controllers for reversing said motors, each of said controllers having a forward and a reverse position, a changeover switch having a plurality of positions for connecting said motors in different relations, a line switch, a master controller for governing said switch and a plurality of interlocks controlled by said reversing controllers and said changeover switch for preventing the closure of said line switch upon any of said reversing controllers or said changeover switch occupying incorrect positions.

1,460,191. DRIVING MECHANISM FOR WASHING MACHINES. ALPHEUS W. ALTORFER, Peoria, Ill., assignor to Altorfer Bros. Co., East Peoria, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 23, 1918. Serial No. 236,142. 10 Claims. (Cl. 74—50.)



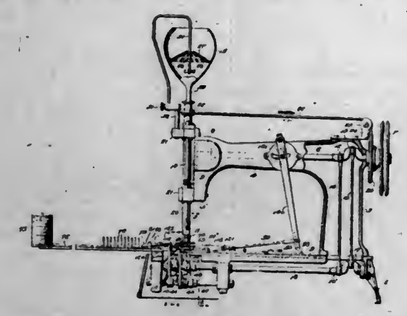
1. In a washing machine, in combination, a casing, a clothes container removably supported in said casing and rotatable alternately in opposite directions, a trunnion connected axially with one side of said container and provided with a clutch socket, a shaft arranged to be moved endwise into and out of clutch engagement with said trunnion, a gear wheel for actuating said shaft and through which the latter may be moved, a hand lever to reciprocate said shaft, said lever extending to one side of said machine, and gearing arranged to continuously impart alternate rotary motion to said gear wheel and said shaft when said shaft is in clutch relation with or declutched from said trunnion.

1,460,192. VANITY CASE. HARRY R. BARR, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor of one-third to Christian Boyd Zacharias and one-third to Wayne E. Byers, both of Chambersburg, Pa. Filed Jan. 24, 1923. Serial No. 614,583. 7 Claims. (Cl. 132—83.)



3. A vanity case comprising opposed members normally facing each other to form a closed case, hinge means connecting said members, and a mirror carried exteriorly by one of said members and movable to a position in extension of said member away from said hinge means, whereby said mirror and said members may be positioned in alinement facing in the same direction.

1,460,193. AUTO ATTACHMENT. HERBERT DIVINE COOK, Terre Haute, Ind. Filed July 27, 1922. Serial No. 577,787. 5 Claims. (Cl. 301—24.)

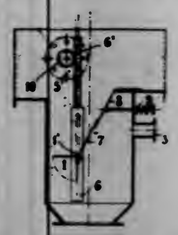


1. The combination with a felloe having a pair of peripheral flanges adapted to support a demountable tire rim, said flanges having aligned bolt receiving openings therethrough and a slot through the felloe at the juncture of the flange and the periphery of the felloe, of a clamp comprising a substantially U-shaped clamping member having a flange at one end adapted to the slot and to abut the inner wall of the slot and having a lip at the outer end of the clamping member, said clamping member having an elongated slot formed therethrough, a bolt extending through the aligned openings of the flange of the felloe and through the elongated opening of the clamping member, and a nut in threaded engagement with the bolt and adapted to contact the clamping member to hold the latter in clamping relation to both the felloe and a portion of the tire rim and to permit movement of the clamping member transversely of the bolt and out of engagement with the tire rim, as desired.

1,460,194. MECHANICAL MOVEMENT. ALFRED CARLYLE DAY, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Filed Apr. 6, 1921. Serial No. 458,872. 6 Claims. (Cl. 200—161.)

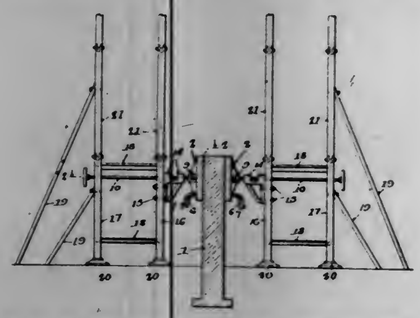
1. In mechanism of the character described, the combination with two pivoted frames, a hooked member pivotally carried by one of the frames and adapted to engage with the other of said frames, means for swinging in one direction the frame carrying the hooked member to effect the engagement of the latter with the other frame, and means for swinging the hooked member and frame after engagement in the opposite direction, of a pivoted tumbler adapted to be oscillated in opposite directions when the frames are operated as set forth.

1,460,195. MACHINE FOR THREADING TAPE INTO ARTICLES. GEORGE M. EAMES, Bridgeport, and JOHN C. RINGE, Stratford, Conn., assignors to The Singer Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 25, 1919. Serial No. 319,720. 34 Claims. (Cl. 112—2.)



33. A machine for threading tape into buttons and like apertured articles including, in combination, an article-registering pin adapted to engage an aperture of an article, means for feeding an article and the pin engaging the same from an initial into threading position, tape-feeding means, a tape-guide normally directing the tape out of the path of operation of said tape-feeding means, and means whereby the operation of said article-registering pin permits the tape-guide to direct the tape into the path of operation of said feeding means.

1,460,196. MINERAL-WASHING PLANT. ANTOINE FRANCE, Liege, Belgium. Filed June 9, 1922. Serial No. 567,208. 2 Claims. (Cl. 83—82.)



1. In wet-sorting apparatus of the kind comprising a flooded sorting pocket depending from a launder and having a hopper-like separation chamber formed in the upper portion thereof by a sloping screen leading downwardly to a discharge mouth, and means for supplying water in upward streams through said pocket, the combination of: a sloping screen formed of two independent substantially aligned screen-plates; a movable sector-shaped discharge flap on a pivoted shaft extending horizontally along the lower edge of the screen and projecting at one end through the corresponding wall of the pocket; means on the said projecting end of the shaft for imparting an oscillatory movement to the flap; a pair of suitably guided vertically movable supporting members for the said shaft and the lower screen-plate, arranged within and adjacent the lateral walls of the pocket; hand-operated means in positive engagement with said supporting members for adjusting the position of same, whereby the depth of the separation chamber above the flap may be varied; means for securing the aforesaid supporting members in any adusted position; and spring pressed means for causing the adjustment of the upper-screen-plate in relation to the lower screen plate; substantially as described.

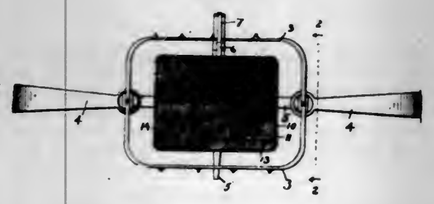
1,460,197. APPARATUS FOR BUILDING WALLS. AYOOB GEORGE, Fond du Lac, Wis. Filed Mar. 29, 1920. Serial No. 369,610. 7 Claims. (Cl. 25—131.)

6. In an apparatus for building concrete walls, the combination with a supporting framework, of a form provided with means adapted to transmit heat to said walls, and means adjustably secured to said framework adapted to position said form in any one of a plurality of positions relative to said framework.



1,460,198. CAN-FILLING MACHINE. OSWALD H. HANSEN, Port Washington, Wis., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Hansen Canning Machinery Corporation, a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Oct. 22, 1917. Serial No. 197,809. 72 Claims. (Cl. 226—96.)

1. In a filling machine, an element having an opening, a source of liquid supply communicable with said opening, a series of measuring pockets each having an opening at its lower portion normally sealed by said element, said element and said pockets being relatively movable to establish communication through said openings between said source and successive pockets of said series, and means for delivering material to said pockets when their lower openings are sealed.

1,460,199. ANIMAL TRAP. WILLIE T. HARMON, Sangerville, Me. Filed Aug. 14, 1922. Serial No. 581,605. 2 Claims. (Cl. 43—92.)

1. A spring actuated jaw under-water animal trap having the trigger trencher formed of a closed receptacle with perforated walls for receiving and retaining swimming live bait, whereby the trencher is relieved of the weight of the live bait when the trap is set for operation under water.

1,460,200. AUTOMOBILE GATE. JOHN W. LAWRENCE, Fremont, Nebr. Filed July 2, 1920. Serial No. 393,703. 1 Claim. (Cl. 39—6.)

The herein described means for closing two adjacent passageways, comprising a partition between the passageways, a pair of base-plates each disposed transversely of a passageway, stop-members on the partition, a pair of gates each provided on one of its sides with a pair of parallel track-plates and pivotally connected with a base-plate, counterbalancing means on said gates to normally cause them to move upwardly in a circle's arc for engaging the stop-members, a pair of rock-shafts in bearings, each being provided with a pair of levers and having a pair of loops inclined toward a gate in line with a track-plate, links arranged in pairs, each pair being pivotally connected with a gate and with the levers of a rock-shaft, said rock-shafts being movable for moving the gates downwardly in a circle's arc, the loops moving toward said track-plates.

1,460,201. SPIRAL TOOL. GEORGE O. LEOPOLD, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to North Bro's M'f'g Co., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 28, 1922. Serial No. 547,442. 1 Claim. (Cl. 145—53.)

The combination in a spiral tool, of a barrel having an internal shoulder and threaded at one end; a cylindrical nut located in the barrel, one end of said nut resting against the shoulder; a screw-threaded sleeve secured to the threaded end of the barrel and holding the nut in position; a handle secured to the barrel; a spindle having a spiral groove and extending through the sleeve and nut and into the barrel, the nut having a series of longitudinal grooves in its periphery, the rear wall of each groove being in a radial plane of the nut, the base of each groove being in a plane at right angles to the rear wall of the groove; and a roller located in each groove and arranged to lock the nut to the barrel when the nut is turned in one direction

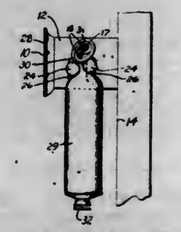
1,460,202. AUTOMATIC STOP FOR PHONOGRAPHS. AARON S. LINDHOLM, Orange, Calif. Filed Aug. 24, 1920. Serial No. 405,682. 7 Claims. (Cl. 192—118.)

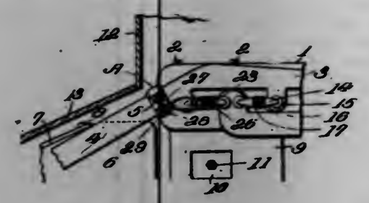
1. The combination with a phonograph turntable and swinging tone-arm; of a governor mounted adjacent the turntable and adapted to be moved toward and away from the same, means connected with the tone-arm for moving the governor toward the turntable in travel of the tone-arm toward the center of a record upon the turntable, brake means for the turntable, and means normally holding the brake means inoperative, and controlled by the governor to release the brake means, said governor having a rotatable part adapted to be turned by contact with the turntable.



1,460,203. WASHING MACHINE. THOMAS LITWILLER and JOHN LEADER, Morton, Ill., assignors to Getz Power Washer Co., Morton, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 3, 1921, Serial No. 442,336. Renewed Dec. 7, 1922. 24 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)

1. In a machine of the character described, in combination, a tub mounted for movement and means to move said tub, including an adjustable means adapted when adjusted to one position to restore said tub to its normal position and stop its movement.

15. In a machine of the character described, in combination, a frame, a tub mounted for oscillation in said frame, and operating means for the tub comprising a pivot member arranged in spaced relation to the axial center of the tub, a pivotal controlling means in said operating means, and manually operable means for moving the axis of said controlling means alternately into coincidence with the axis of the tub and the axis of said pivot member, without stopping the movement of said operating means.



1,460,204. COLLAPSIBLE TUBE HOLDER AND CONTENT EJECTOR. EMILIO A. MARAFFI, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed Feb. 12, 1921. Serial No. 444,402. 3 Claims. (Cl. 221—60.)

1. A device of the character described, comprising a bracket, a slotted key revolubly secured in the bracket, and a pair of spaced apart rollers arranged parallel to the key and carried in slots in the bracket, permitting them to be moved toward and away from the key, said slots being arranged to allow the rollers to bear on the coil of collapsed tube on the key.

1,460,205. MANIFOLD CONNECTION LOCK. LESTER BRYAN MARTIN, Ford, Va. Filed Nov. 10, 1921. Serial No. 514,280. 6 Claims. (Cl. 151—44.)

1. A nut lock, of a hollow hexagonal shape provided with outwardly extending parallel ears, a bolt extending through the ears for compressing the hexagonal clamp, a retaining member having a portion of its length bent in a plane at right angles to its other portion, one of the portions of the retaining member greater in length than the other and provided with an opening, the other portion of the retaining member provided with an opening and an extending end adapted to be bent outwardly at right angles, this end of the member being clamped beneath the nut carried by the clamping member bolt, and the outwardly extending end of the retaining member bent outwardly to lock the clamping nut against rotation.

1,460,206. FABRIC-PRINTING MACHINE. CHARLES H. MASLAND, 2d, Melrose, Pa., assignor to C. H. Masland & Sons, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 11, 1920. Serial No. 429,894. 12 Claims. (Cl. 101—181.)

1. In a fabric printing machine, the combination of a plurality of pairs of normally opposed and revolving rolls between which the said fabric is consecutively fed in a continuous strip, with means controlled by the tension of the fabric for separating the rolls of the respective pairs, substantially as and for the purpose set forth.

1,460,207. BAG OR PARCEL TIE. CHARLES F. MITCHELL, Baltimore, Md. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 555,005. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—30.5.)

1. A bag or parcel tie comprising a plate having two oppositely-projecting tongues punched therefrom and forming openings therein,—said tongues each having a convex lower side whose central portion lies in a plane below the outer central surface portion of the plate while the rim-edge of each tongue has position in a plane above the said outer side of the plate and said plate having means for attaching a cord thereto whereby when the cord is drawn beneath the convex side of the tongue the latter will clamp the cord against the edges of the plate-opening and bind the cord against slipping.

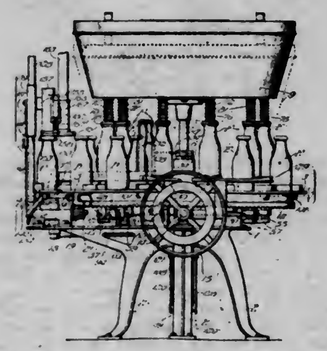
1,460,208. PUMP. JOHN MOHN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 6, 1919. Serial No. 328,802. 1 Claim. (Cl. 225—16.)

The combination with a pump and a connection carried thereby of a packing device carried by said connection and a telescopic discharge tube extending through said connection and in operative communication with said pump, the tube consisting of two sections, one having a stuffing box connection with the other, and a coiled expansion spring engaging the stuffing box to maintain one section of the tube normally extended relatively to the other.



1,460,209. BEVERAGE-DISPENSING APPARATUS. JOHN MOHN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Nov. 7, 1921. Serial No. 513,294. 2 Claims. (Cl. 225—22.)

1. A dispensing device for beverages, comprising a receptacle having a transparent portion adapted to display a beverage contained therein, means for withdrawing beverage from the receptacle, including a dispensing faucet, and means for automatically supplying additional beverage to the display receptacle so as to maintain the liquid therein at a substantially uniform level, a refrigerator chamber and a conduit leading from the receptacle through the refrigerator chamber to the dispensing faucet, whereby the temperature of the liquid is lowered only in that portion of the apparatus immediately adjacent to the point of withdrawal.

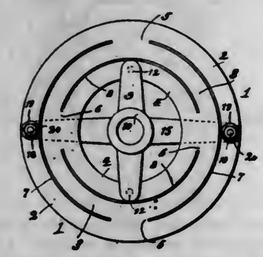
1,460,210. BOTTLE FILLING AND CAPPING MACHINE OR THE LIKE. ROLLO L. NICHOLAS, Chicago, Ill., assignor to William Ratzenstein, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 26, 1918. Serial No. 241,910. 12 Claims. (Cl. 226—76.)

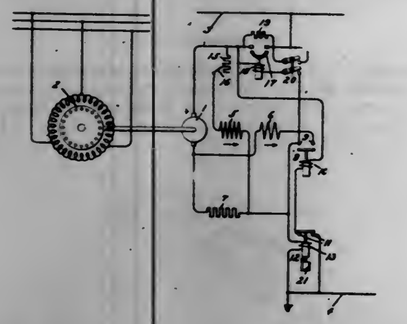


1. In a machine of the kind described and in combination, a rotatable table, a support for said table, a fluid container arranged above said table provided with means for adjustably supporting the same and rotating the container with the table, said container provided with a plurality of discharge pipes on the under side thereof and with a valve for each pipe for controlling the passage of fluid therethrough, a plurality of vertical movable bottle carriers carried by said rotatable table, said carriers arranged one under each discharge pipe on said container, adjustable means for successively moving bottles from the outer edge of said table toward the center thereof and thence outwardly toward the edge, and centering each bottle on its respective carrier, and means for thereafter successively lifting the carrier and bottle carried thereby a distance to engage and open the valve at the discharge pipe thereabove, means for successively lowering said carriers after a predetermined travel of said table, a receiving table arranged at one side of said rotatable table, means for successively moving the bottles from the lowered carriers outwardly from the center of the table on to said receiving table.

1,460,211. BOTTLE-FILLING MACHINE OR THE LIKE. ROLLO L. NICHOLAS and MAURICE GOLDBERGER, Chicago, Ill., assignors to William Ratzenstein, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 29, 1919. Serial No. 348,136. 12 Claims. (Cl. 226—76.)

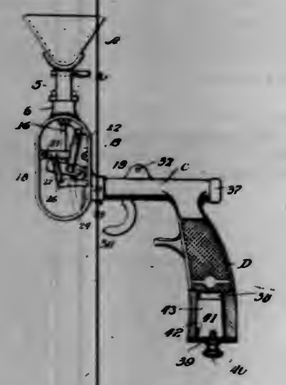
1. In a bottle filling machine of the kind described and in combination, a rotatable table, a plurality of bottle holders freely movable in any direction in the plane of said table, and means for engaging and sliding said holders on said table in a predetermined manner.

1,460,212. UNIVERSAL JOINT. PAUL OLIVE, Hempstead, N. Y. Filed Apr. 1, 1921. Serial No. 457,634. 5 Claims. (Cl. 64—96.)



1. A universal joint comprising a flexible disc embodying a plurality of integrally formed, concentrically arranged annular members respectively embodying a plurality of radially connected segments, and means for coupling said disc to oppositely located adjacent shaft sections.

1,460,213. SYSTEM OF ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTION. GRACIE HALL ROOSEVELT, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 8, 1922. Serial No. 550,913. 8 Claims. (Cl. 171—312.)



1. In a system of electrical distribution, the combination of a direct current generator having an armature winding, a load circuit arranged to be supplied with current from said generator, a resistance arranged to be connected in series with the armature winding of said generator and said load circuit, means for causing current to flow through said resistance when the load connected to said load circuit exceeds a predetermined value, and a field winding for said generator connected in shunt with said armature winding and said resistance.

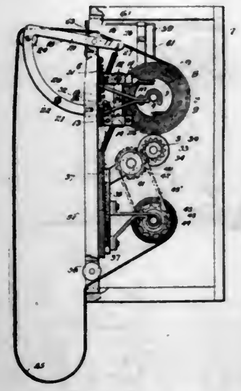
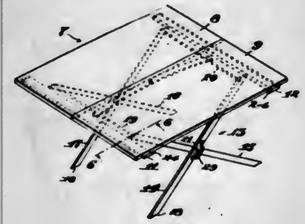
1,460,214. FLASH-LIGHT GUN. FRANK SCHORIK, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Joseph Kostohryz, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 18, 1922. Serial No. 544,701. 7 Claims. (Cl. 67—33.)



1. In a flash light gun, the combination of a trough, a body on which the trough is mounted, a powder cap seat movably mounted beneath the trough, there being a hole through the trough bottom communicating with the seat and an opening therebelow into the body, a firing pin in the opening, and trigger mechanism within the body adapted to drive the firing pin against the cap to explode the same, substantially as described.

1,460,215. TOWEL-SERVICE MACHINE. OSCAR SCHWIMMER, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Patent Products Company, a Corporation of California. Filed Feb. 4, 1919, Serial No. 275,271. Renewed June 21, 1922. Serial No. 569,873. 20 Claims. (Cl. 45—32.)



3. A towel service machine comprising a toweling supply spool, means to hold said spool against movement, means operable by a pull on the toweling to release said holding means, said holding means acting also to limit the length of toweling at each pull.

6. A towel service machine comprising a toweling supply spool, bearings in which said spool is operable, a carriage, means to hold said carriage under tension, a take-up roller on said carriage for used toweling, means on said carriage and held in engagement with and operable by said toweling for operating said take-up roller and holding said spool in its bearings.

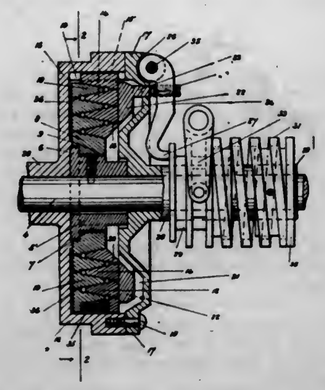
1,460,216. FOLDING TABLE. ARTHUR G. SMITH, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Mar. 22, 1921. Serial No. 454,350. 3 Claims. (Cl. 45—116.)



1. A foldable table comprising a pair of panels, a pair of spaced alined cleats secured to the undersides of the ends of said cleats and having inwardly beveled inner edges, hinges connecting the inner ends and lower sides of corresponding cleats to hinge the panels together; a foldable standard comprising two pairs of crossed leg members pivotally connected at their intersections, the upper ends of said members being pointed and adapted to extend into the channels formed by the bevelled edges of the cleats; tie-rods connecting the upper portions of the leg members of one pair with the upper portions of the leg members of the other pair so as to lie close to the under sides of the unfolded panels; said tie-rods being slightly longer than the width of the panels when folded; and a spring strip pivoted at its center to one of the panels and adapted to have its ends sprung under the tie-rods to force the tie-rods against the unfolded panels, to prevent the possibility of the panels folding while in use.

1,460,217. CLUTCH. ARTHUR A. SMITH, Lewis, and ROBERT E. SMITH, Kinsley, Kans. Filed Mar. 20, 1922. Serial No. 545,084. 5 Claims. (Cl. 192—66.)

1. A friction clutch, comprising a revoluble driving shaft, a driving sleeve secured on the driving shaft, a driving clutch member revolving with the said sleeve and free to slide axially and radially thereon, a nonslidable abutment which prevents the driving clutch member from sliding axially in one direction, a driven clutch member adapted to engage with the driving clutch member and free to slide radially with it, a nonslidable casing inclosing the clutch members and revolving with the driven clutch member, and means for sliding the driven clutch member into and out of engagement with the driving clutch member.

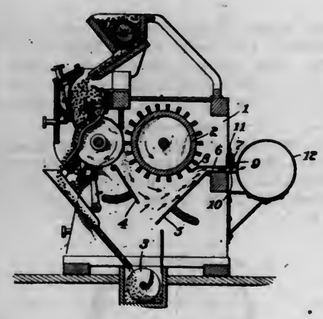
1,460,218. SPEED INDICATOR. WILLIAM H. F. SMITH, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor, by mesne assignments, to International Harvester Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 15, 1918. Serial No. 228,743. 3 Claims. (Cl. 116—76.)

3. In a speed indicator, the combination of a rotatable crank, an abutment on the crank, a lug on the crank adjacent the abutment, an oscillator pivoted to the lug and adapted to strike the abutment in one extreme position of its oscillation and give an audible signal.



1,460,219. DRILLING MACHINE. GIORDANO ZILOCCKI, Granton, N. J., assignor of thirty per cent to Marino A. Monzione, North Bergen, N. J. Filed June 1, 1921. Serial No. 474,058. 11 Claims. (Cl. 77—25.)

1. A machine of the class described comprising a suitable frame, a carriage adjustably mounted in connection therewith, a chuck head adjustably mounted on said carriage and carried thereby, a plurality of chuck supporting shafts mounted in said chuck head, clutch devices movably mounted upon said shafts and keyed thereto to permit of the rotation of said shafts in one position of said clutch devices, means extending through said chuck head for actuating said clutch devices, and means involving a plurality of lock arms for interlocking said chuck head with said carriage to retain said chuck head in connection with said carriage in different positions of adjustment.

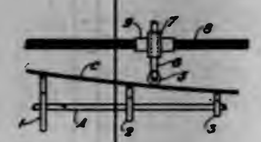
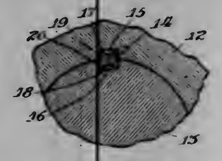
1,460,220. PNEUMATIC APPARATUS FOR CLEANING, CONVEYING, AND RECOVERING LINT. GEORGE L. ALLEN, Savannah, Ga. Filed Feb. 12, 1921, Serial No. 444,322. Renewed May 11, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 19—59.)



2. In apparatus of the character described a pipe line, a linter, a duct connecting the linter with the pipe line, a gate located in the duct and having a lower bevelled edge and means for independently adjusting the end portions of the gate that the lower edge thereof may be disposed at a desired angle to the plane of the lower wall of the duct.

1,460,221. MECHANISM FOR PRODUCING MOTIONS REPRESENTING A FUNCTION OF TWO INDEPENDENT VARIABLES IN CALCULATING APPARATUS. ARCHIBALD BARR and WILLIAM STROUD, Anniesland, Glasgow, Scotland, assignors to Barr and Stroud, Limited, Anniesland, Glasgow, Scotland. Filed Aug. 26, 1921. Serial No. 495,548. 5 Claims. (Cl. 235—61.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. Mechanism for producing motions representing a function of two independent variables comprising a beam capable of lateral deformation in a direction at or approximately at right angles to its surface, means for producing lateral deformation of the beam at a number of positions in its length, a contact member adapted to bear against the surface of the beam, means for guiding the contact member in a direction parallel or approximately so to the direction of movement imparted in effecting the deformation, and means for affecting the longitudinal adjustment of the contact member on the beam relative to the positions of deformation, for the purposes set forth.

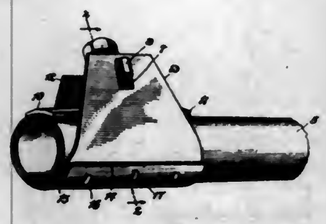
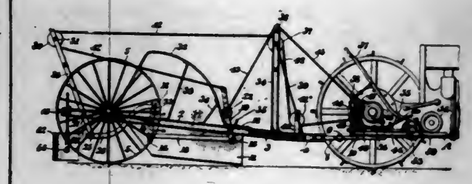
1,460,222. MACHINE KEY. BERT R. BENJAMIN, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to International Harvester Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 26, 1922. Serial No. 563,961. 2 Claims. (Cl. 287—52.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a machine key made from relatively soft metal having longitudinal grooves on opposite sides thereby providing deformable portions adapted to be displaced into the grooves when the key is inserted in a keyway of less dimension than the key.



1,460,223. BURIAL VAULT. BENJIMAN MORTON BIRD, GEORGE C. BIRD, and DAVID P. BIRD, Maitland, Mo., assignors of one-half to J. B. Bridgman, Maitland, Mo. Filed July 11, 1922. Serial No. 574,195. 5 Claims. (Cl. 72—7.)

1. A burial vault having a skeleton frame provided with inner and outer linings of wall board to the latter of which is attached metal lathing covered by a plastic protective coating.



1,460,224. PIPE-REPAIR CLAMP. JEAN WRIGHT BLAIR, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 7, 1920. Serial No. 415,330. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—19.)

1. A pipe repair clamp including a body portion comprising a plurality of sections, means adapted to cooperate with said sections adjacent their upper ends for retaining the same in applied position, one of said sections being formed with openings adjacent its lower end, said openings being arranged in a longitudinal series across the width of the section last mentioned, the second of said sections being formed with tongues arranged in a longitudinal series across the width of the section last mentioned and adjacent its lower end, said tongues extending outwardly and towards the upper end of said section.

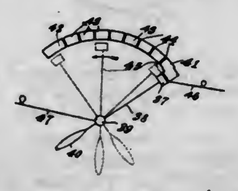
1,460,225. WHEELED GRADER. RHINEHARD BOLLHEIMER and EDWARD T. WILKENS, Fort Loramie, Ohio. Filed July 10, 1922. Serial No. 574,046. 13 Claims. (Cl. 37—126.)

1. A road grader comprising a wheeled frame, a scoop, levers attached intermediate their ends to the frame and at their lower ends fastened to the rear portion of the scoop, links connected at one end to the upper ends of the levers and at the other end to a pair of operating levers pivoted to the frame, uprights attached to the front end of the scoop, rollers carried thereby, tracks on which said rollers may run, and a single cable communicating movement to the operating levers and the roller carrying uprights to move them toward each other and thereby dump the scoop.



1,460,226. FEEDING HOPPER. OLIVER D. COLLIS, Clinton, Iowa. Filed May 31, 1921. Serial No. 473,722. 3 Claims. (Cl. 119—52.)

1. A collapsible container of the kind described, made from a single blank so formed as to provide a boxlike structure having in one of its walls an opening, and a partition within the structure arranged rearwardly of the opening and formed to provide a wall which is downwardly inclined from above the opening, also a second wall which is substantially parallel therewith, and also a third wall which is upwardly inclined from below the opening, there being smaller openings in the third wall through which may be extracted loose material which lies close to the bottom of the container, substantially as described.

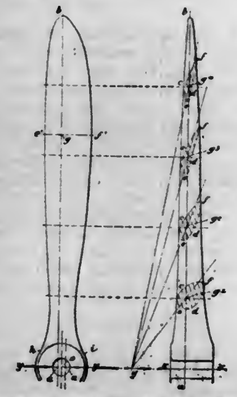
1,460,227. SPARK REGULATOR FOR RESTORING NORMAL IGNITION TO FOULED SPARK PLUGS. JULES COURTIER and PIERRE COURTIER, Paris, France; said Pierre Courtier assignor to said Jules Courtier. Filed Oct. 16, 1917. Serial No. 196,944. 3 Claims. (Cl. 175—183.)

1. A spark regulator of the character described comprising, a plurality of spaced stationary contacts providing sparking gaps therebetween, a movable contact adapted to travel by steps in proximity to the stationary contacts to form a spark gap with any selected one of the stationary contacts, and terminals connected with the movable contact and one of the end stationary contacts.

1,460,228. GIN RIB. FREDERICK B. CUMPSTON, Blooming, Tex. Filed Sept. 17, 1921. Serial No. 501,394. 5 Claims. (Cl. 19—55.)

1. The combination with a gin having a plurality of gin saws, of stationary ribs arranged between said saws, and rotatable ribs extended between said saws.



1,460,229. JACK. FRED H. DEAL, Bridgeton, N. J. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,605. 9 Claims. (Cl. 254—94.)

1. A jack for raising the wheels of a vehicle off the ground comprising an upright having an arm extending therefrom, a base member attached to the lower end of said upright and adapted to support said upright in equilibrium with the upright tilted forwardly, a leg extending downwardly at an angle from an intermediate portion of said upright and having a base member at its lower end, the base member on said upright being so constructed that when the axle of a vehicle rides onto the arm the jack will be rocked to a position with both bases contacting with the ground.

1,460,230. PROPELLER. LOUIS DE MONGE, Paris, France. Filed Oct. 27, 1920. Serial No. 420,000. 2 Claims. (Cl. 170—159.)

1. An aircraft propeller whose configuration is determined by the fact that the point situated upon each cross-section of the blades at the anterior third part of the length (e f) and at the middle part of the width (c d) of the cross-section is located upon a straight line (a b) common to all the cross-sections of a given blade, the said straight line being situated in a plane perpendicular to the axis of rotation of the propeller and at a short distance therefrom.

1,460,231. APPARATUS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF STEEL. CHRISTIAN DE THAL, Paris, France. Filed Apr. 8, 1918. Serial No. 227,358. 2 Claims. (Cl. 263—27.)

1. A furnace for the direct production of steel, consisting of a vertical shaft or body part, a laterally extending part at the lower end thereof in open and in uninterrupted communication with the said vertical shaft or body part, means for supplying heat in the said laterally extending part, and a series of holes in the said vertical shaft or body part for the reception of burners, substantially as described.

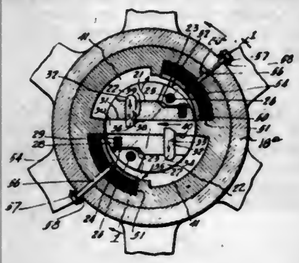
1,460,232. CONCRETE MOLD. GENERAL M. DITTO, Joliet, Ill. Filed Mar. 31, 1922. Serial No. 548,328. 7 Claims. (Cl. 25—121.)

7. In a mold for plastic materials, the combination of a body comprising a floor provided with a depressed portion along one edge, said floor terminating in upstanding side walls, molding bars removably secured to each of the side walls, one of said molding bars being suspended to overlie the depressed floor portion, gates for the opposite ends of the body, a plurality of socket members secured in parallel relation to the floor of the body and in transverse relation to the side walls, each socket member being arcuately channeled along its upper edge, a plurality of downwardly converging wedge shaped core pieces, each having its lower edge rounded to fit removably within the associated socket, and a dowel pin for each core piece and socket for removably holding the core piece within the socket, substantially as described.



1,460,233. CRIB COVER. ELAINE MARTIN DREW, Barre, Vt. Filed Apr. 21, 1922. Serial No. 555,892. 1 Claim. (Cl. 5—336.)

A cover for cribs comprising two sections, each of which is provided with a cut-out portion serving to form a neck opening when the sections are placed together, means for securing the sections together to form a single cover, and a lining of lighter material for each of said sections, said linings extending to the outer face of the cover sections and so formed as to overlie the defining edge of the neck opening therein.

1,460,234. CLUTCH. RIO P. EILERS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 27, 1920. Serial No. 399,303. 12 Claims. (Cl. 192—26.)

1. In combination, a drive member, a driven member, a wedge jaw carried by one of the members, an eccentric plate carried by the other member to be engaged by the jaw, and resilient means between the plate and the member that carries it adapted to be compressed, when the jaw engages the plate, to a point where it is no further resiliently compressible, so that the jaw and plate at first engage frictionally and then solidly.

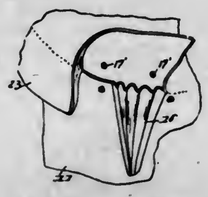
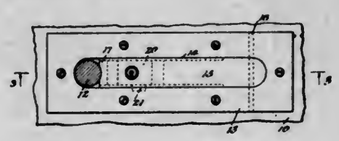
1,460,235. CHAIN TIGHTENER. FRED VALENTINE FISCHER, Woodbine, Iowa. Filed June 16, 1922. Serial No. 568,815. 5 Claims. (Cl. 24—68.)



1. In a device of the character described, a chain tightener including an elongated body, a lever fulcrumed in said body, a link pivotally connected to one end of the lever and guided in its movement by one end of the body, and means whereby swinging of the lever varies the distance between the free end of the link and the other end of the body, said link terminating in a hooked extremity adapted to engage with a chain link, said lever terminating in an angular end adapted to overlie and cooperate with said hook to retain a link in place when the lever is moved to one extreme position.

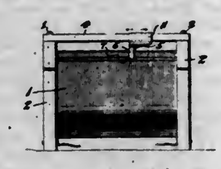
1,460,236. THREE ROW PLANTER. RALPH L. FORD, Chicago, Ill., assignor to International Harvester Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 8, 1919. Serial No. 343,393. 8 Claims. (Cl. 111—54.)



5. In a planter, a forward support comprising parallel transversely extending bars, a supporting bracket including laterally spaced arms mounted between said parallel members, a planting unit mounted between the arms of the bracket, a U-shaped trailer frame having its branches pivoted to the arms of the bracket for movement vertically, a suporting wheel journaled within the trailer frame in alinement with the planting unit and driving means between the wheel and planting unit.

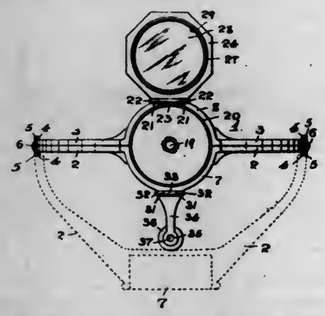
1,460,237. RAINPROOF GARMENT. CHRIS FREEMAN, Blaine, Wash. Filed Oct. 22, 1921. Serial No. 509,546. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—144.)

A rain-proof garment of one piece construction consisting of connected body and trousers members of which the latter is disconnected from the former at the back on a transverse waist line, the lower end of the back of the body member extending exteriorly below the waist line to provide a protective flap, the trousers members being provided adjacent its points of connection to the body member with accordion placket closing elements covered by the protective flap of said body member, fasteners carried on said flap on opposite sides of said placket closing elements, and corresponding fasteners disposed on the trousers member on opposite sides of said placket closing elements for engagement with the first said fasteners for the purpose specified.



1,460,238. AUTOMOBILE LOCK. JULIUS H. FROST, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 11, 1922. Serial No. 551,603. 1 Claim. (Cl. 70—128.)

In an automobile lock, the combination with a slotted member having an operating lever extending through the slot, of a slotted plate secured to the member with its slot registering with the slot of said member and through which the operating lever also extends, a locking bar fitting in the slot of the plate and mounted at one end on a horizontal pivot at one end of the slot to swing in and out of said slot, the bar being of the length of the slot less the size of the operating lever, whereby when the bar is in the slot its free end will engage the operating lever and hold it in engagement with an end of the slot, and a lock secured to the under face of the free end of the locking bar, the bolt of the lock being engageable under the said plate.



1,460,239. SLIDER FOR TUNING COILS. WILLIAM F. GEHAIG, Newark, N. J., assignor to Essex Specialty Co., Inc., Berkeley Heights, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 4, 1922. Serial No. 549,454. 1 Claim. (Cl. 219—56.)

In a device of the kind described, the combination with a tuning coil of a longitudinal slide rod having a polygonal cross-sectional shape, a self-locking slider, said slider comprising a bearing sleeve corresponding in cross sectional shape to the cross-sectional shape of said slide rod, said bearing sleeve embracing said slide rod so as to be movable back and forth thereon, and a downwardly curved contact finger extending from the under side of said bearing sleeve with its free end engaging the windings of said coil, said contact finger being under a normal spring tension operating to cant or turn said bearing sleeve on said slide rod whereby the former is frictionally bound on the latter in the desired position to which it has been adjusted thereon.

1,460,240. COMBINATION BAG FRAME AND VANITY OR POWDER BOX. FREDERICK GOERTZ, Newark, N. J., assignor to August Goertz & Co., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 20, 1921. Serial No. 509,106. 15 Claims. (Cl. 150—29.)

12. A bag-frame comprising a pair of hinged frame-sections, said frame-sections being provided with oppositely projecting and laterally extending members adapted when said frame-sections are closed to provide a receiving portion, and means connected with one of said laterally extending members for closing said receiving portion.

1,460,241. GASOLINE FILTER FOR MOTOR-DRIVEN VEHICLES. GEORGE A. HALLAUER, Grover, S. Dak. Filed Oct. 2, 1920. Serial No. 414,232. 2 Claims. (Cl. 210—165.)

1. In a filtering device, a casing comprising upper and lower axially aligned sections, the former threaded over the latter and provided with an internal flange at the terminal of its threads, the marginal edge of the latter having an internal flange, filtering means clamped between the internal flanges of both sections and comprising lower discs of wire fabric, and upper circular pieces of chamois skin, said discs and chamois skin pieces being immediately adjacent each other and superimposed, means for connecting the upper section to a carburetor, an air pet cock for the upper section, a drain pet cock connected to the lower end of the lower section, the lower portion of the inner wall of the lower section curving into the passage of the pet cock to insure carrying off sediment, and means connected to the lower section at a point a substantial distance above the drain pet cock for connection with a gasoline supply.

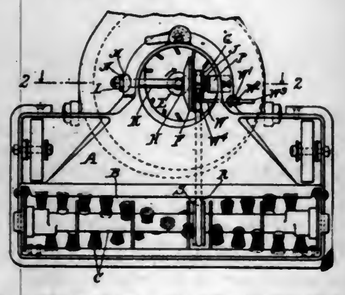
1,460,242. SHAKING AND DUMPING GRATE. JESSE E. HANCOCK, Dupont, Ga., assignor of five per cent to F. B. Bullard, Dupont, Ga. Filed Sept. 23, 1922. Serial No. 590,088. 3 Claims. (Cl. 126—177.)

1. In a grate of the class described, a main frame, a brace beam extending longitudinally of the main frame at its center and dividing the main frame into halves, other brace beams extending transversely of the main frame and dividing the respective halves into a plurality of sections, a rock shaft extending longitudinally of the main frame beneath each half and journalled to the main frame, grate bar supporting frames fitting in said sections of the main frame and each fixedly mounted on a respective rock shaft, grate bars rockingly supported in the bar supporting frames, rock arms fixed on the respective rock shafts and constituting operating levers whereby to oscillate the rock shafts and tilt the bar supporting frames, means adjacent the main frame in alinement with the longitudinal brace beam to operate said rock arms, and independent means separate from the rock shaft oscillating mechanism and located adjacent the ends of the respective halves and centrally disposed with relation to said respective halves for rocking the bars of the respective sections.

1,460,243. SWAB STOPPER. GILBERT L. HARVEY, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Nov. 8, 1920. Serial No. 422,539. 7 Claims. (Cl. 128—269.)



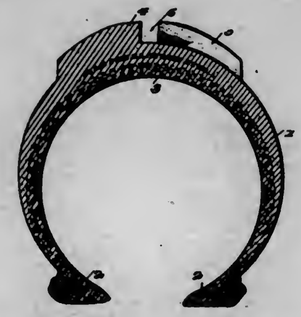
1. The combination of a closure for a medicinal solution container, said closure having a portion puncturable by a needle point; and an applicator carried by and enclosed within said closure.

1,460,244. PROCESS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF FORMALDEHYDE. ARTHUR HEINEMANN, Berlin-Tempelhof, Germany. Filed June 12, 1922. Serial No. 567,809. 2 Claims. (Cl. 260—138.)

1. A process for the manufacture of formaldehyde from carbon dioxide and hydrogen, wherein carbon dioxide and hydrogen in the presence of steam are passed over porous substances at a temperature of about from 240 to 350 degrees centigrade.

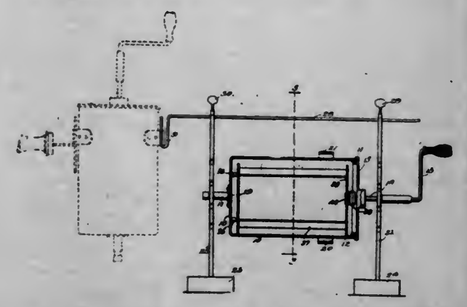
1,460,245. SUCTION CLEANER. HOWARD EARL HOOVER, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Hoover Company, North Canton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Sept. 4, 1917. Serial No. 189,431. 5 Claims. (Cl. 15—9.)

1. In a suction cleaner the combination of a casing having an inlet mouth with a brush, a driving shaft, a friction driving pulley thereon, a fan driven by the shaft, a speed reduction driving connection between the shaft and the brush containing a frictional pulley and a belt pulley connected together and a stud on which the two pulleys are slidably and rotatably mounted and a cap to enclose the end of the stud adjacent the pulleys and yielding means engaging the cap to hold the friction pulley in operative position.



3. In a suction cleaner the combination of a motor with a brush, an intermediate speed reducing transmission mechanism and separate driving connections between the motor and the transmission mechanism and the brush and the transmission mechanism, a stud upon which such mechanism is mounted secured at one end to the casing said stud being provided with a channel leading from the outside of the casing to the interior thereof at the transmission mechanism.

1,460,246. LOCKING LAMP. HARVEY HUBBELL, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed June 18, 1921. Serial No. 478,502. 14 Claims. (Cl. 176—31.)



1. An electric lamp comprising a bulb, an inner ferrule secured to said bulb, a contact member connected with but insulated from said inner ferrule, conductors leading from said bulb and connected with said contact member and ferrule respectively, an outer ferrule mounted to turn on said inner ferrule, and adapted for attachment to a lamp socket, said ferrules also adapted for relative longitudinal movement, and a spring connected to one of the ferrules and located between them, said spring and the other ferrule being provided with coacting shoulders to cause said outer ferrule to turn with the inner ferrule when said ferrule is turned in one direction, said spring also adapted to prevent return of the ferrules to their normal position after relative longitudinal movement.

1,460,247. TIRE. JOHN GEORGE JOHNSON, Gordon, Pa. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,479. 3 Claims. (Cl. 152—14.)

1,460,248. COOKING DEVICE. MICHAEL KOTT, New York, N. Y. Filed June 26, 1922. Serial No. 570,854. 6 Claims. (Cl. 53—5.)

1. A cooking device of the class described, comprising a drum having a removable end and a steam escape opening in the other end, removable means for supporting the victuals to be cooked in the drum, means for rotatably mounting said drum above a source of heat, and means for rotating said drum.

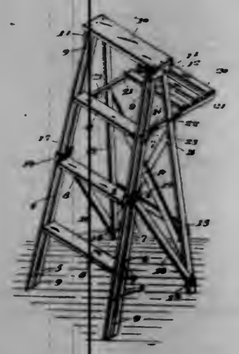
1,460,249. PRESSURE GAUGE. HENRY P. KRAFT, Ridgewood, N. J. Filed May 2, 1919. Serial No. 294,267. 7 Claims. (Cl. 73—109.)

1. A pressure gauge having a rotary indicating member, pressure responsive means, a sector cooperating with said means for rotating said member, means for maintaining said member in pressure indicating position, and manually operable means permanently connected to said sector and extending to the exterior of the gauge for resetting said indicating member.

1,460,250. VALVE CAP. HENRY P. KRAFT, Ridgewood, N. J. Filed Apr. 3, 1920. Serial No. 370,996. 4 Claims. (Cl. 152—12.)

1. A cap for valves, or the like, having a screw-threaded interior, a swivel member carrying a packing washer within said cap above said screw-threaded portion, said swivel member having a substantially flat bearing face contacting with the interior of the cap and of a diameter less than that of the screw threads, whereby the swivel member and packing washer may be inserted into the cap as a unit through the open end thereof and held therein by the action of the packing washer.

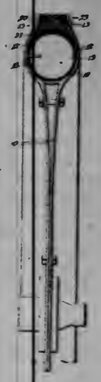
1,460,251. WATERPROOFING COMPOSITION AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. GEORGE W. KRAMER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 31, 1921. Serial No. 497,382. 16 Claims. (Cl. 134—15.)



6. A composition of matter comprising wax, aluminum oleate and turpentine in substantially the proportions stated.

16. The process of emulsifying a normally solid waterproofing substance by mixing it in a molten state with an aqueous solution of soap, reacting on the soap solution with a metallic salt to produce a substantially water insoluble soap, allowing it to cool, and adding a thinner.

1,460,252. STEPLADDER. CHARLES W. KRATHWOHL, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 27, 1921. Serial No. 464,785. 1 Claim. (Cl. 228—29.)



The combination with a ladder composed of laterally spaced side bars and steps extending therebetween; of a supporting leg pivoted to the upper portion of the ladder, said leg consisting of laterally spaced bars and connections therebetween, stay bars pivoted at one end to the leg bars, and straps pivotally connected to the other ends of the stay bars and slidably straddling the ladder side bars, into the path of which straps a step of the ladder extends to limit the downward travel of the straps on the ladder side bars.

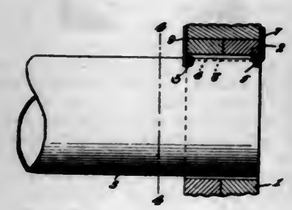
1,460,253. WHEEL. THOMAS C. LACKLAND, Atlanta, Ga. Filed Jan. 27, 1922. Serial No. 532,116. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—10.)

1. A wheel comprising opposed disk like members formed to provide an annular chamber, a cushioning member made up of a plurality of inflatable units arranged side by side, a fabric casing enclosing all of said units, a valve stem casing wholly disposed within each unit and horizontally disposed, said valve stem casing being wholly concealed from view by one wall of said chamber, and a solid tire supported by said cushioning member and arranged between the walls of said chamber.



1,460,254. HOLLOW-BLAST GRATE BAR. THOMAS LOUIS LA MALTA, Memphis, Tenn. Filed Apr. 19, 1919. Serial No. 291,337. 3 Claims. (Cl. 110—74.)

1. A hollow grate bar connected near one end with a blast line, a door pivoted at its upper edge to the bar at the opposite end and swinging inwardly, a curved arm pivoted adjacent the door and adapted to swing with its extremity within the bar and a cam carried upon the extremity adapted to engage and open the door and provided with means for supporting the door in open position and co-operating with the door to prevent return movement of the arm.

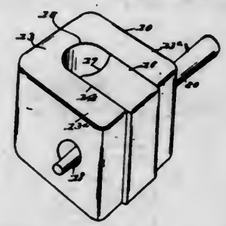
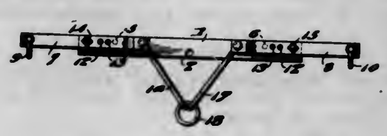
1,460,255. STOVEPIPE LOCK. BLANCHE LEACH, Reno, Nev. Filed Dec. 23, 1922. Serial No. 608,692. 1 Claim. (Cl. 126—318.)



The combination with a chimney having a pipe opening, and a pipe section to be received in said opening which has its seam formed with a channel, of a means for locking the pipe section to the chimney, comprising a shaft received in the groove of the pipe section, plates straddling the shaft and secured to the pipe section, said shaft having one end terminating with one end of the pipe section and arranged at a right angle with respect to the longitudinal plane of the shaft, said shaft having its opposite end extended at an obtuse angle and from thence bent at a right angle to provide a handle designed for bodily turning the shaft and the first mentioned end to bring the latter in the direction of the bore of the chimney to permit of the insertion of the pipe section through the opening therein and to also permit of the handle end of the shaft being brought into contact with the outer face of the chimney and thereafter further turned to bring both ends of the shaft into contacting engagement with the respective inner and outer faces of the chimney.

1,460,256. POLISH-ROD CLAMP. HAWLEY B. LEFLER, Grand Bayou, La., assignor of one-half to D. E. France Russell, Grand Bayou, La. Filed Sept. 29, 1922. Serial No. 591,268. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—263.)



1. A polish rod clamp having a transversely U-shaped body member provided with a throat terminating in a seat for the reception of a drill rod, a follower block fitted in the throat of said body member and movable toward and from the seat in the latter, and a tapered or wedge pin transversely engaging registering openings in said body member and follower block for advancing the latter toward the said seat to clamp a rod interposed between the same and the seat.

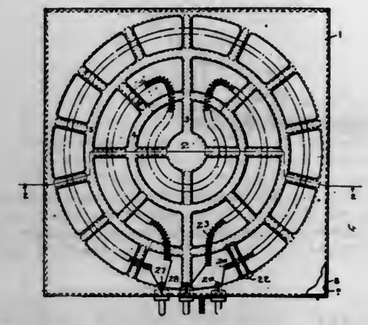
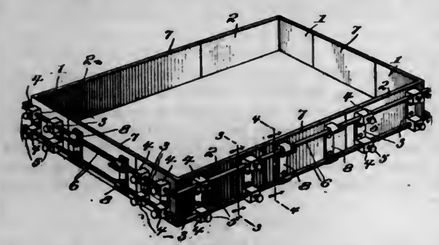
1,460,257. DRAFT EVENER. MILLARD E. LEIGH, Burley, Idaho. Filed July 8, 1920. Serial No. 394,698. 1 Claim. (Cl. 278—4.)



A draft evener comprising with a draft bar having a hitch opening at its center and a plurality of spaced openings adjacent each end, a pair of substantially U-shaped evener bars each having a plurality of spaced openings formed through their middle portions and alined through the two legs, pivot means passed through the openings of said draft bar and evener bars to pivotally mount the evener bars, U-shaped draft members with up-turned ends pivoted in the extremities of the two legs at the inner ends of each of said evener bars, a hitch ring connected in the loops of said draft member, and hitch connections provided at the outer looped ends of said draft bars.

1,460,258. OIL STOVE. WALTER C. LINDEMANN, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to A. J. Lindemann & Hoverson Company, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Feb. 21, 1920. Serial No. 360,457. 2 Claims. (Cl. 67—66.)

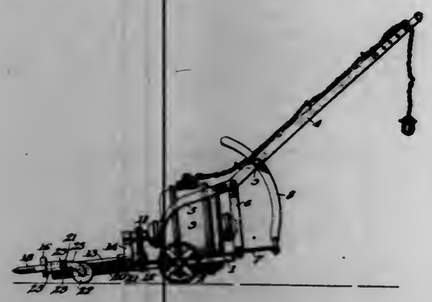


1. In a burner the combination of an inner cylindrical wick tube, adapted to be surrounded by a wick, an outer wick tube concentric therewith and a font upon which the latter is mounted, said outer wick tube having an upper portion extending above the inner wick tube and turned inwardly over the space between the two tubes to form a wick stop, and an outwardly turned lower portion fitting over a portion of the font, whereby a removable connection between said tube and font is formed, the said outer wick tube and its said parts being integral and forming one piece or part of the burner, and a surrounding shield and air deflector removably mounted exterior to said outer wick tube, having members extending inwardly to contact with the exterior of said tube and downwardly to contact with the said lower portion thereof, and maintaining the same in laterally and vertically spaced relation thereto.

1,460,259. ELECTRIC HEATING DEVICE. WALTER C. LINDEMANN, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to A. J. Lindemann & Hoverson Company, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Mar. 28, 1922. Serial No. 547,585. 14 Claims. (Cl. 219—19.)

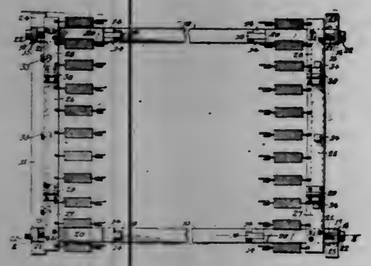
1. An electric heating unit comprising upper and lower sections forming a housing for the unit, each part provided with a portion of a resistance element supporting and insulating device, upper and lower insulating device parts supported in said housing parts, each having a recess therein, and the two recesses formed to produce when brought opposite each other apertures for receiving a resistance element, and a resistance element in said apertures and supported by the insulating device, and means for securing the said upper and lower parts together.

1,460,260. DRYING FRAME. HOMER H. LITCHFIELD, Rockford, Ill. Filed June 26, 1922. Serial No. 570,793. 1 Claim. (Cl. 271—86.)



In a drying frame, right angular corner members comprising branches, one of which branches is shorter than the other, spaced eyes on the outer faces of the corner members, rods passing therethrough, binding elements passing through the eyes contacting the rods for holding the corner members adjusted with respect to each other, filler plates between the corner members when the latter are extended, and spring clamps on the outer faces of the filler plates for engaging the rods.

1,460,261. LAWN TRIMMER. THOMAS W. MARTIN, Hibbing, Minn. Filed Nov. 1, 1920. Serial No. 421,059. 6 Claims. (Cl. 56—266.)



1. An apparatus for trimming hedges and mowing lawns, comprising a wheeled support, a shaft disposed in the direction of movement of the support, a sickle blade and guard therefor disposed at right angle to the shaft and mounted for pivotal movement about the same as center so as to occupy either one of two positions in the same horizontal plane on opposite sides of the shaft or any intermediate position and means constructed and arranged for translating the rotary motion of the shaft into reciprocating motion of the sickle blade in all angular positions of the blade relatively to the shaft.

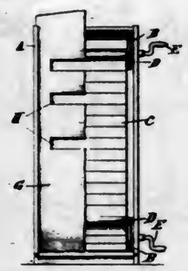
1,460,262. BEDSPRING SUPPORT. WILLIAM H. MATTHEWS, Newburgh, N. Y. Filed June 12, 1922. Serial No. 567,637. 4 Claims. (Cl. 5—202.)



1. A bed spring support comprising spaced side rails, bracket devices adjustably coupled to the head and foot portions of the side rails, transverse members, each in a plurality of hingedly united sections connected to the bracket devices, said hingedly united sections adapted to support a bed spring, and transverse supporting members detachably connected to the hingedly united members.

1,460,263. METALLIC SHEET PILING. JOHN VER MEHR and JOHN S. OWENS, London, England. Filed Mar. 10, 1922. Serial No. 542,700. 2 Claims. (Cl. 61—60.)

1. A metal piling member composed of two straight limbs one of which is disposed at an angle of 135° to the other and having interlocking means formed integrally therewith upon each of its two longitudinal edges.

1,460,264. APPLIANCE FOR DISPLAYING COLORS. MAUD MAPLE MILES, Lombard, Ill. Filed June 27, 1919. Serial No. 307,177. 5 Claims. (Cl. 88—14.)

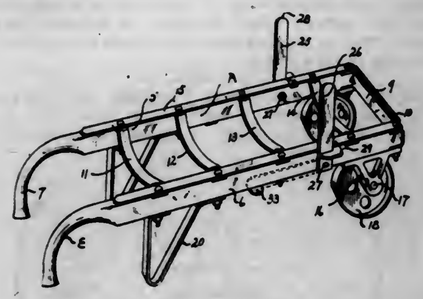
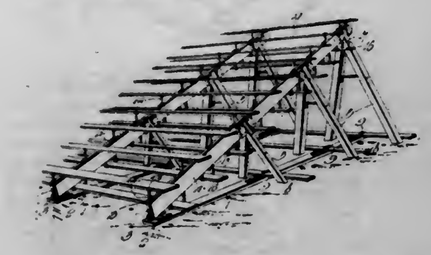
1,460,265. MUSIC-LEAF TURNER. ANDREW H. MILLS, Warsaw, Ind. Filed Aug. 3, 1921. Serial No. 489,524. 5 Claims. (Cl. 84—504.)



3. In a music leaf turner, a support having a plurality of concentrically arranged guideways, a standard rising from said support, a follower device movable in each of said guideways and having an upwardly projecting pin, a plurality of leaf holding devices swinging upon said standard and over said support, and each having a stud projecting into the path of one of said pins, a spring controlled winding drum associated with each of said guideways, a pull member attached at one end to each of said drums, and at the other end to one of the followers, a stop pawl for each of said followers to hold it in initial position against the action of the winding drums, and means under the control of the player for independently releasing said pawl.

1,460,266. HAND TRUCK. JOHN S. MONROE, Memphis, Mo. Filed June 19, 1922. Serial No. 569,397. 2 Claims. (Cl. 280—83.)



1. The combination with a truck including side beams, of arms secured to said side beams and arranged in opposed relation, said arms being normally disposed at substantially right angles to the side beams, stop members on the side beams to be engaged by the arms when in normal position to prevent movement of the arms in one direction, said arms being adapted to be disposed parallel with the side beams when not in use, additional stop members on the side beams and in spaced relation with the first stop members to support the arms parallel with the side beams and rounded terminals on said arms disposed in the plane of the faces of the arms.

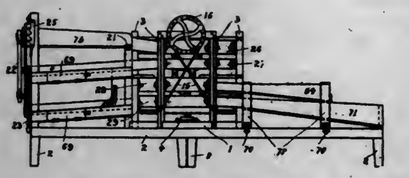
1,460,267. PORTABLE BLEACHER. HENRY D. OBERDORFER, Champaign, Ill. Filed June 12, 1922. Serial No. 567,700. 2 Claims. (Cl. 304—1.)

1. The combination with a portable stand including a horizontal sill and an inclined seat-supporting stringer resting thereon at its lower front end; of a U-shaped strap secured to said sill and having its intermediate portion bent upwardly therefrom extending in advance of and surrounding the front end of said stringer, and an anchoring bracket secured to said end and removably seated in the bight portion of the strap.

1,460,268. HOOP FOR LIFTING CROCKS. FRANK OTTMAN, Utica, N. Y. Filed Apr. 10, 1922. Serial No. 551,064. 1 Claim. (Cl. 294—15.)

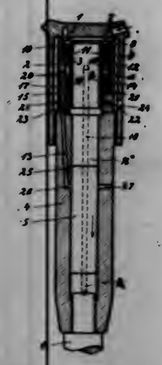


In a device of the character described, a sectional band, each section having depressed portions, loop members having angular end portions extending through the sections and seated in the depressed portion, handles secured to the loop portions, and means for moving the adjacent ends of sections with respect to each other to adjust them on a receptacle.

1,460,269. BOTTLE CAP. CHARLES C. PARKER, Baltimore, Md. Filed July 13, 1921, Serial No. 484,343. Renewed May 8, 1923. 6 Claims. (Cl. 215—51.)

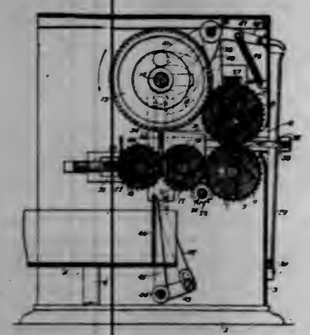
1. A milk-bottle closure comprising a paper disk having a body portion adapted to fit the recess in a milk bottle mouth and having a flange folded inwardly over the body and thence outwardly upon itself, the height between the bottom of the body portion and the outward fold of the flange being substantially less than the distance between the shoulder in the bottle and the top of the bottle.

1,460,270. FRUIT-GRADING MACHINE. FREDERICK BOWMAN PURCHAS, Hitchin, England. Filed Oct. 31, 1922. Serial No. 598,142. 20 Claims. (Cl. 130—32.)



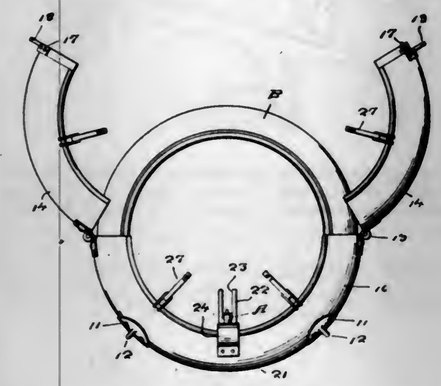
1. A fruit grading machine comprising a rotating grading disc having a zone of apertures therein and a central aperture within said zone and of larger diameter than the apertures in the zone, and stationary guiding means adapted to feed the fruit across the zone of apertures in the rotating disc towards the central aperture.

1,460,271. TRACE CARRIER. WILLIAM F. RAMIGE, Rockwell City, Iowa. Filed June 21, 1922. Serial No. 569,977. 2 Claims. (Cl. 54—56.)



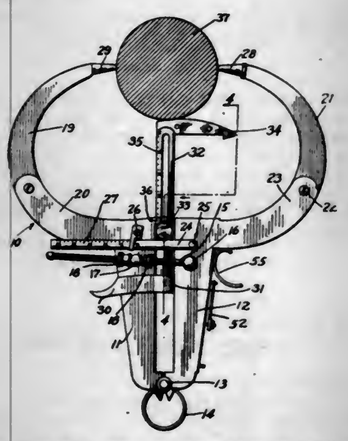
2. A trace carrier comprising a base frame having within its perimeter a pair of upstanding guards, integral transverse members having inward extending hooks, the end portions thereof terminating above the plane of said transverse members, a cross bar centrally positioned and maintained above the plane of the base frame, a flat spring of greater length than the distance between the ends of the hooks, said spring being attached to the cross bar to position its ends beyond the inward extending ends of the hooks, the parts, excepting the spring and cross bar to which the spring is attached, being integral.

1,460,272. PNEUMATIC RIVETER. ERNST REHFELD, Berlin, Germany, assignor to Deutsche Werke Aktiengesellschaft, Berlin, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Dec. 27, 1921. Serial No. 525,191. 1 Claim. (Cl. 121—28.)



A pneumatic tool comprising a cylinder and a piston reciprocating therein, a compressed air conduit and a tubular valve forming an extension of the cylinder and in which said piston is adapted to travel controlling the inlet and exhaust for both the in and out stroke, said valve having two pairs of surfaces adapted to be acted upon by the compressed air from the said air conduit, one surface of one pair being adapted to shift the valve forwardly, the other surface of said pair being adapted to hold the valve forwardly, one surface of the other pair being adapted to shift the valve rearwardly, the other surface of said second pair being adapted to hold the valve rearwardly, the pressure on one surface of one pair of surfaces being relieved when pressure is applied to one surface of the other pair, and the pressure to the holding surface of the first pair being cut off when pressure is applied to the holding surface of the other pair, ports and passages connecting the cylinder and said surfaces and controlled by the piston whereby air is admitted to actuate said piston.

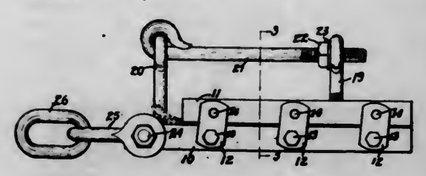
1,460,273. FOLDING MACHINE. MARTIN O. REHFUSS, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 5, 1918. Serial No. 252,747. 1 Claim. (Cl. 270—82.)



The combination in a folding machine of a casing having in its front wall a transverse slot; a substantially vertical guideway on the front wall of the casing for supporting a sheet so that it extends across said slot; a folding blade movable through the plane of the guideway into the slot; a pair of folding rolls mounted in the casing one above the other in position to receive a sheet forced through the slot by the blade; a second pair of folding rolls parallel with the first rolls; a second folding blade movable across the plane of movement of a sheet folded by the first rolls; and means for actuating the rolls and the blades.

1,460,274. COMBINED TIRE CARRIER AND COVER. THOMAS A. RIANDA, Gonzales, Calif. Filed Nov. 22, 1921. Serial No. 517,132. 4 Claims. (Cl. 224—29.)

1. A device of the character described comprising a relatively stationary shell member of semi-circular form adapted to support a tire, a pair of quarter-circular shell members hingedly connected with the ends of said first named shell member, and means for securing together the free ends of the last named shell sections in interengaging relation, the assembled sections being adapted to entirely enclose a tire mounted upon a rim, and means engaging the rim for centering the tire with respect to the assembled sections whereby to hold the tire spaced away from the shell at all points.



1,460,275. CALIPERS. ANGUS BÉLANGER and FREDERICK P. RICHES, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed Nov. 11, 1920. Serial No. 423,387. 4 Claims. (Cl. 33—148.)

1. In a pair of calipers, the combination of a pair of pivoted plates, a spring connecting said plates, a gauge cooperating with said plates to indicate the space between the swinging ends thereof, arms carried by said plates, one of said arms being pivotally mounted, points carried by the arms, and an indicator carried by one of the plates and actuated by the movement of said pivotally mounted arm for indicating fractions of an inch.

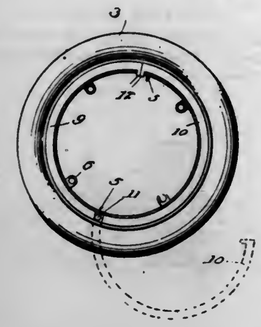
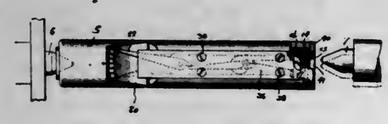
1,460,276. CABLE CLAMP. JOHN A. ROBERTSON, St. Joseph, Mo. Filed Apr. 7, 1922. Serial No. 550,301. 7 Claims. (Cl. 24—132.)

1. A clamp comprising a pair of alined members adapted to move longitudinally in opposite directions to clamp a cable or the like between them and means connecting the members at one side to permit hinge-like opening of the clamp, substantially as set forth.



1,460,277. GARMENT. ABRAHAM ROCKE, New York, N. Y., assignor to Peerless Corset Co., Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 27, 1922. Serial No. 564,015. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—73.)

In a garment, a body formed of a single piece of resilient material, reinforcing strips at the ends thereof, other reinforcing strips secured to the central portion thereof in spaced relation to each other, a resilient strip connecting adjacent edges of the last named reinforcing strips, and adjusting straps connecting the central reinforcing strips with the reinforcing strips at the ends of the body.



1,460,278. DEMOUNTABLE RIM. JOSEPH B. ROESCH, Old Forge, Pa. Filed Feb. 21, 1922. Serial No. 538,217. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—11.)

A demountable rim having a tire shoe heel engaging means on one side thereof and a peripherally disposed channel formed therein adjacent its opposite side, a clamping ring receivable over that portion of the rim having the channel therein engageable with the opposite side of the tire shoe and having an undercut side, a locking ring having an interior diameter the same as the exterior diameter of the bottom of the channel of said rim and receivable within said channel, said locking ring composed of two eccentrically pivoted segments, said segments being formed of spring material and having inwardly disposed fingers formed upon the free extremities thereof, the bottom of the channel of said rim having an opening therein whereby one segment of said locking ring may be placed within said channel and the other or longer segment of the locking ring may be snapped within said channel when the fingers of said segments are arranged in abutting relation and forced within said opening and the undercut side of said clamping ring being adapted to engage over the locking ring.

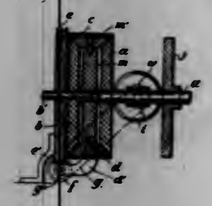
1,460,279. CENTERING DEVICE. LEONHARD J. ROSBACH, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Mar. 19, 1921. Serial No. 453,838. 10 Claims. (Cl. 33—181.)

1. In a centering tool, a supporting frame, a center receiving socket at one end thereof, a second center receiving socket mounted for angular displacement at the other end of the frame and having a socket recess extending across the axis of the socket support, together with indicating means actuated by the movement of said angularly displaceable socket.



1,460,280. BOILER AND HEATER. PETER O. ROTH, New York, N. Y. Filed July 21, 1921. Serial No. 486,409. 8 Claims. (Cl. 110—97.)

1. In a device of the character described, the combination with a boiler having flues, of means for retarding the passage of the flame and the products of combustion through said flues, said means comprising a central supporting member extending longitudinally through each of said flues, a plurality of sleeves rotatably mounted on said supporting member and provided with spiral formed webs, each of said sleeves having an overhanging section for transmitting rotary motion to the next adjacent section, and means for rotating the end sleeve in each of the flues.

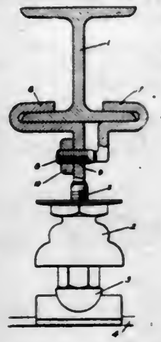
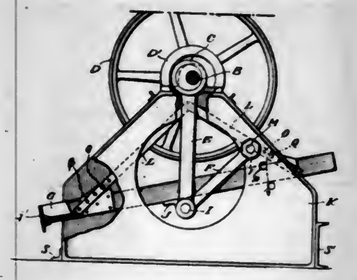
1,460,281. REGULATING GEAR. EDMUND SCHRÖDER, Berlin, Germany. Filed Aug. 24, 1921. Serial No. 495,146. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—34.)

A planet-wheel change-speed gear, comprising, in combination; a planet-wheel gear composed of two co-axial wheels, two planet-wheels located oppositely to each other between said co-axial wheels and meshing with them and of a planet-wheel carrier loosely rotatable between the co-axial wheels; a stationary worm-wheel arraged at the free side of one of the said co-axial wheels; a worm meshing with said worm-wheel and being supported by the planet-wheel carrier; a shaft passing through the worm-wheel and having the adjacent co-axial wheel secured to it and supporting the planet-wheel carrier; another shaft arranged co-axially to the former and having the other co-axial wheel affixed to it; a friction disk also affixed to said latter shaft at some distance from the respective co-axial wheel; another friction disk located between this wheel and the first-mentioned friction disk at right angles to both; a shaft having said other disk secured to it; a shaft having the said worm affixed to it and extending parallelly to the shaft of the last-mentioned disk; and means for transmitting rotary motion from the disk shaft to the worm shaft, substantially as set forth.



1,460,282. OWNER'S IDENTIFICATION MEANS FOR PROTECTING AUTOMOBILES AGAINST THEFT. THOMAS SHILL, Highland Park, N. J. Filed Feb. 15, 1922. Serial No. 536,700. 6 Claims. (Cl. 40—22.)

1. In an automobile in combination with a metal part of the body of the vehicle formed with a series of perforations, a flanged tubular body inserted in each perforation, each tubular body being formed with a closed end-wall to prevent water from entering back of said body.



1,460,283. ATTACHING CLAMP. STEPHEN J. SHUTSA, Uniontown, Pa. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,490. 1 Claim. (Cl. 191—40.)

In combination with an I-beam, of a means for supporting a trolley wire therefrom, including a hook to engage one side of the lower flange of the I-beam, said hook having a rightangular flattened shank merging into a threaded portion and which shank is disposed directly below the center of the I-beam, a second hook to engage the second side of the lower flange of the I-beam having a depending portion terminating in an angularly threaded extension that passes through the flattened shank of the first mentioned book, a nut screwed on said threaded extension for clamping the jaws on the lower flange of the I-beam, and means on the threaded extension of the flattened shank of the first mentioned jaw for clamping a trolley wire thereto.

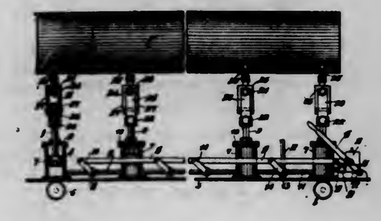
1,460,284. ADJUSTABLE SHAKING SCREEN. EDWARD S. STADELMAN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 3, 1922. Serial No. 579,401. 5 Claims. (Cl. 83—56.)

1. A shaking screen having a drive shaft, a screen frame, and means suspending said screen frame from said shaft and tending to impart movement to the screen frame from the drive shaft, in combination with adjustable means restricting said screen frame to curvilinear motion and other means adjustably controlling the inclination of said screen frame.



1,460,285. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR DRAWING GLASS CYLINDERS. THOMAS STENHOUSE, Washington, Pa., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-sixth to Alexander L. Duval D'Adrian, Washington, Pa., and one-sixth to Bernhard F. Drakenfeld, jr., New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 25, 1919. Serial No. 340,629. 6 Claims. (Cl. 49—17.1.)

3. In mechanism to control the speed of acceleration of drawing glass cylinders, a movable part controlling the operation of the drawing apparatus, and mechanism to automatically actuate said movable part, including a rectilinearly movable element, a cam coacting with said element, and means to operate said cam at a predetermined speed whereby the speed of the drawing operation is automatically increased in proportion to the decrease in temperature of the glass.

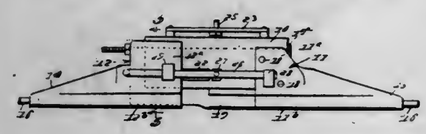
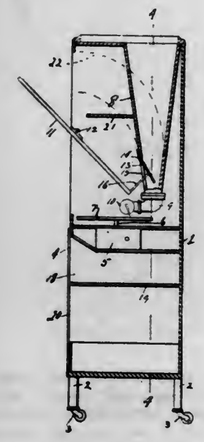
1,460,286. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR SUPPORTING GLASS CYLINDERS. THOMAS STENHOUSE, Washington, Pa., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-sixth to Alexander L. Duval D'Adrian, Washington, Pa., and one-sixth to Bernhard F. Drakenfeld, jr., New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 25, 1919. Serial No. 340,630. 20 Claims. (Cl. 49—48.)



16. In a support for glass cylinders, a plurality of spaced supporting units, each including a cylinder and a piston operating therein, a supporting saddle for the glass cylinder, mounted upon each of the pistons, and transversely movable relative to the axis of the cylinder, fluid supply means connecting and affording communication between the several cylinders, the fluid medium in the respective cylinders exerting a variable sustaining influence upon the pistons thereby to equally distribute the weight of the glass cylinder between the supports, and manually operable valves for closing communication between said cylinders to maintain the sustaining influence of the fluid medium constant and lock the supports against vertical movement during the severance of the glass cylinder into sections.

1,460,287. TILE PRESS. FRANCIS E. STEVENSON, Mount Gilead, Ohio, assignor to The Hydraulic Press Manufacturing Company, Mount Gilead, Ohio. Filed Mar. 10, 1922. Serial No. 542,623. 19 Claims. (Cl. 25—55.)

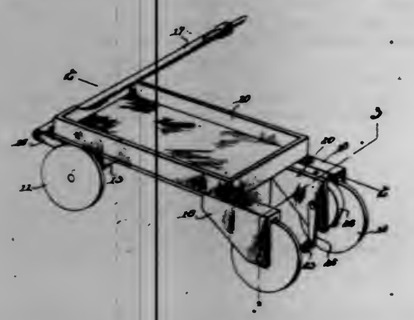


1. A press comprising a fixed lower die, a mold surrounding said die and having its top movable to register with the top of the die, a charging device, means for moving the charging device so that the material carried thereby overlies the die, means for raising the mold and charging device, the means for moving the charging device acting after said movement is completed to withdraw the same leaving the material in the mold, an upper die, and means for moving said upper die to compress the material in the mold.

1,460,288. TROLLEY-WIRE CUT-OUT SWITCH. THOMAS A. THOMAS, Amherstdale, W. Va. Filed July 15, 1921. Serial No. 484,960. 4 Claims. (Cl. 191—39.)

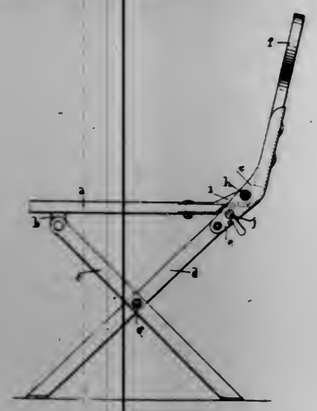
1. A cut-out switch for trolley lines having a body portion consisting of a block of insulating material, terminals carried by said block and provided with means for connection with the adjacent extremities of trolley wire sections, and a switch mounted upon the body portion for simultaneous engagement at its extremities with contacts on said terminals, one of said terminals being longitudinally movable on the block relative to the other terminal and means for securing the same in its adjusted positions.

1,460,289. TALKING-MACHINE CABINET. NICK TOTA, Camden, N. J. Filed June 13, 1922. Serial No. 567,927. 2 Claims. (Cl. 274—2.)



1. In a talking machine cabinet, in combination, a horn mounted therein and having a cut out portion, a baffle pivoted in said horn to normally close said cut out portion and adapted to be swung into the horn for directing some of the sound waves passing through the horn, means to normally close a portion of the cabinet, and means to pivot said cabinet closing means whereby it may be swung to a position for actuating the baffle.

1,460,290. WAGON. BENJAMIN B. TROMBLEY, Syracuse, N. Y. Filed July 7, 1922. Serial No. 573,365. 3 Claims. (Cl. 208—53.)



1. A toy wagon comprising a wagon body, front and rear wheels, means for guiding the wagon, bearings projecting rearwardly from the wagon body for said rear wheels, a step depending from the rear of the wagon body and arranged adjacent one of said bearings, a partition projecting from the wagon body and arranged in juxtaposition to the other bearing, a shaft journaled between said partition and the adjacent bearing, foot operated means for rotating said shaft, and gearing connecting the said shaft with the axle of the adjacent wheel for the purpose specified.

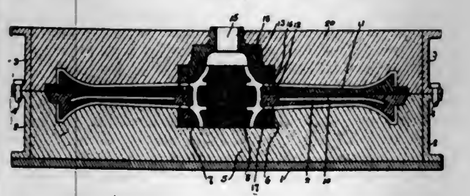
1,460,291. FOLDING SEAT. ANTOINE TRUFFY, Courbevoie, France. Filed Feb. 20, 1920. Serial No. 360,250. 2 Claims. (Cl. 155—147.)

1. A folding seat, comprising a seat proper, a back pivoted to the rear of said seat proper, legs pivotally connected in a non-detachable manner and forming the branches of a jointed X, one of said branches being pivoted to the fore part of the seat proper, and the other branch to a downward extension of the back, at a point nearer to the connection between the seat proper and the back than to the pivot point of the two branches of the leg, for the purpose described, the ends of the said branches being provided with notches, and a revoluble member mounted in the back and having flattened portions to permit it to enter the notches and to be retained in said notches.



1,460,292. RELINER. IRA CROW VANCE, Howell, Ark. Filed Feb. 7, 1922. Serial No. 534,680. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—18.)

1. A reliner for tires including a wrapper formed of two superposed sheets secured together, the outer sheet being of greater area than the inner sheet and extending laterally beyond the edges thereof, whereby integral extensions of reduced thickness are formed, fastening means formed on each of said extensions, and a leaf attached to the wrapper and extending over the fastening means.

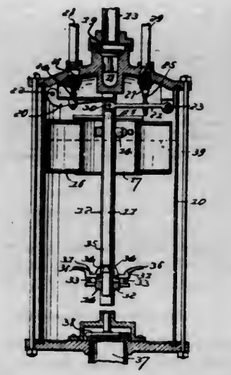
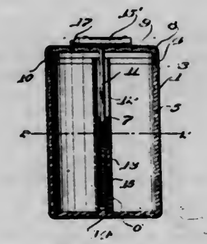
1,460,293. WHEEL. GEORGE WALTHER, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Dayton Steel Foundry Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 5, 1922. Serial No. 572,832. 8 Claims. (Cl. 22—165.)



1. In a core member, a tubular member with a pouring aperture therein, a stepped portion on the exterior thereof for engagement with green sand, and a cutaway portion on the interior thereof adapted to form the exterior of a hub of a cast wheel.

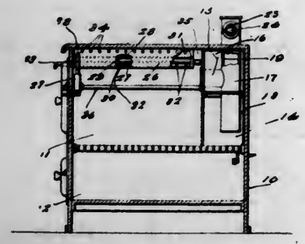
1,460,294. WRENCH. LEWIS E. WEGNER, Hagerstown, Md. Filed Aug. 5, 1921. Serial No. 490,113. 16 Claims. (Cl. 81—133.)



1. The combination, in a wrench, of a shank having a relatively fixed jaw and provided with teeth; a movable jaw slidable on said shank; a handle pivoted to said movable jaw; a pawl carried by the handle in position to engage the said teeth when the handle is moved toward the shank but normally disengaged from the teeth when the handle is extended; and manually actuated auxiliary means secured to said handle for moving the pawl into engagement with said teeth.

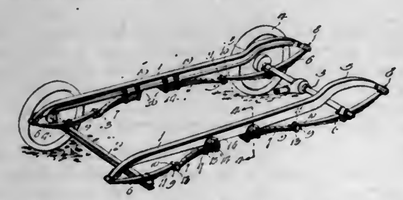
1,460,295. PUMP. ANDREW JACKSON WELDEN, Griffin, Ga. Filed Jan. 4, 1922. Serial No. 526,912. 5 Claims. (Cl. 103—248.)

5. A pump having a tank provided with a bottom valved inlet, a water discharge pipe having valved communication at its upper end with a service pipe, oppositely opening pressure and vent valves for respectively controlling the admission of pressure to and the exhaust of pressure from the interior of the tank, a tappet rod having connection with said valves and provided with a transverse tappet pin, a latch mechanism for engaging and holding the tappet rod in its elevated position and provided with a trip arm, and a float mounted for actuation by the liquid contents of the tank and located between said tappet pin and trip for successively actuating the same as it approaches the limits of its movement in opposite directions, the tappet rod being provided with a shoulder and the latch mechanism having pivotally mounted latches yieldingly held in position for engagement with said shoulder.



1,460,296. WATERPROOF CIGARETTE CASE. JOHN G. WELSH, Youngstown, Ohio. Filed Oct. 17, 1921. Serial No. 508,103. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—41.)

2. A waterproof cigarette case comprising a body open at one end, a removable cover, means for sealing the joint between the body and cover when the latter is in closed position, and yielding means within the body and connected with the cover for yieldingly holding the cover under pressure against the body.



1,460,297. FUEL ECONOMIZER. PETER STEPHEN LEE WEST, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Feb. 11, 1922. Serial No. 535,895. 8 Claims. (Cl. 126—79.)

1. The combination with a fire box, of a casing located therein, separate compartments formed within the casing, a pipe extending downwardly through the top of the casing, means whereby communication is established between the fire box and pipe through one of the compartments, means whereby communication is established between the pipe and fire box to permit the lighter gases to return to the latter and means whereby the heavier gases will be conducted to the atmosphere.

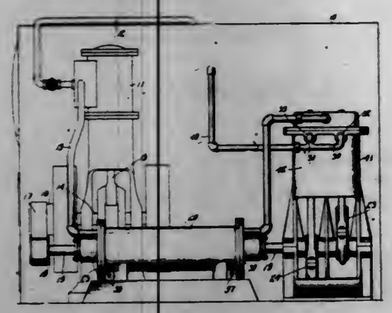
1,460,298. VEHICLE SPRING. CHRIST WESTERGARD, Denbigh, N. Dak. Filed Apr. 25, 1921. Serial No. 464,105. 5 Claims. (Cl. 267—41.)

1. A spring suspension comprising a spring curving upwardly from a vehicle axle, a second spring curving downwardly from the vehicle frame toward and in substantial alinement with the first named spring, and connecting means between the adjacent ends of said springs for holding them normally in vertically spaced overlapped relation but for guiding them into contact with each other and limiting inward sliding of one along the other when under strain, each spring having a leaf extending beyond said connecting means for contact with a part of the other spring when the suspension is under strain.



1,460,299. MACHINE FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF BUILDING BLOCKS AND THE LIKE. ARTHUR E. WHITEHOUSE, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed Mar. 16, 1922. Serial No. 544,385. 26 Claims. (Cl. 25—41.)

1. A collapsible mold box including a pair of end walls and a pair of parallel side walls one of said walls being fixed and the other hinged at its bottom edge for the purpose of enabling it to be swung in a direction away from the fixed wall, a cover for closing the top of said box and hinged at one side edge upon said fixed wall, means for locking the cover in closed position said means including a projection upon said hinged wall, and a gravity latch hinged upon said cover and adapted to engage said projection.

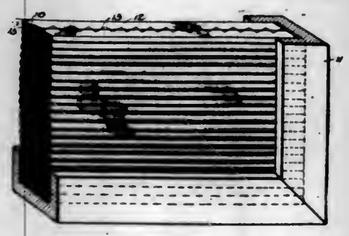
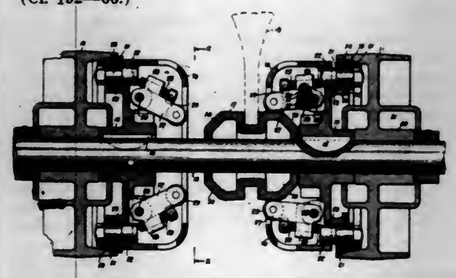
1,460,300. COMPRESSING APPARATUS. MARK M. WHITFIELD, Memphis, Tenn. Filed Mar. 18, 1920. Serial No. 366,957. 4 Claims. (Cl. 230—32.)

1. A fluid compressing apparatus comprising a low pressure worm propeller compressor and a high pressure compressor having a reciprocating piston driven directly from the shaft of the worm propeller, substantially as set forth.



1,460,301. FLUID-PRESSURE REGULATOR. JAMES M. WILKINS, Decatur, Ill., assignor to Adolph Mueller, trustee, Decatur, Ill. Filed Oct. 8, 1921. Serial No. 506,417. 6 Claims. (Cl. 50—23.)

1. In a regulator, the combination of a casing, a nipple having a valve seat in said casing, a valve supporting member having a passage with a tapered wall, a seat washer carrier having compressible fingers engaging said tapered wall adjustably mounted in said passage, a seat washer in said compressible fingers, and means for actuating said valve.



1,460,302. DOUBLE-FACED CHANGEABLE-LETTER SIGN. JOSEPH GILMER WILLIAMS, New York, N. Y., assignor of one-fourth to George T. Keen and one-fourth to Crawford Burton, both of New York, N. Y. Filed July 21, 1922. Serial No. 576,514. 9 Claims. (Cl. 40—142.)

1. A letter sign, comprising a plurality of strips of identical construction and substantially rectangular in cross section, a pad of cloth between the strips for resiliently holding one strip against the other means for holding said strips together, and a letter formed with ears, said ears being capable of insertion between any of said strips on either face of the sign.

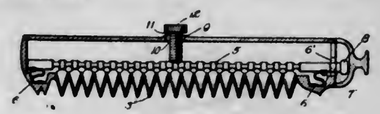
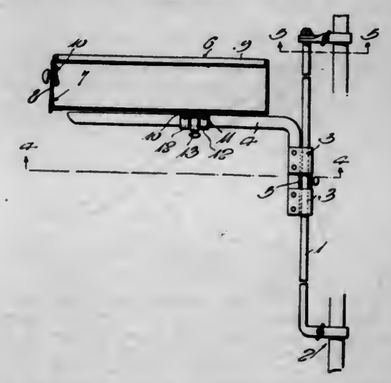
1,460,303. CLUTCH. DAVID WILSON WOOD, Brazil, Ind. Filed July 29, 1921. Serial No. 488,435. 5 Claims. (Cl. 192—66.)



3. In a clutch, a cone pulley provided with a beveled inner face, a clutch member having a beveled face, a floating ring rotating with the said clutch member and having outer and inner beveled faces adapted to optionally engage alternatively either of said beveled faces on the said pulley and clutch member, and means for moving the said floating ring.

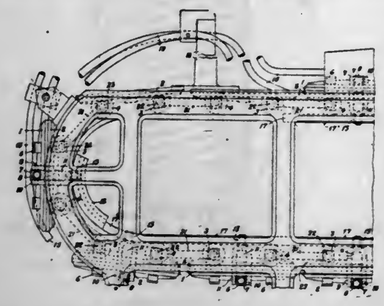
1,460,304. BOTTLE-COOLING DEVICE. OSCAR M. WOOLDRIDGE, Evansville, Ind. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 553,457. 2 Claims. (Cl. 211—9.)



1. A rack for a bottle cooling device, comprising spaced rotatable elements, rods in spaced relation extending between said elements and connected therewith, the rods being parallel with the axis of rotation, and trays approximately V-shaped in cross section pivotally suspended from the rods.

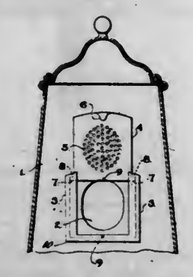
1,460,305. COMB. PETER D. YANKOFF, Fort Smith, Ark. Filed July 14, 1922. Serial No. 575,026. 2 Claims. (Cl. 132—13.)

1. A comb for the purpose set forth, comprising a hollow body open at one end and having hollow teeth whose ends are apertured, a movable valve in each of the teeth, a bar connected with the valves spring influenced in one direction to unseat the valves, means for closing the open end of the body, and means operable exteriorly of the body for exerting a pressure on the bar to seat the valves or to regulate the valves with respect to their seats.



1,460,306. ATTACHMENT FOR BEDS. JAMES R. ANDERSON, Hot Springs, Mont. Filed Nov. 28, 1921. Serial No. 518,401. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—82.)

An attachment for beds comprising a mounting rod adapted to be connected with a bed post in a vertical position, a supporting arm, means for connecting said supporting arm with said mounting rod with the supporting-arm extending horizontally from the rod and adjustable vertically upon the rod, said arm having a flat upper surface, a horizontally disposed article carrier positioned above said arm, a reinforcing plate secured against the undersurface of said article carrier and extending transversely of said arm, a bearing bracket formed from a plate having its central portion cut out to provide spaced strips, said plate being bent to form U-shaped clips of said strips, and attaching feet extending from said clips and secured to said reinforcing plate, the supporting arm being passed through said clips to slidably mount said article carrier for movement longitudinally of the supporting arm, and a collar loose upon said arm between said clips and having a set screw for engaging the supporting arm and locking the collar in place and thereby prevent movement of said article carrier upon the arm.



1,460,307. MACHINERY FOR MAKING WAFER BISCUITS, CUP WAFERS, AND SIMILAR ARTICLES FROM LIQUID. THOMAS O. BATES, Liverpool, England. Filed Aug. 24, 1921. Serial No. 494,777. Claim. (Cl. 107—58.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

A wafer biscuit and like article making machine, comprising a series of sets of plates adapted to travel along a predetermined line, one of said plates being mounted for movement relative to the other, opening means fixed with relation to said movable plate, a cam way fixed with relation to the path of travel and adapted to cooperate with said opening means to raise said movable plate with respect to its cooperating plate, a locking projection carried by one of said plates and extending beyond the plane of the plates, a pivoted locking member movable with the plates and having a locking roller to engage beneath said projection to lock the plates together, said locking member being provided with a setting roller arranged below the locking roller, and a guide carried by the machine to engage said setting roller at determinate points in the travel of the plates to operate said locking member to cause its locking roller to engage and disengage the locking projection.

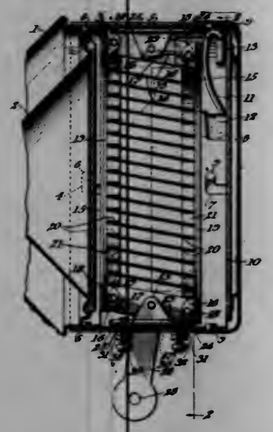
1,460,308. STRAINER. FRANK T. BENTLEY, Platteville, Wis. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,374. 1 Claim. (Cl. 53—3.)



A utensil having a spout, a vertically disposed guideway formed on each side of the opening leading from the utensil into the spout, a shoulder carried by the upper end of each guideway, a horizontally disposed guideway connecting the first mentioned guideways at their lower ends, a projection formed on the horizontally disposed guideway intermediate of its ends, a perforated plate adapted to slide in the vertically disposed guideways and being provided with a depression designed to receive the projection formed on the horizontally disposed guideway when the plate is normally seated, projections carried by the plate to prohibit its upward movement, and a lip integrally formed on said plate as and for the purpose specified.

1,460,309. HEADLIGHT DIMMER. PAUL BIERBRAUER and IRVIN DUNCAN PETERS, Wausau, Wis. Filed May 2, 1922. Serial No. 557,903. 10 Claims. (Cl. 240—45.2.)

3. In a dimming device a plurality of parallel slats, a frame comprising a pair of spaced frame members arranged at the opposite sides of said slats, non-metallic means between said slats and frame members and providing pivotal supports for the opposite edges of said slats, and means to move one of said frame members to tilt said slats.

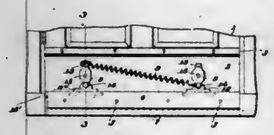
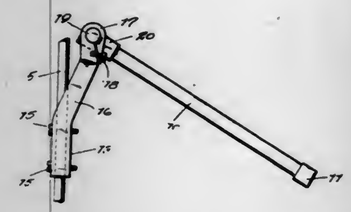
1,460,310. APPARATUS FOR PRESSING COP AND LIKE TUBES UPON SPINDLES. EDWARD BUCK, Middleton Junction, England. Filed May 2, 1922. Serial No. 557,940. 2 Claims. (Cl. 118—16.)



1. Apparatus for use in pressing tubes upon spindles in textile machinery, two plates arranged parallel to each other, corresponding recesses formed in each plate to grip the tubes, two spindles fitted to one plate and passing through the other plate, and rotatable sleeves mounted upon the spindles, and in screwed engagement therewith, and springs between the plates to force same apart.

1,460,311. CHANGEABLE SIGN. ROSCOE C. BURTON, Albany, N. Y. Filed Apr. 3, 1922. Serial No. 549,035. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—140.)



In a sign including a sheet like body formed with slots, sign plates V-shaped in cross section having their bight portions engaging within the respective slots, and retaining clips on the body engaging the lower edges of the sign plates.

1,460,312. AUTOMATIC WEATHER STRIP. FRED CARON, Detroit, Mich. Filed May 5, 1922. Serial No. 558,671. 2 Claims. (Cl. 20—68.)

1. The combination in a weather strip, of a body, levers connected at intermediate points in their lengths with said body and having upper and lower arms, a padded thrust bar pivotally connected to and carried by the lower arms of the levers, and a retractile spring interposed between and connected to the upepr arm of one lever and the lower arm of the other lever.

1,460,313. WINDSHIELD VISOR. JOHN WATTERSON DAVIS, Dallas, Tex. Filed Apr. 27, 1921. Serial No. 464,968. 1 Claim. (Cl. 296—95.)

A visor for windshields comprising a glass panel, a frame carrying said panel, reinforcing members secured to and shaped to embrace the upper corners of said frame, elongated smooth surfaced pivot studs projecting laterally from said reinforcing members and integral therewith, brackets having means for securing the same to the side bars of a windshield and formed upwardly and forwardly extending arms, bearings in the upper extremities of said arms formed to provide flexible gripping members, the length of said pivot studs being greater than the width of said bearings to provide for adjustment of said bearings relative to said studs to adapt said visor to shields of varying widths, and means to frictionally secure said pivot studs in said flexible bearings, whereby to maintain said visor at any desired position.

1,460,314. SEPARATOR FOR FEEDERS. BERT DECK, Winfield, Kans. Filed May 6, 1922. Serial No. 558,906. 2 Claims. (Cl. 271—26.)

1. The combination with a suction foot for drawing the top sheet from a pile of sheets, of means for injecting blasts of air between the top sheet and the sheet next thereto when a suction is created between the suction foot and the top sheet, said means comprising an air conducting apertured foot member arranged along one side of the suction foot, a laterally extending plate on said member disposed over the top of the suction foot, and spring means on the end of said plate for contacting the side of the suction foot.

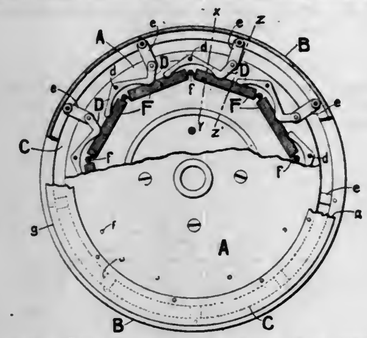
1,460,315. DYESTUFFS OF THE TRIARYLMETHANE SERIES AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. GUILLAUME DE MONTMOLLIN, JOSEF SPIELER, and GÉRALD BONHÔTE, Basel, Switzerland, assignors to Society of Chemical Industry in Basle, Basel, Switzerland. Filed Nov. 22, 1921. Serial No. 517,045. 15 Claims. (Cl. 260—65.)

8. The herein described process for the manufacture of dyestuffs of the triarylmethane series, consisting in acting on alphanaphthol-2-carboxylic acid with an arylchloroform, in presence of a catalyst and of a substance capable of binding an acid.

15. As new product the herein described dyestuff of the triarylmethane series derived from phenyl-chloroform and alphanaphthol-2-carboxylic acid, which constitutes, in a dry state, a deep powder, soluble in water containing caustic soda lye with green-blue and in concentrated sulfuric acid with deep-blue coloration and dyeing wool grey tints turning, on subsequent chroming on the fibre, to a green fast to fulling and potting.

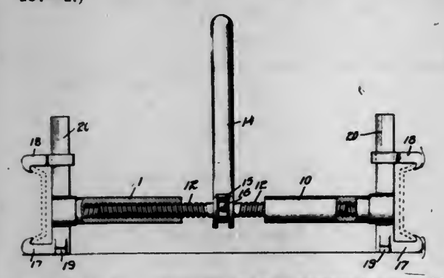
1,460,316. COMBINED RUNNING-BOARD MAT AND LIGHT. WALTER DOBSCHUTZ, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Jan. 10, 1922. Serial No. 528,266. 8 Claims. (Cl. 240—7.)



1. A combined mat and light for the running board of an automobile, the same comprising a frame adapted to be secured to the running board, an electric light carried by the frame and included in a circuit containing closing means therefor, and a foot cleaning member mounted upon the frame and adapted to be depressed by weight imposed thereon and when depressed to effect a closing of the circuit of said electric light, whereby to shed rays to insure a safe landing.

1,460,317. COATING COMPOSITION. ANNUAL DUKE, Marion, Ind. Filed May 14, 1920. Serial No. 381,448. 1 Claim. (Cl. 134—58.)

A composition for use upon metallic surfaces for the protection thereof from the elements of erosion consisting of lard oil, lubricating oil and white lead of equal portions mixed with a lesser portion of graphite, and powdered borax and lamp black of equal portions but of less portion than the graphite.



1,460,318. SPRING WHEEL. PIERRE FAIVRE, Le Locle, Switzerland. Filed Jan. 8, 1923. Serial No. 611,524. 3 Claims. (Cl. 152—28.)

1. A spring wheel, comprising an axle body element, a felly element independent from said axle body element, power transmission rocking levers adapted to yieldingly interconnect said two elements, an elastic supporting rim along the wheel circumference and carrying means therefor, said rocking levers being arranged with respect to said elastic supporting rim so as to bear thereon like riders transversely to its length.

1,460,319. RIM CONSTRICTING AND EXPANDING DEVICE. HARVEY FIFER, Deer Lodge, Mont. Filed Feb. 18, 1922. Serial No. 537,574. 2 Claims. (Cl. 157—1.)

1. A device for constricting and expanding demountable automobile rims comprising a pair of bars each having a base adapted to support it in upright position, a fixed lower gripper on each bar adapted to engage the lower edge of a recumbent rim, gravity operated grippers slidably mounted on the bars to engage the upper edge of the rim, and means for moving the bars toward and from each other, substantially as set forth.

1,460,320. LIFTER. THEODORE FREY, Guide Rock, Nebr. Filed Apr. 18, 1922. Serial No. 554,701. 2 Claims. (Cl. 294—104.)

1. A U-shaped frame, a trough-like member adjustably secured thereon, a cam member pivoted thereto opposite the trough-like member, said cam member having a rounded concaved toothed face disposed opposite the trough-like member, and an operating rod pivoted to the cam and guided through the frame.

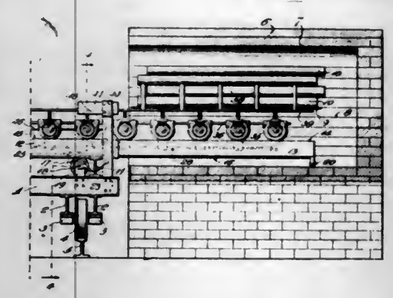
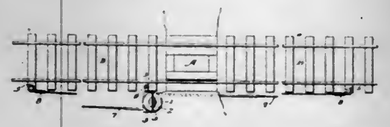
1,460,321. ROAD DRAG. HANS H. GOSCH, Randall, Minn. Filed Aug. 25, 1921. Serial No. 495,152. 3 Claims. (Cl. 37—155.)

1. A machine of the class described having a lifting bar, a supporting beam flexibly suspended from the bar, a second supporting beam flexibly suspended from the bar, means permitting relative movement of said bars on a horizontal axis transverse to the machine, and independent drag means supported from said bars.



1,460,322. MAILING RECEPTACLE. JOEL E. HAWLEY, Kansas City, Mo., assignor of one-half to William J. Riley, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Aug. 23, 1920. Serial No. 405,347. 4 Claims. (Cl. 229—16.)

3. A device of the class described for receiving fine particles which are ground from precious metals comprising an extensible and collapsible receptacle, the receptacle when extended having a substantially vertical opening to receive the metal ground off, and when collapsed, constituting a mailing envelope by means of which the metal can be transported through the mails.



1,460,323. OVEN CHARGING AND UNLOADING APPARATUS. WAYNE S. HODGES, Shelby, Ohio. Filed May 15, 1922. Serial No. 561,179. 8 Claims. (Cl. 214—26.)

1. An oven charging device comprising a truck for moving relative to an oven, tracks carried by said truck and having extensible sections, means for moving the extensible track sections into and out of an oven, a carriage movable upon said tracks, an article carrying pan adapted to rest upon supports in an oven, supports carried by said truck for supporting the pan above said carriage and vertically movable means carried by the carriage for lifting the pan from the supports of the truck or oven.

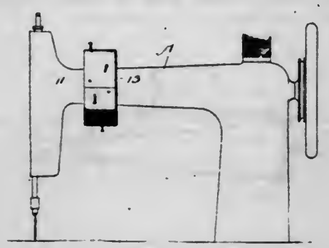
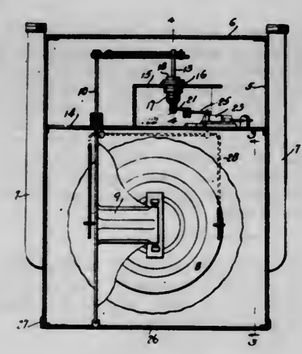
1,460,324. SIGNAL MEANS. NOAH J. HOOD, Vance, Ala. Filed Nov. 18, 1922. Serial No. 601,806. 2 Claims. (Cl. 246—294.)



1. A signal means of the class described comprising a standard, signal means carried thereby, a casing in which the standard is rotatably mounted, an arm on the standard, a latch carried by the arm, a rod rotatably mounted in the standard, a keeper thereon for engaging the latch for holding the signal in operative position, a spring for holding the standard in inoperative position, a spring connected with the rod for holding the keeper in engaging position and a part on the rod adapted to be engaged by a train for moving the rod to throw the keeper thereon out of engagement with the latch.

1,460,325. PROCESS AND MEANS FOR SWITCHING RAILROAD CARS. FRANK W. EAGELSTON, Berkeley, Calif. Filed Feb. 11, 1922. Serial No. 535,778. 14 Claims. (Cl. 104—48.)



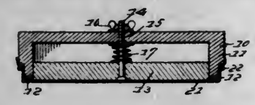
6. In a car switching means, a guide member disposed between the rails of a track, a car moving device movably carried by said guide member and being adapted to move in the direction of the track, and a cylinder having a piston therein, said piston being operatively connected to said car moving device, whereby said device is moved when said piston is actuated.

1,460,326. PINCUSHION. JOHN F. JEWART, Blasdell, N. Y. Filed Apr. 2, 1918. Serial No. 226,215. 1 Claim. (Cl. 223—60.)

The combination with a support, of a pin cushion embodying a normally circular flexible split member having its abutting ends formed to provide an overlapping engagement with one another and defining a substantially continuous member having an inner circular circumference.

1,460,327. METER CONSTRUCTION. ERNEST ARTHUR KERSTEIN, Albany, N. Y. Filed Jan. 13, 1922. Serial No. 528,911. 2 Claims. (Cl. 73—1.)

1. A gas meter including a shaft, means for oscillating said shaft, a stuffing box encircling said shaft, said stuffing box comprising a socket and a plug cooperating with said socket, said shaft extending through said plug and being formed with a reduced end portion extending through the base of said socket member, a collar encircling said socket and carrying the same, and a shield carrying said collar.



1,460,328. SPINNING AND TWISTING SPINDLE. JOHANN JACOB KEYSER and JOHANN JACOB MÜLLER, Prattein, near Basel, Switzerland. Filed Aug. 27, 1921. Serial No. 495,888. 8 Claims. (Cl. 118—65.)

1. In a sectional spindle for spinning and twisting, a lower spindle section provided with an axial passage, a driving toothed gear connected to said spindle section, a removable upper spindle section with a rod arranged to tightly fit into said axial passage of the lower spindle section and to enclose a sectional air space therein, and a friction coupling between the two spindle sections to connect the same, substantially as described.

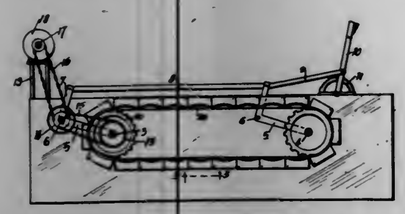
1,460,329. WAX SPREADER. JAMES KING, Joplin, Mo. Filed July 12, 1921. Serial No. 484,047. 4 Claims. (Cl. 91—37.)

3. A wax spreading and floor rubbing implement having a head provided with a depending flange extending throughout its perimeter, a rubbing cloth spanning the free edges of the flange and detachably secured to the head, and a yielding plunger carried in the space bounded by the flange and bearing upon the cloth to tension the latter.



1,460,330. STEAM TURBINE. CLIFTON E. KOONCE, Coalinga, Calif. Filed Sept. 17, 1921. Serial No. 501,242. 1 Claim. (Cl. 253—73.)

In a rotary turbine, the combination of castings, steam chambers formed on said castings, slide valves mounted in said steam chambers, ports in said slide valves, ports in said castings, a shaft carried by said castings, rotors placed on said shaft, division members between said rotors, ports in said division members, and buckets formed on said rotors, said buckets on the opposite sides of said rotors being in axial alignment when adapted to receive steam therein for the purpose of causing rotation of said rotors in either a forward or reverse direction.

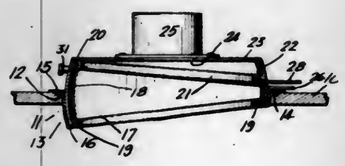
1,460,331. CURRENT MOTOR. ALBERT TABBET, Lakeside, Calif. Filed Feb. 14, 1921, Serial No. 444,713, Renewed Apr. 23, 1923. 3 Claims. (Cl. 170—90.)

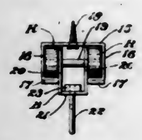
1. A current motor comprising an endless flight movable over sprocket wheels, said flight comprising buckets having arcuate links on the sides thereof linked to one another so that the buckets abut against one another during movement from one sprocket to the other, and pivot with relation to one another as the buckets pass around said sprockets, said links being toothed to engage said sprockets as they pass around the same.

1,460,332. STORE FURNITURE. JESSE TRIPP, Jr., Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 11, 1920. Serial No. 423,301. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—8.)



The combination, in a store, of upright merchandise receiving cases, said cases being arranged in two rows, which rows are spaced apart from each other and from the walls of the store to form passageways for customers and for employees, means for simultaneously rotating all of the cases in the two rows, and means associated with said rotating means for selectively stopping the rotation of any one case from the intermediate passageway or the passageways between said cases and the walls of the store.

1,460,333. CLOTHESLINE FASTENER. LUIS AIMÉ, West Hoboken, N. J. Filed Jan. 4, 1923. Serial No. 610,024. 4 Claims. (Cl. 24—123.)



1. In a clothesline fastener of the character described, the combination with the ends of a line which have been interlocked, of a tubular fastener adapted to be slid thereover formed with merging grooves, there being a groove for each line and the end of each line.

1,460,334. LENS MOUNTING. PAUL L. BRADLEY, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 20, 1921. Serial No. 479,000. 12 Claims. (Cl. 95—50.)

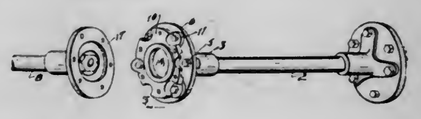
1,460,335. CURTAIN HANGER. BERNARD L. GLAVIN, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 14, 1921. Serial No. 522,365. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—20.)

A curtain hanger comprising a metal track including an upper sustaining portion, spaced depending portions, and inwardly bent track portions disposed in spaced relation to each other, a bracket of U-shaped formation having the parallel portions thereof extended between the track portions, a stub shaft mounted in the parallel portions of the bracket at a point within the track, rollers carried by the ends of the stub shaft and having rolling contact with the inner sides of said track portions, and a hook swivelly sustained on the horizontal portion of the bracket.



1,460,336. PAPER-FEEDING MECHANISM FOR PRINTING PRESSES. ALBERT P. HART, Santa Ana, Calif. Filed Mar. 9, 1922. Serial No. 542,266. 7 Claims. (Cl. 271—20.)

1. In combination, a paper feeding mechanism including a paper supporting table, a stationary member, a movable member adapted to engage and disengage the paper supported on the table, lifting heads carried by the movable member, a lever sustained for rocking movement on the movable member, means connected to said lever and to the stationary member for effecting movement of the lever about its own axis when the movable member is moved, and a loosening member carried by the lever and adapted to engage the paper on said table during the movement of the movable member toward the paper whereby when the movable member is in actual engagement with the paper, the loosening member will be moved to effect the loosening of the uppermost sheet of paper.

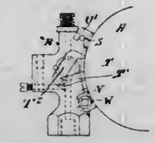
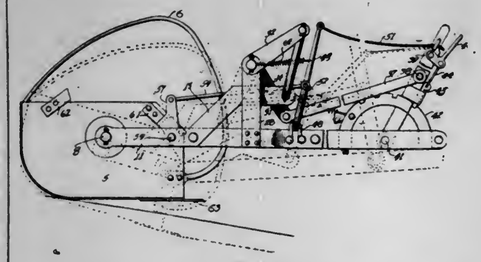
1,460,337. FLEXIBLE COUPLING. ROY B. HOLMES, Los Angeles, Calif.; Nellie I. Holmes, administratrix of said Roy B. Holmes, deceased, assignor, by mesne assignments, to A. W. Saline. Filed Nov. 22, 1919, Serial No. 339,984. Renewed Dec. 29, 1922. 3 Claims. (Cl. 64—96.)



1. A flexible coupling for shafts comprising a coupling member adapted to be applied to one of the shafts, a flexible disc positioned adjacent to said coupling member, bolts seated in said coupling member and said flexible disc, an intermediate plate, lugs formed integral with and projecting from one side of said intermediate plate, which lugs maintain said intermediate plate spaced apart from the flexible disc, fastening means seated in said flexible disc and said lugs, the edge of said intermediate plate having notches formed therein to provide clearance for the bolts that fasten the flexible disc to the first mentioned coupling member, a coupling member adapted to be secured to the other shaft and means for securing the intermediate plate to the last mentioned coupling member.

1,460,338. FLEXIBLE JOINT. ROY B. HOLMES, Los Angeles, Calif.; Nellie I. Holmes, administratrix of said Roy B. Holmes, deceased, assignor, by mesne assignments, to A. W. Saline. Filed Dec. 11, 1919, Serial No. 344,158. Renewed Dec. 29, 1922. 8 Claims. (Cl. 64—96.)

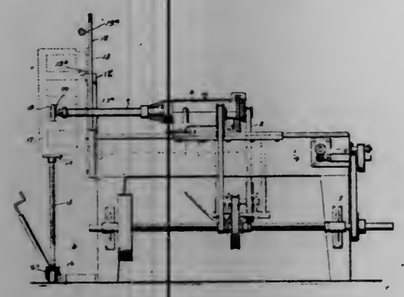


5. A flexible joint coupling comprising a driving part having a plurality of spot lugs, a driven part having a plurality of spot lugs, pliant discs interposed between the parts, friction plates having radial corrugations in faces applicable to the discs to increase the friction of contacting areas, and bolts passed through the plates and discs and arranged to assemble the same with a limited degree of compression, said bolts being also adapted to secure the assembled plates and discs to the lugs.

1,460,339. GAS CONTROLLER AND THE LIKE. ALBERT HORSTMANN, Bath, England, assignor to Horstmann Gear Co. Limited, Bath, England, a Company of Great Britain. Filed Jan. 30, 1923. Serial No. 615,898. 5 Claims. (Cl. 161—9.)

1. An automatic lighting and extinguishing device for street lamps comprising in combination, a fuel conductor for the lamp including a controlling means for the fuel, a time-controlled actuating mechanism for said fuel controlling means, means for attaching and detaching said mechanism as a unit to and from said fuel conductor, said latter means including a latch, and a clamping screw co-operating therewith.

1,460,340. SCRAPER. BRUCE E. ROSE and GEORGE WOOLWINE, Modesto, Calif. Filed Apr. 7, 1922. Serial No. 550,382. 2 Claims. (Cl. 37—140.)



1. In a device of the character described, a scoop, draw bars pivoted to said scoop, said draw bars having offset portions, draft means pivoted to said draw bars, at a point substantially midway of their length, said draft means comprising parallel spaced portions provided with offsets therein, standards secured to said draft means, segments secured to said draft means, a lever pivoted to said draft means and adapted to move over said segment, a bar extending between said standards, levers mounted on the ends of said bars, links extending from said levers, to the free ends of said draw bars and means for rotating said rod through the movement of said first mentioned lever for the purpose of moving the free end of said draw bars toward said draft means.

1,460,341. AGGLUTINANT FOR VENEER. PAUL SCHROT, Bad Sooden, Germany. Filed Aug. 13, 1921. Serial No. 492,143. 3 Claims. (Cl. 87—17.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

3. Process for the production of an agglutinant for veneer consisting in admixing with 5 kilograms of leather glue which has been soaked in water for 14 hours, 10 kilograms of lenzin, 5 grams of ocher and 3 liters of water.

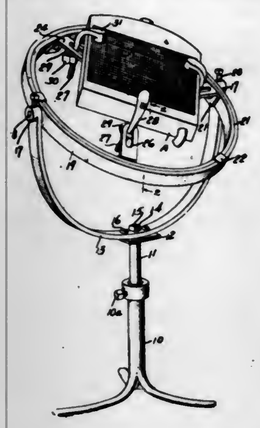
1,460,342. GRINDING AND BORING MACHINE. VICTOR BARTLEY and JAMES B. WORTHINGTON, Oklahoma, Okla. Filed Aug. 9, 1921. Serial No. 490,936. 4 Claims. (Cl. 51—216.)

1. In a grinding machine of the class described, a frame, a spindle carried by said frame and adapted to carry a tool, means for rotating said spindle, a chucking plate vertically movable adjacent one end of the frame, and a vertically movable table adjacent said end of the frame for carrying the main weight of the work when such work is fixedly attached to the chucking plate to project from the latter substantially horizontally, said table being the sole means of support for engaging a part of the work so projected, whereby on lifting the table the work is lifted therewith and in turn the work lifts the chucking plate while the chucking plate guides the work.



1,460,343. FENDER. WILLIAM G. COX, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Feb. 3, 1923. Serial No. 616,740. 18 Claims. (Cl. 293—85.)

1. A holder of the class described including a stand, a vertically adjustable standard thereon, a stirrup-like yoke carried by said standard and presenting bearings at its upper end, an annular frame having trunnions in said bearings to adapt the frame to rock vertically, a ring turnably fitting within said frame, means to hold said ring against displacement in the frame, and clamp means within said frame to hold a radiator.

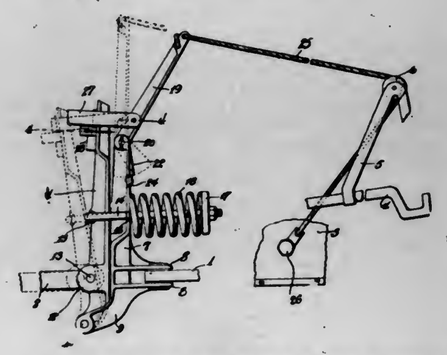
1,460,345. FLUID-COMPRESSING APPARATUS. ROBERT SUCZEK, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to C. H. Wheeler Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 16, 1919, Serial No. 317,875. Renewed May 9, 1923. 38 Claims. (Cl. 230—13.)

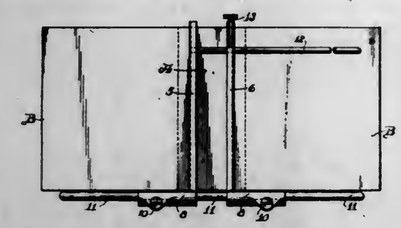
1. Combined ejector-condenser structure comprising an ejector, a condenser into which said ejector discharges the mixture of motive fluid and fluid to be compressed, said condenser comprising a plurality of substantially vertically extending serially connected conduits into which said ejector discharges, said conduits forming a plurality of passes, and means for circulating cooling fluid around said conduits.



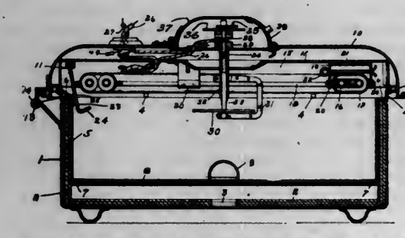
10. Multi-stage ejector condenser structure comprising serially connected ejectors, an interstate condenser into which one of said ejectors discharges the mixture of motive fluid and fluid to be compressed, said condenser comprising a plurality of groups of vertical conduits, chambers serially connecting said groups of conduits, and means for cooling said conduits.

1,460,346. COMBINED FILM SUPPORTER AND HANGER. ARTHUR B. LE P. MESNY, Washington, D. C., and GIFFARD DE J. MESNY, Norfolk, Va. Filed Sept. 24, 1921. Serial No. 502,872. 6 Claims. (Cl. 95—100.)

1. A combined film supporter and holder comprising an open rectangular frame having a lateral extension at its top and a supporting ledge at its bottom portion and a stop at one of its sides, a second open rectangular frame having a lateral extension at its top and hinged to said first mentioned frame so constructed and arranged to clamp a film when said two frames are superimposed upon each other, and means for locking said two frames together.



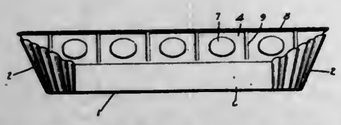
1,460,347. COUPLING APPARATUS FOR TRACTORS. HENRY KAISER, New Holstein, Wis., assignor to The Farm Specialty Mfgr. Co., New Holstein, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Feb. 2, 1920. Serial No. 355,561. 5 Claims. (Cl. 180—14.)



1. A coupling apparatus having a first connecting means and a second connecting means, said means being attachable one to a propelling vehicle and the other to a trailing implement, said means being relatively movable, a resilient means to resist relative separating movement of said means but to permit relative movement of said means upon the implement striking an obstruction, means operable through said relative movement of said means to stop travel of said implement, a device extending from one of said connecting means to cooperate with the other connecting means to limit separating movement of the connecting means, and a block adjustably mounted on one of the connecting means having portions of different thicknesses for selective projection cooperating with said device to vary the extent of separation of said connecting means.

1,460,348. BOOK-COVER GAUGE. CHRISTIAN B. NELSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 23, 1922. Serial No. 546,033. 6 Claims. (Cl. 33—180.)

1. A gauge for bookbinders comprising parallel gauge members having arms projecting at right angles from corresponding ends thereof in opposite directions and adapted to stand on edge, and means for adjustably connecting said gauge members whereby they may be moved to and from each other.



1,460,349. ELECTRIC INCUBATOR. LUCIAN R. OAKES, Tipton, Ind. Filed Nov. 3, 1920. Serial No. 421,538. 2 Claims. (Cl. 119—37.)

1. In an incubator, a hollow body portion, a heat retaining covering within said body, a lining terminating a distance above the bottom of said hollow body portion and having an outwardly and inwardly extending flange at its upper and lower ends, respectively, the outwardly extending flange projecting over the upper edge of said covering, a screen resting upon the inwardly extending flange, a cover for said body, and a heating element in said cover for heating the interior of the body.

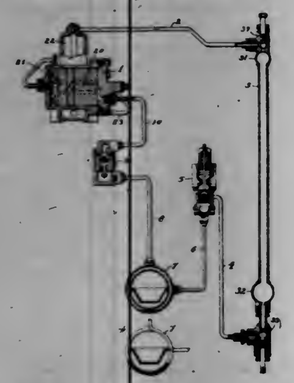
1. In a feed trough, a body having integral outwardly flared ends and side walls, the side walls of which are of less height than the height of the ends, the top edges of said end walls being inclined downwardly from their centers, a cover having flanges thereon for holding the cover in position over the body, said cover being inclined from its longitudinal center to its outer edges and said inclined portions having a plurality of openings therethrough, said inclined top edges of the end walls fitting against the inclined faces of said cover.

1,460,351. HIGHWAY-SIGN PAINT PROTECTOR. JOSEPH PERCY REMINGTON, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Maxwell Paint Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 25, 1922. Serial No. 584,216. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—145.)



1. A protector for preventing descending wood juices and extracts from staining the conspicuous portions of the painted base parts of posts marking highways which consists of a gutter adapted to encircle the post above the painted base part and having its ends spaced apart and equipped with a tie means providing between the spaced ends a passage in communication with the gutter for deflecting the descending juices and extracts away from the conspicuous part and to an inconspicuous part of the paint.

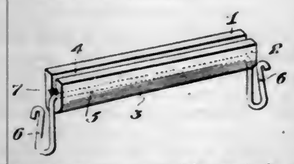
1,460,352. METHOD FOR PREVENTING THE FORMATION OF FROST CRYSTALS IN THE CIRCULATING LINES OF REFRIGERATING MACHINES. HAZOR JUDSON SMITH, Springfield, Mass. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,880. 4 Claims. (Cl. 62—178.)

1. A method of preventing the formation of frost crystals in the circulating lines of a refrigerating machine which includes the step of mixing with the refrigerant a liquid highly miscible with water, providing a non-freezing sludge in the low side circulating the sludge through the lines and collecting it in low spots thereby preventing interference in the circulating lines.



1,460,353. LUBRICATING APPARATUS. ROBERT B. WILLIAMSON, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 8, 1922. Serial No. 559,152. 15 Claims. (Cl. 184—6.)

1. In combination in a vertical shaft machine, a bearing for the shaft, a reservoir secured in position below said bearing and adapted to receive oil from said bearing, a viscosity pump in said reservoir, said pump comprising relatively rotatable and co-operatively engageable parts, one of said parts being rotatable with said shaft in a body of lubricating material in said reservoir, and one of said parts having a recess at its face engageable with the other part, the depth of said recess decreasing from the leading edge thereof, and said recessed part having a discharge port communicating with a portion of said recess of decreased depth, and a conduit connection from said discharge port to the upper side of said bearing.

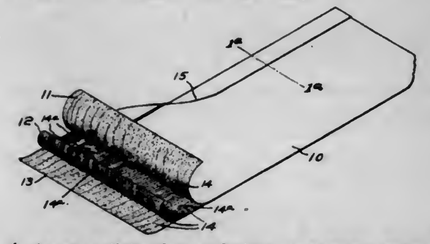
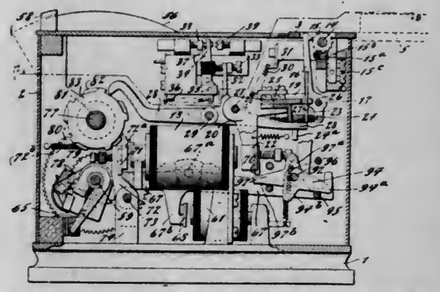
1,460,354. PACKAGE HANDLE. GEORGE W. CARVER, Orange, N. J., assignor of one-half to Horace G. Stripe, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 16, 1921. Serial No. 461,866. 2 Claims. (Cl. 224—57.)



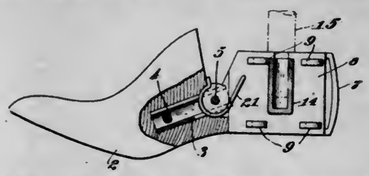
2. A package carrier comprising a body portion provided with an open ended longitudinal slot extending throughout the length thereof, said body portion being substantially U-shaped in cross section, a wire in said slot and having hooked ends projecting from said slot, said body portion being upset at its ends at the slot portion thereof whereby said upset portions retain said wire in said slot.

1,460,355. AIR AND DUST CAP FOR PNEUMATIC TIRES. ALVA K. HINCHMAN, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor of one-half to Reginald M. Adams, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Jan. 20, 1922. Serial No. 530,649. 6 Claims. (Cl. 152—115.)



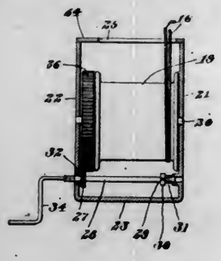
1. A combined air and dust cap for pneumatic tires comprising a tubular body having an outwardly directed flange at one end, a resilient packing ring concentrically bedded in the face of said flange, a neck portion at the other end of said tubular body, means movable axially in said neck portion for engagement with the tit of the tire valve stem, said means comprising a spindle having an internally threaded bell-shaped inner end, a reduced outer end terminating in a manipulating head, said spindle being screw-threaded for a portion of its length adjoining the reduced outer end, and a lock-nut on said screw-threaded portion whereby the device may be secured dust and damp-proof on the tire rim.

1,460,356. REENFORCED-PAPER STRIP. CHARLES H. HOWARD, Saugus, Mass., assignor to Paper Products Machine Company, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Apr. 15, 1920. Serial No. 374,134. 11 Claims. (Cl. 154—52.)



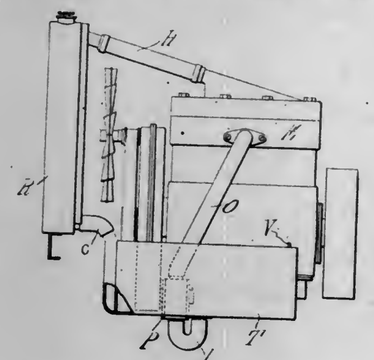
4. As an article of manufacture, a wrapper strip of reenforced paper comprising a centre strip of paper, longitudinally extending unspun fibres adhesively secured to each surface of the centre strip of paper in the form of a thin sheet or layer, exterior strips of paper enclosing the central strip and the reinforcing unspun fibres and adhesively secured thereto, and the reenforced paper having a longitudinally extending edge thereof folded under to further strengthen the same.

1,460,357. TRANSMITTER FOR PRINTING TELEGRAPHS. EDWARD E. KLEINSCHMIDT, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to The Kleinschmidt Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 1, 1919. Serial No. 293,950. 6 Claims. (Cl. 178—17.)



1. A printing telegraph operable with perforated tape, a manually movable member, message transmitting mechanism, means under control of said tape for actuating said transmitting mechanism, means under control of said movable member for actuating said transmitting mechanism, common electro-magnetic means for actuating said tape controlled means and for controlling said movable member, and electrical interlocking means for interrupting operation of said tape controlled means while said manually movable member is operating.

1,460,358. LAST. WALTER A. KRENTLER, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Krentler-Arnold Hinge Last Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 3, 1918. Serial No. 256,732. 8 Claims. (Cl. 12—134.)



1. A heelpart for a last comprising two members forming the opposite sides of said heelpart, and a removable spacing member between said parts serving to hold them in properly spaced relationship, and means for connecting said heelpart to any one of a plurality of foreparts, said connecting means being operative to secure said parts of the heelpart in their operative positions.

1,460,359. AWNING CONTROL MEANS. JAMES R. MACLEAR, Denver, Colo., assignor to Frank R. Ashley, Denver, Colo. Filed Oct. 6, 1922. Serial No. 592,924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 156—15.)

2. An improved awning operating mechanism comprising a housing, a shaft rotatably mounted therein, a winding drum and a wide faced gear secured to, and rotatable with, said shaft, a second shaft rotatably mounted in said housing parallel to the first said shaft and movable longitudinally with respect thereto, a narrow faced gear secured to said second shaft and meshing with, and driving, the first gear, cooperating locking members on said narrow faced gear and in the housing adapted to lock the second shaft against rotation and thereby prevent rotation of the drum, means mounted on second shaft for forcing the locking members on the narrow faced gear and in the housing into locking association, and means for moving said shaft longitudinally to move said locking members out of locking association and thereafter rotate said second shaft to cause a rotation of the first shaft and winding drum in either direction.

1,460,360. RADIATOR DEVICE FOR GAS ENGINES. LESTER P. BARLOW, New Haven, Conn. Filed Oct. 1, 1918. Serial No. 256,444. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—174.)

2. A cooling system for gas engines including a cooling unit, connections between the upper portions of said unit and the upper portion of the water jacket of an engine, connections between the lower portion of said unit and the lower portion of said water jacket, a reservoir in communication with said system, the arrangement of said reservoir being such that steam generated in the system forces the water downwardly out of said cooling unit into said reservoir.
